Ike And Solons Remain Cautious On Tax Cutting

WASHINGTON (UP)—New calls for emergency measures to pull the nation out of the business slump were made to President Eisenhower Saturday.

But informed administration and congressional sources said the President and legislative leaders of both parties are in general agreement that the recession is not yet bad enough to call for an immediate tax cut.

Mr. Eisenhower is expected to state his case for a cautious approach in curing the nation's economic ills in a speech Tuesday. He spent much of Saturday working on the speech.

It will come the day after another piece of business news—a Federal Reserve Board report Monday on February industrial production showing another drop in economic activity.

Ask Area Buying

Reliable sources said the production index will be down two or three points from January's 133 (based on 100 for 1947-49).

There were these moves Saturday on the economic front:

—Ten Republican senators appealed to the administration to earmark half of the government's multi - billion dollar buying contracts for areas suffering heavy unemployment. They proposed that contractors in these areas be given a second chance to match low competing bids coming from economically healthier areas of the country.

Suggest Auto Cuts

—Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr. (R-N.J.) said he will introduce a $1,800,000,000 federal aid-to-school-construction bill. It will call for 600 million dollars a year in federal aid, to be matched by state or local funds, in a three - year program. The plan would create jobs and at the same time relieve the classroom shortage, Frelinghuysen said.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va.) called a new series of hearings by his Senate Finance Committee on the recession, beginning April 1. Byrd said the government is heading for a deficit of five billion dollars or more if it carries out pump-priming proposals now under consideration in the Senate, even if taxes are not cut. Financier Bernard M. Baruch will be the first witness. The committee started its hearings last year when inflation, rather than recession, was the big economic issue.

—Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland said he believes a decision on whether to cut taxes will be put through the procedure of regular congressional committee hearings, along with other tax questions, and not rushed into law.

He noted that Congress must

Rev. John Allin Named Rector Of Junior College

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Rev. John Maury Allin of Monroe, La., has been named rector of All Saints' Episcopal Junior College at Vicksburg, Miss.

Announcement of his selection as chief administrative officer of the girls' school was made here Saturday by Rt. Rev. Robert R. Brown, bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Arkansas and chairman of the board of trustees for the college.

The school, founded in 1909 by the Episcopal diocese of Mississippi has been jointly owned since 1943 by the dioceses of Mississippi, Arkansas and Louisiana. It has an enrollment of about 100.

The Rev. Mr. Allin succeeds Rev. Dr. William G. Christian, whose resignation becomes effective June 30. However, the Rev. Mr. Allin will assume some duties immediately to plan for the 1958-59 academic year.

Rights Chairman Called In Webster

MINDEN, La. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Louis Padgett issued a subpoena Saturday for the appearance of W. Wilson White, head of the Civil Rights Commission, before the Webster Parish grand jury next week.

Dist. Judge James E. Bolin Jr., called the special session of the jury for Tuesday to investigate the FBI probe of the Minden registrar's office. Padgett requested the session to determine if any local officials had been intimidated in the federal operation.

Padgett said White ordered the FBI probe of vote registration procedures.

The district attorney said he issued the subpoena after receiving a report that White was visiting in Shreveport. However, the U. S. attorney's office at Shreveport said it "knew of no such visit."

Extract May Cure Cancer, Doctor Reports

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP)—The human placenta has yielded an extract which a veterinarian says, has eliminated cancer from many animals.

The placenta is the bodily substance which nourishes an unborn baby.

Dr. W. Steele Livingston refuses to say cancers in his animals have been cured. He used the phrase "complete regression," meaning the tumors disappeared and have not returned.

The liquid from the placenta apparently achieves this by converting tumor cells into normal body cells, Livingston said.

St. Patrick's

Once again it will be "St. Patrick's Day in the Morning" on Monday March 17. This unusual man has made a name that has lasted through the centuries. He was a man with many adventures attached to him. At the age of 16 he was captured by pirates who assigned him to tend flocks in Ulster. After slaving six years he embraced Christianity and that was the consuming passion of his life thereafter.

He fled Ireland for France where he became a monk. In 432 he was led by a vision to return to Ireland as missionary bishop and he worked with zeal for the balance of his life there. Three hundred churches were founded by him and it is reported that 120,000 were baptized through his efforts.

Many legends survive. One is that "he drove the snakes out of Ireland." There are many relics of this saint that have survived fully 1,000 years. Some were destroyed in the days of the Reformation.

In Monroe pupils from St. Matthew's school and church will sell shamrocks on the streets of both Monroe and West Monroe. Its a big day for them and for all who still revere St. Patrick.

600 Flee After Dam Collapses

No Lives Lost As Fire Sirens Arouse Sleepers

BENNETTSVILLE, S.C. (UP)—An earthen dam burst Saturday, loosing a flood on a sleeping community of 600 persons. But fire sirens roused the residents and National Guard trucks rolling through fender-deep water plucked them to safety from porches and rooftops.

Not one casualty was suffered, reported the National Guard and Red Cross after a careful survey of the Negro village of Shady Rest lying behind twin lakes built 18 months ago by the state Wildlife Commission.

But the 250 evacuated families, comprising more than 600 persons, were temporarily homeless. They found shelter in a school, the Bennettsville Armory and with relatives. The Red Cross rationed them food from surplus commodities.

The residents could not return until up to five feet of water drained away from their homes and safety of a "divider" dam between the two lakes was assured. The draining of more than half of one lake through the dam breach built up pressure on the second dam but plans were under way to pump out part of the other lake.

Receive No Warning

Quick sounding of the fire alarms and the speedy dispatch of two and one-half ton trucks by the local National Guard unit prevented a disaster when one section of the dam gave way about 2:30 a.m. beside a concrete spillway.

Seepage under the spillway was believed to have caused the break. A night patrolman, Sgt. Kelly King Jr., said he crossed the dam at 2:15 and saw no damage or leakage.

The residents themselves received no warning "until we heard the fire whistles," said one, Rosanna McLeod who lives with her husband, Woodrow, and six children in a small house in Shady Rest.

"There was nothing we could do when we saw the water coming, except my husband waded out and got the ladder and took the children and put them on top of the house," she said.

Physicians Battle To Stop Bleeding Of Wreck Victim

TALLULAH (Special) —Physicians last night reported they were battling to stop bleeding of a 17-year-old Tallulah hemophilia victim who they said was in serious condition after an auto crash here yesterday.

Doctors at Mercy hospital in Vicksburg where Edward Smith was hospitalized, explained the youth was bleeding in the lumbar region, and also inside the arteries. The youth was being given tranfusions, officials said, but loss of blood was slowly continuing.

Official investigation of the accident was not complete last night but Tallulah police and witnesses reported the youth's car overturned on U.S. 65 five miles south of here. Details were unavailable but it was reported the car struck a high center in the highway and swerved out of control about 5:30 p.m.

DIG INTO FCC CASE

Grand Jurymen See Mack's Diary

WASHINGTON (UP)—A federal grand jury investigating the Federal Communications Commission is studying a "very important" office diary belonging to Richard A. Mack, FCC member who resigned under fire, it was learned today.

The diary, detailing Mack's appointments, was only recently discovered by the FBI.

Mack did not mention its existence in any of his three public appearances before a House Commerce subcommittee which also is investigating his activities on the FCC.

The diary was kept by Mack's secretary for the former commissioner's use. It reportedly contains a complete account of all those who visited or conferred with Mack in his office during the 32 months he was a member of the FCC.

Informed sources described the diary as "very important." They said it was believed it would throw revealing light on Mack's activities and possibly on those who allegedly sought to influence him in his controversial vote on the award of TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Mack resigned under fire after the House subcommittee bared his tangled financial relations with his life-long friend, Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside.

Whiteside admitted trying to influence Mack to vote to award Channel 10 to Public Service Television Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines. Testimony also brought out that Whiteside had loaned money to Mack and gave him an interest in two business firms.

Mack voted with the FCC majority to give the Miami channel to public service.

Existence of the Mack diary was disclosed amid these other devel-

Four Persons Die In Plane Accident

ELKHART, Ind. (UP) — Four persons were killed Saturday when a rented plane crashed and burned in a field seven miles northeast of here.

State police tentatively identified the three men killed in the crash as Marquette University students. They were James Greiner of Milwaukee, Dennis Dudley Kennedy of Antioch, Ill., and Ronald Victory Shockey of Western Springs, Ill.

A woman passenger had not been identified.

State police said the plane was rented by Greiner from the Crites Flying Service at Waukesha, Wis., Saturday morning. Owner Dale Crites said Greiner was piloting the plane when it took off.

State police said the bodies were still in the cabin of the plane which crashed in a muck field on the Clayton Holderman farm.

American Freed From Nazi-Like German Prison

BERLIN (UP)— An American chiropodist released by the East German Communists after 6 months imprisonment with "the living dead," Saturday described the brutal treatment that forced him to attempt suicide and converted him into a crusader against communism.

Dr. Walter Steinberg, 35, Alhambra, Calif., said he was "railroaded by Nazi - type lynch justice" when he was sentenced to 10 months imprisonment for receiving a camera bought in East Berlin. He was the first American ever sentenced by East Germany.

He said he was held in a 6-foot by 3-foot cell, forced to sit without support all day long, refused clean drinking water and knocked down by guards who denied him even a Bible. He lost 20 pounds on a starvation diet.

He said that in his solitary confinement he had a nervous breakdown and tried to hang himself with his sweater.

Steinberg was released Friday when a Communist German court said it believed his statement that he did not know he was doing wrong. He served 2 months of his 10-month sentence, imposed Jan. 13, but actually had been held 6 arrest last September.

A Swiss, Joseph Gutmann was arrested with Steinberg and sentenced to 4 years imprisonment for smuggling, he still is in jail.

Heart Disease Breakthrough Is Reported

BOSTON (AP) — A team of Harvard Medical School investigators has achieved a significant breakthrough in man's search to prevent coronary heart disease and other ailments associated with atherosclerosis, it was announced Saturday.

The researchers discovered a means of clearing the deposit of fatty substances from the cells of arteries by applying linolenic acid.

Atherosclerosis is a disease in which fatty substances are deposited in the inner lining of the arteries. Harvard says the disease is responsible for more deaths in the United States than any other disease.

Dr. David D. Rutstein, head of the project, said the research "had developed a method whereby a very complicated problem (atherosclerosis) could be studied."

"No one has been able to do this before," he said.

Dr. Rutstein explained that "this method of study makes it possible to find some of the answers to atherosclerosis and it may lead to a means of practical application on humans.

The atherosclerosis process "damages and narrows the walls of the blood vessels and, if a clot forms, may completely block off the flow of blood through it. This disease may attack any blood vessel in the body.

"When it attacks the coronary arteries, the blood vessels which furnish oxygen and nourishment to the heart, coronary thrombosis (clotting) may result. In the same way, involvement of the vessels of the brain may result in cerebral thrombosis."

The new approach was developed at Harvard by investigators led by Dr. David D. Rutstein, professor of preventive medicine and head of that department at the university.

They used tissue cultures containing tiny pieces of the inner lining of the human aorta — the great artery leading from the heart. Within four or five days after cholesterol had been added, a deposit of fat was noted. The amount of fat was directly proportional to the amount of cholesterol added. If the cells remained in the medium containing the cholesterol, the fat deposit continued to increase until the cells died.

The deposit of fatty material could be prevented by adding linolenic acid — an unsaturated fatty acid found in soybean oil. As the concentration of linolenic acid increased, the deposit of fat decreased.

The investigators also found that the fatty deposits could be increased markedly by adding stearic acid — which is widely distributed in nature, particularly in animal fats.

Louisiana 4th In Nation For Welfare Funds

WASHINGTON (Special) — Louisiana is slated to receive the fourth highest allocation of federal public assistance funds allotted the states in fiscal 1959 under the budget proposed by the administration.

According to estimates of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Pelican State would receive $90,569,000, almost $2 million more than its allotment for the current fiscal year ending June 30. The three states scheduled to receive larger public assistance grants than Louisiana in 1959 are: California, $202,210,000; New York, $135,214,000; and Texas, $109,734,000.

Of the funds proposed for Louisiana, $61,427,000 would be used for old age assistance;

Solon Ready To End Kohler Strike Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) said Saturday the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has "outlived its usefulness."

McNamara hinted he may tell the Senate that the committee should have wound up its affairs and "quit while it was ahead" last Jan. 30, without getting into its present stormy hearings on violence in the Kohler strike.

McNamara is a member of the committee.

Parties Split

The Kohler inquiry has brought a partisan split between the committee's four Republican and four Democratic members. The committee's announced goal in the present inquiry is to act as judge and jury on whether the Kohler Co. or Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union is to blame for hundreds of acts of violence in the marathon strike dispute. Each side has blamed the other.

The 1957 hearings into affairs of the Teamsters Union had a sequel in the ouster of that largest of all American unions from the AFL-CIO on grounds it was corruptly dominated by Dave Beck, then Teamsters president, and James R. Hoffa who has succeeded Beck.

The committee also picked out other unions and some employers as targets of inquiry in 1957 and reaped a harvest of headlines and congratulatory telegrams and letters.

Republican members, led by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), forced the current inquiry into violence in UAW strikes, mainly the Kohler dispute.

These hearings have brought the committee's Democratic and Republican sides into repeated heated conflict. But Sen. Curtis (R-Neb), for one, told reporters "we are making hay." He said he meant the whole committee and not just one side of it in developing the story of violence that has caused family-splitting bitterness between strikers and nonstrikers.

High Pass In Oregon Crash Site

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UP)—The Southern Pacific's streamliner Cascade, speeding northward through the night, crashed off the tracks at Kotan in southern Oregon's wild, snow-covered mountains Saturday, injuring 16 passengers seriously and causing lesser injury to about 20 others.

The derailment scattered 12 cars of the 13-car passenger train along about 1,800 feet of track. Railroad officials said the train, bound for Portland, was travelling about 60 miles an hour through the rugged Cascade Mountain divide 100 miles north of here when it apparently hit a broken track.

Doctors and ambulances from points north and south of the wreck scene were sped over icy roads to Crescent Lake, six miles from Kotan and the nearest point reachable by automobile.

A relief train carried the doctors to the wreck and returned to Crescent Lake with the 16 most seriously injured of the train's 209 passengers. Doctors and nurses treated some 20 others at the scene for minor cuts and bruises.

Viewed From Air

The railroad said the 25 crewmen apparently escaped injury.

Southern Pacific dispatched busses to Crescent Lake and Chemult about 25 miles southeast of Kotan, to take the uninjured passengers to Portland.

Robert W. Chandler, publisher of the Bend Bulletin, flew over the wreck scene in his private plane shortly after daybreak and said the wrecked cars were scattered along the track "for about a quarter of a mile."

He said one car was on its side and three others were standing off the track. The middle of the train had jacknifed, Chandler said, and one car was straddling the tracks.

"There were about 15 or 20 persons standing around. They looked liked they were crewmembers. There was a bonfire with several persons huddled around it," Chandler said. He said it began snowing and he had to leave.

State police and railroad officials said there were no reports of panic among the passengers.

While two feet of snow on the ground and 28-degree temperature hampered the rescue operation, the railroad said the passengers and crew apparently suffered no unusual discomfort because of the cold.

An old railroad dormitory at Crescent Lake was made ready for the passengers when they arrived so they could have shelter from the snow.

L.R. Smith, superintendent of SP's Portland Division, said it would be 12 to 15 hours before the tracks could be cleared and service partially restored. Train traffic in the meantime was rerouted over the railroad's Siskiyou line on the west side of the Cascades.

Reveal FDR, Brass In Narrow Escape

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy admitted Saturday that one of its destroyers accidentally fired a live torpedo during World War II at a battleship carrying President Roosevelt and his wartime high command. It missed by 50 yards.

H. Seward Lewis, a former officer of the destroyer Porter, disclosed the Navy's embarassing secret. He was quoted in Miami as saying the Porter fired the torpedo at the battleship Iowa near Gibraltar.

The Iowa was alerted by radio and changed course in time to avert disaster.

A Navy spokesman said Lewis' account was "substantially correct." He confirmed that the incident occurred as the Iowa was taking President Roosevelt to the Tehran conference with Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin in 1943.

He said destroyers escorting the big ship were conducting exercises, including simulated torpedo attacks, as they crossed the ocean.

During one simulated attack, he said, "inadvertently a torpedo was fired" at the Iowa.

The spokesman said he did not have details of the incident, and Navy historical files were closed during the weekend.

He said he understood, however, that President Roosevelt requested that there be no disciplinary action.

Those aboard the Iowa included Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. H.H. (Hap) Arnold, chief of the Army Air Force; Adm. William D. Leahy, Roosevelt's chief aide, and members of the White House staff.

Contributions Surge For Memorial Park

The Dr. William L. Bendel Memorial Fund for construction of a little League baseball park here jumped to $4,304 yesteday with the addition of $610 during the day's tally.

Latest contributions came from the People's Homestead and Savings Association, J. C. Steele, estate, W. King Stubbs, Regina Scherck. D. L. Davidson, N. J. Laudenheimer, Rudy McIntyre, A. J. Whitlock, "the Pappas and Johnson family," Arel Stockstill, Joe Dante, Joe Goyne, Robert Schott, George Weaks, the Flower Shoppe, Joshua Bodan, Wood Thompson, and three "friends".

Dante, of Winnsboro, included the following letter along with his contribution:

"It is with a great deal of pleasure that I herewith attach a check for $10.00 for the "Dr. Bendel Memorial Fund" for Little League baseball.

"I am sending this in the names of my twin sons, Morris William Dante and Jules Cantor Dante, who were brought into this world by Dr. Bendel on Nov. 19th, 1932, and whose middle name Morris William Dante proudly bears, having been named for Dr. William Bendel, a true friend of the Dantes and thousands of others who knew and loved him.

"Trusting that in the very near future your fund will be oversubscribed, I am,

"Sincerely Yours,
"Joe Dante"

DIG INTO FCC CASE

Grand Jurymen See Mack's Diary

WASHINGTON (UP)—A federal grand jury investigating the Federal Communications Commission is studying a "very important" office diary belonging to Richard A. Mack, FCC member who resigned under fire, it was learned today.

The diary, detailing Mack's appointments, was only recently discovered by the FBI.

Mack did not mention its existence in any of his three public appearances before a House Commerce subcommittee which also is investigating his activities on the FCC.

The diary was kept by Mack's secretary for the former commissioner's use. It reportedly contains a complete account of all those who visited or conferred with Mack in his office during the 32 months he was a member of the FCC.

Informed sources described the diary as "very important." They said it was believed it would throw revealing light on Mack's activities and possibly on those who allegedly sought to influence him in his controversial vote on the award of TV Channel 10 in Miami.

Mack resigned under fire after the House subcommittee bared his tangled financial relations with his life-long friend, Miami attorney Thurman A. Whiteside.

Whiteside admitted trying to influence Mack to vote to award Channel 10 to Public Service Television Inc., a subsidiary of National Airlines. Testimony also brought out that Whiteside had loaned money to Mack and gave him an interest in two business firms.

Mack voted with the FCC majority to give the Miami channel to public service.

Existence of the Mack diary was disclosed amid these other devel-

Four Persons Die In Plane Accident

ELKHART, Ind. (UP) — Four persons were killed Saturday when a rented plane crashed and burned in a field seven miles northeast of here.

State police tentatively identified the three men killed in the crash as Marquette University students. They were James Greiner of Milwaukee, Dennis Dudley Kennedy of Antioch, Ill., and Ronald Victory Shockey of Western Springs, Ill.

A woman passenger had not been identified.

State police said the plane was rented by Greiner from the Crites Flying Service at Waukesha, Wis., Saturday morning. Owner Dale Crites said Greiner was piloting the plane when it took off.

State police said the bodies were still in the cabin of the plane which crashed in a muck field on the Clayton Holderman farm.

American Freed From Nazi-Like German Prison

BERLIN (UP)— An American chiropodist released by the East German Communists after 6 months imprisonment with "the living dead," Saturday described the brutal treatment that forced him to attempt suicide and converted him into a crusader against communism.

Dr. Walter Steinberg, 35, Alhambra, Calif., said he was "railroaded by Nazi - type lynch justice" when he was sentenced to 10 months imprisonment for receiving a camera bought in East Berlin. He was the first American ever sentenced by East Germany.

He said he was held in a 6-foot by 3-foot cell, forced to sit without support all day long, refused clean drinking water and knocked down by guards who denied him even a Bible. He lost 20 pounds on a starvation diet.

He said that in his solitary confinement he had a nervous breakdown and tried to hang himself with his sweater.

Steinberg was released Friday when a Communist German court said it believed his statement that he did not know he was doing wrong. He served 2 months of his 10-month sentence, imposed Jan. 13, but actually had been held 6 arrest last September.

A Swiss, Joseph Gutmann was arrested with Steinberg and sentenced to 4 years imprisonment for smuggling, he still is in jail.

Rising Temperatures In Prospect Today

Near-freezing early morning temperatures, with warm spring-like afternoons seems to be the pattern of Monroe's weather recently.

Yesterday's high was 61, with a low of 34, while Friday's readings were 57 and 35.

The outlook for today and tomorrow calls for partly cloudy skies and slightly warmer weather.

The same forecast holds good for Arkansas today and tomorrow.

Heart Disease Breakthrough Is Reported

BOSTON (AP) — A team of Harvard Medical School investigators has achieved a significant breakthrough in man's search to prevent coronary heart disease and other ailments associated with atherosclerosis, it was announced Saturday.

The researchers discovered a means of clearing the deposit of fatty substances from the cells of arteries by applying linolenic acid.

Atherosclerosis is a disease in which fatty substances are deposited in the inner lining of the arteries. Harvard says the disease is responsible for more deaths in the United States than any other disease.

Dr. David D. Rutstein, head of the project, said the research "had developed a method whereby a very complicated problem (atherosclerosis) could be studied."

"No one has been able to do this before," he said.

Dr. Rutstein explained that "this method of study makes it possible to find some of the answers to atherosclerosis and it may lead to a means of practical application on humans.

The atherosclerosis process "damages and narrows the walls of the blood vessels and, if a clot forms, may completely block off the flow of blood through it. This disease may attack any blood vessel in the body.

"When it attacks the coronary arteries, the blood vessels which furnish oxygen and nourishment to the heart, coronary thrombosis (clotting) may result. In the same way, involvement of the vessels of the brain may result in cerebral thrombosis."

The new approach was developed at Harvard by investigators led by Dr. David D. Rutstein, professor of preventive medicine and head of that department at the university.

They used tissue cultures containing tiny pieces of the inner lining of the human aorta — the great artery leading from the heart. Within four or five days after cholesterol had been added, a deposit of fat was noted. The amount of fat was directly proportional to the amount of cholesterol added. If the cells remained in the medium containing the cholesterol, the fat deposit continued to increase until the cells died.

The deposit of fatty material could be prevented by adding linolenic acid — an unsaturated fatty acid found in soybean oil. As the concentration of linolenic acid increased, the deposit of fat decreased.

The investigators also found that the fatty deposits could be increased markedly by adding stearic acid — which is widely distributed in nature, particularly in animal fats.

Louisiana 4th In Nation For Welfare Funds

WASHINGTON (Special) — Louisiana is slated to receive the fourth highest allocation of federal public assistance funds allotted the states in fiscal 1959 under the budget proposed by the administration.

According to estimates of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Pelican State would receive $90,569,000, almost $2 million more than its allotment for the current fiscal year ending June 30. The three states scheduled to receive larger public assistance grants than Louisiana in 1959 are: California, $202,210,000; New York, $135,214,000; and Texas, $109,734,000.

Of the funds proposed for Louisiana, $61,427,000 would be used for old age assistance;

Solon Ready To End Kohler Strike Probe

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. McNamara (D-Mich) said Saturday the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee has "outlived its usefulness."

McNamara hinted he may tell the Senate that the committee should have wound up its affairs and "quit while it was ahead" last Jan. 30, without getting into its present stormy hearings on violence in the Kohler strike.

McNamara is a member of the committee.

Parties Split

The Kohler inquiry has brought a partisan split between the committee's four Republican and four Democratic members. The committee's announced goal in the present inquiry is to act as judge and jury on whether the Kohler Co. or Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers Union is to blame for hundreds of acts of violence in the marathon strike dispute. Each side has blamed the other.

The 1957 hearings into affairs of the Teamsters Union had a sequel in the ouster of that largest of all American unions from the AFL-CIO on grounds it was corruptly dominated by Dave Beck, then Teamsters president, and James R. Hoffa who has succeeded Beck.

The committee also picked out other unions and some employers as targets of inquiry in 1957 and reaped a harvest of headlines and congratulatory telegrams and letters.

Republican members, led by Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz), forced the current inquiry into violence in UAW strikes, mainly the Kohler dispute.

These hearings have brought the committee's Democratic and Republican sides into repeated heated conflict. But Sen. Curtis (R-Neb), for one, told reporters "we are making hay." He said he meant the whole committee and not just one side of it in developing the story of violence that has caused family-splitting bitterness between strikers and nonstrikers.

High Pass In Oregon Crash Site

KLAMATH FALLS, Ore. (UP)—The Southern Pacific's streamliner Cascade, speeding northward through the night, crashed off the tracks at Kotan in southern Oregon's wild, snow-covered mountains Saturday, injuring 16 passengers seriously and causing lesser injury to about 20 others.

The derailment scattered 12 cars of the 13-car passenger train along about 1,800 feet of track. Railroad officials said the train, bound for Portland, was travelling about 60 miles an hour through the rugged Cascade Mountain divide 100 miles north of here when it apparently hit a broken track.

Doctors and ambulances from points north and south of the wreck scene were sped over icy roads to Crescent Lake, six miles from Kotan and the nearest point reachable by automobile.

A relief train carried the doctors to the wreck and returned to Crescent Lake with the 16 most seriously injured of the train's 209 passengers. Doctors and nurses treated some 20 others at the scene for minor cuts and bruises.

Viewed From Air

The railroad said the 25 crewmen apparently escaped injury.

Southern Pacific dispatched busses to Crescent Lake and Chemult about 25 miles southeast of Kotan, to take the uninjured passengers to Portland.

Robert W. Chandler, publisher of the Bend Bulletin, flew over the wreck scene in his private plane shortly after daybreak and said the wrecked cars were scattered along the track "for about a quarter of a mile."

He said one car was on its side and three others were standing off the track. The middle of the train had jacknifed, Chandler said, and one car was straddling the tracks.

"There were about 15 or 20 persons standing around. They looked liked they were crewmembers. There was a bonfire with several persons huddled around it," Chandler said. He said it began snowing and he had to leave.

State police and railroad officials said there were no reports of panic among the passengers.

While two feet of snow on the ground and 28-degree temperature hampered the rescue operation, the railroad said the passengers and crew apparently suffered no unusual discomfort because of the cold.

An old railroad dormitory at Crescent Lake was made ready for the passengers when they arrived so they could have shelter from the snow.

L.R. Smith, superintendent of SP's Portland Division, said it would be 12 to 15 hours before the tracks could be cleared and service partially restored. Train traffic in the meantime was rerouted over the railroad's Siskiyou line on the west side of the Cascades.

FROM U.S. TORPEDO

Reveal FDR, Brass In Narrow Escape

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Navy admitted Saturday that one of its destroyers accidentally fired a live torpedo during World War II at a battleship carrying President Roosevelt and his wartime high command. It missed by 50 yards.

H. Seward Lewis, a former officer of the destroyer Porter, disclosed the Navy's embarassing secret. He was quoted in Miami as saying the Porter fired the torpedo at the battleship Iowa near Gibraltar.

The Iowa was alerted by radio and changed course in time to avert disaster.

A Navy spokesman said Lewis' account was "substantially correct." He confirmed that the incident occurred as the Iowa was taking President Roosevelt to the Tehran conference with Winston Churchill and Josef Stalin in 1943.

He said destroyers escorting the big ship were conducting exercises, including simulated torpedo attacks, as they crossed the ocean.

During one simulated attack, he said, "inadvertently a torpedo was fired" at the Iowa.

The spokesman said he did not have details of the incident, and Navy historical files were closed during the weekend.

He said he understood, however, that President Roosevelt requested that there be no disciplinary action.

Those aboard the Iowa included Gen. George C. Marshall, Army Chief of Staff; Adm. Ernest J. King, Chief of Naval Operations; Gen. H.H. (Hap) Arnold, chief of the Army Air Force; Adm. William D. Leahy, Roosevelt's chief aide, and members of the White House staff.

Hodge Named Manager Of Branch Bank

IRVIN A. HODGE

Irvin A. Hodge, assistant cashier of the Ouachita National Bank, has been appointed manager of the bank's new College Town branch.

The announcement was made by R. L. Vanderpool Jr., president.

An employee of the bank for more than 23 years, Hodge is at present assistant manager of the Fourth Street Branch. He will assume his new position when the College Town Branch opens in about a month.

Long Experience

"We feel that Mr. Hodge's long and varied experience in all phases of banking eminently qualifies him for this important position," Vanderpool said.

A Ouachita Parish native, Hodge has served as treasurer of the parish heart association, and is a member of the Methodist church.

The new branch will be the fifth Ouachita Bank location in the Twin Cities. Facilities available will include checking and savings accounts, safe deposit boxes, loans, money orders, Christmas Club and night depository, along with two drive-in windows.

Store Sales Dip

DALLAS (UP) — Department store sales in Texas' five largest cities dropped 8 per cent during the four weeks which ended March 8 as compared with the same period last year.

Houston showed the largest drop, 12 per cent, according to a report issued Friday by the Federal Reserve Bank of Dallas. Dallas and Fort Worth were down 7 per cent; El Paso down 6 per cent and San Antonio 4 per cent.

However, for the single week which ended March 8, department store sales were up 2 per cent. San Antonio was up 8 per cent; Houston jumped 7 per cent; El Paso dropped 5 per cent, Dallas dropped 2 per cent and Fort Worth 1 per cent.

Milledgeville College Choir Featured Here

A concert will be presented tomorrow at 8 p.m. at West Monroe High School by the Milledgeville College Choir, 50-voice a cappella group from Georgia State College for Women.

Directed by Max Noah, the choir will present a variety of music, including religious numbers and early American folk songs. The group is noted for its sensitive interpretations and smooth blend of voices.

Noah studied under Dr. John Finley Williams, director of the Westminster Choir in Princeton, N.J., and has been at GSCW since 1935.

The group will be in West Monroe under the auspices of the WMHS music department, headed by Henry Camp. This appearance is part of their regular southern spring tour, and their only other Louisiana concert will be presented in New Orleans.

Officials said the concert will be presented free of charge, but that a free-will offering will be taken to help defray travel expenses.

IN RESEARCH WORK

Agriculture Dean Pledges Support

Dr. J. Norman Efferson, dean of the college of agriculture at Louisiana State University, yesterday pledged the support of his research department toward the development of better family living in this state and country.

Speaking at the noon session of the Louisiana Home Economics Association meeting, Efferson, in line with the theme of the convention, "Today's Research in Home and Family Living," discussed the current research programs of the college of agriculture.

"Research to provide better family living must include approaches to increase the size of the family income," the dean said, "and also to provide the greatest possible efficiency in the use of the available income, regardless of the absolute level."

Offering his own interpretation of the science of home economics, Efferson defined the term as "the science of making the living worth while." Using this definition, he continued, there is clearly a need for research to provide the needed facts for improved home and family living.

Subject matters which the public can understand and from which direct benefits can be detected, according to the dean, are foods and nutrition, textiles and clothing, household economics, housing and household equipment, child development and family life.

Major Contributions

"We are not doing as much as we would like to in Louisiana to meet these needs," Efferson said. "But we are making definite major contributions in some fields."

Major research projects at LSU which the dean listed, included the continuation of nutrition studies of the pre-adolescent child, the study of the acceptability of beef produced under different managerial practices, textile studies on factors affecting the quality of cotton fiber, a marketing study of the motivation factors influencing consumers' choice in the purchase of beef, and a study of expenditure patterns of consumers.

"For those of you who are doing research," Efferson suggested, "start on a modest scale, do a very careful, thorough and complete job and inform the public of the results."

In teaching, Efferson advised delegates to attempt to maintain the best possible continual study program to keep up with research.

"Our challenge is to do a good job of the research responsibilities now assigned to us," Efferson concluded. "I assure you that you have our full cooperation, interest and support."

Home Economist

Miss Sarah Sue Gibbs of Baker a student at LSU was selected "Miss Home Economist of 1958." The award was presented to her by Mrs. Ada Hanchey of the agricultural extension service in Baton Rouge.

State officers elected were Mrs. Maida Tabor of New Orleans, president; Mrs. Jean Snider of New Orleans, secretary; Miss Elaine McDonald of New Orleans, alternate counsellor, and Flora Claunch of Grayson, president of the Northeast State College Club.

The two-day confab ended yesterday following the luncheon meet.

Presley Spends Last Nine Days Visiting Home

MEMPHIS (AP) — Elvis Presley lounged at home here Saturday, beginning a nine-day stay before reporting to the draft board to become Pvt. Presley, U.S. Army.

The one-time Tupelo, Miss., boy turned movie actor got in last night from Hollywood, where he worked in a picture rushed to completion to beat the draft deadline.

Presley, 22, said he had no idea what he will do in the Army. "I haven't talked to anyone about it," he said. "I'll do what they ask." He is scheduled to begin training at Fort Chaffee, Ark., March 24.

There's speculation that Presley's rock and roll popularity with fickle teen-agers may slip during his hitch. He regards this with philosophical air. What worries him are reveille and lights out. He is a confirmed night owl.

"Those fellows are getting up about the time I usually go to bed," he said.

Monroe Firm Gets Contract For Gravel

BATON ROUGE, (Special) — Ouachita Gravel Company of Monroe has received a $10,729 Louisiana Department of Highways contract for providing washed gravel, F.O.B. at the pit site for use on designated parish roads in Jackson parish.

R. B. Richardson, director of highways, said work on the project was started March 15, and listed it as state construction.

Speech Contest Final Round Is Scheduled Here

The final round in the speech contest of the Monroe Toastmasters Club is scheduled for Wednesday at 5:45 p.m. at the Frances Hotel.

Judges and evaluators have been selected to consider the presentations of Craig Campbell, a finalist last year, who will deal with the subject, "The FBI Story;" Jimmy Branch, whose topic will be "The Invasion of the Foreign Auto," and Robert C. Ervin, speaking on "The Measurement of Time."

Winner or winners of the local contest will represent, as delegate and alternates, the local club at the area contest slated for Saturday in New Orleans. At that time six clubs will compete for the opportunity of representing area 5 at the district spring contest to be held May 10 in Biloxi, Miss.

Members of the Monroe Telco Toastmasters Club No. 2680, newly - organized among telephone company employees, will not participate, but will observe both the local and area contests.

Monroe Policemen To Pistol Shoot

The Monroe City Police department sends its municipal state championship pistol team to Baton Rouge this afternoon to compete in the Fraternal Order of Police pistol shoot.

Competition in a Quick Draw Hip Shoot will be held at Ryan Field pistol range, tomorrow.

Members of the champion team are patrolmen Emmett Otwell, David Antley, Dan Jackson, and Sgt. George Whitlow. The group took the first place honor here on Mar. 3, when they outdistanced 16 teams competing in the state municipal peace officer's event.

Directed by Max Noah, the choir will present a variety of music, including religious numbers and early American folk songs. The group is noted for its sensitive interpretations and smooth blend of voices.

Noah studied under Dr. John Finley Williams, director of the Westminster Choir in Princeton, N.J., and has been at GSCW since 1935.

The group will be in West Monroe under the auspices of the WMHS music department, headed by Henry Camp. This appearance is part of their regular southern spring tour, and their only other Louisiana concert will be presented in New Orleans.

Officials said the concert will be presented free of charge, but that a free-will offering will be taken to help defray travel expenses.

IN RESEARCH WORK

Agriculture Dean Pledges Support

Dr. J. Norman Efferson, dean of the college of agriculture at Louisiana State University, yesterday pledged the support of his research department toward the development of better family living in this state and country.

Speaking at the noon session of the Louisiana Home Economics Association meeting, Efferson, in line with the theme of the convention, "Today's Research in Home and Family Living," discussed the current research programs of the college of agriculture.

"Research to provide better family living must include approaches to increase the size of the family income," the dean said, "and also to provide the greatest possible efficiency in the use of the available income, regardless of the absolute level."

Offering his own interpretation of the science of home economics, Efferson defined the term as "the science of making the living worth while." Using this definition, he continued, there is clearly a need for research to provide the needed facts for improved home and family living.

Subject matters which the public can understand and from which direct benefits can be detected, according to the dean, are foods and nutrition, textiles and clothing, household economics, housing and household equipment, child development and family life.

Major Contributions

"We are not doing as much as we would like to in Louisiana to meet these needs," Efferson said. "But we are making definite major contributions in some fields."

Major research projects at LSU which the dean listed, included the continuation of nutrition studies of the pre-adolescent child, the study of the acceptability of beef produced under different managerial practices, textile studies on factors affecting the quality of cotton fiber, a marketing study of the motivation factors influencing consumers' choice in the purchase of beef, and a study of expenditure patterns of consumers.

"For those of you who are doing research," Efferson suggested, "start on a modest scale, do a very careful, thorough and complete job and inform the public of the results."

In teaching, Efferson advised delegates to attempt to maintain the best possible continual study program to keep up with research.

"Our challenge is to do a good job of the research responsibilities now assigned to us," Efferson concluded. "I assure you that you have our full cooperation, interest and support."

Home Economist

Miss Sarah Sue Gibbs of Baker a student at LSU was selected "Miss Home Economist of 1958." The award was presented to her by Mrs. Ada Hanchey of the agricultural extension service in Baton Rouge.

State officers elected were Mrs. Maida Tabor of New Orleans, president; Mrs. Jean Snider of New Orleans, secretary; Miss Elaine McDonald of New Orleans, alternate counsellor, and Flora Claunch of Grayson, president of the Northeast State College Club.

The two-day confab ended yesterday following the luncheon meet.

Presley Spends Last Nine Days Visiting Home

MEMPHIS (AP) — Elvis Presley lounged at home here Saturday, beginning a nine-day stay before reporting to the draft board to become Pvt. Presley, U.S. Army.

The one-time Tupelo, Miss., boy turned movie actor got in last night from Hollywood, where he worked in a picture rushed to completion to beat the draft deadline.

Presley, 22, said he had no idea what he will do in the Army. "I haven't talked to anyone about it," he said. "I'll do what they ask." He is scheduled to begin training at Fort Chaffee, Ark., March 24.

There's speculation that Presley's rock and roll popularity with fickle teen-agers may slip during his hitch. He regards this with philosophical air. What worries him are reveille and lights out. He is a confirmed night owl.

"Those fellows are getting up about the time I usually go to bed," he said.

Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, began as a pirate town. Buccaneer Henry Jennings and his foltreat and general recepticle" for their 18th-century business of lowers found the site "a good replunder.

Monroe Firm Gets Contract For Gravel

BATON ROUGE, (Special) — Ouachita Gravel Company of Monroe has received a $10,729 Louisiana Department of Highways contract for providing washed gravel, F.O.B. at the pit site for use on designated parish roads in Jackson parish.

R. B. Richardson, director of highways, said work on the project was started March 15, and listed it as state construction.

Speech Contest Final Round Is Scheduled Here

The final round in the speech contest of the Monroe Toastmasters Club is scheduled for Wednesday at 5:45 p.m. at the Frances Hotel.

Judges and evaluators have been selected to consider the presentations of Craig Campbell, a finalist last year, who will deal with the subject, "The FBI Story;" Jimmy Branch, whose topic will be "The Invasion of the Foreign Auto," and Robert C. Ervin, speaking on "The Measurement of Time."

Winner or winners of the local contest will represent, as delegate and alternates, the local club at the area contest slated for Saturday in New Orleans. At that time six clubs will compete for the opportunity of representing area 5 at the district spring contest to be held May 10 in Biloxi, Miss.

Members of the Monroe Telco Toastmasters Club No. 2680, newly - organized among telephone company employees, will not participate, but will observe both the local and area contests.

Monroe Policemen To Pistol Shoot

The Monroe City Police department sends its municipal state championship pistol team to Baton Rouge this afternoon to compete in the Fraternal Order of Police pistol shoot.

Competition in a Quick Draw Hip Shoot will be held at Ryan Field pistol range, tomorrow.

Members of the champion team are patrolmen Emmett Otwell, David Antley, Dan Jackson, and Sgt. George Whitlow. The group took the first place honor here on Mar. 3, when they outdistanced 16 teams competing in the state municipal peace officer's event.

DOUBLE PLAY

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. — (UP) — Mrs. Paul A. Lewis, Bluford, had a daughter in Good Samaritan Hospital the same day her other daughter, Mrs. Arthur Hulbert, had a son in the same hospital. The same doctor delivered babies, and the mothers were placed in the same room.

Leopold Arrives In Puerto Rico

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (UP) — Nathan Leopold arrived in Puerto Rico Saturday to begin a new life devoted to serving his fellow man.

The sun was shining brightly when the 53-year-old Leopold stepped down from the plane which flew him here from New York. Waiting to greet him were officials of the Church of the Brethren hospital at Castaner, where Leopold will work as a $10-a-month technician.

Leopold, in a brief statement read in halting Spanish, expressed his happiness at reaching "the beautiful and amiable island."

"As you can see, it is not easy for me to say what I want to say due to my poor Spanish," he said. "I'm very sorry that my parole agreement doesn't permit me to say more."

He concluded with the traditional Spanish expression of farewell: "Vaya Con Dios" (Go With God.)

Leopold was released Thursday from the Joliet, Ill., prison where he served 33 years of a life sentence for his part in the 14-year-old Bobby Franks slaying. He must report to a parole authority here monthly for the next five years or his parole will be revoked.

Leopold displayed little outward signs of the long years he spent behind prison bars. His clothes looked new but some newsmen noted that his hat was shaped in the style of the 1920's.

Samuel R. Quinones, president of the Puerto Rican Senate, said Leopold would be warmly welcomed by Puerto Ricans in a statement issued Friday night. Quinones quoted from shakespeare's Merchant of Venice to support his opinion.

"Shakespeare answers for Puerto Rico," Quinones said. "'The qulaity of mercy is not strained . . .It blesseth him that gives and him that takes."

Waiting at the airport for Leopold was Ralph Townsend, administrative director of the Church of Brethern hospital near Adjuntas, a slightly more than three hours drive from San Juan.

Leopold will live in a tiny two-room apartment in an old wooden barracks-type building at the rear of the hospital. The room is cell-like in its austerity. Furnishings are of metal. A few pictures hang on the walls. Three families live in the same building.

The hospital is the same barrack-type of building. It stands on an 1,800-foot peak on the outskirts of Adjuntas. The adult members of five American families and 40 Puerto Rican workers run the hospital.

The community includes some 212 small homes built 20 years ago under the Puerto Rican Reconstruction Administration.

Leopold and his idol, Richard Loeb, were sentenced to life imprisonment plus 99 years for the thrill-killing of young Franks, a neighborhood boy. Loeb was killed in a prison brawl in 1936.

Move To Curb Court Powers Faces Defeat

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) to curb the power of the Supreme Court was reported today to be facing defeat in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Sources close to the committee said that a majority of the 15 members now oppose the controversial measure, although a compromise was not ruled out.

The issue may come to a vote at the committee's regular weekly meeting Monday.

The bill has been denounced by opponents as the most serious assault on the independence of the judiciary since the late President Roosevelt's unsuccessful 1937 "court-packing plan."

But Jenner, accusing the court of usurping legislative functions, contends his bill simply makes use of a congressional check on judicial power that is expressly set out in the Constitution as part of the system of checks and balances.

What the bill would do is to limit the Supreme Court's appellate jurisdiction by withdrawing its authority to review lower court decisions in five categories.

These are cases arising from congressional investigations, security firings of federal employes, state antisubversion laws, regulations of school boards or similar bodies concerning subversive activities by teachers, and the admission of lawyers to practice in state courts.

In each of these fields, the Supreme Court recently has handed down controversial decisions.

In the Nelson case, for example, the court threw out state anti-subversive legislation on the ground that the federal government had pre-empted the field. In the Cole case, it held that a statute providing for summary dismissal of federal employes as security risks applied only to sensitive jobs.

The court also found in two cases last year that excluding lawyers from practice on charges of past or present subversive activity violates the 14th Amendment. In another case, it ruled that a schoolteacher cannot be fired solely because of invoking his Fifth Amendment protection against self incrimination.

In still another controversial decision, in the Watkins case, the court said that congressional committees have no power of "exposure for exposure's sake" and cannot compel witnesses to answer without showing their questions are pertinent to a valid legislative purpose.

Under Jenner's bill, no appeals could be taken to the Supreme Court in all future cases in these fields. Instead, the final decisions would rest with the highest courts in each of the 48 states and in the 11 federal Circuit Courts of Appeal.

Cubans Assault Giant American Installation

HAVANA (UP)—Rebels attacked the big American - owned Texas Oil Company refinery at Santiago De Cuba in rebellious Oriente Province Friday but were driven off by plant guards, delayed dispatches said Saturday.

The rebel attack was described as "determined." It was the second flareup in the tense country during the day. Four rebels were killed in a gunfight with police in Havana.

(Telephone communications between Havana and the New York office of the United Press were broken before more details of the attack on the Texas company's installation could be given. In reply to a request to restore the connection, the Havana telephone operator said she could not because of "superior orders." The government recently re - imposed censorship on outgoing and incoming press dispatches.)

Police identified one of the rebels killed in the firefight Friday night in the Havana suburb of Lawton as Eleides Perez, nephew of Dr. Faustino Perez, who is a lieutenant of rebel chief Fidel Castro.

Occupants of a police patrol car and the revolutionaries in another car shot it out on a residential street, directly in front of the home of Oscar Zalamea, the leader of the Cuban Electrical Workers Union.

No policemen were killed, authorities said.

The police said the fight started when the patrol car ordered the other car to stop for inspection. The occupants opened fire on the police.

When the shooting stopped, police said, three men were dead inside the other car. A fourth, who got out of the car, was found dead on the porch of a nearby residence.

Police said they believed the four rebels were the same ones who shot and killed a policeman in the neighborhood several days ago.

There have been numerous rebel flareups in Lawton in recent months.

Practicality Marks Study At Northeast

Future elementary teachers at Northeast State are not being limited to information in textbooks and classroom lectures. They also are learning by visiting science fairs and observing teachers in action.

Students majoring in elementary education have begun a series of field trips under supervision of Charles Tillman, instructor in elementary education and director of student teaching in this field.

The program of practicability which Tillman plans includes future trips to schools for observation and conferences with school personnel.

Visit Delhi

Most recent project of this kind was a visit to Delhi where students attended the science fair at the high school and heard from Principal Carlton Johnson various factors concerning the value, cost and preparation of sponsoring such an event, and the bases of judging exhibits.

Henry Hazlitt, science teacher at Delhi, advised the group on methods of entering projects in regional and state fairs.

Tillman's students will spend a day in Richland parish to observe teachers at representative levels to learn a variety of teaching procedures

The group will observe some classes, visit others, and confer with principals and supervisors. They will be told what a principal expects of his teachers, areas of responsibility as classroom teachers, and other specific facts.

Mrs. Blanche Calhoun, supervisor in Richland Parish, will explain what the supervisor expects of beginning teachers and how to carry on classroom instruction.

Soil Bank Fund Hike Expected In Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said Saturday they expect to get final action next week on a bill which includes 250 million dollars of additional funds for payments to farmers under the soil bank acreage reserve program.

The Senate approved the $2,869,406,463 supplemental money bill Tuesday with some minor additions to funds previously voted by the House. It has appointed senators to work out a compromise.

House leaders planned to name similar conferees next week with a quick compromise indicated. This version then must be approved by both the House and Senate before going to the President for his expected approval.

The 250 million dollars in soil bank funds is in addition to 500 millions Congress voted last year for this program of encouraging farmers to retire cotton, wheat, corn and other basic croplands.

Applications from farmers for participation were larger than the half billion dollar fund.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 175 millions additional but this was boosted to 250 on the House floor. It won Senate approval and so will not be in dispute at the conference.

Bowdon Elected As President Of Municipal Group

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Municipal Assn. elected Mayor George W. Bowdon Jr. of Alexandria president Saturday at the close of its 21st annual convention.

Bowdon succeeds Mayor Leon Gary of Houma as head of LMA, stepping up from the executive vice president's post. Mayor Sidney Gray of Lake Charles succeeded Bowdon as executive vice president.

The group re-elected Mayors James C. Gardiner of Shreveport and deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans district vice presidents. New district vice presidents include Mayors Joseph Chenier of Lutcher, W.B. Cone of Lake Providence, Charles Cassidy of Bogalusa, Cursey Marcantel of Elton and William O. Hollowman of Olla, and Mayor pro tem Gus Mestayer of New Iberia.

Three associations meeting concurrently with the LMA also elected officers.

The City Attorneys Assn. of Louisiana named William L. Murdock of Shreveport president. The City Engineers Assn. of Louisiana named Robert L.Horton of Shreveport president.

State City Clerks Assn. re-elected E.J. Champagne of Franklin president.

The association selected Lafayette for its 1959 convention site.

A resolution adopted at the closing session opposed a reported move for the Legislature to abolish the State Parks Commission and return to cities and parishes all state parks.

In reply to a request to restore the connection, the Havana telephone operator said she could not because of "superior orders." The government recently re - imposed censorship on outgoing and incoming press dispatches.)

Police identified one of the rebels killed in the firefight Friday night in the Havana suburb of Lawton as Elcides Perez, nephew of Dr. Faustino Perez, who is a lieutenant of rebel chief Fidel Castro.

Occupants of a police patrol car and the revolutionaries in another car shot it out on a residential street, directly in front of the home of Oscar Zalamea, the leader of the Cuban Electrical Workers Union.

No policemen were killed, authorities said.

The police said the fight started when the patrol car ordered the other car to stop for inspection.

The occupants opened fire on the police.

When the shooting stopped, police said, three men were dead inside the other car. A fourth, who got out of the car, was found dead on the porch of a nearby residence.

Police said they believed the four rebels were the same ones who shot and killed a policeman in the neighborhood several days ago.

There have been numerous rebel flareups in Lawton in recent months.

Practicality Marks Study At Northeast

Future elementary teachers at Northeast State are not being limited to information in textbooks and classroom lectures. They also are learning by visiting science fairs and observing teachers in action.

Students majoring in elementary education have begun a series of field trips under supervision of Charles Tillman, instructor in elementary education and director of student teaching in this field.

The program of practicability which Tillman plans includes future trips to schools for observation and conferences with school personnel.

Visit Delhi

Most recent project of this kind was a visit to Delhi where students attended the science fair at the high school and learned from Principal Carlton Johnson various factors concerning the value, cost and preparation of sponsoring such an event, and the bases of judging exhibits.

Henry Hazlitt, science teacher at Delhi, advised the group on methods of entering projects in regional and state fairs.

Tillman's students will spend a day in Richland parish to observe teachers at representative levels to learn a variety of teaching procedures

The group will observe some classes, visit others, and confer with principals and supervisors. They will be told what a principal expects of his teachers, areas of responsibility as classroom teachers, and other specific facts.

Mrs. Blanche Calhoun, supervisor in Richland Parish, will explain what the supervisor expects of beginning teachers and how to carry on classroom instruction.

Soil Bank Fund Hike Expected In Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders said Saturday they expect to get final action next week on a bill which includes 250 million dollars of additional funds for payments to farmers under the soil bank acreage reserve program.

The Senate approved the $2,869,406,463 supplemental money bill Tuesday with some minor additions to funds previously voted by the House. It has appointed senators to work out a compromise.

House leaders planned to name similar conferees next week with a quick compromise indicated. This version then must be approved by both the House and Senate before going to the President for his expected approval.

The 250 million dollars in soil bank funds is in addition to 500 millions Congress voted last year for this program of encouraging farmers to retire cotton, wheat, corn and other basic croplands.

Applications from farmers for participation were larger than the half billion dollar fund.

The House Appropriations Committee voted 175 millions additional but this was boosted to 250 on the House floor. It won Senate approval and so will not be in dispute at the conference.

Bowdon Elected As President Of Municipal Group

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP) — The Louisiana Municipal Assn. elected Mayor George W. Bowdon Jr. of Alexandria president Saturday at the close of its 21st annual convention.

Bowdon succeeds Mayor Leon Gary of Houma as head of LMA, stepping up from the executive vice president's post. Mayor Sidney Gray of Lake Charles succeeded Bowdon as executive vice president.

The group re-elected Mayors James C. Gardiner of Shreveport and deLesseps Morrison of New Orleans district vice presidents. New district vice presidents include Mayors Joseph Chenier of Lutcher, W.B. Cone of Lake Providence, Charles Cassidy of Bogalusa, Cursey Marcantel of Elton and William O. Hollowman of Olla, and Mayor pro tem Gus Mestayer of New Iberia.

Three associations meeting concurrently with the LMA also elected officers.

The City Attorneys Assn. of Louisiana named William L. Murdock of Shreveport president. The City Engineers Assn. of Louisiana named Robert L.Horton of Shreveport president.

State City Clerks Assn. re-elected E.J. Champagne of Franklin president.

The association selected Lafayette for its 1959 convention site.

A resolution adopted at the closing session opposed a reported move for the Legislature to abolish the State Parks Commission and return to cities and parishes all state parks.

Is F.B.I. Straying?

A clash between state authorities and federal officials, similar in many ways to that which occurred in Little Rock, appears to be in the making in Louisiana. It could bring about a situation which could have many extremely unpleasant repercussions.

A charge by Senator W. M. Rainach of Summerfield, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, in which he said the United States justice department is "trying to intimidate registrars of voters so that they will not enforce the registration laws" seems to sum the matter up succinctly. By investigation tactics that might be called gestapo-like, the F.B.I., which usually devotes its time to tracking down criminals, is attempting to carry out the justice department's determination to get all adult Negroes registered as voters, regardless of whether or not they can meet the requirements set up under state law for both whites and Negroes.

This amounts to nothing more nor less than an attempt by the department of justice to invade and desecrate the province of the state in administering its own affairs. It is a gestapo-style interference in the affairs of the state and in the private lives of the people and officials of that state when no violation of a law is charged.

This is entirely outside of the established function of the F.B.I. It converts it into an intranational spy system of the despicable type which citizens of the United States have been taught is un-American, un-democratic and a violation of the United States constitution.

In an attempt to put an end to such gestapo tactics, District Judge James E. Bolin, Jr., of Webster parish has called a special session of the grand jury for the purpose of looking into the activities of the F.B.I. in its investigation of the registrar of voters in that parish.

Louis Padgett of Bossier City, district attorney for Webster parish said: "The intimidation of a public official is a crime under the laws of the state of Louisiana and it is my duty to determine whether any criminal statue has been violated."

Mr. Padgett said he had received no notice of a criminal charge and that information he had in this regard had been received through the newspapers. He noted that it was charged that a complaint on which the investigation was based was filed by a certain alleged representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who lives in the city of Minden, which has been outlawed in Louisiana.

F.B.I. agents went into Minden about a week ago, questioning voters about actions of Mrs. Winnice P. Clements, registrar. The New Orleans office of the F.B.I. said the probe was ordered by W. Wilson White, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division of the department of justice.

Louisiana segregation leaders have warned in recent months that the newly created civil rights commission might select this state as a place to begin an investigation of the voting methods of the south.

This is not the first instance of its kind in the state. F.B.I. agents reportedly have also made inquiries regarding registration proceedings in Ouachita parish.

These actions are unmistakable attempts by the Federal government to disregard state registration laws which, under the constitution, are matters resting entirely with the states.

If F.B.I. agents should be convicted in state courts there would certainly be appeals to the Federal courts. This would bring about another unsolvable mess as obnoxious as the illegal invasion of Little Rock by Federal troops sent in to force integration of Negroes into Little Rock Central High School.

Pump-Priming Fails

It seems now that the present administration and the present Congress are about to follow the same course as that followed by the administration and the Congress that came into power in 1932: adoption of pump-priming—a public works program—by the government as the means for renewing prosperity. How can our political leaders ignore the plain lessons of history, especially when these lessons took place within their own memories?

It is to be believed that it is a basic truth that government spending has never produced prosperity and never will. Just the opposite results from private spending. The choice should be clear.

The party in power during the great depression refused to allow natural economic laws—which had cured all previous depressions—to have their course. Instead it primed the pump with all sorts of projects supported by government money and set forth to manage the economy. This made jobs—of a sort—but it did not bring prosperity. Unemployment, which totaled 11,140,000 persons in 1932, still reached a total of 10,470,000 in 1939 when war broke out in Europe. In the meantime, the national debt had been increased from $19 billion to $48 billion.

It was very plain to everybody during those years that this system would not work—but the big taxers and the big spenders would not admit it. Their explanation was that the government just did not spend enough money to make it work, therefore more spending was always the answer.

The trouble with government spending, of course, is that it is not productive spending; it is spending on projects that neither yield dividends nor pay taxes. In time of depression, regardless of economic theorists to the contrary, the government should spend less, not more. The government should reduce taxes, should leave more of the people's money in their own hands that they can put to productive use.

Neither the administration nor the Congress seems to have any concern about continued increase of the national debt.

There is no need for either governments or individuals to attempt to ignore natural economic laws—for they refuse to be ignored. We cannot repeal the law of supply and demand and at the same time retain a free economy. This applies to both capital and labor.

We often hear it said that our trouble is that we have over-produced. The fact is that we have over-priced. We are witnessing the anomaly of depression and wage-price inflation all at the same time. Cut taxes and people will have money to spend. Cut prices and they will spend it. Private enterprise produces prosperity; government enterprise does not.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Truman Is Boy Shooting At Adults With Rubber Bands

Unquestionably, Harry Truman has matured since he ceased to be President of the United States, but he cannot overcome the habit of "giving 'em hell." It is the small boy in Harry, shooting at adults with a rubber-band and getting a belly laugh out of the "ouch."

So it is in the interview between Harry Truman and Edward R. Murrow on February 2. This colloquy occurred:

"Murrow: I was rather expecting that you might have suggested it would have been the dismissal of General MacArthur in terms of re-establishing—or rather establishing again the control of the civilian over the military.

"Truman: That was only following a precedent. If you remember, James K. Polk had the same sort of trouble with some of his generals in the Mexican War. And Abraham Lincoln had to fire general after general. McClellan particularly stands out as an example in comparison with the MacArthur thing. And the Constitution provides that the President is the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces of the United States. And when he acts as Commander-in-Chief, he's got the right to hire and fire generals any place he pleases. And there was nothing new about that at all. That was only the establishment of a precedent. When the commanding general of the Far East was insubordinate he got relieved, the same as any other general would under the same circumstances."

Then there is a long discussion on General MacArthur's conduct. Truman had consulted General Marshall, General Bradley and Averell Harriman and they were all for dismissing General MacArthur. One of the things that seems to have rankled Truman is this:

"Well, when he landed in San Francisco, the first thing he should have done was to take a plane and come to Washington and call on his Commander-in-Chief and accept the situation as it was . . . He was trying to build up public opinion without consulting the fellow who understood public opinion. I never had anything personal against the general — he's a great military man. And it's a terrible thing when you have to do that to a man who's been in the military service for 51 years. But he brought it on himself and it had to be done."

Prior to the Truman interview, Ed Murrow wrote to General MacArthur asking him to do an interview. General MacArthur replied on February 4, after having seen the Truman interview on television:

"Mr. Truman's appearance on Sunday seemed to me to illustrate almost classically the historical dangers involved in aftermath and afterthought statements. He made statements entirely incompatible with the incidents as reported at the time of occurrence. So incomprehensible with the truth were some of his comments that at times he seemed to me almost like a clown rather than as one who had been the Chief Magistrate of this great country. It was entertainment but not history."

General MacArthur then lists six specific "falsities and fallacies" in Truman's "... apparently desperate effort to relieve his conscience of the dreadful aftermath resulting from his Korean mishandlement ..."

Among these falsities is Truman's statement:

"General MacArthur sent an article to Dave Lawrence's magazine, and didn't send a copy to the White House or to the President. I happened to find it in the Press Room of the White House; and I suppressed it because it was not in line with the policy of the United States Government, and sent him word that he couldn't do a thing of that kind. And then he was willing to have the matter withdrawn."

To this, MacArthur replied:

"... This is entirely false. I have never written to Lawrence at any time. A strategic analysis of the military value to the free world of the Island of Formosa made by me at the request of a veteran group to which I belonged was the cause of his wrath."

Budget Bureau Cut Will Hurt Mentally-Ill Work

President Eisenhower's Bureau of the Budget recently took a step which needs a lot of explanation.

The Bureau cut from the Veterans Administration's fiscal 1959 budget an item calling for $6.5 million to hire additional staff and personnel to advance methods of treatment of VA's 30,000 psychotic veteran patients numbly walking the wards of hospitals throughout the nation.

According to Dr. W. S. Middleton, VA chief Medical Director, "if we had better staffs in our hospitals for the mentally ill the rate of recovery would be at a higher level than presently."

Here's the way Dr. Middleton explained the request to the House Appropriations Committee recently:

"This request was simply to bring into focus the fact that the time had arrived when, if we were going forward instead of backward, we would have to have staffing that would bring patients from the back wards — that is, forgotten patients who were in some of the wards or patients who had reached a maximum of improvement, the 'burned out' patients.

"Gentlemen, this term 'burned out' is anathema to me. I think in modern days when a physician says there is no longer hope for a mentally ill patient, he is losing sight of the advances that have been made."

It is this plea that the Budget Bureau turned down cold.

Few people realize that today there are 16,000 veterans on the waiting lists for admission to VA neuropsychiatric hospitals. Some 11,000 of them are in state or local institutions, getting the care and treatment prescribed by generally - reluctant state legislatures through inadequate appropriations.

The remaining 5,000 veterans eligible for VA care are roaming the streets, serving minor sentences in jail, or aimlessly making their way through life with a hospital bed as a goal and social ostracism a present fact.

Few people also realize that Congress more than five years ago passed legislation making every so - called NP veteran immediately eligible for a bed in a VA hospital. What Congress neglected to do was provide the beds to go with the paper benefits.

VA has long been under fire from the American Medical Association for providing free care to so - called non-service connected mental patients — those veterans whose mental ailments are not directly attributable to their service in the armed forces. What the AMA and most persons fail to realize is that, if VA did not take care of these mentally-plagued veterans, local, county, or state taxpayers would have to.

For the President's Budget Bureau to deny $6.5 million to the VA was shortsighted if only one of those "burned out" patients could have been restored to an active life because of the added funds. When, as Dr. Middleton has indicated, the number might have been substantial, it was sheer folly.

In 1955, there were 5,493 NP patients on trial visits home from VA hospitals. By 1957 the number had climbed to 7,768.

Because of the Budget Bureau's refusal to approve additional funds to rehabilitate more of the "burned out" patients through ever - better modern methods, Dr. Middleton thinks the VA program may "go backward" in the coming fiscal year.

This is bad news to the 16,000 veterans awaiting treatment and the 30,000 already hoping for some way out from behind the antiseptic atmosphere of a lifetime in "psycho" wards.

It is hoped that the House Appropriations Committee will see fit to restore the cuts made by the economy - conscious Budget bureau.

The human mind is what distinguishes one from an animal, and $6.5 million seems a cheap enough price to pay in these days for potential restoration to dignity and usefulness of even one mind clouded by illness.

Money Hidden In Home Often Lost

NEW YORK (AP)—Money may be harder to get now—but it's still easy to lose.

A survey by the American Express Co. showed that U. S. citizens reported losing more than 100 million dollars in cash last year, in most cases through their own carelessness.

This is enough to buy a Harvard education for 10,000 students —or to build a community of 5,000 homes.

Astonishing as this figure is, Donal E. J. MacNamara, crime consultant for the company, says it doesn't tell the whole story.

The reported losses alone come to 100 million, he said, but the amount of money actually inadvertently lost each year, and not reported, is probably many times that figure.

MacNamara, dean of the New York Institute of Criminology, spent 15 years abroad as an investigator for the armed forces and has concluded, "Americans are by far the most careless people in the world with money."

The American man, not the American woman, is the major culprit.

"A man often won't even bother to report a loss if it is less than $25," said MacNamara, "but if a woman loses a quarter in a restaurant, she'll report it to the manager."

If your car is stolen, you have a 95 per cent chance of regaining it. But only 10 per cent of lost money is ever returned. Most money is lost around Christmas and Easter, and during the peak travel months of July and August.

"Although most money is lost outside the home," said MacNamara, "hidden money in the house is often lost, too."

People still hide money in a furnace in the summer, forget, and burn it up the next winter. Or they bury it, only to discover later that mice, rot, insects or water have ruined it. Every year about 45,000 people bring currency fragments to the U.S.Treasury, hoping to redeem it, he said.

Or they leave it where small children can find it, throw it out the winder, cut it into paper dolls, or flush it down the bathroom plumbing.

Many children seem to take great delight in seeing pretty green money go down the drain. This hobby costs their parents at least a million dollars a year, but the parents alone are to blame, he added.

Here are his tips for cutting down careless money losses:

Don't have any more cash on you or in your home than you absolutely need. Use checks.

A woman should carry her money only in a small bag she can hold in her hand at all times—not in a big bag slung over her arm or shoulder.

A man should carry his wallet in his inside coat pocket. That is the safest place, because to get at it a pickpocket has to face you, something he doesn't like to do.

The shipyard at Malmo in Southern Sweden recently turned out its 29th submarine, and was immediately ordered to build another series of six.

ON PHONE COMPANY

West Monroe, La.

Why did the telephone company wait two years before placing their case before the people?

With the rapid growth of Louisiana and the great demand for more and better service, the company foresaw the need of a large expansion program and the great need for additional capitol to meet the demand. So the company placed their plea before the Louisiana Public Service Commission for a rate increase. Instead of an increase, the commission forced the company to decrease rates. In a case such as this, a company can look for some relief from the higher courts. The supreme court affirmed the commission's ruling. Now people, we are all familiar with some of the rulings of our higher courts. The commission and the justices of our higher courts are elected by the people. The company was and is at the end of the rope. You and the people are our last hope and are also entitled to know the truth, though the commission does not see it that way.

How did the commission decide that the telephone company should cut rates instead of having an increase?

The commission's order was based entirely upon the testimony of Mr. Arnold Hirsch of Washington, D. C. His principal qualifications were that he was an employe of the O. P. A. during World War II. He has never been responsible for managing or financing any business.

No testimony was introduced by the commission's own expert staff.

Not only were the telephone company witnesses ignored but also the testimony of prominent Louisiana businessmen ignored.

Why does the commission come out with a veiled threat against the company because it is honestly trying to tell their side of the story to the people? Does it mean that the commission is not in favor of the people of Louisiana being informed on matters that come before them? Does it mean that the commission sees its own mistakes in regards to its decision to reduce rates, when the company seriously needs an increase in order to meet its obligations to the people of Louisiana? Is the commission trying to approach the problem logically and economically or is the commission trying to throw a smoke screen to cover up incompetent administration? Is politics playing a hand, when people in Louisiana need telephone service so badly, as so many do, especially the people in rural areas and the telephone company is placed in a position it can't meet the people's needs? If it is so that politics is in the picture, would it not be wise for the people of Louisiana to have an investigation of the Public Service Commission to see that everything is in order?

My family and I came to live in Monroe about 18 months ago from Indiana, and prior to that from Sydney, Australia. My father writes articles for one of the large Sunday newspapers there. So you see, I have been taught to appreciate good writing.

Perhaps it is because so many people feel that ideas from other countries are laughable that I enjoy your articles so very much, as I agree almost wholeheartedly with you. They are always excellently written and most informative.

If we had more men like yourself with your excellent ideas running this country, then this would indeed be a fine place.

FAVORS PAY INCREASE

To The Editor

In your issue of Feb. 9th editorial, "Teachers' Battle," I would like to go on record as favoring increased pay for teachers. I do not know a more loyal group. Many of them teach in public school all week, then Sunday school on Sunday, serve with Scouts and other worthwhile causes between times. There may be a few unworthy of this praise, but they are so few I'm willing to include them. As for politics, how about the legislature that on the first day of the session vote themselves a pay raise?

There are a few matters of politics connected with the welfare department that I would like to discuss personally when I find out more.

P. S. I am not a teacher or in line for any benefit from a pay raise.

This statement will do to be printed in your paper. I pass through your city often — always stop and buy 5 to 10 gallons of gas—eat at a cafe—and buy one of your papers. I admire your town, homes and the country around, and had really begun to want to settle there.

Recently I was leaving town, driving slow, admiring the homes, etc. A little man with a big gun drove up, motioned for me to move over and stop. He wanted to know what I was drinking. I was so shocked, and embarrassed as I never bought one drop of liquor in my life and only four cans of beer. At that time I was wearing a pin given me by our U. S. Government as a 25-year safety record for safe driving. I am a retired rural mail carrier. I work for the school whose address is on the heading of this letter.

I am sure the hot rods and drunks would enjoy this. For sure, I'll by-pass your city now, as a man can't drive slow nor fast.

'Living Dead' Returns, Hits Red Treatment

BERLIN (UP) — An American chiropodist who said he spent six months with the "living dead" in Communist East German prisons today vowed to tour the United States and tell Americans of the "horrible cancer" of communism.

Dr. Walter Steinberg, 35, Alhambra, Calif., was released by the East German Communists Friday. He was sentenced to 10 months in jail by a Communist court for allegedly smuggling camera equipment to West Berlin.

American officials said Steinberg was released after serving only 2 months of his 10-month term. However, he spent 4 months in a Communist jail before he was tried.

The trial set a precedent. Steinberg was the first American ever convicted and sentenced to jail by East Germany.

Steinberg told a news conference here today that he was "railroaded by Nazi-type lynch justice."

He said his Communist jailors made him drink water out of a toilet, starved him so that he lost 20 pounds, manhandled him brutally, laughed at his appeals for a Bible and finally drove him to attempt suicide.

Steinberg was arrested in East Berli Sept. 5 when he went to pay a fine for a minor traffic offense. He was convicted and sentenced Jan. 13.

Steinberg said he was not allowed to get in touch with the U.S. consulate, was refused a lawyer, was not allowed to confer privately with the lawyer assigned by the Communist court and was warned not to appeal his sentence.

Rainach of Summerfield, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation, in which he said the United States justice department is "trying to intimidate registrars of voters so that they will not enforce the registration laws" seems to sum the matter up succinctly. By investigation tactics that might be called gestapo-like, the F.B.I., which usually devotes its time to tracking down criminals, is attempting to carry out the justice department's determination to get all adult Negroes registered as voters, regardless of whether or not they can meet the requirements set up under state law for both whites and Negroes.

This amounts to nothing more nor less than an attempt by the department of justice to invade and desecrate the province of the state in administering its own affairs. It is a gestapo-style interference in the affairs of the state and in the private lives of the people and officials of that state when no violation of a law is charged.

This is entirely outside of the established function of the F.B.I. It converts it into an intranational spy system of the despicable type which citizens of the United States have been taught is un-American, un-democratic and a violation of the United States constitution.

In an attempt to put an end to such gestapo tactics, District Judge James E. Bolin, Jr., of Webster parish has called a special session of the grand jury for the purpose of looking into the activities of the F.B.I. in its investigation of the registrar of voters in that parish.

Louis Padgett of Bossier City, district attorney for Webster parish said: "The intimidation of a public official is a crime under the laws of the state of Louisiana and it is my duty to determine whether any criminal statue has been violated."

Mr. Padgett said he had received no notice of a criminal charge and that information he had in this regard had been received through the newspapers. He noted that it was charged that a complaint on which the investigation was based was filed by a certain alleged representative of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People who lives in the city of Minden, which has been outlawed in Louisiana.

F.B.I. agents went into Minden about a week ago, questioning voters about actions of Mrs. Winnice P. Clements, registrar. The New Orleans office of the F.B.I. said the probe was ordered by W. Wilson White, assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division of the department of justice.

Louisiana segregation leaders have warned in recent months that the newly created civil rights commission might select this state as a place to begin an investigation of the voting methods of the south.

This is not the first instance of its kind in the state. F.B.I. agents reportedly have also made inquiries regarding registration proceedings in Ouachita parish.

These actions are unmistakable attempts by the Federal government to disregard state registration laws which, under the constitution, are matters resting entirely with the states.

If F.B.I. agents should be convicted in state courts there would certainly be appeals to the Federal courts. This would bring about another unsolvable mess as obnoxious as the illegal invasion of Little Rock by Federal troops sent in to force integration of Negroes into Little Rock Central High School.

Pump-Priming Fails

It seems now that the present administration and the present Congress are about to follow the same course as that followed by the administration and the Congress that came into power in 1932: adoption of pump-priming—a public works program—by the government as the means for renewing prosperity. How can our political leaders ignore the plain lessons of history, especially when these lessons took place within their own memories?

It is to be believed that it is a basic truth that government spending has never produced prosperity and never will. Just the opposite results from private spending. The choice should be clear.

The party in power during the great depression refused to allow natural economic laws—which had cured all previous depressions—to have their course. Instead it primed the pump with all sorts of projects supported by government money and set forth to manage the economy. This made jobs—of a sort—but it did not bring prosperity. Unemployment, which totaled 11,140,000 persons in 1932, still reached a total of 10,470,000 in 1939 when war broke out in Europe. In the meantime, the national debt had been increased from $19 billion to $48 billion.

It was very plain to everybody during those years that this system would not work—but the big taxers and the big spenders would not admit it. Their explanation was that the government just did not spend enough money to make it work, therefore more spending was always the answer.

The trouble with government spending, of course, is that it is not productive spending; it is spending on projects that neither yield dividends nor pay taxes. In time of depression, regardless of economic theorists to the contrary, the government should spend less, not more. The government should reduce taxes, should leave more of the people's money in their own hands that they can put to productive use.

Neither the administration nor the Congress seems to have any concern about continued increase of the national debt.

There is no need for either governments or individuals to attempt to ignore natural economic laws—for they refuse to be ignored. We cannot repeal the law of supply and demand and at the same time retain a free economy. This applies to both capital and labor.

We often hear it said that our trouble is that we have over-produced. The fact is that we have over-priced. We are witnessing the anomaly of depression and wage-price inflation all at the same time. Cut taxes and people will have money to spend. Cut prices and they will spend it. Private enterprise produces prosperity; government enterprise does not.

GEORGE SOKOLSKY'S DAYS

Truman Is Boy Shooting At Adults With Rubber Bands

Unquestionably, Harry Truman has matured since he ceased to be President of the United States, but he cannot overcome the habit of "giving 'em hell." It is the small boy in Harry, shooting at adults with a rubber-band and getting a belly laugh out of the "ouch."

So it is in the interview between Harry Truman and Edward R. Murrow on February 2. This colloquy occurred:

"Murrow: I was rather expecting that you might have suggested it would have been the dismissal of General MacArthur in terms of re-establishing—or rather establishing again the control of the civilian over the military.

"Truman: That was only following a precedent. If you remember, James K. Polk had the same sort of trouble with some of his generals in the Mexican War. And Abraham Lincoln had to fire general after general. McClellan particularly stands out as an example in comparison with the MacArthur thing. And the Constitution provides that the President is the Commander-in-Chief of the armed forces of the United States. And when he acts as Commander-in-Chief, he's got the right to hire and fire generals any place he pleases. And there was nothing new about that at all. That was only the establishment of a precedent. When the commanding general of the Far East was insubordinate he got relieved, the same as any other general would under the same circumstances."

Then there is a long discussion on General MacArthur's conduct. Truman had consulted General Marshall, General Bradley and Averell Harriman and they were all for dismissing General MacArthur. One of the things that seems to have rankled Truman is this:

"Well, when he landed in San Francisco, the first thing he should have done was to take a plane and come to Washington and call on his Commander-in-Chief and accept the situation as it was . . . He was trying to build up public opinion without consulting the fellow who understood public opinion. I never had anything personal against the general — he's a great military man. And it's a terrible thing when you have to do that to a man who's been in the military service for 51 years. But he brought it on himself and it had to be done."

Prior to the Truman interview, Ed Murrow wrote to General MacArthur asking him to do an interview. General MacArthur replied on February 4, after having seen the Truman interview on television:

"Mr. Truman's appearance on Sunday seemed to me to illustrate almost classically the historical dangers involved in aftermath and afterthought statements. He made statements entirely incompatible with the incidents as reported at the time of occurrence. So incomprehensible with the truth were some of his comments that at times he seemed to me almost like a clown rather than as one who had been the Chief Magistrate of this great country. It was entertainment but not history."

General MacArthur then lists six specific "falsities and fallacies" in Truman's "... apparently desperate effort to relieve his conscience of the dreadful aftermath resulting from his Korean mishandlement ..."

Among these falsities is Truman's statement:

"General MacArthur sent an article to Dave Lawrence's magazine, and didn't send a copy to the White House or to the President. I happened to find it in the Press Room of the White House; and I suppressed it because it was not in line with the policy of the United States Government, and sent him word that he couldn't do a thing of that kind. And then he was willing to have the matter withdrawn."

To this, MacArthur replied:

"... This is entirely false. I have never written to Lawrence at any time. A strategic analysis of the military value to the free world of the Island of Formosa made by me at the request of a veteran group to which I belonged was the cause of his wrath."

Budget Bureau Cut Will Hurt Mentally-Ill Work

President Eisenhower's Bureau of the Budget recently took a step which needs a lot of explanation.

The Bureau cut from the Veterans Administration's fiscal 1959 budget an item calling for $6.5 million to hire additional staff and personnel to advance methods of treatment of VA's 30,000 psychotic veteran patients numbly walking the wards of hospitals throughout the nation.

According to Dr. W. S. Middleton, VA chief Medical Director, "if we had better staffs in our hospitals for the mentally ill the rate of recovery would be at a higher level than presently."

Here's the way Dr. Middleton explained the request to the House Appropriations Committee recently:

"This request was simply to bring into focus the fact that the time had arrived when, if we were going forward instead of backward, we would have to have staffing that would bring patients from the back wards — that is, forgotten patients who were in some of the wards or patients who had reached a maximum of improvement, the 'burned out' patients.

"Gentlemen, this term 'burned out' is anathema to me. I think in modern days when a physician says there is no longer hope for a mentally ill patient, he is losing sight of the advances that have been made."

It is this plea that the Budget Bureau turned down cold.

Few people realize that today there are 16,000 veterans on the waiting lists for admission to VA neuropshchiatric hospitals. Some 11,000 of them are in state or local institutions, getting the care and treatment prescribed by generally - reluctant state legislatures through inadequate appropriations.

The remaining 5,000 veterans eligible for VA care are roaming the streets, serving minor sentences in jail, or aimlessly making their way through life with a hospital bed as a goal and social ostracism a present fact.

Few people also realize that Congress more than five years ago passed legislation making every so - called NP veteran immediately eligible for a bed in a VA hospital. What Congress neglected to do was provide the beds to go with the paper benefits.

VA has long been under fire from the American Medical Association for providing free care to so - called non-service connected mental patients — those veterans whose mental ailments are not directly attributable to their service in the armed forces. What the AMA and most persons fail to realize is that, if VA did not take care of these mentally-plagued veterans, local, county, or state taxpayers would have to.

For the President's Budget Bureau to deny $6.5 million to the VA was shortsighted if only one of those "burned out" patients could have been restored to an active life because of the added funds. When, as Dr. Middleton has indicated, the number might have been substantial, it was sheer folly.

In 1955, there were 5,493 NP patients on trial visits home from VA hospitals. By 1957 the number had climbed to 7,768.

Because of the Budget Bureau's refusal to approve additional funds to rehabilitate more of the "burned out" patients through ever - better modern methods, Dr. Middleton thinks the VA program may "go backward" in the coming fiscal year.

This is bad news to the 16,000 veterans awaiting treatment and the 30,000 already hoping for some way out from behind the antiseptic atmosphere of a lifetime in "psycho" wards.

It is hoped that the House Appropriations Committee will see fit to restore the cuts made by the economy - conscious Budget bureau.

The human mind is what distinguishes one from an animal, and $6.5 million seems a cheap enough price to pay in these days for potential restoration to dignity and usefulness of even one mind clouded by illness.

Money Hidden In Home Often Lost

NEW YORK (AP)—Money may be harder to get now—but it's still easy to lose.

A survey by the American Express Co. showed that U. S. citizens reported losing more than 100 million dollars in cash last year, in most cases through their own carelessness.

This is enough to buy a Harvard education for 10,000 students —or to build a community of 5,000 homes.

Astonishing as this figure is, Donal E. J. MacNamara, crime consultant for the company, says it doesn't tell the whole story.

The reported losses alone come to 100 million, he said, but the amount of money actually inadvertently lost each year, and not reported, is probably many times that figure.

MacNamara, dean of the New York Institute of Criminology, spent 15 years abroad as an investigator for the armed forces and has concluded, "Americans are by far the most careless people in the world with money."

The American man, not the American woman, is the major culprit.

"A man often won't even bother to report a loss if it is less than $25," said MacNamara, "but if a woman loses a quarter in a restaurant, she'll report it to the manager."

If your car is stolen, you have a 95 per cent chance of regaining it. But only 10 per cent of lost money is ever returned. Most money is lost around Christmas and Easter, and during the peak travel months of July and August.

"Although most money is lost outside the home," said MacNamara, "hidden money in the house is often lost, too."

People still hide money in a furnace in the summer, forget, and burn it up the next winter. Or they bury it, only to discover later that mice, rot, insects or water have ruined it. Every year about 45,000 people bring currency fragments to the U.S.Treasury, hoping to redeem it, he said.

Or they leave it where small children can find it, throw it out the winder, cut it into paper dolls, or flush it down the bathroom plumbing.

Many children seem to take great delight in seeing pretty green money go down the drain. This hobby costs their parents at least a million dollars a year, but the parents alone are to blame, he added.

Here are his tips for cutting down careless money losses:

Don't have any more cash on you or in your home than you absolutely need. Use checks.

A woman should carry her money only in a small bag she can hold in her hand at all times—not in a big bag slung over her arm or shoulder.

A man should carry his wallet in his inside coat pocket. That is the safest place, because to get at it a pickpocket has to face you, something he doesn't like to do.

The shipyard at Malmo in Southern Sweden recently turned out its 29th submarine, and was immediately ordered to build another series of six.

ON PHONE COMPANY

West Monroe, La.

Why did the telephone company wait two years before placing their case before the people?

With the rapid growth of Louisiana and the great demand for more and better service, the company foresaw the need of a large expansion program and the great need for additional capitol to meet the demand. So the company placed their plea before the Louisiana Public Service Commission for a rate increase. Instead of an increase, the commission forced the company to decrease rates. In a case such as this, a company can look for some relief from the higher courts. The supreme court affirmed the commission's ruling. Now people, we are all familiar with some of the rulings of our higher courts. The commission and the justices of our higher courts are elected by the people. The company was and is at the end of the rope. You and the people are our last hope and are also entitled to know the truth, though the commission does not see it that way.

How did the commission decide that the telephone company should cut rates instead of having an increase?

The commission's order was based entirely upon the testimony of Mr. Arnold Hirsch of Washington, D. C. His principal qualifications were that he was an employe of the O. P. A. during World War II. He has never been responsible for managing or financing any business.

No testimony was introduced by the commission's own expert staff.

Not only were the telephone company witnesses ignored but also the testimony of prominent Louisiana businessmen ignored.

Why does the commission come out with a veiled threat against the company because it is honestly trying to tell their side of the story to the people? Does it mean that the commission is not in favor of the people of Louisiana being informed on matters that come before them? Does it mean that the commission sees its own mistakes in regards to its decision to reduce rates, when the company seriously needs an increase in order to meet its obligations to the people of Louisiana? Is the commission trying to approach the problem logically and economically or is the commission trying to throw a smoke screen to cover up incompetent administration? Is politics playing a hand, when people in Louisiana need telephone service so badly, as so many do, especially the people in rural areas and the telephone company is placed in a position it can't meet the people's needs? If it is so that politics is in the picture, would it not be wise for the people of Louisiana to have an investigation of the Public Service Commission to see that everything is in order?

To The Editor

After reading the editorials in the evening paper for some months, I wish to tell you how good I think they are.

My family and I came to live in Monroe about 18 months ago from Indiana, and prior to that from Sydney, Australia. My father writes articles for one of the large Sunday newspapers there. So you see, I have been taught to appreciate good writing.

Perhaps it is because so many people feel that ideas from other countries are laughable that I enjoy your articles so very much, as I agree almost wholeheartedly with you. They are always excellently written and most informative.

If we had more men like yourself with your excellent ideas running this country, then this would indeed be a fine place.

FAVORS PAY INCREASE

To The Editor

In your issue of Feb. 9th editorial, "Teachers' Battle," I would like to go on record as favoring increased pay for teachers. I do not know a more loyal group. Many of them teach in public school all week, then Sunday school on Sunday, serve with Scouts and other worthwhile causes between times. There may be a few unworthy of this praise, but they are so few I'm willing to include them. As for politics, how about the legislature that on the first day of the session vote themselves a pay raise?

There are a few matters of politics connected with the welfare department that I would like to discuss personally when I find out more.

This statement will do to be printed in your paper. I pass through your city often — always stop and buy 5 to 10 gallons of gas—eat at a cafe—and buy one of your papers. I admire your town, homes and the country around, and had really begun to want to settle there.

Recently I was leaving town, driving slow, admiring the homes, etc. A little man with a big gun drove up, motioned for me to move over and stop. He wanted to know what I was drinking. I was so shocked, and embarrassed as I never bought one drop of liquor in my life and only four cans of beer. At that time I was wearing a pin given me by our U. S. Government as a 25-year safety record for safe driving. I am a retired rural mail carrier. I work for the school whose address is on the heading of this letter.

I am sure the hot rods and drunks would enjoy this. For sure, I'll by-pass your city now, as a man can't drive slow nor fast.

'Living Dead' Returns, Hits Red Treatment

BERLIN (UP) — An American chiropodist who said he spent six months with the "living dead" in Communist East German prisons today vowed to tour the United States and tell Americans of the "horrible cancer" of communism.

Dr. Walter Steinberg, 35, Alhambra, Calif., was released by the East German Communists Friday. He was sentenced to 10 months in jail by a Communist court for allegedly smuggling camera equipment to West Berlin.

American officials said Steinberg was released after serving only 2 months of his 10-month term. However, he spent 4 months in a Communist jail before he was tried.

The trial set a precedent. Steinberg was the first American ever convicted and sentenced to jail by East Germany.

Steinberg told a news conference here today that he was "railroaded by Nazi-type lynch justice."

He said his Communist jailors made him drink water out of a toilet, starved him so that he lost 20 pounds, manhandled him brutally, laughed at his appeals for a Bible and finally drove him to attempt suicide.

Steinberg was arrested in East Berli Sept. 5 when he went to pay a fine for a minor traffic offense. He was convicted and sentenced Jan. 13.

Steinberg said he was not allowed to get in touch with the U.S. consulate, was refused a lawyer, was not allowed to confer privately with the lawyer assigned by the Communist court and was warned not to appeal his sentence.

Ike And Solons Remain Cautious On Tax Cutting

act before the end of June on corporate income and general excise taxes, which are scheduled for automatic reduction if no action is taken.

Knowland said the Senate's rejection of attempts to push through income and excise tax reductions directly on the Senate floor Thursday and Friday did not indicate a final viewpoint on the question. He said those votes reflected a feeling that "this is not the time" or the proper procedure for framing a general tax program.

—Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield suggested that automobile manufacturers consider reducing their prices to spark a revival of that hardest hit industry.

Mansfield and Reps. Hale Boggs and F. Edward Hebert, both Louisiana Democrats, fired a fresh round of criticism at the Eisenhower administration's policies for dealing with the recession. They urged more federal spending for public works. Boggs voiced doubt that a tax reduction would do much to relieve unemployment.

Ask Extended Benefits

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the administration's plan for extension of unemployment compensation payments will be sent to Congress next week. It is expected to call for federal payments to the states to permit keeping unemployed workers on the insurance benefit rolls about three months after their regular state compensation rights have expired.

Democrats in Congress already have submitted bills calling for both supplementary federal payments and a longer extension of benefits than the administration intends to propose.

—The difficulty in producing immediate anti-recession results by defense procurement spending was illustrated by terms of an Air Force award of a $140,357,000 contract. The contract, for work on the guidance system of the Titan 5,000-mile missile, calls for payments stretched over the next five years.

The joint letter from Republican senators on government spending said a general speed-up in contract awards will not have a big enough impact on areas of serious unemployment.

Rev. John Allin Named Rector Of Junior College

Scientist Says Man Should Get Moon Samples

WASHINGTON (AP)—An American scientist said Saturday that before man tries to reach the moon he should make remote control efforts to find out whether primitive microscopic life exists there.

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation, said this could help towards determining whether life could originate under circumstances other than those existing on earth.

"We must plan," he declared, "to make biological samples of the surface of the moon before we despoil it with biological contamination—such as bacteria and viruses—from our earth."

Otherwise, he said, if man himself reached the moon and found only earth-type organisms, he'd never be sure whether they existed there beforehand or had been brought from the earth by the space navigators.

Weaver said it should be possible to equip the first unmanned missile to reach the moon with "automatic devices that would reach out, grab biological specimens and place them in sterile containers which could remain there until man's own arrival."

He made the statements in an interview in amplifying on remarks he made in keynoting a special three-day conference on "Science and Public Policy" called by the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Split Appears Over Freezing Farm Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A split developed among farm state Republicans in the House Saturday over support for a Senate-passed resolution to freeze farm price supports and acreage allotments at 1957 levels.

Some Midwestern Republicans accused Democrats of making a political grandstand play. They said there was no occasion for passage of emergency stopgap legislation before Congress can act on an omnibus farm bill covering all current agricultural problems.

Other Republicans disagreed.

The GOP split, however, did not appear likely to affect expected House passage of the bill sometime next week.

The Senate sent the farm measure to the House Thursday by a 50-43 vote, and the House Agriculture Committee is expected to approve it with record promptness Monday morning.

Despite the threat of a presidential veto, both Republicans and Democrats forecast House passage of the bill by a substantial margin as quickly as leaders can ring it to the floor. This will probably be Thursday or Friday.

Several Republican members were unhappy over the prospect of a veto by President Eisenhower and its effect on future farm legislation at this session.

"I think a bill like this is the wrong approach," Rep. Harrison (R-Neb) told newsmen. "I don't think any emergency bill of this sort is the answer to present farm problems."

Man Falls To Death Inside Secret Project

LITTLETON, Colo. (UP) — A young man fell to his death Saturday while trying to rescue a fellow worker who had become entangled inside a secret project at the Martin Company where the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile is being developed.

The other man was injured critically.

Don Herron, Martin Company spokesman, said Frank McClain, 21, Denver, was injured fatally when he fell to the bottom of a huge tank used in connection with the missile project. He was trying to help James Saige, 37, Denver, whose foot had become entangled in a rope ladder inside the tank, details of which are so secret Herron could not disclose how far McClain fell.

McClain died of a skull fracture while enroute by ambulance to Swedish Hospital in nearby Englewood, Colo., where Saige was hospitalized, suffering from anoxia (lack of oxygen).

Both men were employed in the plant's general purpose laboratory as structural test mechanics.

Other employes removed the two men from the tank by cutting a large hole in its bottom with acetylene torches.

McClain is survived by a wife and 6-month-old child.

Dam Break Puts 600 To Flight

climbed up on the house, too. That is where we stayed until daylight. It got so cold that I got numb."

She said that when they saw the water was receding they went back into the house and built a fire in the coal stove and that a National Guard truck soon came by and took the family to the school.

"Trucks have gone through all the area and if there are any casualties we have not found any," reported Capt. John C Wells, a retired National Guardsman who is Marlboro County Red Cross disaster chairman.

Two units of the Guard were called out to patrol the area and pick up any stranded residents.

Wells said that the lake which poured through the dam was only about 150 acres in size but was part of a 725-acre system.

No Tax Cuts Before June-Knowland

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) forecast Saturday Congress will wait until June to decide whether to cut taxes.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters that since Congress must act before June 30 if it wishes to continue excise and corporation taxes at present levels, he believes any possible reduction in income and other levies will be postponed until then.

Possible tax action to counter the business slump will be discussed when Republican congressional leaders meet Tuesday with President Eisenhower, Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, and other administration fiscal experts. Knowland said he does not expect any final decisions to come from that session.

"I would certainly expect that before the Treasury comes up with any recommendations on tax revision there would be consultation with the leaders of both parties in both houses," Knowland said. "I think there will be reciprocity between the parties on this matter."

Knowland said he thinks the Senate's votes this past week rejecting proposed reductions in individual and business taxes reflect a general belief that it is too early to formulate any program now.

Knowland spoke out as 10 Republican senators prodded the Eisenhower administration to channel civilian and defense contracts into the areas of largest unemployment.

In letters to Secretary of Defense McElroy and General Services Administrator F. G. Floete, the 10 suggested that the government slit its contracts and award half to the low bidder and half to firms in surplus labor areas.

"It seems to us," the Republicans said, "that a concentrated effort to help these distressed areas would be far more effective in meeting the recession than a general speedup in contracting for public works and military construction could accomplish by itself."

The 10 included GOP Sens. Aiken of Vermont, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Cooper of Kentucky, Ives and Javits of New York, Kuchel of California, Payne and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Potter of Michigan and Purtell of Connecticut.

Their appeal came as Sen. Byrd (D-Va) announced the Senate Finance Committee will reopen its investigation of "the financial condition of the United States" April 1 with Bernard M. Baruch as a witness.

mals we have tested," he told an interviewer today. "However, the work is purely experimental and it will be some time before we can talk about any substance for human use."

His 16 years' research in cancer was reported in the current journal of the National Cancer Institute.

Livingston said he and his assistant, Dale Gillette, have produced a substance that accelerates cell growth and one which decelerates it. He said he believes normal cells may become cancerous when their respiratory system is interfered with and that, in some way, the substance he has obtained from placenta restores this system to normal.

Ike And Solons Remain Cautious On Tax Cutting

act before the end of June on corporate income and general excise taxes, which are scheduled for automatic reduction if no action is taken.

Knowland said the Senate's rejection of attempts to push through income and excise tax reductions directly on the Senate floor Thursday and Friday did not indicate a final viewpoint on the question. He said those votes reflected a feeling that "this is not the time" or the proper procedure for framing a general tax program.

—Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield suggested that automobile manufacturers consider reducing their prices to spark a revival of that hardest hit industry.

Mansfield and Reps. Hale Boggs and F. Edward Hebert, both Louisiana Democrats, fired a fresh round of criticism at the Eisenhower administration's policies for dealing with the recession. They urged more federal spending for public works. Boggs voiced doubt that a tax reduction would do much to relieve unemployment.

Ask Extended Benefits

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said the administration's plan for extension of unemployment compensation payments will be sent to Congress next week. It is expected to call for federal payments to the states to permit keeping unemployed workers on the insurance benefit rolls about three months after their regular state compensation rights have expired.

Democrats in Congress already have submitted bills calling for both supplementary federal payments and a longer extension of benefits than the administration intends to propose.

—The difficulty in producing immediate anti - recession results by defense procurement spending was illustrated by terms of an Air Force award of a $140,357,000 contract. The contract, for work on the guidance system of the Titan 5,000-mile missile, calls for payments stretched over the next five years.

The joint letter from Republican senators on government spending said a general speed-up in contract awards will not have a big enough impact on areas of serious unemployment.

Rev. Mr. Allin served episcopal missions at Conway, Harrison, Eureka Springs and Russellille in Arkansas after his graduation from the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. He was ordained May 10, 1945.

In 1950 he was chaplain to Episcopal students at Tulane University and other colleges at New Orleans, and curate of St. Andrew's parish there. The following year he also served as Episcopal chaplain to institutions at New Orleans.

The Rev. Mr. Allin became rector of Grace Parish, Monroe, La., in June, 1952. He also has held a number of posts on church boards and councils in the diocese of Louisiana since then and was dean of the northern convocation for one year. At present he is chairman of the United Ministers Assn. at Monroe.

The Rev. Allin married Miss Frances Ann Kelly of Helena, Ark. They have three children.

Scientist Says Man Should Get Moon Samples

WASHINGTON (AP)—An American scientist said Saturday that before man tries to reach the moon he should make remote control efforts to find out whether primitive microscopic life exists there.

Dr. Warren Weaver, vice president of the Rockefeller Foundation, said this could help towards determining whether life could originate under circumstances other than those existing on earth.

"We must plan," he declared, "to make biological samples of the surface of the moon before we despoil it with biological contamination—such as bacteria and viruses—from our earth."

Otherwise, he said, if man himself reached the moon and found only earth-type organisms, he'd never be sure whether they existed there beforehand or had been brought from the earth by the space navigators.

Weaver said it should be possible to equip the first unmanned missile to reach the moon with "automatic devices that would reach out, grab biological specimens and place them in sterile containers which could remain there until man's own arrival."

He made the statements in an interview in amplifying on remarks he made in keynoting a special three-day conference on "Science and Public Policy" called by the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Split Appears Over Freezing Farm Supports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A split developed among farm state Republicans in the House Saturday over support for a Senate-passed resolution to freeze farm price supports and acreage allotments at 1957 levels.

Some Midwestern Republicans accused Democrats of making a political grandstand play. They said there was no occasion for passage of emergency stopgap legislation before Congress can act on an omnibus farm bill covering all current agricultural problems.

Other Republicans disagreed.

The GOP split, however, did not appear likely to affect expected House passage of the bill sometime next week.

The Senate sent the farm measure to the House Thursday by a 50-43 vote, and the House Agriculture Committee is expected to approve it with record promptness Monday morning.

Despite the threat of a presidential veto, both Republicans and Democrats forecast House passage of the bill by a substantial margin as quickly as leaders can ring it to the floor. This will probably be Thursday or Friday.

Several Republican members were unhappy over the prospect of a veto by President Eisenhower and its effect on future farm legislation at this session.

"I think a bill like this is the wrong approach," Rep. Harrison (R-Neb) told newsmen. "I don't think any emergency bill of this sort is the answer to present farm problems."

Man Falls To Death Inside Secret Project

LITTLETON, Colo. (UP) — A young man fell to his death Saturday while trying to rescue a fellow worker who had become entangled inside a secret project at the Martin Company where the Titan intercontinental ballistic missile is being developed.

The other man was injured critically.

Don Herron, Martin Company spokesman, said Frank McClain, 24, Denver, was injured fatally when he fell to the bottom of a huge tank used in connection with the missile project. He was trying to help James Saige, 37, Denver, whose foot had become entangled in a rope ladder inside the tank, details of which are so secret Herron could not disclose how far McClain fell.

McClain died of a skull fracture while enroute by ambulance to Swedish Hospital in nearby Englewood, Colo., where Saige was hospitalized, suffering from anoxia (lack of oxygen).

Both men were employed in the plant's general purpose laboratory as structural test mechanics.

Other employes removed the two men from the tank by cutting a large hole in its bottom with acetylene torches.

McClain is survived by a wife and 6-month-old child.

climbed up on the house, too. That is where we stayed until daylight. It got so cold that I got numb."

She said that when they saw the water was receding they went back into the house and built a fire in the coal stove and that a National Guard truck soon came by and took the family to the school.

"Trucks have gone through all the area and if there are any casualties we have not found any," reported Capt. John C Wells, a retired National Guardsman who is Marlboro County Red Cross disaster chairman.

Two units of the Guard were called out to patrol the area and pick up any stranded residents.

Wells said that the lake which poured through the dam was only about 150 acres in size but was part of a 725-acre system.

No Tax Cuts Before June-Knowland

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) forecast Saturday Congress will wait until June to decide whether to cut taxes.

Knowland, the Senate Republican leader, told reporters that since Congress must act before June 30 if it wishes to continue excise and corporation taxes at present levels, he believes any possible reduction in income and other levies will be postponed until then.

Possible tax action to counter the business slump will be discussed when Republican congressional leaders meet Tuesday with President Eisenhower, Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, and other administration fiscal experts. Knowland said he does not expect any final decisions to come from that session.

"I would certainly expect that before the Treasury comes up with any recommendations on tax revision there would be consultation with the leaders of both parties in both houses," Knowland said. "I think there will be reciprocity between the parties on this matter."

Knowland said he thinks the Senate's votes this past week rejecting proposed reductions in individual and business taxes reflect a general belief that it is too early to formulate any program now.

Knowland spoke out as 10 Republican senators prodded the Eisenhower administration to channel civilian and defense contracts into the areas of largest unemployment.

In letters to Secretary of Defense McElroy and General Servics Administrator F. G. Floete, the 10 suggested that the government slit its contracts and award half to the low bidder and half to firms in surplus labor areas.

"It seems to us," the Republicans said, "that a concentrated effort to help these distressed areas would be far more effective in meeting the recession than a general speedup in contracting for public works and military construction could accomplish by itself."

The 10 included GOP Sens. Aiken of Vermont, Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Cooper of Kentucky, Ives and Javits of New York, Kuchel of California, Payne and Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, Potter of Michigan and Purtell of Connecticut.

Their appeal came as Sen. Byrd (D-Va) announced the Senate Finance Committee will reopen its investigation of "the financial condition of the United States" April 1 with Bernard M. Baruch as a witness.

Woman Says Benefactor Was Husband

CLEBURNE, Tex. (UP) — An attractive Cleburne housewife declared Saturday that oil multimillionaire J. W. Sexton lured her into a common-law marriage in the early 1940s and that he was the father of her daughter, who is now a sophomore at Cleburne High School.

The woman is Mrs. R. C. Shipley, 32, a petite, attractive brunette. She said Sexton was the father of her 16-year-old daughter, Shirley.

Sexton, 74, who died March 1, cut off a sister and four nieces with $100 each and left nearly all of his fortune, estimated at $2 million to $40 million, to Mrs. Agnes Kirk, 46, a Cleburne rest home operator.

Charge Will Is Forged

Two attorneys for Mrs. Shipley—Robert L. Ivy and George Cochran of Fort Worth—branded the will leaving Mrs. Kirk his fortune "a forgery."

They charged that someone — they didn't say who—forged Sexton's name to the will by tracing the signature from another document.

Ivy and Cochran arrived in Cleburne Saturday to file a formal contest of the will. The sister and four nieces are also trying to get the will broken.

Ivy and Cochran said Mrs. Shipley's common- law marriage was never legally ended before Sexton's death. As a result, they said, Mrs. Shipley and her daughter — who goes under the name of Shirley Titus — are entitled to at least a share of his fortune and perhaps all of it under Texas law.

In contesting the will, the attorneys contended that it would not be legal, even if it had not been signed with a forged signature.

Give Reasons for Contest

They gave these reasons: 1. Mrs. Kirk exercised "undue" influence over Sexton; 2. Sexton's mind was not sound at the time the will was made, on March 23, 1954, leaving his fortune to Mrs. Kirk, who once accused him of attempted rape; and 3. The wording would not meet the technical requirements of a legal will.

Mrs. Shipley told of her life with Sexton Saturday as she sat in the living room of her modest four-room home. Her present husband, R. C. "Slim" Shipley— a railroad worker she married in 1950—sat beside her.

"Her attorneys said the marriage to Shipley was illegal when it took place because she was actually still Sexton's wife under the Texas law which recognizes common-law marriages as legal. But they said her marriage to Shipley became legal the moment of Sexton's death.

Met Him at 15

"I was about 15 years old when I first met Mr. Sexton," the housewife said. "I was living with my mother in Cleburne, my father was dead, and I was attending Cleburne High. My name was Winnell at the time.

"I first met Mr. Sexton outside a doctor's office where I was waiting for my mother. He didn't speak to me at that time. But later, while I was walking with some girls he called me over and asked me if I would like to go riding with him."

Mrs. Shipley said she declined the invitation. But she said the rancher and oilman, who was about 60 at the time, made other proposals that she date him and she began "going out" with him.

"He always treated me very nicely," Mrs. Shipley said. "He didn't dance but he would take me to dances while I danced with boys I knew. He told me he was in love with me and I came to the conclusion that I was in love with him."

Talked of Marriage

"He brought up the subject of common-law marriages one day. I didn't know anything about them but he told me they were legal and we would be married in the eyes of God."

Mrs. Shipley said she learned about a year after she entered into the marriage agreement that she was pregnant. When she told Sexton, she said, he seemed "really happy about it." Shirley was born March 13, 1942.

She said eight or 10 months following Shirley's birth, Sexton told her he was too old to raise a child and they should end their common-law marriage. She said he continued to give money for the girl until 1954 when relatives put him in an East Texas rest home where he died.

Earlier Saturday, lawyer Gean Turner retained Fred Erisman, a former district judge in Gregg county to help him defend Sexton's will.

$2,659,000 for aid to dependent children; $1,325,000 for aid to the blind; and $7,153,000 for aid to the permanently and totally disabled.

An additional $900,000 has been tentatively earmarked for Louisiana in three other aid programs — $332,706 for mentally retarded children; $328,440 for crippled children; and $241,173 for child welfare.

Under library services, another program administered by HEW, Louisiana tentatively is slated to receive $60,301 next year — a decrease of 41 per cent in funds allocated in 1958 which totaled $103,777. This decrease in federal money would result from a proposed reduction in appropriations for this service. Last year Congress appropriated $5 million for the library program as opposed to $3 million requested by the administration for fiscal 1959.

During 1958, Louisiana provided $59,164 in matching funds for the library program. The state's share under the proposed 1959 allotment would be reduced to $34,429.

Messages Pour In To Princess, Rainier, Baby

MONTE CARLO (AP) — Kings, queens, presidents, politicians, and plain people Saturday deluged Monaco with congratulations on the birth of a baby boy to Princess Grace.

The messages came from President Eisenhower, Queen Elizabeth II, Sir Winston Churchill, the mayor of New York, the Grand Duchess of Luxembourg, Queen Juliana and Prince Bernhard of The Netherlands, the personal secretary of Pope Pius XII, and from hundreds of other persons.

The palace was packed with flowers, from magnificient displays to simple potted plants sent by local citizens.

The princess was in fine health, it was announced, and even left her bed for five minutes Saturday morning to walk around her room.

Little Prince Albert is even healthier than his bouncing 1-year-old sister, Princess Caroline, his doctors said.

Dr. Clark To Be Honored By Touro Infirmary

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—The First Touro Infirmary Distinguished Interne-Resident Award for community service will be presented Sunday night to Dr. Cecil W. Clark, heroic physician of Cameron.

Dr. Clark, the only physician in Cameron at the time hurricane Audrey struck last summer, worked continuously for three days to treat the injured.

A graduate of Louisiana State University school of medicine, Dr. Clark received his internship training at Touro Infirmary in 1951-1952.

The presentation will follow ceremonies in which Touro will honor more than 80 staff physicians and surgeons who have served the hospital for 25 to 50 years.

The board of trustees asks that checks be made payable to Monroe Little League, and all mail donations should be sent to "Monroe Little League, P. O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

The fund has grown steadily since the first tabulation of contributions was published a week ago. But to build a durable memorial of beauty with all essentials, the fund still needs many more dollars to reach the goal.

Americans In Cuba Appear To Not Be Worried

HAVANA (AP)—The 12,000 Americans living in Cuba are keeping close watch on revolutionary developments but generally they are unworried.

The vast majority of Americans, who have nearly one billion dollars invested in this prosperous but strife-torn land, serenely go about their work, unruffled by rebel bombings, sabotage and other terroristic acts.

So far, the U.S. embassy has only suggested to Americans they calmly continue their normal pursuits but stay indoors and out of action areas if major trouble develops.

The embassy has not advised anyone to leave. The flow of tourists from the United States and other countries continues unabated.

'Stupendous' Mixed Drink Was Accident

LA CROSSE, Wis. (AP)—A stupendous mixed drink sloshed across the floor of Soell's drug store Saturday after a shelf containing 800 bottles of liquor pulled off the wall and crashed to the floor.

The concoction ran four inches deep across the floor before it leaked into the basement where part of it was soaked up by two gross of pillows. The broken bottles contained wines, cordials and whisky.

Damage was estimated at $5,000.

U.S. Drafts Plan To Halt Atomic Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower's disarmament advisors are drafting a proposal to suspend nuclear weapons testing under an international watch dog system for a three-year period.

It would be presented for negotiation with Russia. It represents part of a broad-scale review of U. S. policy which may lead to a historic revision of the policy.

The return Tuesday of Secretary of State Dulles from the Far East is expected to speed work on the problem.

President Eisenhower will decide finally whether policy is to be changed. A decision probably will be made in the next month or so. The basic question shaping up is whether to risk the danger of secret Soviet violations of a test ban and go ahead with negotiations on U.S. terms so drastically modified that they will make agreement likely.

The negotiations, according to present official thinking, would very likely come to a climax in an East-West summit conference.

Woman Says Benefactor Was Husband

CLEBURNE, Tex. (UP) — An attractive Cleburne housewife declared Saturday that oil multi-millionaire J. W. Sexton lured her into a common-law marriage in the early 1940s and that he was the father of her daughter, who is now a sophomore at Cleburne High School.

The woman is Mrs. R. C. Shipley, 32, a petite, attractive brunette. She said Sexton was the father of her 16-year-old daughter, Shirley.

Sexton, 74, who died March 1, cut off a sister and four nieces with $100 each and left nearly all of his fortune, estimated at $2 million to $60 million, to Mrs. Agnes Kirk, 40, a Cleburne rest home operator.

Charge Will is Forged

Two attorneys for Mrs. Shipley—Robert L. Ivy and George Cochran of Fort Worth—branded the will leaving Mrs. Kirk his fortune "a forgery."

They charged that someone — they didn't say who—forged Sexton's name to the will by tracing the signature from another document.

Ivy and Cochran arrived in Cleburne Saturday to file a formal contest of the will. The sister and four nieces are also trying to get the will broken.

Ivy and Cochran said Mrs. Shipley's common- law marriage was never legally ended before Sexton's death. As a result, they said, Mrs. Shipley and her daughter — who goes under the name of Shirley Titus — are entitled to at least a share of his fortune and perhaps all of it under Texas law.

In contesting the will, the attorneys contended that it would not be legal, even if it had not been signed with a forged signature.

Give Reasons for Contest

They gave these reasons: 1. Mrs. Kirk exercised "undue" influence over Sexton; 2. Sexton's mind was not sound at the time the will was made, on March 23, 1954, leaving his fortune to Mrs. Kirk, who once accused him of attempted rape; and 3. The wording would not meet the technical requirements of a legal will.

Mrs. Shipley told of her life with Sexton Saturday as she sat in the living room of her modest four-room home. Her present husband, R. C. (Slim) Shipley— a railroad worker she married in 1950—sat beside her.

"(Her attorneys said the marriage to Shipley was illegal when it took place because she was actually still Sexton's wife under the Texas law which recognizes common-law marriages as legal. But they said her marriage to Shipley became legal the moment of Sexton's death).

Met Him at 15

"I was about 15 years old when I first met Mr. Sexton," the housewife said. "I was living with my mother in Cleburne, my father was dead, and I was attending Cleburne High. My name was Winnell at the time.

"I first met Mr. Sexton outside a doctor's office where I was waiting for my mother. He didn't speak to me at that time. But later, while I was walking with some girls he called me over and asked me if I would like to go riding with him."

Mrs. Shipley said she declined the invitation. But she said the rancher and oilman, who was about 60 at the time, made other proposals that she date him and she began "going out" with him.

"He always treated me very nicely," Mrs. Shipley said. "He didn't dance but he would take me to dances while I danced with boys I knew. He told me he was in love with me and I came to the conclusion that I was in love with him."

Talked of Marriage

"He brought up the subject of common-law marriages one day. I didn't know anything about them but he told me they were legal and we would be married in the eyes of God."

Mrs. Shipley said she learned about a year after she entered into the marriage agreement that she was pregnant. When she told Sexton, she said, he seemed "really happy about it." Shirley was born March 13, 1942.

She said eight or 10 months following Shirley's birth, Sexton told her he was too old to raise a child and they should end their common-law marriage. She said he continued to give money for the girl until 1954 when relatives put him in an East Texas rest home where he died.

Earlier Saturday, lawyer Gean Turner retained Fred Erisman, a former district judge in Gregg county to help him defend Sexton's will.

DISCUSSION—Dr. Richard R. Adams, left, and Dr. John D. Husband, associate professors of English at Tulane University, will discuss Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises" at the 1958 Tulane-Monroe conference scheduled in the Virginia hotel this afternoon.

Mrs. W. D. H. Rodriquez, Ouachita Parish High School teacher will preside over a discussion of "The Sun Also Rises," an analysis of Hemingway's first great novel. Two Tulane English professors will speak.

A discussion of the theatre as a reflection of our society will be moderated by Ivan Uttal, director of the Monroe Little Theatre. Three Tulane faculty members will be panelists.

The fifth panel discussion, "Agriculture In The Deep South," will be presided over by Harry G. Frazer Sr., president of the Louisiana Association of Certified Public Accountants, and speakers will be two Tulane professors.

"Nutrition and Dieting" will be the topic of the last panel, and will have as its moderator Dr. Cyril T. Yancey Jr., past-president of the Ouachita Parish Medical Society. Two professors from the Tulane School of Medicine will be panelists.

A reception will be held on the hotel roof following the discussions. Officials of the event said the confab is open to the public, and is co-sponsored by the Tulane Alumni Club of Monroe and the Association of Tulane University.

Retired Teacher Arthur C. Neele Dies; Rites Set

JONESBORO (Special) —Arthur C. Neele, 78-year-old Quitman resident, died in a Jonesboro hospital yesterday after a lengthy illness. He was a retired schoolteacher.

Bard Students Are Expected To Hold Jobs

ANNANDALE - ON - HUDSON, N. Y. (AP) — Working their way through college is the rule rather than the exception for most students at Bard College — it's part of the curriculum.

Following Christmas holidays each year, Bard students scatter throughout the United States for an eight - week period to practice what has been preached in class. They hold jobs ranging from assistant in a mental hospital to hired hand on a farm, finding out — before graduation — what type of work they're fitted for.

About 70 per cent of Bard's 225 students get paying jobs for the field period during their first three years. As seniors they "retire" to spend the two months on their senior projects. Faculty advisers keep an eye on them and can assign extra studies to fulfill program requirements. As a double check, students and employers write reports of what was accomplished.

The Winter Field Period began at Bard in 1934 as an experiment. At first, all students returned home for special reading or research projects. Gradually the period evolved into the work-study program. The students get a regular vacation in the summer.

Each year, Bard students have been hired consistently by such organizations as Lederle Laboratories, Sloan - Kettering Institute, Reader's Digest, the Esso Company, and the Museum of Natural History. For many students, these temporary job experiences have led to good jobs after graduation.

Bard Students Are Expected To Hold Jobs

ANNANDALE - ON - HUDSON, N. Y. (AP) — Working their way through college is the rule rather than the exception for most students at Bard College — it's part of the curriculum.

Following Christmas holidays each year, Bard students scatter throughout the United States for an eight - week period to practice what has been preached in class. They hold jobs ranging from assistant in a mental hospital to hired hand on a farm, finding out — before graduation — what type of work they're fitted for.

About 70 per cent of Bard's 225 students get paying jobs for the field period during their first three years. As seniors they "retire" to spend the two months on their senior projects. Faculty advisers keep an eye on them and can assign extra studies to fulfill program requirements. As a double check, students and employers write reports of what was accomplished.

The Winter Field Period began at Bard in 1934 as an experiment. At first, all students returned home for special reading or research projects. Gradually the period evolved into the work-study program. The students get a regular vacation in the summer.

Each year, Bard students have been hired consistently by such organizations as Lederle Laboratories, Sloan - Kettering Institute, Reader's Digest, the Esso Company, and the Museum of Natural History. For many students, these temporary job experiences have led to good jobs after graduation.

Worst State Winter For Livestock

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Rain and cold and a resulting hay shortage produced one of the worst Louisiana livestock winters in years, county agents report.

Lack of pastures and heavy use of stored up hay caused trouble cattle standards.

Free range areas such as hurricane-ridden Cameron Parish suffered the most. The storm wiped out grazing grounds.

"Cameron has lost close to 2,000 head of cattle this winter," Agricultural Agent Sonny McCreary said.

But he has no figures on statewide loss.

Most farm and cattle deaths in Louisiana parishes were not in the mountain areas in the northern part of the state.

Cameron Parish suffered a wide series of farm losses in addition to livestock, it added.

One man lost better than 30 animals, county agent R. H. Richard said. Others had some losses, but many lost the entire herd.

C. E. Richard, Cameron Parish conservationist, said as for livestock, he could say we don't have any. Hay has been scarce in that area since the last freeze.

Dr. Benjamin Bain of the West Baton Rouge Parish Health Unit made a prediction on the loss of livestock.

Timber Harvest

JONESVILLE (Special) — More than four million board feet of sawtimber, 4,500 poles and pilings and 9,000 cords of pulpwood were harvested the past year from the tree farms owned and managed in Catahoula parish by the International Paper Co. These figures were announced by Joe Hodge, district supervisor for the company.

Hodge pointed out that much of the pulpwood harvested during the growth cycle of a forest comes from intermediate cuttings or thinnings, before the entire stand reaches maturity.

Talent Show

HARRISONBURG (Special) — A talent show will be held in the Harrisonburg High School auditorium on March 28 at 7:30 p. m. it was announced yesterday by Pat Gibson, chairman of the Catahoula parish Easter Seal fund drive. Proceeds from the show will go into the fund to aid crippled children.

The quota for Catahoula parish has been set at $1250. Last year a total of $350 was collected. Easter Seals are being mailed out this week Gibson stated.

To Be Ordained

"Cameron has lost close to 2,000 head of cattle this winter," Agriculture Commissioner Sidney McCrory said.

But he has no figures on statewide loss.

More than 500 cattle died in LaFourche Parish, especially in the marginal lands in the lower part of the parish.

Livingston Parish, with wide areas of open range, has an estimated loss of 350-400 cattle.

"One man lost better than 30 animals," said county agent R. H. D'Armond. "We've got some pitiful cattle down in in the lower part of the parish."

C. E. Bickham, Tangipahoa Parish associate agent, said as for pastures, "you might say we don't have any . . . Hay has been short in the parish since the last freeze.

Dairymen were hurt in West Baton Rouge Parish, with milk production reported off considerably.

FIRE ANT CONTROL—Spraying of a vast acreage of Ouachita Parish land in an attempt to control the fire ant problem is nearing completion. Here is the program in operation in Edgewater Gardens on Bon Aire Drive, with a duster plane piloted by A. D. Hanks spraying 10 per cent granular heptachlor. On the ground manning the marker balloon is Charles Truchell. The project is being conducted on a cooperative basis by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Louisiana State Department of Agriculture and property owners. One Vote Stymies Mississippi Solons

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The switch of a single vote last week very likely would have put the Mississippi Legislature in gear to finance the unprecedented teacher pay raises to which it is committed.

But that vote wasn't there—despite the personal intervention of Gov. J. P. Coleman and what looked like unusual co-operation between the governor and his "loyal opposition" to gain it.

When the 1958 session goes into its 11th week Monday, no doubt there'll be another try. The margin is so close anything can happen. Meanwhile, a bi-partisan effort is under way to cut back 1958-60 appropriations enough to provide five of the 20 million dollars needed for the teacher program.

The single-vote margin came when the House voted 75-51 Friday for a bill to erase various sales tax exemptions and raise more than four million dollars. Seventy-six votes would have put it over. Revenue bills require two-thirds.

Had the bill passed, there was a good chance the effort to win passage of a 7 per cent surtax would not have failed a few minutes later.

A "trade out"—an effort to swing votes for the exemption bill in exchange for passage of the surtax—just didn't work.

Coleman had stayed up until 1 a.m. phoning house members, and "worked" the House floor assiduously just before the vote, in efforts to win support for the compromise.

The House voted 115-11 on March 6 for an education program which would give Mississippi's teachers, now the nation's most poorly paid, raises up to $600.

Members who voted for the salary increases but voted Friday against the tax exemption bill, identified below, no doubt are getting "advice" this weekend from their colleagues.

There is no lack of tax proposals to finance the program. Rep. Woody Hewitt of Franklin County came up with the latest Friday, a bill to raise 20 million a biennium with taxes on oil royalty payments and mineral leases.

A Delta member has been holding for a week a bill to raise the state sales tax from 3 to 3½ per cent, which would net 15 million dollars a biennium.

Coleman has indicated he would veto such a bill unless—and the "unless" may become important in the desperate search for revenue—taxes on those "most able to pay" are levied first. That is one definition of the surtax.

The 7 per cent surtax which Rep. John Farese of Benton County offered unsuccessfully this week would raise $3,253,000 a biennium. A surtax is an additional levy added to a series of 10 taxes, ranging from income to oil severance.

Coleman, speaking to newsmen a few hours after his intervention Friday failed, said he would continue to do his best to get the teacher bill financed.

"It will take nothing short of a miracle if the school teachers, children and people of Mississippi are to get a school program out of the House," Coleman said.

Both houses passed resolutions asking the Budget Commission to recommend where cuts can be made in the 1958-60 appropriations. Sen. William Burgin of Columbus disclosed five House members and four senators would serve in an advisory capacity as the Budget Commission, headed by Coleman.

There are 39 members who voted for the teacher salary raises but voted against the bill to erase tax exemptions to help finance them. The 39, some of whom argued the tax bill was unfair to farmers and small-income groups, were:

Alexander of Hinds, Anderson of Copiah, Anderson of Madison, Anderson of Pontotoc, Bishop of Sunflower, Black of Carroll, Brasher of Calhoun, Brody of DeSoto, Butler of Webster, Carruth of Pike, Cooper of Monroe, Cox of Yazoo, Crabtree of Noxubee, Davis of Kemper, Duncan of Pontotoc, Eaton of Smith, Glass of Attala, Graham of Clarke, Hearn of Lawrence, Hetzler of Wilkinson, Hicks of Yazoo, Hooker of Holmes, Hughey of Amite, Kennedy of Calhoun, Lee of Alcorn, Livingston of Scott, Long of Lauderdale, McCarver of Itawamba, McKnight of Warren, Phillips of Noxubee, Polk of Jefferson Davis, Sartor of Clarke, Wall of Amite, Wallace of Copiah, Wilkins of Noxubee, Williams of Neshoba, Willis of Monroe, Young of Wayne and Brooks of Leake.

Two House members—Lumpkin of Lee and Stephens of Union—did the reverse. After voting against the teacher pay bill on grounds it was too ambitious, both argued this week that the House had a moral obligation to finance the program.

Rep. Hilton Waits of Washington County, Ways and Means chairman and one of the most powerful men in the House, voted against the teacher pay raise but abstained on the tax bill.

However, he urged some other legislators, among them Rep. Chalmers Alexander of Hinds, to vote against the tax bill.

Assault Charge Filed On Woman

LUCEDALE, Miss. (AP)—An assault with intent to murder charge against a George County woman in the shooting of her husband was dismissed Saturday by Justice of the Peace George Johnson.

Mrs. Billie Mae Riley, 31, of the Agricola community pleaded self defense and said her husband was mistreating her and their 10-month-old baby when the shooting occurred last Tuesday.

Robert Riley Jr., 28, was shot in the stomach and face with a .22 caliber rifle. Attaches at a Mobile, Ala., hospital said today his condition is fair.

Sheriff Charles Holland said the shooting occurred at the home of a neighbor after Mrs. Riley and the couple's four children had spent the night there.

The Riley's had been having domestic trouble, Holland said.

International Profits Decline

NEW YORK (Special) — International Paper Company and its subsidiaries earned a net profit of $78,387,891 during 1957, a decline of about 10 per cent in earnings of $86,628,013 during 1956.

This was reported today by John H. Hinman, chairman of the board, in the company's 60th annual report to shareholders.

Total sales were $940,427,571, down three (3) per cent from the record $969,613,433 of 1956. Total production of Paperboard, Paper and Market Pulp manufactured by The International Paper Companies was 4,558,055 tons, a four per cent drop from the record level of 4,744,496 tons achieved in 1956.

Regular quarterly dividends were paid on the $4 preferred stock during the year. Cash dividends amounting to $36,784,535 were paid on the common stock in quarterly payments of 75 cents a share and an additional three per cent stock dividend was paid December 30, 1957.

Church Leader Quits Position In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Wates resigned Friday as president of the United Church Women of Mississippi after charging the group put too much emphasis on integration.

She said her position as director of the pro-segregation Citizens Council has "nothing to do with my resignation from the church group."

Her resignation during the group's 10th annual convention cut her two-year term in half.

Mrs. Wates emphasized she resigned not because of integration but because of the group's emphasis on the issue.

She told the group:

"You have let integration become the one absorbing interest of this organization. Unless this organization soft pedals the integration talk, it will destroy itself.

"We have no right to impose our personal views about segregation and integration on anyone. If we promote our own views on the race matter, we will destroy this organization."

She said the church group has "a much larger purpose than to engage in controversy over segregation and integration. Its purpose is to work through its Christian women in a calm and devoted manner to improve community life."

The incoming first vice president, Mrs. Stanley Wilson of Meridian, was unavailable for comment on whether she would assume the presidency.

Tulane Library Director Raps Book Censoring

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Dr. Garland Taylor, director of libraries at Tulane University, said Saturday that society should resist the temptation to suppress books merely because they are unconventional or unorthodox.

"Instead of censoring them, we might well take a more positive approach and attempt to cultivate the better literature—lead people to read profitable and worthwhile books of which there are ample supplies."

Dr. Taylor spoke at a Tulane-Jackson conference, one of several such discussion groups sponsored each spring in Louisiana and Mississippi by the Tulane Alumni Assn.

He told the conference to remember "that by taking an individual's right to say his piece we are really reducing our own freedom.

Dr. Taylor said it has never been proven that pictures, whether paintings or television images, can reach the aesthetic heights possible through books.

He said an effort to replace books with transmitted images would put civilization back to the cave man age of pictures on the wall.

Delhi Air Station Construction Bids Opening Postponed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., (Special) —The Army Engineers here have indefinitely postponed the date for opening bids for new construction work at Delhi Air Force Station, about 10 miles south of Delhi, La. Bids were to have been received March 19 for a small building and appurtanant work there.

The delay in the opening date for bids was caused when it became necessary to relocate the access road into the area. Preparation of new plans and specifications to take care of the access road in its new location will require about a month. When the new design is completed, another date will be set to receive bids, it was said.

Tulane Library Director Raps Book Censoring

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—Dr. Garland Taylor, director of libraries at Tulane University, said Saturday that society should resist the temptation to suppress books merely because they are unconventional or unorthodox.

"Instead of censoring them, we might well take a more positive approach and attempt to cultivate the better literature—lead people to read profitable and worthwhile books of which there are ample supplies."

Dr. Taylor spoke at a Tulane-Jackson conference, one of several such discussion groups sponsored each spring in Louisiana and Mississippi by the Tulane Alumni Assn.

He told the conference to remember "that by taking an individual's right to say his piece we are really reducing our own freedom.

Dr. Taylor said it has never been proven that pictures, whether paintings or television images, can reach the aesthetic heights possible through books.

He said an effort to replace books with transmitted images would put civilization back to the cave man age of pictures on the wall.

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. — (UP) — Fred Lampley summoned firemen when he smelled wood burning at his home. Firemen discovered it was the handle of a pot which had been over the pilot light on a kitchen stove.

Delhi Air Station Construction Bids Opening Postponed

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., (Special) —The Army Engineers here have indefinitely postponed the date for opening bids for new construction work at Delhi Air Force Station, about 10 miles south of Delhi, La. Bids were to have been received March 19 for a small building and appurtanant work there.

The delay in the opening date for bids was caused when it became necessary to relocate the access road into the area. Preparation of new plans and specifications to take care of the access road in its new location will require about a month. When the new design is completed, another date will be set to receive bids, it was said.

MUSIC GROUPS

Local Clubs Host State Delegates

Local affiliates of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs were hosts Thursday, Friday and Saturday to delegates and club members convening here from throughout the state.

Mrs. B. A. Trousdale Jr. of Monroe served as general chairman of the convention.

Following registration Thursday the Monroe Music Guild was host club for the luncheon in honor of the state president, Mrs. Leslie D. Fain of Alexandria, who was guest speaker for the occasion. The Music Guild chorus under the direction of Mrs. Wayne Medley gave the program.

Mrs. Estelle Sanders of Monroe led the group in the singing of the Federation Hymn, and Mayor W. L. "Jack" Howard extended the official welcome.

Delegates were guests Thursday night at the concert and reception of the Twin City Symphony orchestra.

After the business sessions early Friday, the Fine Arts Club of Monroe and West Monroe were hosts for the luncheon in honor of past federation presidents. Musical program was furnished by the Haynesville Music Club chorus.

A musical interlude during the business meetings Friday was supplied by the Northeast Singers, a mixed chorus of students under the direction of Lee Fiser.

A panel discussion with Mrs. Luther A. Beene of Shreveport acting as moderator, brought out means through which the clubs could best extend their influence.

Election

Election of officers Friday included the re-election of Mrs. Leslie D. Fain, president; Mrs. Malcolm Dougherty, parliamentarian, and Mrs. James Butler, historian. Following the elections, the officers were installed in a ceremony conducted by Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn.

Other state officers include Mrs. Sidney V. Vega, vice president; Mrs. H. G. McDonald, recording secretary, and Mrs. W. H. Miller, treasurer.

An invitation was extended and accepted that the 1959 convention be held in Baton Rouge.

The Musical Coterie served as host for the dinner honoring the national president, Mrs. Ronald A. Dougan, at Bayou DeSiard Country Club Friday evening.

Soloist

A program of music by Katherine Landry Hansen, soprano and runner-up in a former national audition, followed the address of the guest of honor. Mrs. Hansen was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Carruth Jones, also of Baton Rouge, who is the founder of the Louisiana Federation of Music Clubs.

The convention of junior clubs was held yesterday, under the over-all direction of Mrs. Frank A. Vought, state junior counselor and president of the Dixie district of the national federation.

State Junior President Coralie Heard White presided over the day's activities and the Ouachita Parish High School Boys' Ensemble under the direction of Miss Ramona Cormier supplied an interlude of music during the morning.

Junior officers elected for 1959 included Ginger Donald, president; Gwin Sorrells, vice president, and Michele Moore, secretary.

Three state winners performed at the luncheon at noon yesterday in the ballroom of the Virginia Hotel — Lynda Lee Kirkpatrick, Lafayette, who rated superior in state competition; Patty Bruening winner of the Transylvania Scholarship award, and Sylvia Chambless, winner of state award and eligible to compete in national auditions.

Hostess clubs to junior delegates were LaPetite Musicale, the A-Sharp Coterie, the Chansonettes and the Moment Musicale Coterie.

U.S. Rejects Red Space Proposals

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union proposed today that a summit conference consider creation of a U. N. body to police and control outer space.

A Kremlin statement linked the proposal with a ban on Intercontinental Ballistic Missiles and the liquidation of U. S. foreign bases around Russia. President Eisenhower was the first to propose limiting outer space to peaceful uses.

In Washington, U. S. officials rejected the Soviet offer as "wholly unacceptable." The State Department said the Soviet statement "will require and will receive the most careful study.")

The statement, issued at a Foreign Ministry news conference, said the U. N. body would do these things:

1. Work out an international program for the launching of intercontinental and outer space rockets, to study outer space, and control the program.

2. Continue on a permanent basis the research of outer space being carried out now in the International Geophysical Year program.

3. Serve as a world center for the collection, mutual exchange and dissemination of information on outer space.

4. Coordinate national scientific research plans on the study of outer space and cooperate in carrying them out.

At the United Nations in New York, U. S. disarmament negotiator James J. Wadsworth termed the soviet proposals interesting. He told a reporter they seemed similar to U. S. ideas on international space control.

"The United States first proposed to the U. N. General Assembly in January of 1957 that an international study be made on ways to insure that outser space was used only for peaceful purposes. The U. S. plan was to have the study made by the U. N. Disarmament subcommittee. A Soviet boycott killed the subcommittee.

In a letter Jan. 12 to Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin, President Eisenhower made a personal plea "that we agree that outer space be used only for peaceful purposes." Bulganin's reply ignored this.

The other points in the Kremlin statement called for the establishment of some form of U. N. supervision to see that outer space is not used for military purposes and that all foreign military bases are liquidated.

The Soviet ICBM, the statement said threatens the United States, and U. S. nuclear bases on foreign soil threaten the Soviet Union. The best solution is to abolish both of them, it added.

The statement charged that the United States proposed to ban the ICBM while it pushes the production of nuclear weapons and short-range intermediate-range rockets.

The statement said the Americans have made no secret of the fact that U. S. bases abroad "are intended for the delivery of blows at the most important centers of the Soviet Union."

These plans "constitute a serious threat to the Soviet Union and its friendly, peace-loving allies," the statement said.

"The grave danger to humanity lies not in ICBMs as such but in the atomic and hydrogen bombs with which they can be equipped," it added.

The Kremlin said it was proposing that a summit conference consider its four-point program in the hope "of achieving agreement at least in principle." Such ar agreement, it declared, would break the present disarmament deadlock.

Snowstorm Puts 2 Feet In Northeast

By UNITED PRESS

Winter slammed a parting punch at the Northeast Saturday with a crippling snowstorm that stalled trains, snarled traffic, snapped power lines and left up to two feet of snow.

Heavy snow bulletins were posted for Maine and northeastern New York by the U.S. Weather Bureau, while additional light snow was on tap for the remainder of New England.

At least 22 deaths were attributed to the storm during its sweep across the country from the Southwest. At least seven of the deaths were reported in New England, the hardest-hit storm area.

Indiana reported eight deaths—four in a car-track wreck and four in a plane crash during a light snow. A plane crash also killed three persons in Utah, and single weather-connected deaths were reported in Illinois, Oklahoma, Texas and Arkansas.

Northeast Traffic Snarl

In the West near Klamath Falls, Ore., the Southern Pacific railroad's 13-car streamliner Cascade was derailed in two feet of snow at Kotan Siding, an almost inaccessible area in the southern Oregon Cascade Mountains. Sixteen passengers aboard the train were seriously injured and rushed to nearby hospitals by relief trains. Twenty other passengers were treated at the scene for minor injuries.

The storm swept into the Northeast unexpectedly Friday, creating a massive rail and highway tieup. Winds up to 70 miles per hour whistled across New England. Gale force winds raked the Northeast coast, and tides hit the Maine and New England coasts two to three feet above normal.

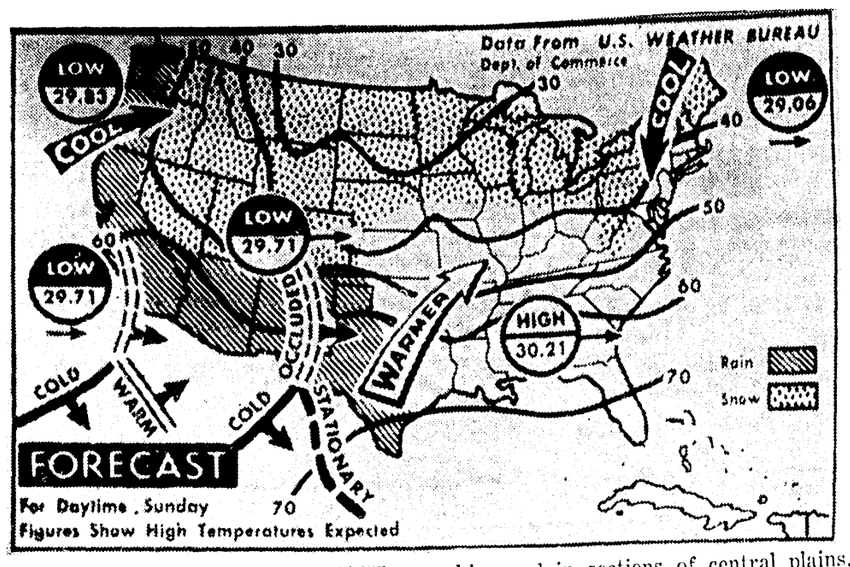
Meanwhile, at sea nearly 300 miles from Boston, a Coast Guard cutter and a crippled fishing craft rode out the storm.

Five Boston and Maine Railroad trains—four of them passenger trains with hundreds aboard, were stalled at Tyngsboro, Mass., when a pole fell across the tracks.

About 400 school children were marooned at Leicester, Mass., by the storm which caused power failures in many communities. Manchester, N.H., a city of 82,000 residents, was without power for hours.

Cold Sweeps Plains

At Lincoln Downs race track in Lincoln, R.I., the race program was cancelled Saturday for the second straight day because the track was buried under five to eight inches of snow.



WEATHER BUREAU FORECAST — Snow flurries are forecast for northern New England, north and central Appalachians and Lakes area. Light snow is expected in northern states from upper Mississippi valley to the northern Rockies and in sections of central plains. Showers are due in western areas of north Pacific states and the southwest desert region. Rain is expected in California and western Texas. (AP Wirephoto Map)

VIEW NEW LIBRARY BUILDING -- W. Gibert Faulk, chairman of Library Week and one of the leaders in the local movement to improve library facilities, points out to Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, several features of the new West Monroe Library building. Under construction at the present time, the building is expected to be ready for occupancy on or about the first of May. New facilities are also being constructed or planned for other areas of the parish. (Staff photo)

IN TWIN CITIES

'Library Week' Observance Set

The mayors of Monroe and West Monroe have officially declared this week "Library Week" in cooperation with similar moves throughout the country. The special week has been set aside in an effort to interest more people, especially adults, in the advantages of reading.

The theme for the week, W. Gilbert Faulk, Library Week chairman for Ouachita parish, says is "a better-informed public is a better - read public."

Cooperating with the Ouachita Parish Library and reading clubs throughout the parish, are a number of civic organizations, including the Monroe Chamber of Commerce education committee, Monroe and West Monroe Junior Chambers of Commerce and numerous others. The educational committee of the Monroe chamber, through its chairman W. E. Whetstone, endorsed the "Library Week" and urged all members to further the goals of the special period. Both of the Junior Chambers of Commerce have been working closely with the committee for this week, under the chairmanship of Faulk, in bringing to the public the importance of reading better books. Members of the Jaycee organizations have booths in downtown areas to register more people to use the public library.

Guest Speakers

Various members of the committees, especially Faulk, Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Public Library board of trustees, and Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, will appear as guest speakers before numerous clubs in the Twin Cities.

Faulk and Miss Flanders are slated to appear on a special television program tomorrow afternoon.

Library Week is being observed throughout the nation, but special emphasis is being placed on it in Louisiana, since the annual conference of the Louisiana Library Association opens in Shreveport Thursday.

As pointed out in the proclamations signed by Mayor W. L. Howard of Monroe and Mayor J. Allan Norris of West Monroe, this year's project is the first major united effort to "dramatize the role of libraries as an important resource of education. The use of books, normally through public and private libraries, brings to all persons pleasures and rewards otherwise not available.

Lamkin's Play Being Produced In New York

"Comes A Day," a play by a former Monroe resident, Speed Lamkin, will be produced in New York this year and will run in four major northeastern cities.

Judith Anderson, Cheryl Crawford and Alan Pakula have signed contracts to star in the production.

The play is a dramatization of Lamkin's short story by the same name. It won an O. Henry prize in 1950 and was included in the volume "Best Short Stories of 1950." The plot concerns a Southern woman's fight to realize her dreams for her family.

Robert Mulligan will stage the attraction. Rehearsals are scheduled to begin Sept. 8.

Engagements are scheduled in Princeton, N. J., Philadelphia, Pa., Boston, Mass., and New York City.

The former Monroyan has written for the movies and television. He is the author of two books, "The Easter Egg Hunt," and "Tiger in the Garden."

Calhoun School Roundup Arranged

CALHOUN, (Special) —The first grade summer round-up for next fall's first grade students will be held at the Calhoun High School Tuesday.

Officials ask that the children and their parents be at the school at 12 noon. A birth certificate must be presented before the child can register.

U. S. Ambassador Amory Houghton to France was formerly chairman of the board of the Corning (N. Y.) Glass Works.

State College Writers' Meet Is Announced

RUSTON (Special) — Louisiana Tech's chapter of Sigma Tau Delta, honorary English fraternity, wil be host to the fifth annual Louisiana College Writers' conference on Saturday, March 22.

Guest speaker will be John Mason Brown, lecturer and critic, who was schedulde by the program's committee of the college. Brown is the author of 17 books in a wide range of fields.

He is an honor graduate of Harvard. As a part of the convention here, Brown will be initiated into Sigma Tau Delta.

At the conference, a $100 United States savings bond will be given by the Shreveport Times to the writer of the outstanding contribution. A sweepstakes cup will be awarded to the school taking the most awards.

Announcement will be made at the meeting of winners of first, second and third places in poetry, one-act play, short story and feature article. Donors of prizes in each of the four classifications are as follows:

Sigma Tau Delta, short story; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Faulk, Jr., feature story; Mrs. Elise Alleman Hughey and the Ruston Writers' Club, in memory of Sam A. Alleman, drama; and the Fletcher family, in memory of Joel L. Fletcher, Sr., poetry.

In connection with the conference, the Tech Theater Players will present a play, "The Mountain Laurel" written by James D. Lyon, special student at Tech.

Proposed Bill To Correct A 'Misnomer'

BATON ROUGE — UP — Sen. J. D. DeBlieux announced he intends to introduce a bill into the Legislature this session which will correct a "misnomer" in state government.

The Baton Rouge senator said his bill would correct what he believes to be a misnomer in describing the work of the auditor's office. He said it should be listed as that of state comptroller.

State auditor William J. Dodd thinks it's a good idea.

DeBlieux said the supervisor of public funds audits state accounts and the auditor's office is set up to process warrants drawn on the state treasury by various state agencies.

Librarians Set For Spring Meet

The spring meeting of the Louisiana Association of School Librarians will be held in conjunction with the annual statewide convention of the Louisiana Library Association, slated for Thursday through Saturday at Shreveport.

Mrs. W. W. Ward, librarian of the Ouachita Parish High School and area chairman of publicity, has announced that the school librarians' sectional meeting will be held Friday at 9 a.m. at the Captain Shreve Hotel.

Miss Caroline Dormon, well-known author and authority on southern plant life, will be the featured speaker.

The awards luncheon is scheduled for Friday, with the "Book Dinner" planned for Friday night at 7:30. Speaker for the dinner will be Emily Kimbrough, author of many books including "So Near and Yet So Far."

Coast Guardsman Held For Robbery

ONEIDA, Tenn. (AP) — A lanky Coast Guardsman, who said he needed money to get married Saturday, held up the First National Bank at noon Friday while town police officers were away.

He fled into neighboring Kentucky with more than $6,000 in cash, including two deposits made while he was in the bank, only to be captured three hours later at London, Ky.

The Kentucky state police at London — 50 air miles north of here—stopped the bandit, identified as Virgil James Russell, 28, of Caryville, Tenn., at a roadblock south of town.

EMERGENCY

Ike Asks Hike In Rivers Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower asked Congress Friday for an emergency appropriation of 125¼ million dollars to speed up river and harbor programs and $46,200,000 for hospital construction.

His request was made in a letter to the House Appropriations Committee. The committee chairman, Rep. Cannon (D-Mo), is one of the Democrats who have been prodding the administration to speed up its public works programs.

The President's request seeks additional funds for Army engineers' river and harbor and flood control projects.

The revised recommendations for water projects (in a few cases, the revised figures represent decreases from the President's original budget recommendations, presumably because the projects involved cannot use the larger amounts in the year covered):

The revised estimate (in thousands) and the increase or decrease (in thousands) respectively, included:

Woman Shot To Death By Hidden Killer

SAN ANTONIO (UP) —A 50-year-old farm woman stepped outside her house to see why her watchdog was barking Friday, and was shot dead by a sniper wielding a high-powered rifle.

The victim, Mrs. Louise Steubing, was shot through the body. The bullet entered her breast and came out her back. She died in the arms of her husband, Sylvester A. Steubing.

More than 15 Bexar county sheriff's deputies — some of them armed with high — powered rifles —started combing the flat mesquite-dotted countryside 25 miles west of San Antonio for the woman's killer.

A relative of the woman, with whom she has had trouble, had been missing from his farm home near the Steubing's turkey farm since 10 a.m. Friday, his wife said. He was the main object of the search by Sheriff Owen Kilday's officers.

Road blocks were set up on all roads around the farm.

Coroner Dr. Robert Hausman said the single slug that felled Mrs. Steubing was "larger than a .22."

Steubing told officers he and his wife were inside the house when they heard the watchdog start barking. Mrs. Steubing stepped outside to investigate, the husband said.

He said he heard a shot, rushed outside and found his wife lying in the yard. She died in his arms, he said.

Steubing was given a lie-detector test by San Antonio city police. He was later released to county officers, who had not disclosed the results of the test.

Colder, Wetter Weather Than Normal Seen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Weather Bureau Friday predicted more precipitation than usual for most of the country in the next 30 days.

The bureau's outlook for mid-March to mid-April:

Temperatures to average below normal over the western half of the nation, with greatest departures in the southwest quadrant.

In the eastern half of the country temperatures are expected to undergo large week to week fluctuations. They will average slightly above normal in New England, the upper great lakes region and the extreme southeast but slightly below normal in the remaining area.

Precipitation is expected to exceed normal over most of the nation, except for near or slightly below normal amounts from the Appalachians eastward in states bordering the great lakes and over the Pacific northwest.

Little Rock Man Council Speaker

OAK GROVE (Special) —Nearly a thousand West Carroll residents jammed the Oak Grove High School auditorium Friday night in parish-wide citizen's council meeting.

Little Rock attorney Amis Guthridge told the group "citizens councils are the only thing" people can turn to when trouble arises over school segregation.

Gutheridge figured in the legal battle at Little Rock over the government's use of federal troops to enforce integration. He also served on Arkansas Governer Orval Faubus' legal advisory committee.

The Oak Grove group chose West Carroll parish school superintendent C. W. Gilmore as ward three director, Lonnie Richmond director for ward three, and Tony James ward five director.

M'Donnell Named U.S. Chamber Head

WASHINGTON (AP)—William A. McDonnell, chairman of the board of the First National Bank in St. Louis, Friday was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, effective April 29.

McDonnell, a 63-year-old native of Altheimer, Ark., succeeds Philip M. Talbott, Washington, D. C., department store executive, who becomes board chairman of the chamber.

'Library Week' Observance Set

The mayors of Monroe and West Monroe have officially declared this week "Library Week" in cooperation with similar moves throughout the country. The special week has been set aside in an effort to interest more people, especially adults, in the advantages of reading.

The theme for the week, W. Gilbert Faulk, Library Week chairman for Ouachita parish, says is "a better-informed public is a better - read public."

Cooperating with the Ouachita Parish Library and reading clubs throughout the parish, are a number of civic organizations, including the Monroe Chamber of Commerce education committee, Monroe and West Monroe Junior Chambers of Commerce and numerous others. The educational committee of the Monroe chamber, through its chairman W. E. Whetstone, endorsed the "Library Week" and urged all members to further the goals of the special period. Both of the Junior Chambers of Commerce have been working closely with the committee for this week, under the chairmanship of Faulk, in bringing to the public the importance of reading better books. Members of the Jaycee organizations have booths in downtown areas to register more people to use the public library.

Various members of the committees, especially Faulk, Mrs. Bernard Biedenharn, chairman of the Ouachita Parish Public Library board of trustees, and Miss Frances Flanders, parish librarian, will appear as guest speakers before numerous clubs in the Twin Cities.

SELF - RELIANT FOLKS IN COLUMBUS, Ind., passed the hat to build this $600,000 school rather than raise taxes or ask for outside help.

Reliant Hoosiers Pass Hat To Build Schools

By DON REEDER

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — Those self-reliant folks here in Bartholomew County have dug down in their jeans again and built themselves another school.

They didn't resort to anything as common as raising taxes or floating bond issues.

Everybody just reached in their pockets — and kept reaching until they came up with enough money to erect the 12-room elementary school their kids needed. Built at a cost of about $600,000, the building is being used for the first time this term.

It took just two matter-of-fact meetings with school officials before nine local industrial leaders handed over $364,500 to help out. The rest of the money was borrowed — reluctantly — from the state's veterans' bonus surplus fund at 1 per cent interest.

Passing the hat to meet community needs is nothing new for Columbus, a south-central Indiana factory town of 23,000. In fact local citizens have earned a nationwide reputation for being—as the saying goes around here—"as independent as a hog on ice."

"Guess nobody really knows why we insist on doing everything ourselves," said Stephen M. Baker, executive vice president of the local Chamber of Commerce. "Even in the depression, folks around here didn't take too kindly to the WPA. They'd rather work things out without outside help."

Columbus first tried do-it-yourself school building methods in 1951. They hadn't constructed a new school since 1924, and a rapid population growth since World War II had left teachers submerged in an ever-increasing flood of pupils.

In two weeks, contributions amounted to $375,000 — largely from business and industry — and the new grade school was built.

But that drive was like a sneeze in a tornado compared to the one that resulted in the new gymnasium in 1952.

Everybody knows a Hoosier would rather play or watch basketball than be turned loose in Ft. Knox with a wheelbarrow.

The old gym was a sorry and shaky sight, sort of a crumbling insult to the state game. So Columbus made up its civic mind to build a new gymnasium — not just an ordinary one but a first class fieldhouse fit for a large university.

Campaigning to raise $750,000 began on Dec. 10, 1952. Everybody worked at it. Rural residents joined right in with city dwellers.

Two weeks after the campaign started, on Christmas Eve, the citizens of Bartholomew County found themselves with quite a Yuletide present — more than one million dollars.

The gym, an impressive edifice of stone, brick and glass, has been in use four seasons now. With 7,300 seats, it's the fourth largest in Indiana.

"We don't plan to have a gift drive every time we need a new building," explained Luther A. Lockwood, Columbus school superintendent.

"This has been an emergency stage, and from now on we hope that regular taxes will do the job. But it sure is nice to know people can be counted on if anything does go wrong with ordinary methods."

This year a shiny plaque was erected in the lobby of Memorial Gymnasium. It read:

"This building was conceived and contributed by the citizens of the Columbus community and is dedicated as a memorial to the spirit of those people who made it possible — a spirit rich in sacrifice, untiring in effort and unselfish in devotion."

Fine words, and all true. But a more natural explanation is probably something like the one voiced by a local storekeeper when he was asked the reason behind the community's unique efforts.

"We're just a bunch of hillbillys," he said. "But we take care of our own."

N. O. Man Hurt In Arkansas Traffic Wreck

JONESBORO, Ark. UP — Ralph Hugh Franks of New Orleans was injured early today when his car crashed into the rear of a lumber truck on Highway 39, five miles south of Jonesboro.

Franks was in critical condition in a Jonesboro hospital.

Driver of the truck was identified as Leonard Gramlin of Brookland.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight.

Refrigerator cooky dough can be kept on hand for a week or more and baked as needed.

POTENTIAL GREAT

Hoover Says Communist Party Still Is Vast

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

NEW YORK, (AP) — FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party still is a vast reservoir of potential spies, a "tremendous and present danger" to U.S. security.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation issues his warning — and an appeal to Americans for alertness to the danger — in a new book "Masters of Deceit" to be published tomorrow by Henry Holt & Co.

Subtitled "The Story of Communism in American and How to Fight IT," Hoover's book is a calm, reasoned and abundantly documented study of the Communist movement. Its message can be applied to any non-Communist country. It is a searing indictment of the traitors who lead the movement.

Communism is having much trouble now, dating from boss Nikita Khrushchev's 1956 denunciation of Stalin and its sequel, the Hungarian revolution.

"No event in party life has been so conducive to raising doubts among members as the Khrushchev report and its sequel," Hoover writes.

These events stirred a slow and painful awakening among many party members, widening fissures of doubt, raising resentment against the party's intellectual tyranny and its claim on the individual's whole existence. But, warns Hoover, the present danger remains acute. The party still is the major menace of our time because it is ruled by a "dedicated conspiratorial group" with no real goal except dreams of personal power through a worldwide triumph of Sovietism.

"Today the party, with its thousands of members, represents a vast reservoir of potential espionage agents," Hoover says. "Moreover, its vast propaganda and ideological program is daily saturating their hearts, minds and souls with sympathetic acceptance of communism."

This, he cautions, does not mean being a party member automatically means being a spy. But he adds that each member is potential spy material, and therein lies the danger.

"The United States is strategic spy target number one for the Soviets," Hoover says. "Every effort is being made to penetrate our defenses. The Soviets are interested in literally everything."

Primarily, the Russians seek information on American scientific research, military matters, intelligence operations, international relations and internal weaknesses, but they collect masses of data on all sorts of subjects, both openly through use of published materials, and illegally, through employment of spies.

The twin of espionage, sabotage, also will become a real danger should Moscow give the signal to the Communist party, says Hoover adding that apparently Moscow is not ready for that yet, and still attempts to separate spy activities from those of the party.

"This does not mean, however, that the party is not playing an important role in Soviet espionage," he said. ". . . The party is doing much to prepare the way for Soviet espionage, and, when the need arises, will unhesitatingly supply vital assistance."

Hoover's book dissects the party apparatus and its history from its beginning in 1919, when it was formed by a grotesque group of revolutionaries, many unable to pronounce the English language, all inspired by the Bolshevist coup in Russia. It explains party organization, a copy of the Soviet pattern from top to bottom.

The book is a simple explanation of how the party works, what it means by its mystical cliches and the chicanery behind its "Aesopian language," which says one thing and means another. It traces the history of the degrading Communist flipflops in party line, all to serve the aims of Soviet policy.

The book has many warnings for Americans. It cautions against being duped by "front" groups which do the Communists' work for them, innocently or otherwise. It outlines how the Communists seize noble-sounding causes and distort them, how they make a mockery of American liberalism.

SELF - RELIANT FOLKS IN COLUMBUS, Ind., passed the hat to build this $600,000 school rather than raise taxes or ask for outside help.

Reliant Hoosiers Pass Hat To Build Schools

By DON REEDER

COLUMBUS, Ind. (AP) — Those self-reliant folks here in Bartholomew County have dug down in their jeans again and built themselves another school.

They didn't resort to anything as common as raising taxes or floating bond issues.

Everybody just reached in their pockets — and kept reaching until they came up with enough money to erect the 12-room elementary school their kids needed. Built at a cost of about $600,000, the building is being used for the first time this term.

It took just two matter-of-fact meetings with school officials before nine local industrial leaders handed over $364,500 to help out. The rest of the money was borrowed -- reluctantly — from the state's veterans' bonus surplus fund at 1 per cent interest.

Passing the hat to meet community needs is nothing new for Columbus, a south-central Indiana factory town of 23,000. In fact local citizens have earned a nationwide reputation for being—as the saying goes around here—"as independent as a hog on ice."

"Guess nobody really knows why we insist on doing everything ourselves," said Stephen M. Baker, executive vice president of the local Chamber of Commerce. "Even in the depression, folks around here didn't take too kindly to the WPA. They'd rather work things out without outside help."

Columbus first tried do-it-yourself school building methods in 1951. They hadn't constructed a new school since 1924, and a rapid population growth since World War II had left teachers submerged in an ever-increasing flood of pupils.

In two weeks, contributions amounted to $375,000 — largely from business and industry — and the new grade school was built.

But that drive was like a sneeze in a tornado compared to the one that resulted in the new gymnasium in 1952.

Everybody knows a Hoosier would rather play or watch basketball than be turned loose in Ft. Knox with a wheelbarrow.

The old gym was a sorry and shaky sight, sort of a crumbling insult to the state game. So Columbus made up its civic mind to build a new gymnasium — not just an ordinary one but a first class fieldhouse fit for a large university.

Campaigning to raise $750,000 began on Dec. 10, 1952. Everybody worked at it. Rural residents joined right in with city dwellers.

Two weeks after the campaign started, on Christmas Eve, the citizens of Bartholomew County found themselves with quite a Yuletide present — more than one million dollars.

The gym, an impressive edifice of stone, brick and glass, has been in use four seasons now. With 7,300 seats, it's the fourth largest in Indiana.

"We don't plan to have a gift drive every time we need a new building," explained Luther A. Lockwood, Columbus school superintendent.

"This has been an emergency stage, and from now on we hope that regular taxes will do the job. But it sure is nice to know people can be counted on if anything does go wrong with ordinary methods."

This year a shiny plaque was erected in the lobby of Memorial Gymnasium. It read:

"This building was conceived and contributed by the citizens of the Columbus community and is dedicated as a memorial to the spirit of those people who made it possible — a spirit rich in sacrifice, untiring in effort and unselfish in devotion."

Fine words, and all true. But a more natural explanation is probably something like the one voiced by a local storekeeper when he was asked the reason behind the community's unique efforts.

"We're just a bunch of hillbillys," he said. "But we take care of our own."

N. O. Man Hurt In Arkansas Traffic Wreck

JONESBORO, Ark. UP — Ralph Hugh Franks of New Orleans was injured early today when his car crashed into the rear of a lumber truck on Highway 39, five miles south of Jonesboro.

Franks was in critical condition in a Jonesboro hospital.

Driver of the truck was identified as Leonard Gramlin of Brookland.

The accident occurred shortly after midnight.

Hoover Says Communist Party Still Is Vast

NEW YORK, (AP) — FBI chief J. Edgar Hoover says the Communist party still is a vast reservoir of potential spies, a "tremendous and present danger" to U.S. security.

The director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation issues his warning — and an appeal to Americans for alertness to the danger — in a new book "Masters of Deceit" to be published tomorrow by Henry Holt & Co.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Northeast State is taking bolder steps in the athletic field with trackmen getting more attention, golf returning to favor in the Tribal wigwam, and Coach George Luffey ready to launch his Indian baseball team on another season tomorrow.

Coach Lou Hartzog had his track and field team in Fort Worth yesterday for the Southwest Recreation meet, the first time Redskin cindermen have ever traveled in such fast company. The same Tribe, which has had only token representation on tracks in recent years, looked impressive in dropping a dual meet to McNeese State a week ago, 77-62, in a meet in which failure in the relays cost the Indians a victory.

The cindermen aren't claiming world beaters, but Coach Hartzog is doing a fine job in a sport that has never before attracted the school support it is now getting.

Meanwhile, Bob DeMoss, assistant football coach, has taken over the chore of steering Northeast's golf team which is due to open against McNeese here Monday week. Dated are Centenary, Tulane, Louisiana Tech, S.L.I., and Stephen F. Austin in addition to McNeese, plus the Gulf States Conference Tournament at Lafayette May 15-16.

The Northeast baseball team opens its season tomorrow at Mississippi College as Coach Luffey starts the most ambitious schedule ever put before the Tribe. There's a regular 24-game schedule that includes four double headers and the Southeastern Louisiana Tournament at Ponchatoula which will include such teams as Northern Illinois, Southwestern of Memphis, and Mississippi State.

Northeast ended its football spring training Monday night with the annual intra-squad game. The next night head coach Devone Payne entered Wright-Bendel Clinic where he underwent an operation yesterday.

R. J. Cambre, president of the Gulf States Conference, has named Coach Payne, along with chairman Joe Aillet, Louisiana Tech, and John R. Bell, to the GSC's publicity committee.

Happy Humphrey, all 750 pounds of him, rolls into Gus Kallio's Arena tomorrow night as the biggest attraction in wrestling. A lot of big men have shown for Kallio, but nothing the size of this Georgia Cracker they say weighed 150 pounds when he was three years old. The publicity says Hump's standard meal is two dozen oysters, five orders of chicken, a gallon of milk, a loaf of bread, and "all the trimmings."

Keep that cash rolling in for Dr. William L. Bendel's memorial fund that will give Monroe one of the finest Little League parks in the country if the fund is sufficient to meet the planning now in progress. Don't let the fund lag. Your donation is an investment in youth, the same kind of investment that endeared the late doctor to so many.

Send your contribution to "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Spring is fast approaching. The kids sorely need this park. Do it for your boys, your grandsons, or the neighbor's kids. They're all pretty good boys when they can gather on a baseball diamond. Little League is for them. A contribution to the Bendel Memorial Fund is a contribution to the future of the parade of youth of today and tomorrow.

Ford Ups Lead At Pensacola

Shoots 70 For Three-Round Total Of 205

By STAN ATKINS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Veteran Doug Ford extended his lead to three strokes in the third round of the $15,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament Saturday.

The 1957 Masters Champion overcame a six on the par four fourth hole and came home in 37-33—70, two under par. The round gave him a 54-hole card of 70-65-70—205.

Trailing him at 208 were Ken Venturi of San Francisco and Don Fairfield, who won the first Pensacola Open two years ago. Fairfield, from Casey, Ill., made his bid with a four-under-par 68.

Venturi, leading money winner of the winter tour, had a par 72.

Other contenders were Ted Kroll, Sarasota, Fla., 74-65-71—210; and Wes Ellis Jr., Ridgewood, N. J., 69-69-72—210.

Art Wall Jr., the defending champion, missed five putts of between five and six feet and fell off the pace with a one-over-par 73. His 71-67-73—211 dropped him into a three-way tie for sixth place.

Also at 211 were Air Force Lt. Walker Inman Jr. and Tommy Jacobs, Whittier, Calif. Inman, of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., had the best round of the day, a five-under-par 67. Jacobs carded a 71.

Ford's double bogie came when his tee shot on the fourth hole ended up between two tree roots to the right of the fairway. He chipped wood on his first swing and his second sent it into the fifth fairway.

Joe Campbell, Walker Cup player from Knoxville, Tenn., continued as low amateur with 70-73-75—218.

Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, Tenn., was forced to withdraw after suffering a chipped bone in his hand when his club hit a tree root. Bolt had shot a 38 on the front nine after previous rounds of 69 and 75.

Finals will be held tomorrow over the 6,325-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

The low scorers:

Doug Ford	70-65-70—205
Ken Venturi	70-66-72—208

Texas Takes Sweeping Win In Southwest Recreation

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH (UP)—Brilliant Eddie Southern of Texas ran a pair of fabulous quarter miles Saturday as he paced his team to a sweeping victory in the 35th annual Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet.

The slender Dallas youngster, who was a Silver Medal winner in the 400 meter hurdles in the 1956 Olympics, sped to a 46.2 seconds clocking in the 440-yard dash and then erased a 20-yard deficit to lead his team to a 3:13.5 mile relay with a 48.5 anchor lap.

His quarter mile turn equalled the U. S. collegiate record set a dozen years ago by Herb McKenley of Illinois and was only .4 of a second shy of the world's record of 45.8 owned by Jim Lea, the former Southern California sprinter who set the record as a member of the armed forces at Modesto, Calif., in 1957.

The 20- year- old Texas junior, who has been writing track records since his prep school days at Dallas Sunset High, ran his field in the ground in the 440, finishing nearly 20 yards ahead of Gilbert Gerdes of North Texas State.

"I put out a little more on the backstretch than I intended," Southern said, "but I felt I had something left at the finish."

He proved that 90 minutes later when he came back to the track to take the baton 20 yards behind pace-setting Southern Methodist's John Emmett and North Texas' John Cotten on the final lap of the mile relay.

His blazing speed ate up that wide gap by the time they hit the top of the home stretch and he won going away by five yards.

Southern's performance paced Texas to 49 points and a huge margin in the battle for the team trophy and the Longhorns contributed to two of four meet records which toppled Saturday under bright sunlight in mild 50-degree weather.

Fourteen other division records were shattered as East Texas won the college division and Houston the junior college-freshman division.

North Texas finished second to Texas with 27 points to 49 for the Longhorns, while Abilene Christian got 24 and SMU 22.

East Texas State won the college division with 33 1-2 points to 26 for Lamar Tech, 25 for Howard Payne, 15 2-3 for Pittsburg (Kan.) Teachers and 15 for Louisiana Tech.

Tuesday Last Day To Enter Calhoun Meet

The deadline for entering the second Calhoun Independent Tournament has been set at noon Tuesday, March 18, according to Calhoun Coach Jerry Lovett and any interested teams are urged to enter as soon as possible.

The tourney will begin Thursday, March 20, and run through the 22nd. Games will be played Thursday and Friday nights and all day Saturday.

Teams wishing to enter the tournament should contact Lovett at P. O. Box 30, Calhoun or phone 2341 during school hours or 2842 after school. The entry fee is $10.

Vino Supremo Sets Mark At Albany Track

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Vino Supremo, a thoroughbred who loves a muddy track, won the $20,000 Albany Handicap at Golden Gate Fields Saturday and set a track record of 1:04 for 5½ furlongs.

The six-year-old gelding, ridden by Alex Maese, defeated Poop-Deck by nearly a length. Princes Street was third in a photo finish with Swirling Abbey.

Rain and the sloppy track made no difference to the winner who broke through the pack of eight horses in the stretch to collect the $10,850 first prize money.

Vino Supreme rewarded his backers with a $10.10, $6.30 and $4.70 payoff. Poop-Deck, with Bud Giacomelli up, returned $12.60 and $7.80 and Princes Street $9.50.

The time cut one-fifth of a second off the old track record set June 24, 1950 by Okey Smokey.

Redskin Coach Devone Payne Has Operation

Devone Payne, head football coach at Northeast State College, yesterday afternoon underwent an abdominal operation at Wright-Bendel Clinic here.

Coach Payne had entered the clinic Tuesday following the annual Indian intra-squad football game that ended spring training Monday night.

A former Little All-America player for Louisiana College, Coach Payne is well known throughout the state and formerly coached, either as an assistant or head coach, at Crowville, Ouachita and Neville of Monroe, and Tallulah high schools, and at Louisiana College and Northeast. It was while head coach at Tallulah that he accepted the head coaching job at Louisiana College, a post he held one year before returning to Monroe as head coach at Northeast.

Northeast athletes and students "flooded" the clinic when a radio appeal went out for blood donors. Quickly there were more donors than the hospital could handle.

A sister of Coach Payne, Mrs. J. D. Geisman, is also a patient at the clinic where she has been under treatment nearly a month.

Fans, Players Join Riot At Hockey Game

BOSTON (UP)—A riot, touched off when New York defenseman Lou Fontinato attacked a heckling fan, featured a televised National Hockey League game won by the Rangers, 4-0, over the Boston Bruins Saturday.

Ranger goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley turned aside 32 shots in registering his third shutout of the season. New York scored on second period goals by Dave Creighton and Dean Prentice and third period tallies by Harry Howell and Andy Bathgate. The loss eliminated the third place Bruins from any chance of overtaking second place New York.

The brawl started late in the first period after the 6-1 190-pound Fontinato, leading penalty carrier in the league, drew a penalty for slashing Boston defenseman Fernie Flaman. Fontinato finally erupted under a merciless barrage of cat calls from a spectator sitting just to the right of the penalty box. Players from both teams poured over the sideboards to join the fight when Fontinato began slugging everyone and everything in sight. He overtook the retreating fan, later identified as Anthony Tavilla, 30, of Lexington, and it took a dozen policemen to quell the disturbance before 10,809 Garden fans.

Tavilla was arrested on a disturbing the peace charge. Fontinato was not assessed any further penalty. The husky defenseman returned to action in the third period and was struck in the face by a shot from Boston defenseman Allan Stanley. However, Fontinato was able to continue in the game.

The defeat snapped Boston's seven game winning streak, longest of the season.

Racetracker Outruns Ezgo In Southland

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)—In his fourth Oaklawn start of the season, Emil Denemark Jr.'s Racetracker raced into the winner's circle Saturday in a well-earned victory to capture the $5,000 Southland Handicap.

He was one and a half lengths ahead of Larry H. Thompson's Ezgo, a recent arrival from New Orleans making his Hot Springs debut as the betting favorite. Charles Fritz' Sir Tribal was third in the mile and 70-yard run for three-year-olds and up.

Racetracker returned $10, $4, and $8.20, Ezgo $3 and $2.80, and Sir Tribal $3.60.

Ridden by Howard Craig, Racetracker came from next to last in the back stretch in the nine-horse race to challenge Ezgo and passed him in the homestretch in a thrilling heads-apart duel.

Saturday's attendance was 15,542, down slightly from 15,953 the same day last year. Saturday's mutuel was $775,709, compared with $792,557 the same day last year.

Sheppard Outfit Captures World Wide Cage Title

DENVER (AP)—Air Training Command, Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., won the 7th World Wide Air Force Basketball Tournament Saturday, defeating Pacific Air Command, Johnson Air Force Base, Japan, 78-63.

Sheppard gained an early lead and never was troubled in winning its first Air Force championship. The team twice has finished second in the double elimination tournament.

Ray Warren sparked Sheppard to a 37-32 halftime lead. Warren topped all scorers with 21 points. Ed Clark and Ron Mayuiers were high for the losers with 12 each.

Ted Kleinhans, Syracuse University baseball coach, was a southpaw pitcher with the pennant winning Yankees of 1936.

HAWKS, WILDCATS TRIUMPH

College Place Wins In Junior Tourney

College Place won the Junior title, the Hawks the Pee Wee crown and the Wildcats the Bantam championship in Recreation Department basketball tournament yesterday.

College Place, second in the regular season, beat the Junior "A" League champion Independents, 41-23, in the Junior tourney finals with Nolan scoring 19 points for the winners and Peters 6 for the losers.

The Wildcats, runnerups to the Tigers in regular Bantam League play, edged the pennant-winners, 17-14, in the Bantam finals with Kincaid hitting for 5 points to lead the Wildcats and Sims getting 8 for the Tigers. In the Pee Wee finals, the Hawks dropped the Cubs, 11-7, as Gannaway scored 5 for the Hawks and Cole and Howard divided the honors for the Cubs with 3 each.

College Place opened its bid for the Junior championship with a 47-12 rout of Bosco in the quarter-finals. Rawls had 25 for the winners and Spruill and Pender scored 4 each for Bosco. The Independents beat the Bruins, 38-36, with Peters scoring 20 to lead the way and McHenry getting 14 for the Bruins.

Other quarter-final games saw the Panthers down the Magicians, 37-17, as Lyn Stokes scored 14 for the Panthers and Crews and Hinds got 6 apiece for the losers and the Hawks won over Trinity on a forfeit.

College Place routed the Panthers, 36-17, in the semi-finals and the Independents clipped the Hawks, 50-33. Rawls had 15 for College Place and Stokes 8 for the Panthers. Peters led the Independents with 27 markers and Shaughnessy got 12 for the Hawks.

In the Bantam semi- finals, the Tigers topped the Ballhawks, 17-12, and the Wildcats slipped by the Sharks, 12-11. Morgan got 5 for the Tigers and Hudson 7 for the Ballhawks. Kincaid of the Wildcats and Roberts of the Sharks split scoring honors in their game with 5 each.

Yank Hockey Team To Play 2 In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States' injury-plagued ice hockey team arrived in Moscow Saturday for two exhibition games with the Russians.

The Americans will meet the Soviet Union's "B" team Sunday and the "A" team Monday. The latter is the team which beat the U. S. squad 4-1 recently in the world amateur championships at Oslo and went on to finish second to Canada in the standings.

Manager Don Clark of Farmington, Minn., said the American team was in bad shape because of injuries but hoped to make a creditable showing.

Seventeen men are on the U. S. squad, three of them with injuries. The casualties include John Mayasich of Minneapolis, bad shoulder; Ed Kirrane of Brookline, Mass., broken finger, and Don McKinnon of Williams, Minn. head bruises after being hit by a wild puck in one of the Oslo games.

Mayasich and McKinnon may be in the Moscow games, but Kirrane definitely will be kept off the ice, Clark said.

Since the Oslo tournament the Americans, although shorthanded, won two exhibition games in Sweden. Clark said the team had two exceptionally fine goaltenders in Willard Ikola of Eveleth, Minn., and Don Rigazio of Cambridge, Mass.

Passed Pro Career To Serve In Church

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 15—(UP)—Blond Forest Arnold could have "cashed in" on his basketball fame. He could have turned professional after graduating from Memphis State university in 1956.

But the six-foot, four-inch Arnold, who was an honorable mention pick on the United Press All-America teams in 1955 and 1956, turned instead to the ministry.

As an ordained preacher in the Assembly of God church, he works at his job as youth director for the First Assembly of God church here with as much zest as he poured in points for Memphis State.

Besides, his "little" (six-foot, six inch) brother, Orby, has taken up where Forest left off on the Memphis State cage squad. Orby has just been named to the 1958 UP All-America team as an honorable mention selection.

Forest began to set cage records after the Arnolds moved to Puxico, Mo. He scored more than 2,000 points in high school, and was named All-Star center in each of the 12 tournaments he played in. With Arnold, Puxico won the state championship twice in succession.

Arnold arrived at Memphis State in 1952 when the school was rebuilding its athletic program. Three years later they played in the NCAA regional tournament.

Forest started every game at center, and was one of the team's highest scorers. His biggest night was against Hardin - Simmons in 1954, when he ripped the net for 46 points.

"I began to think of the ministry as a life's work when I entered Memphis State," Arnold said, "and after I had preached in the North Carolina mountains the summer of my freshman year, I knew it was what I wanted to do."

Arnold still keeps his hand in on the basketball court. He plays for the First Assembly team in a municipal church league, and his club is unbeaten.

Three Given Special Bids For Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Three players received special invitations to the 158 Masters Golf Tournament today and two more were invited because of victories in Canada last year. These were in addition to the 95 regional invitations on the U.S. list.

The Masters champions selected Mike Souchak, the massive touring pro; the U.S. Open champions selected former national amateur champion Gene Littler and the U.S. Amateur champions picked crooner Don Cherry, a former Walker Cup team member.

Under the Masters qualifying system, each of these groups picks by ballot one player who is not otherwise qualified.

Littler was dropped from the permanent invitation list this year when it was decided that professionals no longer would qualify automatically on the basis of their achievements as amateurs.

The two others invited were big George Bayer, winner of the 1957 Canadian Open championship, and Nick Weslock, now a resident of Royal Oak., Mich., 1957 Canadian Amateur champion.

Two more U. S. pros will be nominated by the PGA on the basis of their records on the winter tour. They will be named after the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., the week before the Masters.

Gonzales Cuts Down On Hoad In Tennis Tour

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales used his head more than his muscles Saturday to whip Lew Hoad and narrow his deficit to three matches in the pro tennis cross-country tour.

Scores of the feature match at the Everglades Club were 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The loss cut Hoad's lead to 20-17 over Gonzales.

Baronet Pitches SLI To 8-2 Win

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southwestern Louisiana's Willie Baronet pitched five no-hit innings Saturday for an 8-2 baseball victory over Louisiana State.

LSU, making six errors in the first three innings, got its first hit in the sixth on a scratch single by pinch hitter Joe Mailhos.

Pirates' Only Holdout Signs

FORT MYERS, Fla. (UP) — Rookie pitcher Roger Osenbaugh, the Pittsburgh Pirates' only holdout, agreed to terms Saturday and will report within the next day or so.

Osenbaugh, drafted after a 9-14 record with Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League, is finishing up his studies at Stanford University.

Paul Martin Looks 'Em Over

Northeast State is taking bolder steps in the athletic field with trackmen getting more attention, golf returning to favor in the Tribal wigwam, and Coach George Luffey ready to launch his Indian baseball team on another season tomorrow.

Coach Lou Hartzog had his track and field team in Fort Worth yesterday for the Southwest Recreation meet, the first time Redskin cindermen have ever traveled in such fast company. The same Tribe, which has had only token representation on tracks in recent years, looked impressive in dropping a dual meet to McNeese State a week ago, 77-62, in a meet in which failure in the relays cost the Indians a victory.

The cindermen aren't claiming world beaters, but Coach Hartzog is doing a fine job in a sport that has never before attracted the school support it is now getting.

Meanwhile, Bob DeMoss, assistant football coach, has taken over the chore of steering Northeast's golf team which is due to open against McNeese here Monday week. Dated are Centenary, Tulane, Louisiana Tech, S.L.I., and Stephen F. Austin in addition to McNeese, plus the Gulf States Conference Tournament at Lafayette May 15-16.

The Northeast baseball team opens its season tomorrow at Mississippi College as Coach Luffey starts the most ambitious schedule ever put before the Tribe. There's a regular 24-game schedule that includes four double headers and the Southeastern Louisiana Tournament at Ponchatoula which will include such teams as Northern Illinois, Southwestern of Memphis, and Mississippi State.

Northeast ended its football spring training Monday night with the annual intra-squad game. The next night head coach Devone Payne entered Wright-Bendel Clinic where he underwent an operation yesterday.

R. J. Cambre, president of the Gulf States Conference, has named Coach Payne, along with chairman Joe Aillet, Louisiana Tech, and John R. Bell, to the GSC's publicity committee.

Happy Humphrey, all 750 pounds of him, rolls into Gus Kallio's Arena tomorrow night as the biggest attraction in wrestling. A lot of big men have shown for Kallio, but nothing the size of this Georgia Cracker they say weighed 150 pounds when he was three years old. The publicity says Hump's standard meal is two dozen oysters, five orders of chicken, a gallon of milk, a loaf of bread, and "all the trimmings."

Keep that cash rolling in for Dr. William L. Bendel's memorial fund that will give Monroe one of the finest Little League parks in the country if the fund is sufficient to meet the planning now in progress. Don't let the fund lag. Your donation is an investment in youth, the same kind of investment that endeared the late doctor to so many.

Send your contribution to "Monroe Little League, P.O. Box 1293, Monroe, La."

Spring is fast approaching. The kids sorely need this park. Do it for your boys, your grandsons, or the neighbor's kids. They're all pretty good boys when they can gather on a basebal diamond. Little League is for them. A contribution to the Bendel Memorial Fund is a contribution to the future of the parade of youth of today and tomorrow.

Ford Ups Lead At Pensacola

Shoots 70 For Three-Round Total Of 205

By STAN ATKINS

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Veteran Doug Ford extended his lead to three strokes in the third round of the $15,000 Pensacola Open golf tournament Saturday.

The 1957 Masters Champion overcame a six on the par four fourth hole and came home in 37-33—70, two under par. The round gave him a 54-hole card of 70-65-70—205.

Trailing him at 208 were Ken Venturi of San Francisco and Don Fairfield, who won the first Pensacola Open two years ago. Fairfield, from Casey, Ill., made his bid with a four-under-par 68.

Venturi, leading money winner of the winter tour, had a par 72.

Other contenders were Ted Kroll, Sarasota, Fla., 74-65-71—210; and Wes Ellis Jr., Ridgewood, N. J., 69-69-72—210.

Art Wall Jr., the defending champion, missed five putts of between five and six feet and fell off the pace with a one-over-par 73. His 71-67-73—211 dropped him into a three-way tie for sixth place.

Also at 211 were Air Force Lt. Walker Inman Jr. and Tommy Jacobs, Whittier, Calif. Inman, of Eglin Air Force Base, Fla., had the best round of the day, a five-under-par 67. Jacobs carded a 71.

Ford's double bogie came when his tee shot on the fourth hole ended up between two tree roots to the right of the fairway. He chipped wood on his first swing and his second sent it into the fifth fairway.

Joe Campbell, Walker Cup player from Knoxville, Tenn., continued as low amateur with 70-73-75—218.

Tommy Bolt, Chattanooga, Tenn., was forced to withdraw after suffering a chipped bone in his hand when his club hit a tree root. Bolt had shot a 38 on the front nine after previous rounds of 69 and 75.

Finals will be held tomorrow over the 6,325-yard Pensacola Country Club course.

The low scorers:

Doug Ford	70-65-70—205

Texas Takes Sweeping Win In Southwest Recreation

By ED FITE

FORT WORTH (UP)—Brilliant Eddie Southern of Texas ran a pair of fabulous quarter miles Saturday as he paced his team to a sweeping victory in the 35th annual Southwestern Recreation Track and Field Meet.

The slender Dallas youngster, who was a Silver Medal winner in the 400 meter hurdles in the 1956 Olympics, sped to a 46.2 seconds clocking in the 440-yard dash and then erased a 20-yard deficit to lead his team to a 3:13.5 mile relay with a 48.5 anchor lap.

His quarter mile turn equalled the U. S. collegiate record set a dozen years ago by Herb McKenley of Illinois and was only .4 of a second shy of the world's record of 45.8 owned by Jim Lea, the former Southern California sprinter who set the record as a member of the armed forces at Modesto, Calif., in 1957.

The 20- year- old Texas junior, who has been writing track records since his prep school days at Dallas Sunset High, ran his field in the ground in the 440, finishing nearly 20 yards ahead of Gilbert Gerdes of North Texas State.

"I put out a little more on the backstretch than I intended," Southern said, "but I felt I had something left at the finish."

He proved that 90 minutes later when he came back to the track to take the baton 20 yards behind pace-setting Southern Methodist's John Emmett and North Texas' John Cotten on the final lap of the mile relay.

His blazing speed ate up that wide gap by the time they hit the top of the home stretch and he won going away by five yards.

Southern's performance paced Texas to 49 points and a huge margin in the battle for the team trophy and the Longhorns contributed to two of four meet records which toppled Saturday under bright sunlight in mild 50-degree weather.

Fourteen other division records were shattered as East Texas won the college division and Houston the junior college-freshman division.

North Texas finished second to Texas with 27 points to 49 for the Longhorns, while Abilene Christian got 24 and SMU 22.

East Texas State won the college division with 33 1-2 points to 26 for Lamar Tech, 25 for Howard Payne, 15 2-3 for Pittsburg (Kan.) Teachers and 15 for Louisiana Tech.

Tuesday Last Day To Enter Calhoun Meet

The deadline for entering the second Calhoun Independent Tournament has been set at noon Tuesday, March 18, according to Calhoun Coach Jerry Lovett and any interested teams are urged to enter as soon as possible.

The tourney will begin Thursday, March 20, and run through the 22nd. Games will be played Thursday and Friday nights and all day Saturday.

Teams wishing to enter the tournament should contact Lovett at P. O. Box 30, Calhoun or phone 2341 during school hours or 2842 after school. The entry fee is $10.

Vino Supremo Sets Mark At Albany Track

ALBANY, Calif. (AP)—Vino Supremo, a thoroughbred who loves a muddy track, won the $20,000 Albany Handicap at Golden Gate Fields Saturday and set a track record of 1:04 for 5½ furlongs.

The six-year-old gelding, ridden by Alex Maese, defeated Poop-Deck by nearly a length. Princes Street was third in a photo finish with Swirling Abbey.

Rain and the sloppy track made no difference to the winner who broke through the pack of eight horses in the stretch to collect the $10,850 first prize money.

Vino Supreme rewarded his backers with a $10.10, $6.30 and $4.70 payoff. Poop-Deck, with Bud Giacomelli up, returned $12.60 and $7.80 and Princes Street $9.50.

The time cut one-fifth of a second off the old track record set June 24, 1950 by Okey Smokey.

Redskin Coach Devone Payne Has Operation

Devone Payne, head football coach at Northeast State College, yesterday afternoon underwent an abdominal operation at Wright-Bendel Clinic here.

Coach Payne had entered the clinic Tuesday following the annual Indian intra-squad football game that ended spring training Monday night.

A former Little All-America player for Louisiana College, Coach Payne is well known throughout the state and formerly coached, either as an assistant or head coach, at Crowville, Ouachita and Neville of Monroe, and Tallulah high schools, and at Louisiana College and Northeast. It was while head coach at Tallulah that he accepted the head coaching job at Louisiana College, a post he held one year before returning to Monroe as head coach at Northeast.

Northeast athletes and students "flooded" the clinic when a radio appeal went out for blood donors. Quickly there were more donors than the hospital could handle.

A sister of Coach Payne, Mrs. D. Geisman, is also a patient at the clinic where she has been under treatment nearly a month.

Fans, Players Join Riot At Hockey Game

BOSTON (UP)—A riot, touched off when New York defenseman Lou Fontinato attacked a heckling fan, featured a televised National Hockey League game won by the Rangers, 4-0, over the Boston Bruins Saturday.

Ranger goalie Lorne (Gump) Worsley turned aside 32 shots in registering his third shutout of the season. New York scored on second period goals by Dave Creighton and Dean Prentice and third period tallies by Harry Howell and Andy Bathgate. The loss eliminated the third place Bruins from any chance of overtaking second place New York.

The brawl started late in the first period after the 6-1 190-pound Fontinato, leading penalty carrier in the league, drew a penalty for slashing Boston defenseman Fernie Flaman. Fontinato finally erupted under a merciless barrage of cat calls from a spectator sitting just to the right of the penalty box. Players from both teams poured over the sideboards to join the fight when Fontinato began slugging everyone and everything in sight. He overtook the retreating fan, later identified as Anthony Tavilla, 30, of Lexington, and it took a dozen policemen to quell the disturbance before 10,809 Garden fans.

Tavilla was arrested on a disturbing the peace charge. Fontinato was not assessed any further penalty. The husky defenseman returned to action in the third period and was struck in the face by a shot from Boston defenseman Allan Stanley. However, Fontinato was able to continue in the game.

The defeat snapped Boston's seven game winning streak, longest of the season.

Racetracker Outruns Ezgo In Southland

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (UP)—In his fourth Oaklawn start of the season, Emil Denemark Jr.'s Racetracker raced into the winner's circle Saturday in a well-earned victory to capture the $5,000 Southland Handicap.

He was one and a half lengths ahead of Larry H. Thompson's Ezgo, a recent arrival from New Orleans making his Hot Springs debut as the betting favorite. Charles Fritz' Sir Tribal was third in the mile and 70-yard run for three-year-olds and up.

Racetracker returned $10, $4, and $8.20, Ezgo $3 and $2.80, and Sir Tribal $3.60.

Ridden by Howard Craig, Racetracker came from next to last in the back stretch in the nine-horse race to challenge Ezgo and passed him in the homestretch in a thrilling heads-apart duel.

Saturday's attendance was 15,542, down slightly from 15,953 the same day last year. Saturday's mutuel was $775,709, compared with $792,557 the same day last year.

Sheppard Outfit Captures World Wide Cage Title

DENVER (AP)—Air Training Command, Sheppard Air Force Base, Tex., won the 7th World Wide Air Force Basketball Tournament Saturday, defeating Pacific Air Command, Johnson Air Force Base, Japan, 78-63.

Sheppard gained an early lead and never was troubled in winning its first Air Force championship. The team twice has finished second in the double elimination tournament.

Ray Warren sparked Sheppard to a 37-32 halftime lead. Warren topped all scorers with 21 points. Ed Clark and Ron Mayuiers were high for the losers with 12 each.

Ted Kleinhans, Syracuse University baseball coach, was a southpaw pitcher with the pennant winning Yankees of 1936.

Baronet Pitches SLI To 8-2 Win

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Southwestern Louisiana's Willie Baronet pitched five no-hit innings Saturday for an 8-2 baseball victory over Louisiana State.

LSU, making six errors in the first three innings, got its first hit in the sixth on a scratch single by pinch hitter Joe Mailhos.

GYM TO PULPIT

Passed Pro Career To Serve In Church

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 15—(UP)—Blond Forest Arnold could have "cashed in" on his basketball fame. He could have turned professional after graduating from Memphis State university in 1956.

But the six-foot, four-inch Arnold, who was an honorable mention pick on the United Press All-America teams in 1955 and 1956, turned instead to the ministry.

As an ordained preacher in the Assembly of God church, he works at his job as youth director for the First Assembly of God church here with as much zest as he poured in points for Memphis State.

Besides, his "little" (six-foot, six inch) brother, Orby, has taken up where Forest left off on the Memphis State cage squad. Orby has just been named to the 1958 UP All-America team as an honorable mention selection.

Forest began to set cage records after the Arnolds moved to Puxico, Mo. He scored more than 2,000 points in high school, and was named All-Star center in each of the 12 tournaments he played in. With Arnold, Puxico won the state championship twice in succession.

Arnold arrived at Memphis State in 1952 when the school was rebuilding its athletic program. Three years later they played in the NCAA regional tournament.

Forest started every game at center, and was one of the team's highest scorers. His biggest night was against Hardin - Simmons in 1954, when he ripped the net for 46 points.

"I began to think of the ministry as a life's work when I entered Memphis State," Arnold said, "and after I had preached in the North Carolina mountains the summer of my freshman year, I knew it was what I wanted to do."

Arnold still keeps his hand in on the basketball court. He plays for the First Assembly team in a municipal church league, and his club is unbeaten.

Three Given Special Bids For Masters

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Three players received special invitations to the 158 Masters Golf Tournament today and two more were invited because of victories in Canada last year. These were in addition to the 95 regional invitations on the U.S. list.

The Masters champions selected Mike Souchak, the massive touring pro; the U.S. Open champions selected former national amateur champion Gene Littler and the U.S. Amateur champions picked crooner Don Cherry, a former Walker Cup team member.

Under the Masters qualifying system, each of these groups picks by ballot one player who is not otherwise qualified.

Littler was dropped from the permanent invitation list this year when it was decided that professionals no longer would qualify automatically on the basis of their achievements as amateurs.

The two others invited were big George Bayer, winner of the 1957 Canadian Open championship, and Nick Weslock, now a resident of Royal Oak., Mich., 1957 Canadian Amateur champion.

Two more U. S. pros will be nominated by the PGA on the basis of their records on the winter tour. They will be named after the Azalea Open at Wilmington, N.C., the week before the Masters.

Gonzales Cuts Down On Hoad In Tennis Tour

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pancho Gonzales used his head more than his muscles Saturday to whip Lew Hoad and narrow his deficit to three matches in the pro tennis cross-country tour.

Scores of the feature match at the Everglades Club were 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

The loss cut Hoad's lead to 20-17 over Gonzales.

Yank Hockey Team To Play 2 In Moscow

MOSCOW (AP)—The United States' injury-plagued ice hockey team arrived in Moscow Saturday for two exhibition games with the Russians.

The Americans will meet the Soviet Union's "B" team Sunday and the "A" team Monday. The latter is the team which beat the U. S. squad 4-1 recently in the world amateur championships at Oslo and went on to finish second to Canada in the standings.

Manager Don Clark of Farmington, Minn., said the American team was in bad shape because of injuries but hoped to make a creditable showing.

Seventeen men are on the U. S. squad, three of them with injuries. The casualties include John Mayasich of Minneapolis, bad shoulder; Ed Kirrane of Brookline, Mass., broken finger, and Don McKinnon of Williams, Minn. head bruises after being hit by a wild puck in one of the Oslo games.

Mayasich and McKinnon may be in the Moscow games, but Kirrane definitely will be kept off the ice, Clark said.

Since the Oslo tournament the Americans, although shorthanded, won two exhibition games in Sweden. Clark said the team had two exceptionally fine goaltenders in Willard Ikola of Eveleth, Minn., and Don Rigazio of Cambridge, Mass.

HAWKS, WILDCATS TRIUMPH

College Place Wins In Junior Tourney

College Place won the Junior title, the Hawks the Pee Wee crown and the Wildcats the Bantam championship in Recreation Department basketball tournament yesterday.

College Place, second in the regular season, beat the Junior "A" League champion Independents, 41-23, in the Junior tourney finals with Nolan scoring 19 points for the winners and Peters 6 for the losers.

The Wildcats, runnerups to the Tigers in regular Bantam League play, edged the pennant-winners, 17-14, in the Bantam finals with Kincaid hitting for 5 points to lead the Wildcats and Sims getting 8 for the Tigers. In the Pee Wee finals, the Hawks dropped the Cubs, 11-7, as Gannaway scored 5 for the Hawks and Cole and Howard divided the honors for the Cubs with 3 each.

College Place opened its bid for the Junior championship with a 47-12 rout of Bosco in the quarter-finals. Rawls had 25 for the winners and Spruill and Pender scored 4 each for Bosco. The Independents beat the Bruins, 38-36, with Peters scoring 20 to lead the way and McHenry getting 14 for the Bruins.

Other quarter-final games saw the Panthers down the Magicians, 37-17, as Lyn Stokes scored 14 for the Panthers and Crews and Hinds got 6 apiece for the losers and the Hawks won over Trinity on a forfeit.

College Place routed the Panthers, 36-17, in the semi-finals and the Independents clipped the Hawks, 50-33. Rawls had 15 for College Place and Stokes 8 for the Panthers. Peters led the Independents with 27 markers and Shaughnessy got 12 for the Hawks.

In the Bantam semi- finals, the Tigers topped the Ballhawks, 17-12, and the Wildcats slipped by the Sharks, 12-11. Morgan got 5 for the Tigers and Hudson 7 for the Ballhawks. Kincaid of the Wildcats and Roberts of the Sharks split scoring honors in their game with 5 each.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

Neon Sign Company bowled an oddity the past week in the Major League. Neon, sparked by J. C. Holloway's 211 game and Cecil Bamford's 520 series, registered a total of 1,000 pins a game in a three-game set. This was by no means a team high record but it is believed that it was the first time any local team has racked up a triplicate score. Congratulations!

Royal Feed and Seed and Longview Equipment continued their battle for the top spot in the Majors. Longview took three points from Gay's Clothiers as Royal had to settle for a split with the tough Ballard's bowling team.

Luke Coonrod threw the high series of the night—598. Larry Dage tossed the high game for the night as he came through with a big 230 game.

Lady keglers from Monroe showed topfight pin toppling in the annual Louisiana State Women's Tournament being held in Alexandria, this past weekend.

Lennon's Buick took over the top rung when they ended the meet with a 3,034-pin count. Garrett Office Supply (Alexandria) is in second with 3,025 and the Industrial Construction (Lake Charles) holds down third place with 3,021. Howard Griffin (2,973) and Troy and Nichols (2,931), both of Monroe, placed seventh and ninth.

Jo Ann Rahfouz and Rose Mowad (Alexandria) are leading the doubles with a 1,280 score. Monroe's Mary Correro and Betty Seivers are in second with 1,278 and another pair of Monroe bowlers are in tenth place—Vera Painich and B. B. Stron with 1,227.

In the singles it's Martha Coe (Sulphur) with 682 leading but fourth, fifth and eighth places are being held by Hazel Higgins (667), Sylvia Danna (660) and Jean McMullen (654) all of Monroe.

Catherine Sloan, Alexandria's fine bowler and secretary of the Women's Assn., is ahead in both scratch (1,597) and handicap (1,921) all-events.

Russell Bates, sporting a brand new bowling ball he got in Dallas over the weekend at the Southern Tournament, shot the high series of the week (599). Russell toppled Luke Coonrod by one pin. Ernest Carter posted a 220 game to take high honors in the Kegler League.

Daisy Creighton and Peggy Grigsby topped the field of Ladies League keglers Tuesday night at the Bowling Center. Daisy fired the individual high game of 204 and Peggy tallied high series as she slammed a big 553.

Howard Brothers walked away with high team (968) and high team series 2,468.

Tops in the scoring department went to Don Spatafora who tossed a 226 game and to Ed Villa who registered a 595 series in the Pioneer League. Dave McKenzie shot a 212 and a 211 game but fell down on pin count in the last game. Dave ended with a 575 series.

In answer to requests that an all-star team be picked I am going to let each league pick its own set of all-stars. Each bowler and sponsor has the right to choose the ten men he thinks are the all-stars. Below is a ballot to be filled out by you, the bowlers. Either mail your selections in to this column or place them in the ballot box at the bowling alley.

My selection for the All-Star Team in the——League are as follows:

1st TEAM	2nd TEAM
1	1 .....
2	2 .....
3	3 .....
4	4 .....
5	5 .....

Braves, Yanks Start Slow In Spring Exhibition Fare

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

The Grapefruit League's opening week placed on display two of the longest World Series hangovers in spring training history.

The world champion Milwaukee Braves and the American League champion New York Yankees, both heavy favorites to repeat as pennant-winners, were among the slowest teams to hit winning strides. At the end of a week's competition the Braves were tied for sixth in National League standings and the proud Yankees were seventh in A.L. standings.

Such records aren't taken too seriously, of course, but the slow starts by the defending champions were quickly seized upon as evidence that either or both can be beaten this year.

The Giants and Red Sox, meanwhile, were by far the most impressive teams with the Cardinals close behind. The Giants, averaging more than six runs a game, were 3-0 in their spring series with Cleveland. The Red Sox, playing without Ted Williams, won four straight games, including two victories over the Yankees. And the Cardinals were showing steady blasting power to overshadow somewhat spotty pitching.

The big news for the Braves occurred off the diamond when World Series hero Lew Burdette finally ended his holdout siege. On the diamond, the fine early pitching of Warren Spahn and Bob Rush—both have pitched six straight shutout innings — made Fred Haney shrug off some generally lacklustre performances by some of his other hired hands.

The Yankee situation—one victory in their first six games—had Casey Stengel talking to himself until Don Larsen's five - inning shutout performance Friday gave the A.L. champions an impressive 5-1 triumph over the Redlegs. Neither Mickey Mantle nor Yogi Berra has done much hitting and Deron Johnson, the highly-touted rookie outfielder, was hitting only .212 after seven games.

The Cardinals received a tremendous lift when Vinergar Bend Mizell, the problem pitcher of 1957, hurled four shutout innings against the Yankees in his spring debut. Manager Fred Hutchinson had labelled the big left-hander as the key pitcher in his pennant plans. Mizell was 8-10 last season but finished with a string of strong games.

Musial, the N.L.'s 1957 batting champion, was swinging away at a .300 clip for the Cardinals and looking forward to trying for his eighth batting title but considerable mystery surrounded Ted Williams' training. Ted, who has received a doctor's okay on a question-mark ankle, is taking only batting practice and may not appear at all in exhibitions. Red Sox officials insist, however, that he will be ready by opening day.

Despite rather pessimistic predictions because rain disrupted so many early training routines, there were no serious injuries during the first week of Grapefruit competition.

NO SENIORS

9 Techmen Get Cage Letters

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Nine members of Louisiana Tech's 1957-58 basketball team have been awarded letters. The letterman list, announced by Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director, includes two juniors, three sophomores and four freshmen.

Bulldog players awarded monograms include juniors Charles Frye, Pittsburg, Tex., Gary Richardson, Shreveport; sophomores J. W. Mercer, Mangham, Jim Tullos, Jena, Ron Woodward, Worden, Ill.; and freshmen Jack Moreland, Minden, Joe Daigle, Jennings, Ron Futrell, Houston, Tex., and Jimmy Orton, Shreveport.

Two post - season honors have come to Tech's center Jack Moreland. The Minden freshman, who set more than a dozen new Bulldog records last season and who captured the Gulf States Conference scoring title, has been given honorable mention for the United Press All - America team. Moreland also was selected as center on an all-opponent quintet selected by Mississippi Southern.

Four teams Tech defeated early in the season were invited to post-season tournaments. Arkanuas Tech, Eastern New Mexico University and East Texas each won NAIA regional playoffs to enter the big national meet at Kansas City. Centenary College competed in the NCAA small college Southwest regional tourney at Springfield, Mo.

The Techsters completed the season with a 15-10 season mark and a 4-6 Gulf States Conference record.

Tony Despirito Rides Indian Maid To Win

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP)—Tony Despirito celebrated his homecoming day at Sunshine Park Saturday by riding Indian Maid to victory in the first inning of the Florida Breeders Futurity.

This race for 2-year-olds has a gross value of $6,145, making it the richest race in the track's history.

Despirito sent Indian Maid between horses at the top of the stretch and won going away in record time.

Mr. Noble finished second, 5½ lengths back of Indian Maid. Mad Duchess was third.

Indian Maid, owned by Mrs. Mildred Keim, paid $4.70, $3 and $2.90.

Bev Hanson Regains Lead In Titleholders Tourney

By JACK SIMMS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., used a strong putting game to regain the lead in Saturday's third round of the 72-hole Titleholders Golf Tournament.

She toured the 6,290-yard Augusta Country Club course in 73 strokes for a 54-hole total of 225.

Fay Crocker, power hitter from Montevideo, Uruguay, clung to second place, three strokes behind Miss Hanson. The professional from South America had a 74-76-78—228.

Miss Hanson, a 32-year-old blonde pro, sizzled home with a 72 to match men's par and take the lead opening day. She got home with an 80 Friday playing part of the round with some trouble from a recurring back ailment.

The back was no trouble Saturday. Miss Hanson used only 26 putts—12 on the front nine and 14 coming in—to regain the pole position among 23 professionals battling for $1,000 top money in this $5,000 event.

Miss Hanson went a stroke over par on the first and sixth holes but made the turn in par by sinking good putts for birdies on the par three fourth and the par five eighth.

She was three-over regulation at the end of 15 holes, but put threes back to back for birdies on the 16th and 17th. Then she rimmed the cup with a long putt on the 18th for her 37.

Red-haired Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., slipped in with a 75 to jump into third place with a 229.

Five shots off the pace at 230 came Patty Berg, defending champion and a seven-time winner of this event. The 40-year-old professional from St. Andrews, Ill., carded a 76.

It was doubtful up to starting time whether Miss Berg would play the third round. She fell and injured a knee and ankle Friday. A doctor X-rayed the injuries and permitted the crowd favorite to remain in the tournament.

Marlene Hagge, who held the second round lead by one-stroke over Miss Crocker with a 149, had one of her poorest days. She shot an 82 to fall into fifth place at 231. She had 10 bogies, two birdies and a six on the par four 16th hole.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., who took a 79, held the amateur lead. She was in 11th place with a 237, five strokes ahead of her nearest amateur competitors.

The low scorers:

Beverly Hanson	72-80-73—225
Fay Crocker	74-76-76—226

750-POUNDER

Big Wrestler At Arena Tomorrow

"Happy" Humphrey, a growing boy of 750 pounds, will wrestle at Kallio's Arena Monday night — if the ring holds up.

Advertised as the "largest man ever seen in a wrestling ring" (there should be little argument there), Humphrey will trade holds with "Swede" Karl Karlsson, a little fellow of only 278 pounds, in an hour-limit special event at the local wrestling arena.

The bout shares billing with a tag team main event featuring Charlie Laye and Bernard Hodgemyer against Bill Barney and Phil Brummett. This one will have a 90-minute time limit. A 10-minute scrap between Barney and Hodgemyer will open the program.

The coming of Humphrey has raised several questions among local wrestling enthusiasts according to Promoter Gus Kallio. How can he get into the ring? Can he really wrestle? How does he get through the ropes?

Kallio doesn't profess to know all the answers but he does think "it will take a strong man to turn him on his back, that is if he can get him on the mat first."

Kallio believes that if anybody can give the big boy a battle it will be Scandinavian Karlsson. Thirty-one years old to Humphrey's 24, Karlsson is a former Swedish and Scandinavian wrestling champion and also boxed in his younger days, losing only seven of 101 fights.

Karlsson is said to have lived with a tribe of Amazon headhunters, killed a 480 pound snake with only a knife, served in the Merchant Marine in the war, had ships torpedoed from under him twice and survived 36 days in a lifeboat. Quite a busy life for a 31-year-old man.

Humphrey was born in Macon, Georgia and weighed a mere 150 pounds at age three. By the age of ten, he was throwing bears and bulls with ease. He is said to be able to lift one thousand pounds.

As would be expected, "Happy" is quite handy with a knife and fork. At one sitting he has put away three dozen oysters, five orders of chicken, a gallon of milk, a loaf of bread and all the trimmings.

Pacific Coast Standards Up Another Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference committed itself Saturday to maintain present athlete aid standards until the July 1, 1959, withdrawal deadline of California, UCLA and Southern California.

By a 6-2 vote, a special conference meeting which ended today rejected a modified aid plan proposed by Washington and supported by Southern California. California did not vote because Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, faculty representative, was absent. But Cal's previous policy declarations place it solidly on the majority side.

Chuck Taylor, Stanford's assistant athletic director and conference spokesman, said he interpreted the vote as showing the league members were "substantially satisfied" with maintaining the PCC's present aid code.

The continuing PCC aid code allows member schools to give athletes tuition and campus jobs paying $100 a month at $2 an hour. A $4 an hour wage is allowed in the athlete's sports season.

The Washington-sponsored plan, including family need standards patterened after the Big Ten Conference aid code, would have provided tuition, fees, board room and books to athletes. Whether the athlete worked would have been left up to each school.

Yale's home basketball court is the Payne Whitney Gymnasium.

Northwestern Aims For All GSC Honors

NATCHITOCHES, La. (Special)—With a triangular track and field meet scheduled here March 22 and the first home baseball game on tap for March 24, spring sports will take over on the Northwestern State College campus soon.

Each team will be seeking to repeat as champions in the Gulf States Conference, with the thinclads looking for their sixth straight title on the cinders and the diamondmen hoping to better their performances as co-champions of the GSC last spring. Northwestern shares the championship with Southeastern in baseball.

Coming on the heels of two recent title holders, the football and basketball squads, the spikemen and baseballers will have their work cut out for them in upholding a winning season. Demon gridders shared the GSC flag with Louisiana Tech and McNeese State, while only recently the local cagers took co-championship honors with McNeese in winning nine games and losing one in conference play.

Thus, if the track and baseball teams can "come through" again, in these next two months, Northwestern athletic teams will have had another banner year under their "rookie" athletic director, Jack Clayton, in his first year at the helm.

Coached by Alvin (Cracker) Brown, who begins his 17th year as diamond mentor at NSC, the baseball team will open its 1958 season against Centenary College in Shreveport on March 22, and will play the first home game against Southern Illinois University on March 24 in what will be the beginining of a three-game series with the invading "Yankee" team.

Northwestern's trackmen, coached by Walter Ledet, will host Northeast State and Southwestern on the Demon Stadium oval on March 22. Both visiting teams are expected to be much stronger this year, especially the Northeast Indians, who in a recent meet were dropped just barely by powerful McNeese State in a dual meet in Lake Charles.

Reports are that track competition will be much stiffer in the Gulf States Conference this year, with Louisiana Tech, Southwestern, McNeese, Northeast and Southeastern planning to go full speed in attempting to knock NSC out of the title spot.

BOWLING

With Tommy Higgins

Neon Sign Company bowled an oddity the past week in the Major League. Neon, sparked by J. C. Holloway's 211 game and Cecil Bamford's 520 series, registered a total of 1,000 pins a game in a three-game set. This was by no means a team high record but it is believed that it was the first time any local team has racked up a triplcate score. Congratulations!

Royal Feed and Seed and Longview Equipment continued their battle for the top spot in the Majors. Longview took three points from Gay's Clothiers as Royal had to settle for a split with the tough Ballard's bowling team.

Luke Coonrod threw the high series of the night—598. Larry Dage tossed the high game for the night as he came through with a big 230 game.

Lady keglers from Monroe showed topfight pin toppling in the annual Louisiana State Women's Tournament being held in Alexandria, this past weekend.

Lennon's Buick took over the top rung when they ended the meet with a 3,034-pin count. Garrett Office Supply (Alexandria) is in second with 3,025 and the Industrial Construction (Lake Charles) holds down third place with 3,021. Howard Griffin (2,973) and Troy and Nichols (2,931), both of Monroe, placed seventh and ninth.

Jo Ann Rahfouz and Rose Mowad (Alexandria) are leading the doubles with a 1,280 score. Monroe's Mary Correro and Betty Seivers are in second with 1,278 and another pair of Monroe bowlers are in tenth place—Vera Painich and B. B. Stron with 1,227.

In the singles it's Martha Coe (Sulphur) with 682 leading but fourth, fifth and eighth places are being held by Hazel Higgins (667), Sylvia Danna (660) and Jean McMullen (654) all of Monroe.

Catherine Sloan, Alexandria's fine bowler and secretary of the Women's Assn., is ahead in both scratch (1,597) and handicap (1,921) all-events.

Russell Bates, sporting a brand new bowling ball he got in Dallas over the weekend at the Southern Tournament, shot the high series of the week (599). Russell toppled Luke Coonrod by one pin. Ernest Carter posted a 220 game to take high honors in the Kegler League.

Daisy Creighton and Peggy Grigsby topped the field of Ladies League keglers Tuesday night at the Bowling Center. Daisy fired the individual high game of 204 and Peggy tallied high series as she slammed a big 553.

Howard Brothers walked away with high team (908) and high team series 2,468.

Tops in the scoring department went to Don Spatafora who tossed a 226 game and to Ed Villa who registered a 595 series in the Pioneer League. Dave McKenzie shot a 212 and a 214 game but fell down on pin count in the last game. Dave ended with a 575 series.

In answer to requests that an all-star team be picked I am going to let each league pick its own set of all-stars. Each bowler and sponsor has the right to choose the ten men he thinks are the all-stars. Below is a ballot to be filled out by you, the bowlers. Either mail your selections in to this column or place them in the ballot box at the bowling alley.

My selection for the All-Star Team in the——League are as follows:

1st TEAM	2nd TEAM
1	1 .....
2	2 .....
3	3 .....
4	4 .....

Braves, Yanks Start Slow In Spring Exhibition Fare

By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor

The Grapefruit League's opening week placed on display two of the longest World Series hangovers in spring training history.

The world champion Milwaukee Braves and the American League champion New York Yankees, both heavy favorites to repeat as pennant-winners, were among the slowest teams to hit winning strides. At the end of a week's competition the Braves were tied for sixth in National League standings and the proud Yankees were seventh in A.L. standings.

Such records aren't taken too seriously, of course, but the slow starts by the defending champions were quickly seized upon as evidence that either or both can be beaten this year.

The Giants and Red Sox, meanwhile, were by far the most impressive teams with the Cardinals close behind. The Giants, averaging more than six runs a game, were 3-0 in their spring series with Cleveland. The Red Sox, playing without Ted Williams, won four straight games, including two victories over the Yankees. And the Cardinals were showing steady blasting power to overshadow somewhat spotty pitching.

The big news for the Braves occurred off the diamond when World Series hero Lew Burdette finally ended his holdout siege. On the diamond, the fine early pitching of Warren Spahn and Bob Rush—both have pitched six straight shutout innings — made Fred Haney shrug off some generally lacklustre performances by some of his other hired hands.

The Yankee situation—one victory in their first six games—had Casey Stengel talking to himself until Don Larsen's five - inning shutout performance Friday gave the A.L. champions an impressive 5-1 triumph over the Redlegs. Neither Mickey Mantle nor Yogi Berra has done much hitting and Deron Johnson, the highly-touted rookie outfielder, was hitting only .212 after seven games.

The Cardinals received a tremendous lift when Vinergar Bend Mizell, the problem pitcher of 1957, hurled four shutout innings against the Yankees in his spring debut. Manager Fred Hutchinson had labelled the big left-hander as the key pitcher in his pennant plans. Mizell was 8-10 last season but finished with a string of strong games.

Musial, the N.L.'s 1957 batting champion, was swinging away at a .300 clip for the Cardinals and looking forward to trying for his eighth batting title but considerable mystery surrounded Ted Williams' training. Ted, who has received a doctor's okay on a question-mark ankle, is taking only batting practice and may not appear at all in exhibitions. Red Sox officials insist, however, that he will be ready by opening day.

Despite rather pessimistic predictions because rain disrupted so many early training routines, there were no serious injuries during the first week of Grapefruit competition.

9 Techmen Get Cage Letters

RUSTON, La. (Special) —Nine members of Louisiana Tech's 1957-58 basketball team have been awarded letters. The letterman list, announced by Joe Aillet, Tech athletic director, includes two juniors, three sophomores and four freshmen.

Bulldog players awarded monograms include juniors Charles Frye, Pittsburg, Tex., Gary Richardson, Shreveport; sophomores J. W. Mercer, Mangham, Jim Tullos, Jena, Ron Woodward, Worden, Ill.; and freshmen Jack Moreland, Minden, Joe Daigle, Jennings, Ron Futrell, Houston, Tex., and Jimmy Orton, Shreveport.

Two post - season honors have come to Tech's center Jack Moreland. The Minden freshman, who set more than a dozen new Bulldog records last season and who captured the Gulf States Conference scoring title, has been given honorable mention for the United Press All - America team. Moreland also was selected as center on an all-opponent quintet selected by Mississippi Southern.

Four teams Tech defeated early in the season were invited to post-season tournaments. Arkanuas Tech, Eastern New Mexico University and East Texas each won NAIA regional playoffs to enter the big national meet at Kansas City. Centenary College competed in the NCAA small college Southwest regional tourney at Springfield, Mo.

The Techsters completed the season with a 15-10 season mark and a 4-6 Gulf States Conference record.

Tony Despirito Rides Indian Maid To Win

OLDSMAR, Fla. (AP)—Tony Despirito celebrated his homecoming day at Sunshine Park Saturday by riding Indian Maid to victory in the first inning of the Florida Breeders Futurity.

This race for 2-year-olds has a gross value of $6,145, making it the richest race in the track's history.

Despirito sent Indian Maid between horses at the top of the stretch and won going away in record time.

Mr. Noble finished second, 5½ lengths back of Indian Maid. Mad Duchess was third.

Indian Maid, owned by Mrs. Mildred Keim, paid $4.70, $3 and $2.90.

Bev Hanson Regains Lead In Titleholders Tourney

By JACK SIMMS

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., used a strong putting game to regain the lead in Saturday's third round of the 72-hole Titleholders Golf Tournament.

She toured the 6,290-yard Augusta Country Club course in 73 strokes for a 54-hole total of 225.

Fay Crocker, power hitter from Montevideo, Uruguay, clung to second place, three strokes behind Miss Hanson. The professional from South America had a 74-76-78—228.

Miss Hanson, a 32-year-old blonde pro, sizzled home with a 72 to match men's par and take the lead opening day. She got home with an 80 Friday playing part of the round with some trouble from a recurring back ailment.

The back was no trouble Saturday. Miss Hanson used only 26 putts—12 on the front nine and 14 coming in—to regain the pole position among 23 professionals battling for $1,000 top money in this $5,000 event.

Miss Hanson went a stroke over par on the first and sixth holes but made the turn in par by sinking good putts for birdies on the par three fourth and the par five eighth.

She was three-over regulation at the end of 15 holes, but put threes back to back for birdies on the 16th and 17th. Then she rimmed the cup with a long putt on the 18th for her 37.

Red-haired Betty Dodd of San Antonio, Tex., slipped in with a 75 to jump into third place with a 229.

Five shots off the pace at 230 came Patty Berg, defending champion and a seven-time winner of this event. The 40-year-old professional from St. Andrews, Ill., carded a 78.

It was doubtful up to starting time whether Miss Berg would play the third round. She tell and injured a knee and ankle Friday. A doctor X-rayed the injuries and permitted the crowd favorite to remain in the tournament.

Marlene Hagge, who held the second round lead by one-stroke over Miss Crocker with a 149, had one of her poorest days. She shot an 82 to fall into fifth place at 231. She had 10 bogies, two birdies and a six on the par four 16th hole.

Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., who took a 79, held the amateur lead. She was in 11th place with a 237, five strokes ahead of her nearest amateur competitors.

The low scorers:

Beverly Hanson	72-80-73—225

750-POUNDER

Big Wrestler At Arena Tomorrow

"Happy" Humphrey, a growing boy of 750 pounds, will wrestle at Kallio's Arena Monday night — if the ring holds up.

Advertised as the "largest man ever seen in a wrestling ring" (there should be little argument there), Humphrey will trade holds with "Swede" Karl Karlsson, a little fellow of only 278 pounds, in an hour-limit special event at the local wrestling arena.

The bout shares billing with a tag team main event featuring Charlie Laye and Bernard Hodgemyer against Bill Barney and Phil Brummett. This one will have a 90-minute time limit. A 10-minute scrap between Barney and Hodgemyer will open the program.

The coming of Humphrey has raised several questions among local wrestling enthusiasts according to Promoter Gus Kallio. How can he get into the ring? Can he really wrestle? How does he get through the ropes?

Kallio doesn't profess to know all the answers but he does think "it will take a strong man to turn him on his back, that is if he can get him on the mat first."

Kallio believes that if anybody can give the big boy a battle it will be Scandinavian Karlsson. Thirty-one years old to Humphrey's 24, Karlsson is a former Swedish and Scndinavian wrestling champion and also boxed in his younger days, losing only seven of 101 fights.

Karlsson is said to have lived with a tribe of Amazon headhunters, killed a 480 pound snake with only a knife, served in the Merchant Marine in the war, had ships torpedoed from under him twice and survived 36 days in a lifeboat. Quite a busy life for a 31-year-old man.

Humphrey was born in Macon, Georgia and weighed a mere 150 pounds at age three. By the age of ten, he was throwing bears and bulls with ease. He is said to be able to lift one thousand pounds.

As would be expected, "Happy" is quite handy with a knife and fork. At one sitting he has put away three dozen oysters, five orders of chicken, a gallon of milk, a loaf of bread and all the trimmings.

Pacific Coast Standards Up Another Year

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast Conference committed itself Saturday to maintain present athlete aid standards until the July 1, 1959, withdrawal deadline of California, UCLA and Southern California.

By a 6-2 vote, a special conference meeting which ended today rejected a modified aid plan proposed by Washington and supported by Southern California. California did not vote because Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, faculty representative, was absent. But Cal's previous policy declarations place it solidly on the majority side.

Chuck Taylor, Stanford's assistant athletic director and conference spokesman, said he interpreted the vote as showing the league members were "substantially satisfied" with maintaining the PCC's present aid code.

The continuing PCC aid code allows member schools to give athletes tuition and campus jobs paying $100 a month at $2 an hour. A $4 an hour wage is allowed in the athlete's sports season.

The Washington-sponsored plan, including family need standards patterened after the Big Ten Conference aid code, would have provided tuition, fees, board room and books to athletes. Whether the athlete worked would have been left up to each school.

PLAY AT MISS. COLLEGE

Northeast Opens Diamond Season Monday With Two

Northeast State's baseball team embarks upon its strongest schedule in history tomorrow afternoon at Clinton, Miss. when it meets Mississippi College's Choctaws in a doubleheader.

Tomorrow's games kick off Northeast's schedule of 24 regular season games and three tournament tilts. The Indian baseballers will play Arkansas A&M Saturday in their first home contest and open Gulf States Conference competition on March 31 at Northwestern.

Coach George Luffey plans to use his entire pitching staff against the Choctaws, righthanders Lyle Dorsey, Ike Wheeler, James Mock, Huey Jinks and Jake Ross and lefties Terry Reeves and Jay Gross. Wher he's not pitching, Mock will play left field.

Luffey will also use all three of his catchers, Don Ballard, Ralph Ward and Faye Thurmond. The catching position and first base, both weak spots for the Indians last year, have been greatly strengthened, according to Luffey.

Bob Groves will be at first base, Jackie Brooks at second, Captain Harry Rushing at short, Gary Huckaby at third, Homer Rouse, called the most improved player on the team by his coach, in right field, Ike McMullen in center and Jim Laudadio in left when Mock is pitching.

The club had five rounds of batting practice yesterday and hit the ball well. Brooks, Rushing, McMullens and Mock hit over .300 last year for the Indians and are counted on to provide most of this year's batting punch. All-GSC Gary Huckaby has been hitting the long ball in practice this spring and Groves has also looked good at the plate.

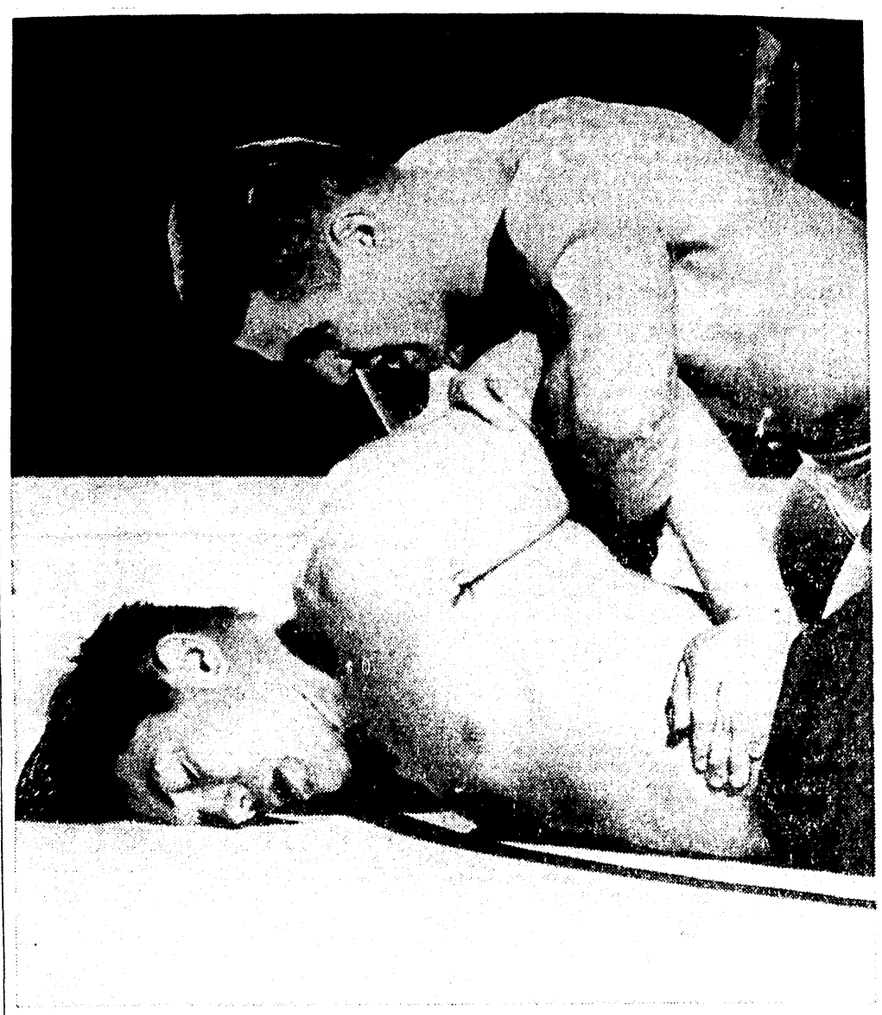
Highland Park Four-Ball Golf Event Saturday

Highland Park Golf Club of West Monroe conducts the season's first area golf tournament next Saturday, the One-Day Four-Ball meet for area linksmen. They'll play three nine-hole matches in flights.

Qualifying for flight positions will continue through Friday, and out-of-town golfers planning to participate will be permitted to tour their home course in qualifying play, provided their score is mailed in Highland in time to make the Friday qualifying deadline.



ARMHOLD—Frank Powell, Iowa state's undefeated captain, forced Jim Novotny of Nebraska to the canvas with an armlock in the 177-pound event of the Big Eight Conference wrestling meet at Ames, Ia., yesterday. Powell advanced to the finals on an 11-1 decision. (AP Wirephoto)

DELAYED WEEK

Haas Tourney Opens Next Saturday At Bayou Club

After a week's delay because of bad weather, the Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap Tournament, a spring feature for Bayou DeSiard Country Club members, begins here next Saturday. Qualifying was also delayed, and Bayou DeSiard golfers will have until next Friday to get in their qualifying play.

Theo Terzia is defending champion in the handicap event, but he is qualifying along with the rest and has already got in his trial round.

Golfers will have one week to get in their early matches, but at the quarter-final stage the tourney will be speeded up for two matches a week.

Winnie Cole, club professional, last night announced 33 golfers have already qualified in the meet named for a former popular Monroe amateur golfer who died in the Pacific theater of war during World War II.

The qualifiers to date are:

Sonny Harper 74, Mark Womard Guerriero 94, Bobby Garrett 90, Tom McMahan 88, Clyde Nash 75, Edmund Brown 86, Roy Skillman 89, Theo Terzia 84, Harold Woods Jr. 83, Stan Bagwell 94, Joe Washburn 96, Dr. Frank P. Rizzo 98, W. L. Dean 95, McBea Oliver 84, Robert Guerriero 83.

Europeans Continue Sweep Of Ski Titles

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Karl Schranz of Austria and Inger Bjoernbakken of Norway continued their sweep of the season's skiing honors Saturday by winning slalom titles in the 75th Holmenkollen snow carnival.

In the Nordic phase of the famous competition, Pavel Keltchin of Russia won the rigorous 50-milometer cross country ski race in 3 hours, 10 minutes and 46 seconds.

Mack Miller of McCall, Idaho, produced the surprise of this skiing marathon when he finished 18th in a starting field of 49. Trailing most of the way, McCall put on a powerful finishing spurt to finish the 31-mile, 120-yard test in 3:31:56.

It was the best showing an American ever made in a Holmenkollen distance race. The other U.S. entry, Tauno Pulkkinen, a former Finn now living in Brooklyn, finished 36th in 3:43:30.

Many of America's top Alpine skiers were en route to Poland and missed the day's slalom races staged on the fast Olympic Roedklaiva course.

Marvin Moriarty of Stowe, Vt. placed ninth in the men's race, only American to finish in the Top Ten.

Sally Deaver of Whitemarsh, Pa., finished 12th in the slalom but earned 10th place in the women's combined standings for the British Challenge Cup. Sally was fifth in the downhill Thursday. Linda Meyer of Bishop, Calif., was 16th in the slalom.

Young Schranz, 19, hailed as the "New Toni Sailer," beat out a fellow countryman, Matthias Leitner, in two lightning swoops down the course, with its tricky gates and turns.

He had the day's best time, 66 seconds, for the first run and 68.2 seconds for the second, giving him a total of 2 minutes, 14.2 seconds. Leitner registered 2:14.4 and Ludwig Litner of West Germany, 2:17.7. Moriarty's time was 2:32.4.

Schranz' victory, coupled with his downhill triumph at Voss on Thursday, earned him the coveted Holmenkollen Kandahar Challenge Cup, emblem of Alpine skiing supremacy. Moriarty placed sixth in these standings, based on both downhill and slalom performances.

Miss Bjoernbakken, 24-year-old telephone operator, spun down the shorter women's course in 1 minute, 47.2 seconds for two runs.

It was the fourth consecutive slalom victory at Holmenkollen for Miss Bjoernbakken, rated the world's best woman slalom skier.

The British Challenge Cup, awarded for the top combined women's performance, went to Putzi Frandl of Austria, winner of the downhill race Thursday. Miss Bjoernbakken placed ninth in the dombined.

Nashville Tops Jackson, 59-37

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Nashville romped to two lopsided victories Saturday and captured the Boys Clubs of America sectional basketball tournament.

Nashville eliminated Rome, Ga., 58-27 in the semifinal round and then trounced Jackson, Miss., 59-37 in the championship.

Jackson had defeated Chattanooga 46-43 to gain the finals.

Better Bee Wins Appleton By Head

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — William S. Miller's Better Bee scored a head victory in the $16,375 Appleton Handicap at Gulfstream Park Saturday but had to share the spotlight with apparentice jockey John Ruane, who rode four winners in a row.

Ruane finished fifth in the Appletonaboard Greentree Stable's Pop Corn after winning the second, third, fourth and fifth races on the program. He thus became the first rider to win four in a single afternoon during the current Gulfstream meeting.

Better Bee, with Sammy Boulmetis, up, ran the mile and an eighth in 1:47 4-5, a second slower than the record set by Calumet Farm's Gen. Duke last March.

Roslyn Farm's Go Lightly, under jockey William M. Cook, was second and Mrs. Wallace Gilroy's Oh Johnny, 4-5 favorite with the crowd of 20,644 and top weighed at 122 pounds, was third, 2½ lengths back of Go Lightly and 4½ in front of Van Deren & Deming's Toby B.

Pop Corn, Ken Kelman's Grand Canyon and Castle Rock Farm's Mr. First completed the field.

Better Bee, second choice and carrying 112 pounds, paid $8.70, $4.80 and $3.00. Go Lightly paid $10.10 and $4.00 while Oh Johnny returned $2.40.

Better Bee, a brown colt by Triplicate out of S. Bee by Haste, earned $9,250 for his owner, the chairman of the Illinois Racing Board. It was Better Bee's first win of the year.

Ruane, 18-year-old rider, shot into the lead over Richard L. Barnett, another apprentice, when he won the second on Turkson ($6.30), the third on Mixforsome ($6.90), the fourth on General Rocket ($11.90) and the fifth on Bingo ($4.30).

Ruane is under contract to the Greentree Stable. His four winners put him one up on Barnett, who had 11 going into Saturday's program.

Sooners Place Six Wrestlers In Loop Finals

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Defending champion Oklahoma advanced challengers to the finals of six of the eight events of the Big Eight Conference wrestling meet Saturday night.

Running true to predictions that the tournament would be dominated by three schools, Iowa State moved up five men in the afternoon semifinals and Oklahoma State, a new comer to the conference, advanced four wrestlers.

Kansas State and Colorado had two men left for the final round and Neraska only one.

DECIDE ON STADIUM

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Allegheny County Public Auditorium Authority said Saturday a decision will be made next week on whether the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League will use the University of Pittsburgh Stadium next fall.

PLAY AT MISS. COLLEGE

Northeast Opens Diamond Season Monday With Two

Northeast State's baseball team embarks upon its strongest schedule in history tomorrow afternoon at Clinton, Miss. when it meets Mississippi College's Choctaws in a doubleheader.

Tomorrow's games kick off Northeast's schedule of 24 regular season games and three tournament tilts. The Indian baseballers will play Arkansas A&M Saturday in their first home contest and open Gulf States Conference competition on March 31 at Northwestern.

Coach George Luffey plans to use his entire pitching staff against the Choctaws, righthanders Lyle Dorsey, Ike Wheeler, James Mock, Huey Jinks and Jake Ross and lefties Terry Reeves and Jay Gross. Wher he's not pitching, Mock will play left field.

Luffey will also use all three of his catchers, Don Ballard, Ralph Ward and Faye Thurmond. The catching position and first base, both weak spots for the Indians last year, have been greatly strengthened, according to Luffey.

Bob Groves will be at first base, Jackie Brooks at second, Captain Harry Rushing at short, Gary Huckaby at third, Homer Rouse, called the most improved player on the team by his coach, in right field, Ike McMullen in center and Jim Laudadio in left when Mock is pitching.

The club had five rounds of batting practice yesterday and hit the ball well. Brooks, Rushing, McMullens and Mock hit over .300 last year for the Indians and are counted on to provide most of this year's batting punch. All-GSC Gary Huckaby has beer hitting the long ball in practice this spring and Groves has also looked good at the plate.

DELAYED WEEK

Haas Tourney Opens Next Saturday At Bayou Club

After a week's delay because of bad weather, the Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap Tournament, a spring feature for Bayou DeSiard Country Club members, begins here next Saturday. Qualifying was also delayed, and Bayou DeSiard golfers will have until next Friday to get in their qualifying play.

Theo Terzia is defending champion in the handicap event, but he is qualifying along with the rest and has already got in his trial round.

Golfers will have one week to get in their early matches, but at the quarter-final stage the tourney will be speeded up for two matches a week.

Winnie Cole, club professional, last night announced 33 golfers have already qualified in the meet named for a former popular Monroe amateur golfer who died in the Pacific theater of war during World War II.

The qualifiers to date are:

Sonny Harper 74, Mark Womard Guerriero 94, Bobby Garrett 90, Tom McMahan 88, Clyde Nash 75, Edmund Brown 86, Roy Skillman 89, Theo Terzia 84, Harold Woods Jr. 83, Stan Bagwell 94, Joe Washburn 96, Dr. Frank P. Rizzo 98, W. L. Dean 95, McBea Oliver 84, Robert Guerriero 83.

Warren Climbs To Fourth Place In Gulf Coast Meet

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Dick Cline rolled in a 60-foot putt for an eagle three on the par-five 12th hole to clinch his third 69 and a three-stroke lead Saturday in the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational golf tournament.

The 38-year-old Lanett, Ala., professional, who began the day a stroke at 138 with Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., and Gene Frase of Memphis, Tenn., shoved a stroke off par on each nine with his 54-35-71 for a 207 total.

Cupit, in the lead the first two days, fell six strokes off the pace with a four-over-par 75 for 213.

Frase came in with a 72 to tie into a three-way tie for second at 210. Tied with Frase were Jim Barfield of Grand Rapids, Mich., with a 71 today, and Bill Taylor of South Charleston, W.Va., with a 69.

One stroke back were Leonard Warren of Bastrop, La., and Pat Abbott of Memphis. Both shot par off par on each nine with his 34-35-71.

Defending champion Dick Metz of Fort Worth, Tex., and Scudday Horner of Montgomery, Ala., both shot 70 to tie at 212.

B. J. Murphy Jr. of Shreveport, La., was low amateur after the third round with a 72 for a 216 total.

A cold wind blowing in off the Gulf of Mexico kept temperatures chilly at the 6,016-yard Great Southern golf course for the third day, despite bright sunshine.

For the second day, Cline had trouble on the first hole.

"I missed the green with my second shot, then took two putts to get down for a bogey five," he explained.

He birdied the second hole, then three-putted the fifth green to one over par. "On the 7th I chipped in 20 feet from the edge of the green," Cline said, "and on the 8th I holed up from the sand trap, about 15 feet, for another birdie."

On the 480-yard 12th hole, Cline landed in front of the green on his second shot, then sank the putt for his eagle.

"That putt was 60 feet," he said. "I know because I paced it off."

Cline's only difficulty on the last six holes came on the 15th when he "hooked into the trees, played it safe coming out and then missed a four-foot putt for a bogey."

SAYS MANTLE:

Kubek May Prove Williams' Threat

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP) — Mickey Mantle thinks the man who will give Ted Williams the toughest tussle for the American League batting crown this year is teammate Tony Kubek.

"Williams probably will win the title again this year if he plays regularly," Mantle said, biting a huge hunk out of a ham and cheese sandwich just before going out to participate in an exhibition game.

"If Williams doesn't do it though," he continued, "Kubek has a good chance. Much better than most people think."

The 22-year-old Kubek, who played four different positions for the Yankees last year, batted a solid .297 and wound up being named the American League rookie of the year.

As for himself, Mantle says he has only a modest goal.

"My biggest aim is to play 154 games," he said. "I've been trying to do that since I came up here but haven't been able to yet. Something always comes up, it seems."

Last year, Mantle played in 144 games and finished runnerup to Williams in the batting race with a .365 average. He drove in 94 runs and hit 34 homers. He failed to win any of the three crowns he captured in 1956.

Mantle explained that the leg injury which forced him to the sidelines late last year and prevented him from playing full time against Milwaukee in the World Series no longer is troubling him.

ATHLETE AND DRIVER

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bob Comstock, Catholic University basketball player, got more than he bargained for when he offered to drive the university track team to the recent Eastern Invitational Games here. After hauling the truckload of runners from Baltimore to Washington and settling down to watch the action, he saw a Catholic U. entrant injured in a spill during one of the early events. Comstock was pressed into service as the victim's replacement on a relay team later in the evening. The team won.

Two Repeaters For All-Meet Cage Machine

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—Jimmie Daniels of South Dakota's NCAA college basketball champions and Wheaton's Mel Peterson repeated Saturday as members of the all-tournament team.

The team was selected by news and radio men after South Dakota defeated St. Michael's of Vermont 75-63, to win the NCAA college division championship Friday night.

In that victory, Daniels scored 40 points.

Ed Smallwood of host Evansville replaced Peterson in the voting for the outstanding player of the tournament. He received 98 points to 92 by Jim Bowman of St. Michael's. Points were awarded on the basis of 10 for first, 9 for second and so on down.

Evansville took third place in the tourney.

The other first team selection went to Dick Zeitler of St. Michael's. Other points in the balloting gave Daniels 88, Peterson 81 and Zeitler 43.

Those making the second team were Tony Nicodemo, St. Michael's, 30 points; Bob Whitehead, Wheaton, 30; Cliff Daniels, South Dakota, 27; Bob Hamblin, Chapman College, 25; and Hugh Ahering, Evansville, 25.

Pistons Best Cincinnati In NBA Playoffs

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Pistons survived a stone-cold third quarter and whipped the Cincinnati Royals 100-83 Saturday in their first game of a best-of-three semifinal playoff series in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn.

Balding George Yardley, who set an all-time regular season scoring record of 2,001 points, scored 10 of Detroit's first 22 points and ended up with 29, high for the day.

Gene Shue ran Yardley a close second for scoring honors with 25 for the Pistons. Clyde Lovellette was tops for Cincinnati with 15. Brilliant defensive work by Joe Holup handcuffed big Maurice Stokes, the Royals' ace, on both backboards. Stokes made only 12 points.

The Pistons clinched the contest early with a 15-point spree midway in the first quarter. They pulled away from a 7-5 lead to a 22-5 advantage in slightly under four minutes. Shue, using a medium length jump shot to perfection scored seven points during this run. Yardley added four and Holup and Dick McGuire had a basket each.

Cincinnati, behind by 20 points at halftime, cut the deficit to nine early in the third quarter, but the Pistons woke up in time.

Yanks Send Two Down To Minors

ST. PETERSBURG (AP) — The New York Yankees made their first squad cuts Saturday, sending shortstop Tom Carroll and catcher Bill Johnson to the minor league training base at Lake Wales, Fla.

Carroll, who hit .213 for Richmond of the International League last year, has been optioned to Denver of the American Assn. Johnson played with the St. Petersburg Saints of the Florida State League in 1957.

NEW YORK (UP)—The Amateur Athletic Union Saturday announced dates and sites for competition between athletes from the United States and Russia in four sports.

The details covered men's and women's basketball, men's and women's track and field, plus weight - lifting and wrestling. Government officials from the two nations recently agreed on such an exchange of athletes.

The AAU announced these details:

Track and field, men and women: A U.S. team of 44 men and 20 women will compete in Moscow July 27-28 in the 32 events of the Olympic program. Each nation will enter two athletes in each event. The AAU outdoor championships at Bakersfield, Calif., June 20-21 will serve as the final tryout for the U.S. team. Russian track and field athletes will visit the U.S. next year.

Basketball, men and women: The winning teams in the national AAU championships (men at Denver, women at St. Joseph, Mo.) later this month will leave for Moscow April 20 for six games from April 26 to May 4. There will be two games at Moscow, two at Leningrad and two at Tbilisi. Russian basketball teams will return the visit in 1959.

Weight - lifting: The Russian team will compete against the U.S. squad May 12 at Chicago and May 16 at New York. The U.S. team will go to Russia next year.

Wrestling: Soviet freestyle wrestlers will oppose the U.S. in three Oklahoma matches—April 11 at Norman, April 12 at Stillwater and April 15 at Tulsa. A fourth match will be held at a site to be chosen. The Americans will wrestle in Russia next yaer.

At the same time, the AAU appealed for donations to send men and women gymnasts to the world championships at Moscow in July. Russian gymnasts, who far outdistanced the Americans while winning the 1956 Olympic championship, will be favored again.

Bowie 'Cap Won By Paper Tiger

BOWIE, Md. (AP)—A $1,500 investment made by trainer Hirsch Jacobs 15 years ago rang up $18,242 more on the cash register Saturday when Paper Tiger won the Bowie Handicap.

The 7-year-old son of Stymie came with the familiar late rush of his father to whip eight other horses in the mile and three-sixteenth race.

Paper Tiger finished two lengths ahead of Jack Amiel's Mr. Turf, although he was last with half a mile to go. Wayne Kendrick's King Challa was third and Jan Burke's Field of Honor was fourth in the field going after total prize money of $28,450.

Paper Tiger was made the betting favorite of the 18,270 fans and returned $4.20, $3.20 and $2.40. Taking his usual sweet time early in the race, Paper Tiger finished the distance in 1:48 over footing on the soft and damp side.

Mr. Turf paid $5.40 and $3.80, and King Challa was $4.40 to show. Paper Tiger carried 115 pounds, Mr. Turf 114 and King Challa 100.

Paper Tiger is the second son of Stymie to grace the winner's circle of the Bowie Handicap. Joe Jones made it twice in a row in 1955 and 1956.

Jacobs claimed Stymie for $1,500 from King Ranch as a 2-year-old. The horse went on to win $918,485, the first in history to exceed $900,000, by the time he retired in 1949.

Paper Tiger's victory assured Jacobs of a powerful entry in the $100,000 Campbell Memorial Handicap to run at Bowie on March 29. The other is Promised Land, winner last Tuesday of the San Juan Capistrano Handicap at Santa Anita.

Jockey Howard Grant reported after dismounting from Paper Tiger that he had only to shake his whip at the horse to get him moving to victory.

"He ran terrific," said the jockey. "At the half mile pole, I asked him to run, but very little. He ran with ease. I never touched him, just kept flagging him."

Paper Tiger had the heaviest load of the field, 115 pounds.

Mr. Turf, the early leader, had a substitute jockey in Joe Culmone. The stewards announced during the program that they were suspending jockey Dave Gorman until after March 29 because he showed up "in an unfit condition to fulfill his riding engagements."

The Bowie was Paper Tiger's second victory in three starts this year. He has earned a total of $297,797.

Top Racers For Florida Grand Prix

SEBRING, Fla. (UP) — About 40,000 sports car fans will converge on this small central Florida town during the coming week to see some of the world's top drivers and machines battle for 12 hours in the Florida Grand Prix of Endurance.

"Race Week" which swells this town of some 8,000 persons to the bursting point, begins Monday with registration of drivers. They will begin their practice runs over the 5.2-mile road-runway course is expected to arrive for the event which he has won two years in a row. But he is keeping race officials guessing as to whether he will compete with some 65 drivers officially entered.

Race officials were told that Fangio would drive a Ferrari owned by Chester J. Flynn, vice president of the Automobile Racing Club of Florida. But Fangio was quoted in Argentina as saying he would not compete.

If Fangio does drive, he will rank as a heavy favorite along with his co-driver last year, Jean Behra of France, who this year will drive a Porsche Spyder. Fangio and Behra won the 1957 race as members of the Maserati team, which has since been disbanded.

They set a course record last year, their Maserati averaging 85.5 miles an hour.

The race, which offerd $13,000 in prize money, is run over a course composed of roads and runways at the old Sebring air terminal.

The race is one of seven which is used to determine the world's champion

Ralph Dupas Works Hard For Fuentes

NEW ORLEANS, March 15—UP—Ralph Dupas, whose prospects of meeting Joe Brown for the lightweight title look brighter each day, pepped up in his workouts today for Monday night's fight with veteran Ramon Fuentes of Los Angeles.

Dupas meets the 30-year-old Mexican boxer in a 10-rounder in Municipal auditorium.

"Fuentes has the style to make me look good," Dupas said. "He is tough, but I believe I have a chance of dropping him somewhere along the line."

Fuentes has faced the toughest of all welters during his eight years of pro fighting. He relies mainly on hooks and body punches.

Boxing writer Ike Morales of the New Orleans Item said a Brown-Dupas title match "is really shaping up," probably for Houston, Tex., as originally planned.

"When old Jack Kearns stepped in to say that he would be willing to let Kenny Lane fight the Brown - Dupas winner for the championship, provided the latter pair would post a $5,000 forfeit with the National Boxing Assn., the decks were just about cleared for the Texas scrap."

Morales said he believed the NBA, to save face, will agree to allow the Brown-Dupas fight and will vainly try to get the consent of both managers to agree to let Lane meet the winner while posting a $5,000 forfeit.

Only winners of major PGA tournaments are qualified to tee off in the $40,000 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev.

Warren Climbs To Fourth Place In Gulf Coast Meet

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — Dick Cline rolled in a 60-foot putt for an eagle three on the par-five 12th hole to cinch his third 69 and a three-stroke lead Saturday in the $5,000 Gulf Coast Invitational golf tournament.

The 33-year-old Lanett, Ala., professional, who began the day tied at 138 with Buster Cupit of Fort Smith, Ark., and Gene Frase of Memphis, Tenn., sliced a stroke off par on each nine with his 34-35 for a 207 total.

Cupit, in the lead the first two days, fell six strokes off the pace with a four-over-par 75 for 213.

Frase came in with a 72 to fall into a three-way tie for second at 210. Tied with Frase were Jim Barfield of Grand Rapids, Mich., with a 71 today, and Bill Taylor of South Charleston, W.Va., with a 68.

One stroke back were Leonard Warren of Bastrop, La., and Pat Abbott of Memphis. Both shot par 71.

Defending champion Dick Metz of Fort Worth, Tex., and Scudday Horner of Montgomery, Ala., both shot 70 to tie at 212.

B. J. Murphy Jr. of Shreveport, La., was low amateur after the third round with a 72 for a 216 total.

A cold wind blowing in off the Gulf of Mexico kept temperatures chilly at the 6,016-yard Great Southern golf course for the third day, despite bright sunshine.

For the second day, Cline had trouble on the first hole.

"I missed the green with my second shot, then took two putts to get down for a bogey five," he explained.

He birdied the second hole, then three-putted the fifth green to one over par. "On the 7th I chipped in 20 feet from the edge of the green," Cline said, "and on the 8th I holed up from the sand trap, about 15 feet, for another birdie."

On the 480-yard 12th hole, Cline landed in front of the green on his second shot, then sank the putt for his eagle.

"That putt was 60 feet," he said. "I know because I paced it off."

Cline's only difficulty on the last six holes came on the 15th when he "hooked into the trees, played it safe coming out and then missed a four-foot putt for a bogey."

The leaders:

Dick Cline, Lanett, Ala., 69-69-69—207

SAYS MANTLE:

Kubek May Prove Williams' Threat

By MILTON RICHMAN

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UP) —Mickey Mantle thinks the man who will give Ted Williams the toughest tussle for the American League batting crown this year is teammate Tony Kubek.

"Williams probably will win the title again this year if he plays regularly," Mantle said, biting a huge hunk out of a ham and cheese sandwich just before going out to participate in an exhibition game.

"If Williams doesn't do it, though," he continued, "Kubek has a good chance. Much better than most people think."

The 22-year-old Kubek, who played four different positions for the Yankees last year, batted a solid .297 and wound up being named the American League rookie of the year.

As for himself, Mantle says he has only a modest goal.

"My biggest aim is to play 154 games," he said. "I've been trying to do that since I came up here but haven't been able to yet. Something always comes up, it seems."

"Fuentes has the style to make me look good," Dupas said. "He is tough, but I believe I have a chance of dropping him somewhere along the line."

Fuentes has faced the toughest of all welters during his eight years of pro fighting. He relies mainly on hooks and body punches.

Boxing writer Ike Morales of the New Orleans Item said a Brown-Dupas title match "is really shaping up," probably for Houston, Tex., as originally planned.

"When old Jack Kearns stepped in to say that he would be willing to let Kenny Lane fight the Brown - Dupas winner for the championship, provided the latter pair would post a $5,000 forfeit with the National Boxing Assn., the decks were just about cleared for the Texas scrap."

Morales said he believed the NBA, to save face, will agree to allow the Brown-Dupas fight and will vainly try to get the consent of both managers to agree to let Lane meet the winner while posting a $5,000 forfeit.

Only winners of major PGA tournaments are qualified to tee off in the $40,000 Tournament of Champions at Las Vegas, Nev.

WEEK IN FINANCE

Anti-Recession Moves Starting To Take Shape

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Big new government moves against recession began to take definite shape this week.

They include more government spending on housing, guided missiles, river and harbor improvements, new roads. Also there was the possibility of an across-the-board cut in federal income taxes.

Among the economic hypos on hand, a tax cut looked like the fastest acting. It would put billions of extra spending dollars in consumers' pockets in the shortest possible time.

One thing was sure: any of the proposed cures—tax cuts, defense spending, public works or what have you—would cost money. Unavoidably they'd plunge the government deeper into debt. According to those who usually make good guesses, antirecession remedies on the fire right now would increase the U. S. Treasury's deficit in the next fiscal year by as much as 15 billion dollars.

Yet there seemed to be no other way. Consumers and business firms had lost their boomtime appetite for going into hock, so Uncle Sam would have to make up the difference.

The consumer and his state of mind came under official scrutiny this week in a poll conducted for the Federal Reserve Board by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center. Here's what it showed:

Consumers are less confident about business than they were a year ago—actually they're less confident than at any time since 1948 when the survey started.

They plan to buy less furniture, fewer houses, appliances, and new cars than last year.

They expect to buy more used cars than in 1957 and to spend just about as much as last year fixing up their present homes.

That's how Mr. and Mrs. Average American Consumer are thinking these days.

Strangely, their pessimism concerns only other people—not their own personal fortunes. The great majority expect their own income to be every bit as large as last year.

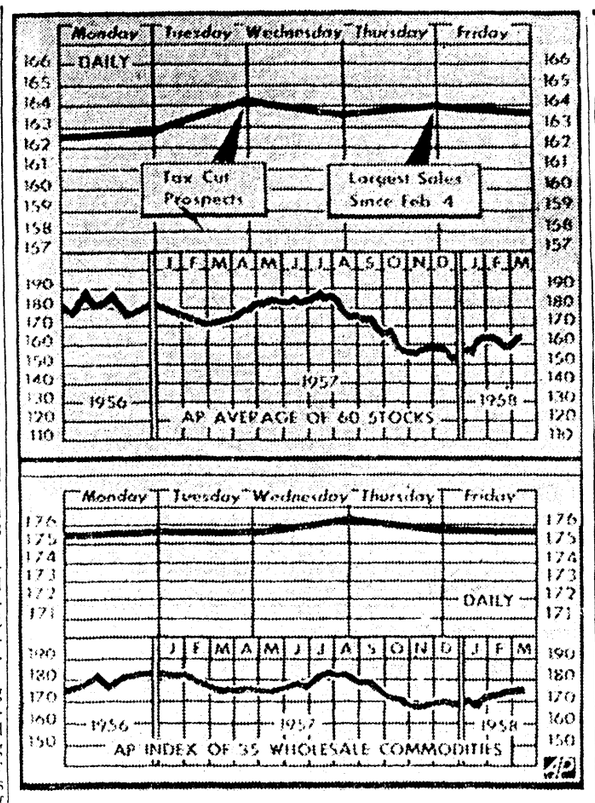
If the consumer is in a belt-tightening mood, big business seems to be even more so. A government survey just out this week tells the story. U. S. business firms will spend 13 per cent less on new plant, machinery, and equipment this year than in 1957. The proposed outlay—32 billion dollars—compares with nearly 38 billions last year.

There's nothing new about business wanting to curb its capital expenditures. But the latest survey shows that the 13 per cent drop is a lot bigger than government studies had indicated as recently as a few months ago.

During most of the booming postwar period a far-flung program of business expansion had bolstered the economy, devouring tons of steel, cement, and other materials and providing millions of jobs. Hundreds of billions of dollars were spent on new factories, oil refineries, chemical plants, office buildings, warehouses, department stores and shopping centers.

Now the bonanza seems to have played itself out.

On the industrial employment front this week it was the same old story: more throttling down of production, more layoffs. Douglas Aircraft Co.'s Santa Monica, Calif., division will furlough 3,000 workers by June 1. Also reporting new layoffs this week were General Motors' Norwood, Ohio, Fisher Body and Chevrolet plant, its Kansas City Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant, Ford's Mahwah, N. J., passenger car plant, and four Western mining divisions of Kennecott Copper Corp.



AVERAGE UP FOR SECOND WEEK—For the second week in a row The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing at 163.7 from 162.6 a week ago. The commodity index also advanced for the second straight week, closing at 175.7 from 175.4 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

SECOND IN ROW

Stocks Register Climb For Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carved-out its second straight weekly advance this week as talk of a tax cut grew louder.

This rise was by no means prompted by a spreading conviction that a business upturn was just around the corner, brokers said. News aout business and the economy remained gloomy, but the gloomier it got the more clamor there was for antirecession legislation.

The biggest rise of the week came Tuesday when the market was buoyed by the powerful voices of Vice President Nixon and Secretary of Labor Mitchell advocating a tax cut. The prospect that more cash might be available for spending was obviously appetizing to Wall Street that day.

But the major trend of corporate earnings remained down and there was considerable differences of opinion as to how long the slump would last.

"Everything seems to point to inflation and more inflation," said Gerald Loeb, partner in E. F. Hutton & Co. He expressed doubt as to the near-term prospects for the market but was convinced that "the right" stocks are better than cash for the long haul.

The market rose on three days and declined on two. Without the substantial rise Tuesday the market would have registered a loss for the week. The Associated Press average showed a net gain of $1.10 to $163.70.

Big meat packing stocks came to the fore as Wall Street observers saw a favorable price situation in that industry. Aluminums and tobaccos did well. Coppers got a play on the rise in copper scrap prices, the first in months. Building materials received a temporary lift on Senate passage of the $1,800,000,000 housing measure.

The five most active issues were Lorillard up 4⅞ at 48, Wilson & Co. up 2⅜ at 21½, General Motors up ½ at 35¾, American Metal Climax up 1⅛ at 21 and Royal Dutch unchanged at 41.

U.S. government bonds improved this week on light demand. Corporates wound up higher on volume.

Weather, Oil Hurts State Fur

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — State Rep. Alvin Dyson of Cameron said Friday adverse weather conditions and the growth of the oil industry in the marshy homeland of the fur-bearing animals of Louisiana have hurt the fur industry in recent years.

Dyson directed his comments to a meeting of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries commission, which is currently studying ways to bolster the fur and fishing industries.

The Cameron legislator, while he recognizes the great contribution of oil to Louisiana, he feels that one industry should not profit at the expense of another.

Dyson said muskrats, mink and nutria must have sufficient fresh water to thrive. He said oil companies operating in the marshy coastal areas levee around their canals in order to prevent fresh water from running out of the marshes.

Salty sea water moves in when fresh water levels drop, he said.

Spokesmen for the Menhaden industry said marshland canals have hurt the Menhaden industry because young menhaden, like shrimp, grow in brackish waters before swimming into the open Gulf.

Commission director F. Lamar Clement said Louisiana's seafood industry was now in "critical condition."

H. R. Robinson of Westwego chairman of the Louisiana shrimp canners Assn., said Louisiana's shrimp production has suffered a cut of more than two-thirds in the past five years.

In 1953 production was 81 million pounds as compared with 35 million pounds in 1957.

Robinson said while Louisiana lost, other Gulf Coast states have continued producing at high levels.

He blamed bad weather, malpractices within the industry, improper trawling and effects of oil, gas and pipeline industries for the curtailed production.

IN OIL OUTPUT

Louisiana Noses Out California

By MAX B. SELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Louisiana has moved ahead of California as the nation's second leading oil state.

With major assists from offshore discoveries, Louisiana boosted its estimated proved reserved of crude oil last year ahead of California, long the runnerup to Texas, by over 97 million barrels.

In four years Louisiana has increased its reserves—crude held in storage underground—by 1,097,914,000 barrels. This is over 80 per cent of the national gain of 1,355,577,000 barrels.

California leads Louisiana in actual production of crude but the Gulf Coast state is threatening. California's output in 1956 exceeded Louisiana by 81 million barrels but the advantage dropped to only 41 million last year.

The 1957 estimates of the American Petroleum Institute showed domestic was less than one-half of one per cent and the first decline since 1943. Only 7 of the 23 oil producing states registered gains.

The 12 top oil states hold 96 per cent of the nation's crude reserves but of them only Louisiana and Wyoming had 1957 increases.

Other states showing increases were North Dakota, Ohio, Nebraska, Utah, and West Virginia.

Texas had over 48 per cent of domestic reserves despite a record decline that exceeded 227 million barrels. Both Louisiana and California claim 12 per cent. Oklahoma follows at 6 per cent, Wyoming with 4 per cent.

Estimated domestic production last year totaled a record 2,559,044,000 barrels. Discoveries of new reserves totaled only 2,424,800,000, leaving a deficit of 134 million barrels.

Louisiana's net increase in reserves was 182,150,000 barrels. New discoveries carried an estimate of 480,619,000 barrels. Actual production was 298,469,000.

California's discoveries exceeded 327 million barrels but actual production was in excess of 339 million.

New reserves found in Texas exceeded 828 million barrels, but production exceeded one billion barrels, leaving the state Dec. 31 with reserves estimated at 14,555,140,000.

In 1956 Texas, Louisiana, California, Oklahoma and Wyoming held 82 per cent of the nation's reserves. They increased their holdings last year to 84 per cent. Another 12 per cent came from Kansas, New Mexico, Illinois, Mississippi, Colorado, Montana and Arkansas. The remaining 4 per cent comes from 11 states.

Total domestic reserves Dec. 31 were estimated at 30,300,405,000 barrels, compared to a year earlier 30,434,649,000.

FOR RECESSION CURE

Political Units Looking To Uncle

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every recession-troubled state, city and industry is looking hopefully to Washington for the actions and policies — and, chiefly, the spending—that will spark a business recovery.

This is true even in the many states and towns which have tackled their problems with do-it-yourself solutions like local tax cuts, public works and lures for new industry.

Associated Press reporters who visited corporation offices, union headquarters, relief lines, city halls and statehouses in their nationwide "How's Business?" survey heard one theme stressed almost to the point of monotony: "Our recovery depends on the federal government."

Most of the speakers hoped for the arrival of big defense contracts. Many wanted tax reduction and further easing of credit. Mining men called for tariff boosts on foreign metal. Railroads wanted higher freight rates. Washington alone, they all implied, has the final answers.

Some of the comments had political overtones, a majority of these being unfavorable to the Eisenhower administration.

In the proud, Republican, mostly Mormon state of Utah—which is now distributing food to the unemployed for the first time in memory—reporters heard grumbling about "Republican prosperity."

A Vermont manufacturer blamed his state's problems on the "tight money" policy as well as on "extremely unfair income and corporation taxes." A jobless New Jersey plasterer said: "I hope Eisenhower is waking up."

By contrast, some people said they were reassured by the President's recent words and actions, including his record peacetime spending budget. A North Carolina builder observed: "Before, Ike was going to balance the budget at all costs. Now he's committed to deficit spending, and that means inflation and a boom."

There weren't enough politically slanted comments, however, to be taken as evidence that the recession will hurt GOP candidates in the November congressional elections. Most interviewers ignored politics and talked about the immediate problem — finding and creating jobs.

The survey did indicate, however, that pressure is growing in harder hit areas for faster, more positive action than the administration so far has taken.

To date the federal stimulative measure, as listed by President Eisenhower in his recent chins-up economic statement, consist mainly of programs that were in progress or pending before the full impact of recession was felt.

Cotton Future Prices Mixed During Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices followed an up-and-down course this week and closed mixed.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices which ranged from 35 cents a bale lower to $1.40 a bale higher than a week ago.

Nearby May and June deliveries lost 30 to 35 cents a bale, while all contracts from distant October 1958 forward to July 1959 closed higher.

The market was strong at the start of the week but later developed some softness.

Bullish factors included Senate approval of a proposal to freeze farm price supports at present levels.

Buying was also encouraged by expectations that the 1958 loan rates would be above the previously announced guaranteed minimum.

Selling reflected profit-taking and uncovering of stop-loss orders. Market sentiment was dampened by reports of continued slow demand for cotton textiles.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau reported a slightly larger than usual increase in domestic consumption of cotton during February.

In the four weeks from Feb. 2 to March 1, the bureau estimated, domestic mills used 655,000 bales, for an average of 32,800 bales a day. This compared with a daily rate of 32,000 bales in January and 34,400 in February last year.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the Service Bureau at 102,000 bales vs. 94,000 the previous week and 131,000 in the like 1957 week. For the current season through March 11 exports were estimated at 3,638,000 bales vs. 4,819,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Goudchaux Dies

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Bernard Goudchaux, a founder of Goudchaux's department store, died late Friday night. He was 76.

He was owner of Goudchaux's until 1938, when it was leased.

Goudchaux and his brother, Harry, began business here half a century ago, building the original business into a department store.

He was a native of New Orleans. Goudchaux leaves his widow, a sister, Mrs. Jesse Rosenfield, New Orleans, and his brother, Harry, Anchoraga, Alaska.

Funeral services will be held Sunday.

Thompson Raps Farm Policies

ST FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — U.S. Rep. T. A. Thompson (D-La) said Saturday Republican farm policies are bankrupting small farmers.

He told the 21st annual meeting of the Louisiana Sweet Potato Growners Assn. here:

"More bankruptcy proceedings were instituted last year than in any year I have previously seen. The small farmer is being driven off his farm by the high cost of living."

Thompson, from Louisiana's seventh congressional district, said "the high cost of living today is directly attributable to big subsidies being paid to big industry, and in part to our foreign aid program."

The GOP party is teaching farmers of other nations how to grow rice, he said, while Louisiana farmers are suffering because of the national surplus.

"And we should not build roads in Arabia while our own people suffer from the lack of adequate levees," he added.

UNDER LAST YEAR

Auto Production In Sharp Plunge

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Passenger car production during this year's January-March quarter will come to approximately 1,275,000 units—unless there is a further cut in schedules. There will be no upward revision.

The total output will be more than 500,000 units below the volume of last year's first quarter.

The continuing sales lag and mounting inventories preclude any major upturn in assembly line volume for several weeks ahead. At the moment there are no signs of a substantial advance in retail deliveries during the remainder of the current month.

Industry analysts have been speculating broadly as to the effect the downturn in car production and sales may have on the forthcoming contract negotiations between the major car makers and the workers' union. Some have pictured low output and high inventories as certain to harden the attitude of the manufacturers in the negotiations.

Others have said the contracts to be negotiated will extend well beyond what manufacturers and economists generally regard as a wholly temporary situation in production and sales.

You can hear it said in some quarters that a strike would not greatly disturb the car makers with near-record inventories piled up. This, of course, is not sound thinking. The manufacturers have not been building up their stocks of cars intentionally; the inventories have grown because of lagging sales.

Auto makers generally have attributed the decline in sales volume to lack of confidence. And because a strike would further delay a return of confidence the manufacturers do not want one any more than do the workers.

There still is a lot of guessing about the size of new car inventories. Some sources say the total will come close to 900,000 units when the March 1 figures are tabulated. Others say the estimate is high; that the figures will be closer to 865,000.

At the same time some experts are saying an inventory of even half that number would be large at the current rate of new car deliveries. But they add that January-February retail sales invariably are of small volume and cannot be taken as indicative of business during the reminder of the year.

January-February sales this year numbered approximately 715,000 units. In the industry's big year of 1955 they came to 916,000 and the industry went on to sell nearly 7¼ million cars that year.

There have been no authoritative guesses as to probable sales totals this month. But industry executives and professional economists will analyze the final returns on retail deliveries during the final 10 days of March for signs of a definite upturn.

By tradition that period gives a good indication of what the sales trend will be for the remainder of the year.

Most experts are reiterating earlier statements that an upturn in retail deliveries late this month will not necessarily mean an upturn in assembly line activities. The inventories will have to be leveled off, they say, before there can be any substantial increase in production.

THE WRONG PLACE

MANCHESTER, Tenn. — (UP) Mrs. Joyce Sanders' four-year-old boy wanted some ice cream right now. Mrs. Sanders was dressing to go out, but she made a fast trip to the refrigerator to oblige. When she finished dressing, she was appalled to note melted ice cream all over her dresser. In the rush she had given the boy her slippers and kept the ice cream. The slippers were in the refrigerator.

Oil Mission To Venezuela Fails To Reach Accord

CARACAS, Venezuela, (AP) — A U.S. mission returned home Saturday after failing to reach agreement with the Venezuelan government on restricting U.S. imports of Venezuelan oil.

The government issued a statement last night declaring that it opposes any restrictive measures and "hopes no new measures of this kind will be adopted."

The government said it is studying measures "to counteract the economic and social repercussions which would result from any limitation of our exports of petroleum."

The U.S. delegation included Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs; Capt. Matthew V. Carson, coordinator of the voluntary oil imports program; Ernest Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission; and Willis C. Armstrong, director of the State Department's office of international resources.

American oil industry leaders have been attempting to tighten the voluntary restriction of imports because production is outstripping consumption.

SPIDER RESEARCH

ITHACA, N.Y. —(UP)— Cornell University recently opened a laboratory to plot the death of 50,000 spiders. Dr. Charles E. Palm, research director of the school's College of Agriculture, said the spiders will be raised and then subjected to various tests to determine the best way to keep such insects from destroying rose bushes.

Grain Futures End Week Mixed

CHICAGO (AP)— Grain futures prices were whiplashed this week by a mixture of influences, mostly bearish, and nearly all contracts on the Board of Trade finished well below last week's closes.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅞ cents a bushel higher for old crop contracts to 4¼ cents lower for the new crop, corn was ⅝-1⅞ lower, oats ⅝ lower to 1 higher, rye as much as 3 cents higher for March and May to 2 cents lower for the deferred deliveries, soybeans ½ higher on March and unchanged to 1⅜ lower on other deliveries, lard 3 cents a hundred pounds higher to 17 cents lower.

Mississippi Oil

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) Production tests in a Smith County oil well appear to assure Mississippi of a fourth new oil field discovery this year.

The well, Larco, Larue, Bond and American Petrofina wildcat USA No. 1, sec. 17-3N-7E, has tested 360 barrels of 38 gravity oil daily from a Rodessa zone at 10,969-72.

The well is about nine miles north of the Raleigh field and seven miles northwest of Raleigh.

Other oil and gas activity.

Carter Oil Co. is below 1' feet in the Rankin County wild Henry Kersh No. 1, sec. 18-8N-5. A string of seven-inch production casing was set at 14,524 feet with the formation now in the Smackover lime.

In Lawrence County south of Monticello, Humble Oil and Refining Co. was preparing to begin testing operations in its wildcat T.R. Sistrunk No. 1 sec. 18-3N-11E.

The well was drilled to 16,500 feet and plugged back to 13,307 feet and operators set production casing to test sands below 13,000 feet.

Gulf Oil Corp. was below 18,300 feet in the deep Soso field test Soso Unit Tract 28-7, sec. 28-10N-13W in Jasper County. The well has logged deep oil sands at 13,000-15,000 feet.

Gulf's other deep field try at Gwinville in Jefferson Davis County was below 11,930 feet.

Rice Field Fish Study Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) President Eisenhower today signed a bill providing for a federal research program to develop methods for the commercial production of fish on flooded ricelands.

The cost was estimated at $500,000 the first year and about $85,000 a year thereafter.

A committee report on the bill said production of rice requires a two-year interval between crops and that, instead of planting the land to cover crops, it might be used for commercial production in fish.

"Some 50,000 acres are being utilized for this purpose in the state of Arkansas," the report said, "but proper development requires extended research."

The measure directs the secretary of the interior to undertake the research program in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture.

Natural Gas Firms Have Banner Year

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter, 1958, which exits Friday, will go down in history as a boomlet for this country's 19 billion dollar natural gas industry.

A gas company serving thousands of house heating customers uses 15 times as much gas on a zero day as on a summer day. And zero weather has frequented some unusual places this winter.

In Birmingham, Ala., Southern Natural Gas Co. says the cold waves put such a strain on its system the company is launching a 65 million dollar program to build new pipelines.

Southern sells to distributors in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia an South Carolina. At times, the distributors have been forced to discontinue almost all industrial sales, many commercial sales, close schools and ask home owners to lower thermostats, says C. P. Rather, Southern president.

The American Gas Assn. reports gas sales have spurted sharply since the start of the winter heating season. Going into for the previous 12 months was up only 2.2 per cent over the year before.

November sales ran 15.5 per cent ahead of last year. December was up 8.8 per cent and January 5.5 per cent. February showed a big gain, but the figures have not been computed, the AGA says.

Percentage changes were sharper because 1957 was one of the warmest winters in 30 years in some sections.

Here is a sampling of what has happened in a few majors systems:

Long Island Lighting Co., in New York's Nassau and Suffolk counties, reports average daily sales of natural gas in February topped February 1957, by 45.3 per cent.

Columbia Gas System, one of the largest distributing networks, showed a 20 per cent year-to-year jump in February after a 2 per cent rise in January. The company operates In Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, New York, Maryland and Virginia.

On Feb. 17, Columbia delivered a record 4½ billion cubic feet of natural gas, more than half from its underground storage fields.

Consolidated Natural Gas Co., which sells in West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, set a peak of almost 3½ billion cubic feet on Feb. 17. Its volume was up slightly in January, then jumped by 11 per cent in February.

American Natural Gas Co., says its subsidiaries in Michigan and Wisconsin sold 11.6 per cent more gas in January than a year ago and fared even better in February.

Wall Street utility analysts say the sales gains should give an immediate boost to the operating results of the distributors. They report the pipelines will benefit later, when many distributors step up orders for gas—to meet demand next winter.

Northeast Ready For Science Fair

Competitors on senior, junior and elementary school levels will exhibit Friday and Saturday at the fourth regional science fair for Northeast Louisiana to be held at Northeast State.

The contest will be based on seven sections in each of the three divisions. The senior group will include grades 10, 11 and 12; junior division, seven, eight and nine; and elementary grades one through six.

Competitors will set up exhibits in the Administration Building on the campus between Friday at 2 p.m. and Saturday at 9 a.m. Judging of entries is scheduled Saturday between 9 a.m. and 12 noon, after which awards will be made.

Value of equipment used in exhibits will not be considered in judging, the science fair committee explained.

Those Eligible

Students who have won first or second place in a local science fair are eligible to enter exhibits in the regional event. Schools which have not held local fairs may select two projects from each contest division within each of the three class divisions to participate in the regional fair.

Only one exhibit may be entered by an individual or group. Consultation with teachers or parents in the construction of displays is permitted but work on the project must be done by the exhibitor, the science fair committee explained.

The scholarship division is limited to graduating seniors.

Awards will be made to winners in first, second and third places in each of the seven contest sections of both senior and junior divisions. First place winners in these sections of the two divisions will also win a championship title. A grand champion will be selected from both senior and junior groups. Certificates of merit will go to participants in the elementary division but winners are not to be designated.

Winners in the scholarship sections will be determined on the basis of personal interviews with the scholarship committee and consideration of scholastic record.

WEEK IN FINANCE

Anti-Recession Moves Starting To Take Shape

By WALTER BREEDE JR.

NEW YORK (AP)—Big new government moves against recession began to take definite shape this week.

They include more government spending on housing, guided missiles, river and harbor improvements, new roads. Also there was the possibility of an across-the-board cut in federal income taxes.

Among the economic hypos on hand, a tax cut looked like the fastest acting. It would put billions of extra spending dollars in consumers' pockets in the shortest possible time.

One thing was sure: any of the proposed cures—tax cuts, defense spending, public works or what have you—would cost money. Unavoidably they'd plunge the government deeper into debt. According to those who usually make good guesses, antirecession remedies on the fire right now would increase the U. S. Treasury's deficit in the next fiscal year by as much as 15 billion dollars.

Yet there seemed to be no other way. Consumers and business firms had lost their boomtime appetite for going into hock, so Uncle Sam would have to make up the difference.

The consumer and his state of mind came under official scrutiny this week in a poll conducted for the Federal Reserve Board by the University of Michigan Survey Research Center. Here's what it showed:

Consumers are less confident about business than they were a year ago—actually they're less confident than at any time since 1948 when the survey started.

They plan to buy less furniture, fewer houses, appliances, and new cars than last year.

They expect to buy more used cars than in 1957 and to spend just about as much as last year fixing up their present homes.

That's how Mr. and Mrs. Average American Consumer are thinking these days.

Strangely, their pessimism concerns only other people—not their own personal fortunes. The great majority expect their own income to be every bit as large as last year.

If the consumer is in a belt-tightening mood, big business seems to be even more so. A government survey just out this week tells the story. U. S. business firms will spend 13 per cent less on new plant, machinery, and equipment this year than in 1957. The proposed outlay—32 billion dollars—compares with nearly 38 billions last year.

There's nothing new about business wanting to curb its capital expenditures. But the latest survey shows that the 13 per cent drop is a lot bigger than government studies had indicated as recently as a few months ago.

During most of the booming postwar period a far-flung program of business expansion had bolstered the economy, devouring tons of steel, cement, and other materials and providing millions of jobs. Hundreds of billions of dollars were spent on new factories, oil refineries, chemical plants, office buildings, warehouses, department stores and shopping centers.

Now the bonanza seems to have played itself out.

On the industrial employment front this week it was the same old story: more throttling down of production, more layoffs. Douglas Aircraft Co.'s Santa Monica, Calif., division will furlough 3,000 workers by June 1. Also reporting new layoffs this week were General Motors' Norwood, Ohio, Fisher Body and Chevrolet plant, its Kansas City Buick-Oldsmobile-Pontiac plant, Ford's Mahwah, N. J., passenger car plant, and four Western mining divisions of Kennecott Copper Corp.

FOR RECESSION CURE

Political Units Looking To Uncle

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Almost every recession-troubled state, city and industry is looking hopefully to Washington for the actions and policies — and, chiefly, the spending—that will spark a business recovery.

This is true even in the many states and towns which have tackled their problems with do-it-yourself solutions like local tax cuts, public works and lures for new industry.

Associated Press reporters who visited corporation offices, union headquarters, relief lines, city halls and statehouses in their nationwide "How's Business?" survey heard one theme stressed almost to the point of monotony: "Our recovery depends on the federal government."

Most of the speakers hoped for the arrival of big defense contracts. Many wanted tax reduction and further easing of credit. Mining men called for tariff boosts on foreign metal. Railroads wanted higher freight rates. Washington alone, they all implied, has the final answers.

Some of the comments had political overtones, a majority of these being unfavorable to the Eisenhower administration.

In the proud, Republican, mostly Mormon state of Utah—which is now distributing food to the unemployed for the first time in memory—reporters heard grumbling about "Republican prosperity."

A Vermont manufacturer blamed his state's problems on the "tight money" policy as well as on "extremely unfair income and corporation taxes." A jobless New Jersey plasterer said: "I hope Eisenhower is waking up."

By contrast, some people said they were reassured by the President's recent words and actions, including his record peacetime spending budget. A North Carolina builder observed: "Before, Ike was going to balance the budget at all costs. Now he's committed to deficit spending, and that means inflation and a boom."

There weren't enough politically slanted comments, however, to be taken as evidence that the recession will hurt GOP candidates in the November congressional elections. Most interviewers ignored politics and talked about the immediate problem — finding and creating jobs.

The survey did indicate, however, that pressure is growing in harder hit areas for faster, more positive action than the administration so far has taken.

To date the federal stimulative measure, as listed by President Eisenhower in his recent chins-up economic statement, consist mainly of programs that were in progress or pending before the full impact of recession was felt.

Oil Mission To Venezuela Fails To Reach Accord

CARACAS, Venezuela, (AP) — A U.S. mission returned home Saturday after failing to reach agreement with the Venezuelan government on restricting U.S. imports of Venezuelan oil.

The government issued a statement last night declaring that it opposes any restrictive measures and "hopes no new measures of this kind will be adopted."

The government said it is studying measures "to counteract the economic and social repercussions which would result from any limitation of our exports of petroleum."

The U.S. delegation included Thomas C. Mann, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs; Capt. Matthew V. Carson, coordinator of the voluntary oil imports program; Ernest Thompson, chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission; and Willis C. Armstrong, director of the State Department's office of international resources.

American oil industry leaders have been attempting to tighten the voluntary restriction of imports because production is outstripping consumption.

SPIDER RESEARCH

ITHACA, N.Y. —(UP)— Cornell University recently opened a laboratory to plot the death of 50,000 spiders. Dr. Charles E. Palm, research director of the school's College of Agriculture, said the spiders will be raised and then subjected to various tests to determine the best way to keep such insects from destroying rose bushes.

Grain Futures End Week Mixed

CHICAGO (AP)— Grain futures prices were whiplashed this week by a mixture of influences, mostly bearish, and nearly all contracts on the Board of Trade finished well below last week's closes.

At the end of the week, wheat was 1⅞ cents a bushel higher for old crop contracts to 4⅛ cents lower for the new crop, corn was ⅝-1⅞ lower, oats ⅜ lower to 1 higher, rye as much as 3 cents higher for March and May to 2 cents lower for the deferred deliveries, soybeans ½ higher on March and unchanged to 1⅜ lower on other deliveries, lard 3 cents a hundred pounds higher to 17 cents lower.

Cotton Future Prices Mixed During Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices followed an up-and-down course this week and closed mixed.

Active contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange finished at prices which ranged from 35 cents a bale lower to $1.40 a bale higher than a week ago.

Nearby May and June deliveries lost 30 to 35 cents a bale, while all contracts from distant October 1958 forward to July 1959 closed higher.

The market was strong at the start of the week but later developed some softness.

Bullish factors included Senate approval of a proposal to freeze farm price supports at present levels.

Buying was also encouraged by expectations that the 1958 loan rates would be above the previously announced guaranteed minimum.

Selling reflected profit-taking and uncovering of stop-loss orders. Market sentiment was dampened by reports of continued slow demand for cotton textiles.

The New York Cotton Exchange Service Bureau reported a slightly larger than usual increase in domestic consumption of cotton during February.

In the four weeks from Feb. 2 to March 1, the bureau estimated, domestic mills used 655,000 bales, for an average of 32,800 bales a day. This compared with a daily rate of 32,000 bales in January and 34,400 in February last year.

Exports of U.S. cotton for the week ended Tuesday were estimated by the Service Bureau at 102,000 bales vs. 94,000 the previous week and 131,000 in the like 1957 week. For the current season through March 11 exports were estimated at 3,638,000 bales vs. 4,819,000 at approximately the same time last year.

Mississippi Oil

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) Production tests in a Smith County oil well appear to assure Mississippi of a fourth new oil field discovery this year.

The well, Larco, Larue, Bond and American Petrofina wildcat USA No. 1, sec. 17-3N-7E, has tested 360 barrels of 38 gravity oil daily from a Rodessa zone at 10,969-72.

The well is about nine miles north of the Raleigh field and seven miles northwest of Raleigh.

Other oil and gas activity.

Carter Oil Co. is below 14 feet in the Rankin County wildcat Henry Kersh No. 1, sec. 18-8N-5E. A string of seven-inch production casing was set at 14,524 feet with the formation now in the Smackover lime.

In Lawrence County south of Monticello, Humble Oil and Refining Co. was preparing to begin testing operations in its wildcat T.R. Sistrunk No. 1 sec. 18-⅝-N 11E.

The well was drilled to 16,500 feet and plugged back to 13,307 feet and operators set production casing to test sands below 13,000 feet.

Gulf Oil Corp. was below 18,300 feet in the deep Soso field test Soso Unit Tract 28-7, sec. 28-10N-13W in Jasper County. The well has logged deep oil sands at 13,000-15,000 feet.

Gulf's other deep field try at Gwinville in Jefferson Davis County was below 11,930 feet.

AVERAGE UP FOR SECOND WEEK—For the second week in a row The Associated Press average of 60 stocks moved higher, closing at 163.7 from 162.6 a week ago. The commodity index also advanced for the second straight week, closing at 175.7 from 175.4 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest gain. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

SECOND IN ROW

Stocks Register Climb For Week

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market carved-out its second straight weekly advance this week as talk of a tax cut grew louder.

This rise was by no means prompted by a spreading conviction that a business upturn was just around the corner, brokers said. News aout business and the economy remained gloomy, but the gloomier it got the more clamor there was for antirecession legislation.

The biggest rise of the week came Tuesday when the market was buoyed by the powerful voices of Vice President Nixon and Secretary of Labor Mitchell advocating a tax cut. The prospect that more cash might be available for spending was obviously appetizing to Wall Street that day.

But the major trend of corporate earnings remained down and there was considerable differences of opinion as to how long the slump would last.

"Everything seems to point to inflation and more inflation," said Gerald Loeb, partner in E. F. Hutton & Co. He expressed doubt as to the near-term prospects for the market but was convinced that "the right" stocks are better than cash for the long haul.

The market rose on three days and declined on two. Without the substantial rise Tuesday the market would have registered a loss for the week. The Associated Press average showed a net gain of $1.10 to $163.70.

Big meat packing stocks came to the fore as Wall Street observers saw a favorable price situation in that industry. Aluminums and tobaccos did well. Coppers got a play on the rise in copper scrap prices, the first in months. Building materials received a temporary lift on Senate passage of the $1,800,000,000 housing measure.

The five most active issues were Lorillard up 4⅞ at 48, Wilson & Co. up 2⅝ at 21½, General Motors up ½ at 35¾, American Metal Climax up 1⅛ at 21 and Royal Dutch unchanged at 41.

U.S. government bonds improved this week on light demand. Corporates wound up higher on volume.

Goudchaux Dies

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Bernard Goudchaux, a founder of Goudchaux's department store, died late Friday night. He was 76.

He was owner of Goudchaux's until 1938, when it was leased.

Goudchaux and his brother, Harry, began business here half a century ago, building the original business into a department store.

He was a native of New Orleans. Goudchaux leaves his widow, a sister, Mrs. Jesse Rosenfield, New Orleans, and his brother, Harry, Anchoraga, Alaska.

Funeral services will be held Sunday.

Weather, Oil Hurts State Fur

NEW ORLEANS (UP) — State Rep. Alvin Dyson of Cameron said Friday adverse weather conditions and the growth of the oil industry in the marshy homeland of the fur-bearing animals of Louisiana have hurt the fur industry in recent years.

Dyson directed his comments to a meeting of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries commission, which is currently studying ways to bolster the fur and fishing industries.

The Cameron legislator, while he recognizes the great contribution of oil to Louisiana, he feels that one industry should not profit at the expense of another.

Dyson said muskrats, mink and nutria must have sufficient fresh water to thrive. He said oil companies operating in the marshy coastal areas levee around their canals in order to prevent fresh water from running out of the marshes.

Salty sea water moves in when fresh water levels drop, he said.

Spokesmen for the Menhaden industry said marshland canals have hurt the Menhaden industry because young menhaden, like shrimp, grow in brackish waters before swimming into the open Gulf.

Commission director F. Lamar Clement said Louisiana's seafood industry was now in "critical condition."

H. R. Robinson of Westwego chairman of the Louisiana shrimp canners Assn., said Louisiana's shrimp production has suffered a cut of more than two-thirds in the past five years.

In 1953 production was 81 million pounds as compared with 35 million pounds in 1957.

Robinson said while Louisiana lost, other Gulf Coast states have continued producing at high levels.

He blamed bad weather, malpractices within the industry, improper trawling and effects of oil, gas and pipeline industries for the curtailed production.

Thompson Raps Farm Policies

ST FRANCISVILLE, La. (AP) — U.S. Rep. T. A. Thompson (D-La) said Saturday Republican farm policies are bankrupting small farmers.

He told the 21st annual meeting of the Louisiana Sweet Potato Growners Assn. here:

"More bankruptcy proceedings were instituted last year than in any year I have previously seen. The small farmer is being driven off his farm by the high cost of living."

Thompson, from Louisiana's seventh congressional district, said "the high cost of living today is directly attributable to big subsidies being paid to big industry, and in part to our foreign aid program."

The GOP party is teaching farmers of other nations how to grow rice, he said, while Louisiana farmers are suffering because of the national surplus.

"And we should not build roads in Arabia while our own people suffer from the lack of adequate levees," he added.

Rice Field Fish Study Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) President Eisenhower today signed a bill providing for a federal research program to develop methods for the commercial production of fish on flooded ricelands.

The cost was estimated at $500,000 the first year and about $85,000 a year thereafter.

A committee report on the bill said production of rice requires a two-year interval between crops and that, instead of planting the land to cover crops, it might be used for commercial production in fish.

"Some 50,000 acres are being utilized for this purpose in the state of Arkansas," the report said, "but proper development requires extended research."

The measure directs the secretary of the interior to undertake the research program in cooperation with the Department of Agriculture.

IN OIL OUTPUT

Louisiana Noses Out California

By MAX B. SELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Louisiana has moved ahead of California as the nation's second leading oil state.

With major assists from offshore discoveries, Louisiana boosted its estimated proved reserved of crude oil last year ahead of California, long the runnerup to Texas, by over 97 million barrels.

In four years Louisiana has increased its reserves—crude held in storage underground—by 1,097,914,000 barrels. This is over 80 per cent of the national gain of 1,355,577,000 barrels.

California leads Louisiana in actual production of crude but the Gulf Coast state is threatening. California's output in 1956 exceeded Louisiana by 81 million barrels but the advantage dropped to only 41 million last year.

The 1957 estimates of the American Petroleum Institute showed domestic was less than one-half of one per cent and the first decline since 1943. Only 7 of the 23 oil producing states registered gains.

The 12 top oil states hold 96 per cent of the nation's crude reserves but of them only Louisiana and Wyoming had 1957 increases.

Other states showing increases were North Dakota, Ohio, Nebraska, Utah, and West Virginia.

Texas had over 48 per cent of domestic reserves despite a record decline that exceeded 227 million barrels. Both Louisiana and California claim 12 per cent. Oklahoma follows at 6 per cent, Wyoming with 4 per cent.

Estimated domestic production last year totaled a record 2,559,044,000 barrels. Discoveries of new reserves totaled only 2,424,800,000, leaving a deficit of 134 million barrels.

Louisiana's net increase in reserves was 182,150,000 barrels. New discoveries carried an estimate of 480,619,000 barrels. Actual production was 298,469,000.

California's discoveries exceeded 327 million barrels but actual production was in excess of 339 million.

New reserves found in Texas exceeded 828 million barrels, but production exceeded one billion barrels, leaving the state Dec. 31 with reserves estimated at 14,555,140,000.

In 1956 Texas, Louisiana, California, Oklahoma and Wyoming held 82 per cent of the nation's reserves. They increased their holdings last year to 84 per cent. Another 12 per cent came from Kansas, New Mexico, Illinois, Mississippi, Colorado, Montana and Arkansas. The remaining 4 per cent comes from 11 states.

Total domestic reserves Dec. 31 were estimated at 30,300,405,000 barrels, compared to a year earlier 30,434,649,000.

UNDER LAST YEAR

Auto Production In Sharp Plunge

By DAVID J. WILKIE
AP Automotive Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Passenger car production during this year's January-March quarter will come to approximately 1,275,000 units—unless there is a further cut in schedules. There will be no upward revision.

The total output will be more than 500,000 units below the volume of last year's first quarter.

The continuing sales lag and mounting inventories preclude any major upturn in assembly line volume for several weeks ahead. At the moment there are no signs of a substantial advance in retail deliveries during the remainder of the current month.

Industry analysts have been speculating broadly as to the effect the downturn in car production and sales may have on the forthcoming contract negotiations between the major car makers and the workers' union. Some have pictured low output and high inventories as certain to harden the attitude of the manufacturers in the negotiations.

Others have said the contracts to be negotiated will extend well beyond what manufacturers and economists generally regard as a wholly temporary situation in production and sales.

You can hear it said in some quarters that a strike would not greatly disturb the car makers with near-record inventories piled up. This, of course, is not sound thinking. The manufacturers have not been building up their stocks of cars intentionally; the inventories have grown because of lagging sales.

Auto makers generally have attributed the decline in sales volume to lack of confidence. And because a strike would further delay a return of confidence the manufacturers do not want one any more than do the workers.

There still is a lot of guessing about the size of new car inventories. Some sources say the total will come close to 900,000 units when the March 1 figures are tabulated. Others say the estimate is high; that the figures will be closer to 865,000.

At the same time some experts are saying an inventory of even half that number would be large at the current rate of new car deliveries. But they add that January-February retail sales invariably are of small volume and cannot be taken as indicative of business during the reminder of the year.

January-February sales this year numbered approximately 715,000 units. In the industry's big year of 1955 they came to 916,000 and the industry went on to sell nearly 7¼ million cars that year.

There have been no authoritative guesses as to probable sales totals this month. But industry executives and professional economists will analyze the final returns on retail deliveries during the final 10 days of March for signs of a definite upturn.

By tradition that period gives a good indication of what the sales trend will be for the remainder of the year.

Most experts are reiterating earlier statements that an upturn in retail deliveries late this month will not necessarily mean an upturn in assembly line activities. The inventories will have to be leveled off, they say, before there can be any substantial increase in production.

THE WRONG PLACE

MANCHESTER, Tenn. — (UP) Mrs. Joyce Sanders' four-year-old boy wanted some ice cream right now. Mrs. Sanders was dressing to go out, but she made a fast trip to the refrigerator to oblige. When she finished dressing, she was appalled to note melted ice cream all over her dresser. In the rush she had given the boy her slippers and kept the ice cream. The slippers were in the refrigerator.

Natural Gas Firms Have Banner Year

By WALTER BUSSEWITZ

NEW YORK (AP)—Winter, 1958, which exits Friday, will go down in history as a boomlet for this country's 19 billion dollar natural gas industry.

A gas company serving thousands of house heating customers uses 15 times as much gas on a zero day as on a summer day. And zero weather has frequented some unusual places this winter.

In Birmingham, Ala., Southern Natural Gas Co. says the cold waves put such a strain on its system the company is launching a 65 million dollar program to build new pipelines.

Southern sells to distributors in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia an South Carolina. At times, the distributors have been forced to discontinue almost all industrial sales, many commercial sales, close schools and ask home owners to lower thermostats, says C. P. Rather, Southern president.

The American Gas Assn. reports gas sales have spurted sharply since the start of the winter heating season. Going into for the previous 12 months was up only 2.2 per cent over the year before.

November sales ran 15.5 per cent ahead of last year. December was up 8.8 per cent and January 5.5 per cent. February showed a big gain, but the figures have not been computed, the AGA says.

Percentage changes were sharper because 1957 was one of the warmest winters in 30 years in some sections.

Here is a sampling of what has happened in a few majors systems:

Long Island Lighting Co., in New York's Nassau and Suffolk counties, reports average daily sales of natural gas in February topped February 1957, by 45.3 per cent.

Columbia Gas System, one of the largest distributing networks, showed a 20 per cent year-to-year jump in February after a 2 per cent rise in January. The company operates in Ohio, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Kentucky, New York, Maryland and Virginia.

On Feb. 17, Columbia delivered a record 4½ billion cubic feet of natural gas, more than half from its underground storage fields.

Consolidated Natural Gas Co., which sells in West Virginia, Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York, set a peak of almost 3½ billion cubic feet on Feb. 17. Its volume was up slightly in January, then jumped by 11 per cent in February.

American Natural Gas Co., says its subsidiaries in Michigan and Wisconsin sold 11.6 per cent more gas in January than a year ago and fared even better in February.

Wall Street utility analysts say the sales gains should give an immediate boost to the operating results of the distributors. They report the pipelines will benefit later, when many distributors step up orders for gas—to meet demand next winter.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Novel By Edna Ferber Is Good

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A novel by Edna Ferber is always a literary event. This week we are proud to announce her new ...me, "Ice Palace." This is her first novel in five years and is acclaimed by reviewers as having even greater sweep and power than her last book, "Giant." In ...e years that Miss Ferber has been writing, her novels have spanned the whole panorama of America — the midwest of "So Big", Oklahoma in "Cimarron", New England in "American Beauty," Wisconsin in "Come and Get It," Louisiana and New York in "Saratoga Trunk", the Mississippi River in "Show Boat" and Texas in "Giant." She has chosen for the locale of "Ice Palace" the territory of Alaska and has peopled it with characters as strong, as boldly drawn as the towering mountains that surround them.

In this book we get a picture of the territory's modern viciross people, it's dramatic weather and scenery, its desperate, stillunfinished struggle for statehood and the men who dominate the country. The leading characters are two Titans, Thor Storm and Czar Kennedy, whose struggle and conflict lasted for a generation. Then there is their granddaughter, Christine Storm, who found that she also had to chose between two men and a way of life. This is a very fine story and one that will be widely read and enjoyed. Don't miss Ice Palace.

A very unusual novel is "A Note of Grace" by Betty Singleton. Actually it's theme is tolerance, but it is presented in such an interesting manner that the lesson is not obvious.

Men who served in the air force will be interested in a new book by David M. Camerer called "The Damned Wear Wings." This is a story of supreme courage and also supreme cowardice. It is a story which men will enjoy and which women will find rewarding reading.

Three very valuable additions to our reference collections were added this week. One is "Subject Index to Poetry for Children and Young People" This volume was published by the American Library Association in 1957 and its use by librarians, teachers and parents will be enormous. We are very happy to have copies of this book. One of the most beautiful books which we have received in a long time is "The World in Your Garden" published by The National Geographic Society." Gardening takes on a new dimension in this unusual book. Its colorful pages will move your horizons out beyond the garden border to span the seas and centuries and reveal the exotic origins of our gardens and orchards. The third reference book is "The Concise Encyclopedia of Antiques." This is volume three of a series put out by the Connoisseur. These books are most valuable and will repay hours of careful study and examination. If you are interested in antiques, you will want to examine these books. The three reference books just mentioned were added to our collection as Memorial books. I would like to remind you again, how much we appreciate and need memorial books and how much they add to our collection. Please remember the library when you next want to honor a friend.

Biographies are always popular with our readers and there are three new ones this week, all of them very different from one another. "Lady from Savannah" by Gladys Denny Shultz is the inspiring story of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement. "White House Chef" is the autobiography of Francois Rysavy and contains not only anecdotes of the Eisenhower family, but many of their favorite recipes. Those who read on a very high level will welcome a biography of one of the outstanding literary figures of our day. This is "Albert Camus" written by Albert Maquet.

Gardeners will welcome two new books. One is "The story of Mosses, Ferns and Mushrooms" by Dorothy Sterling, and the other is "A. B. C. of Driftwood for Flower Arrangers" by Florence M. Schaffer. Both of these books are beautifully illustrated and will be most useful to those interested in the subject.

An interesting new book of literary criticism is called "The Court and the Castle" and was written by Rebecca West. She shows how this theme has recurred over and over in English literature.

In the last few years there has been a great revival of interest in the American Indians. The University of Oklahoma press has produced some very fine studies on this subject. The latest is "The Seminoles" written by Edwin C. McReynolds. This takes the Seminoles from the earliest beginnings in Florida through all of their vicissitudes until they finally became American citizens in Oklahoma. If you are interested in the American Indian you will surely want to read this.

A new book we selected because we thought it would be most useful to many people in our area is called "Education for Planning," city state and regional. Are you concerned with the efficiency of the work being carried on at your place of business? If so you will want to read and study "Work Simplification," by Gerald Nadler. This is a very detailed but valuable study of the subject.

These are only a few of the new books added during the past week, but they give an idea of the various fields in which we are building up the library collection.

TOLSTOY'S

Tales Of Courage And Big Conflict

TOLSTOY'S TALES OF COURAGE AND CONFLICT edited by Charles Neider (Hanover House, $4.95).

This is perhaps the most readable collection of stories and tales by one author ever brought together in one anthology. The book is also the first, major one-volume collection of Leo Tolstoy's short stories.

These are stories of suspense, action, realism, and intense characterization by one of the world's greatest writers. There are forty-six of them in all, and they reflect almost all periods and aspects of their author's long life of more than eighty years.

In length the stories range from the short - short story to the novelette. In subject their variety is even greater: "Kreutzer Sonata" and "Where Love Is There God Is Also" are rich in emotional impact; "The Snow Storm" is a vivid account of being trapped in a blizzard; "The Raid" is a gripping account of young soldiers on an expedition against some Caucasian tribes; and "The Death of Ivan Ilyitch" is the somber and powerful story of a man's conflict as he faces death.

Leo Tolstoy excelled in writing stories of physical life — as is clearly seen in his stories in which, again and again, the central character is faced with circumstances requiring both strength and endurance. Hunting, fighting, and gambling took much of Tolstoy's attention in the early part of his writing life.

Poignant Story Of Love Affair

THE YEAR OF THE WHITE TREES by Jane Mayer (Random House, $3.50).

This is the poignant story of a love affair, how it began, how it grew, and what finally happened.

Anneira Veck, who lived simply and conservatively with her mildly domineering mother, had had one affair, which had turned out to be a mistake. Although her life was fairly social — her family was active in Chicago's society— she felt she had reached a dead end.

Then at a party she met Ellis Springbok, a famous concert violinist. She was instantly drawn to his magnetic personality, and sensed — almost before they were introduced — his indication that he found her out of the ordinary. Yet he seemed uninterested, implying that she could have him only on his terms. She fell in love with him with an intenseness she had never known before. She was willing to be with him whenever he wanted, do whatever he wanted, but soon discovered that they met only at his convenience. Warned by their friends, she would not believe that he could not be held by one woman.

Anneira made a trip to New York to meet Ellis, to be alone with him. There, away from her friends and family in Chicago, she learned the truth about their relationship. Knowing she still loved him, Anneira made her decision.

Because of their involvement, both lovers grew more mature — not without the pain, nor without the intensifying awareness of beauty that their increasing maturity exacted. In the Year of The White Trees, Jane Mayer has uniquely mingled emotion, sensuousness, and intellect, making a story that is complex, yet classically simple.

Practical Book About Human Relationship

HUMAN RELATIONSHIP By Eleanor Bertine, M. D. (Longmans, $4.50.)

This is a book about people, and the inner and outer reactions that are touched off by their contacts with other people. The need to understand the complexities of these contacts — a specific problem of human relationship — is what usually brings a person to consult an analyst.

Dr. Bertine, trained by Dr. Jung in Zurich, draws her examples from her experience of more than 30 years of practice in analytical psychology. Each of the important relationship situations is discussed separately: the family, including the relationship of child to mother, to father, and to brother and sister, and parent to child; the individual and the group, an enlargement of the family situation; men and women, including the marriage relationship; and friendship. Each relationship is dealt with from the practical point of view with concrete comments and suggestions; on the inner side, it is shown that each corresponds to a pre - existent psychic image, or pattern in the collective unconscious. As long as this is unconscious it will be projected, or seen as if it were in the other person, when it is made conscious and assimilated, it becomes a potential capacity of the individual himself. To help reconcile the elements of the consciousness and the unconscious and integrate them into a common striving is the goal of the analyst, and Dr. Bertine draws a wealth of examples to show that a stable relationship with another person is possible only when the individual understands his position between that person and his own inner reality.

The Lieutenant Interesting Book

THE LIEUTENANT By Bernard Glemser (Random House, $3.50).

"Alec watched the Englishman come into the bar. Nobody could have mistaken his nationality. For this was the original Englishman; this was Eton, Oxford, cricket, and muffins for tea: this was he who, with the mad dogs, walked daily out in the midday sun; this was he on whose Empire the sun still refused to set, despite all the facts of history. His face was pointed, with handsome dark eyes and dark wavy hair. He wore a black jacket with a red carnation in the buttonhole, striped trousers, a white shirt with a stiff white collar and a perfectly knotted gray silk tie, well-polished black shoes, and a gold signet ring on the little finger of his left hand."

To Alec Maas, who watched him come into the bar on New York's Lexington Avenue that hot afternoon, Hugh Beattie was not only England, and all Englishmen—but a specific Englishman. For Alec suddenly remembered him, and from the moment he recalled all the details of their meeting in wartime London during the blitz, Alec was inexorably drawn into Hugh's life again. Even if he had wanted to withdraw, there was Jean, Hugh's sister, and the attraction she had for Alec. Jean had come from England to New York to look after Hugh, the American representative of a leading British textile firm; and as Alec became more involved with him, it was evident that Hugh needed a guardian. Remembering the man Hugh was during the war, and the episode that had first brought them together, Alec could not accept the change in him. There was a mystery somewhere.

Believing in him still, and wanting happiness for Jean, Alec saw Hugh through his drinking bouts, his nervous attacks, his flamboyant affairs with women. Hugh's success seemed assured when, through Alec's efforts, he was launched on a nationwide publicity campaign as Britain's best-dressed man — and then he was interviewed on Wilma Brady's radio program. Against his will, Wilma took Hugh back to a certain night in his past and forced from him a story that revealed to Alec the hidden truth about this star-crossed Englishman.

The Raw Edge Is Top Work On Waterfront

THE RAW EDGE By Benjamin Appel (Random House, $3.95).

Unrelenting in its forceful portrayal of the New York waterfront, The Raw Edge is a tough and convincing novel. Vividly presented are the greed and struggle for power before and following the war in this richest port in the world. The author brings to life the teeming picture behind the scenes, from longshoremen to the top bosses — and the relations of both with the gangsters and thugs who infested the unions.

There is Pete Pironi, rebel longshoreman, unflinching opponent of the crooked elements on the docks, who is destroyed for his courageous attempt. His son, Andy Pironi, committed to vengeance for his father, is himself soon entangled in the corrupt politics of the waterfront — and pays the ultimate price.

Then there is Squint Donahue, conniver for power, and his wife, Mildred, who was more than friendly with Andy; there is Jim McQueen, stevedore company president, who cynically accepted the system; there are the union bosses—Walt "The Refree" Murray, Joe "The Boss" Dinetti, and the unpredictable Inky Dinky Leonard.

In The Raw Edge, Benjamin Appel, throws a glaring spotlight on the men of the waterfront, and the ambitions which drove them.

IN THAILAND VILLAGES

Pony-Powered Bookmobile Brings Knowledge To Many

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—IYt's a big day for villagers in remote areas of northern Thailand when the pony-drawn bookmobile arrives with a new batch of reading material.

And the villagers can thank an American librarian, Miss Mary Anglemyer of Washington, D. C., for the idea.

She has just completed a year-long mission for the U. N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization setting up library facilities at Ubon, a town of 10,000 population not far from the border with Laos.

Establishing the book distribution system wasn't without its problems, Miss Anglemyer said in an interview here. Even sex entered the picture before things began to run smoothly.

Pony carts are the normal means of transport in northern Thailand, where roads are too primitive for motor-driven vehicles.

With the help of students and Richard Nance, a Briton who works for the International Labor Organization, a cart was designed with book shelves on either side capable of carrying up to 1,000 volumes.

The first driver hired was a 19-year-old, known as Mr. Sing. He became an important figure in the life of the villages in a very short time. He was paid the equivalent of $15 a month, and used most of his salary to buy a new suit of clothes and hat every time he got his paycheck.

This made him quite a hit with the village girls. Like 19-year-olds the world over, Mr. Sing made the most of it. Disturbed village elders consulted with Miss Anglemyer and others on the staff. The problem was solved when Mr. Sing married one of the village girls.

Now there are two pony carts making the rounds of a dozen villages. A village librarian circulates the books among readers between the bookmobile visits. The volumes are in the Thai language.

Biographies of Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt are top favorites. Lincoln is well known in Thailand for his correspondence with King Mongkut — the monarch portrayed in "Anna and the King of Siam." Mongkut, who took an intense interest in Western affairs, once offered Lincoln some Siamese elephants for use in the American logging industry. Lincoln had to decline with thanks, saying the animals would not flourish in his country's northern woods.

Jack London and Dale Carnegie are other favored U.S. authors.

TV Notes

Sinatra's show on ABC March 21 will be a psychological suspense drama starring Marisa Pavan and Michael Rennie.

The ninth season of the NBC Opera Company will be concluded April 6 with the colorcast of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte." This will be in English.

Dinah Shore's guest star on NBC Mardh 16 will be Beatrice Lillie. Shirley Temple will visit Dinah on the May 4 show.

The initial "Kraft Television Theater" program to be handled by Talent Asociates, new production unit for this show, will be on April 16 rather than April 2 as originally planned. The first one will be three short plays by Tennessee Williams.

The opening feature of the 30th annual awards ceremony of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, on NBC March 26, will be the singing of Oscar-winning songs of the past by Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Mae West, Tony Martin, Jane Rusell, John Raitt and Mitzi Gaynor.

Bob Hope's next NBC program is slated for April 5. He's now involved in a trip to Moscow which he expects will yield some filmed material for the show.

Robert Saudek Associates, the outfit that runs NBC's "Omnibus," has been selected by the New York Philharmonic to plan and produce, subject to securing sponsorship, a TV series of four to six concerts for the 1958-59 season. Leonard Bernstein, who has appeared on a number of varied programs for "Omnibus," would be musical director for the TV shows. He begins a three - year period as musical director of the Philharmonic next fall.

Gisele MacKenzie's musical program on NBC will depart after the March 29 show. Her 9:30-10 p.m. Saturday time will be filled by reruns of filmed dramas previously seen on "Schlitz Playhouse" and "General Electric Theater," carrying through until fall.

The March 20 "Playhouse 90" on CBS will be a play entitled "The Right Hand Man," starring Dana Andrews and Anne Baxter. Dick Berg based the script on a story by Garson Kanin.

Forthcoming guest stars on Rosemary Clooney's Thursday night NBC musical are Mel Torme, March 20; John Raitt, April 3; Spring Byington, April 17; George Gobel, May 1.

"Ceiling Unlimited" is the title of a special full - hour report on satellites, space and space travel that will be presented by CBS April 20 at 6 p.m.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Novel By Edna Ferber Is Good

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A novel by Edna Ferber is always a literary event. This week we are proud to announce her new one, "Ice Palace." This is her first novel in five years and is acclaimed by reviewers as having even greater sweep and power than her last book, "Giant." In the years that Miss Ferber has been writing, her novels have spanned the whole panorama of America — the midwest of "So Big", Oklahoma in "Cimarron", New England in "American Beauty," Wisconsin in "Come and Get It," Louisiana and New York in "Saratoga Trunk", the Mississippi River in "Show Boat" and Texas in "Giant." She has chosen for the locale of "Ice Palace" the territory of Alaska and has peopled it with characters as strong, as boldly drawn as the towering mountains that surround them.

In this book we get a picture of the territory's modern vigorous people, it's dramatic weather and scenery, its desperate, still-unfinished struggle for statehood and the men who dominate the country. The leading characters are two Titans, Thor Storm and Czar Kennedy, whose struggle and conflict lasted for a generation. Then here is their granddaughter, Christine Storm, who found that she also had to chose between two men and a way of life. This is a very fine story and one that will be widely read and enjoyed. Don't miss Ice Palace.

A very unusual novel is "A Note of Grace" by Betty Singleton. Actually it's theme is tolerance, but it is presented in such an interesting manner that the lesson is not obvious.

Men who served in the air force will be interested in a new book by David M. Camerer called "The Damned Wear Wings." This is a story of supreme courage and also supreme cowardice. It is a story which men will enjoy and which women will find rewarding reading.

Three very valuable additions to our reference collections were added this week. One is "Subject Index to Poetry for Children and Young People." This volume was published by the American Library Association in 1957 and its use by librarians, teachers and parents will be enormous. We are very happy to have copies of this book. One of the most beautiful books which we have received in a long time is "The World in Your Garden" published by "The National Geographic Society." Gardening takes on a new dimension in this unusual book. Its colorful pages will move your horizons out beyond the garden border to leap the seas and centuries and reveal the exotic origins of our gardens and orchards. The third reference book is "The Concise Encyclopedia of Antiques." This is volume three of a series put out by the Connoisseur. These books are most valuable and will repay hours of careful study and examination. If you are interested in antiques, you will want to examine these books. The three reference books just mentioned were added to our collection as Memorial books. I would like to remind you again, how much we appreciate and need memorial books and how much they add to our collection. Please remember the library when you next want to honor a friend.

Biographies are always popular with our readers and there are three new ones this week, all of them very different from one another. "Lady from Savannah" by Gladys Denny Shultz is the inspiring story of Juliette Low, founder of the Girl Scout movement. "White House Chef" is the autobiography of Francois Rysavy and contains not only anecdotes of the Eisenhower family, but many of their favorite recipes. Those who read on a very high level will welcome a biography of one of the outstanding literary figures of our day. This is "Albert Camus" written by Albert Maquet.

Gardeners will welcome two new books. One is "The story of Mosses, Ferns and Mushrooms" by Dorothy Sterling, and the other is "A. B. C. of Driftwood for Flower Arrangers" by Florence M. Schaffer. Both of these books are beautifully illustrated and will be most useful to those interested in the subject.

An interesting new book of literary criticism is called "The Court and the Castle" and was written by Rebecca West. She shows how this theme has recurred over and over in English literature.

In the last few years there has been a great revival of interest in the American Indians. The University of Oklahoma press has produced some very fine studies on this subject. The latest is "The Seminoles" written by Edwin C. McReynolds. This takes the Seminoles from the earliest beginnings in Florida through all of their vicissitudes until they finally became American citizens in Oklahoma. If you are interested in the American Indian you will surely want to read this.

A new book we selected because we thought it would be most useful to many people in our area is called "Education for Planning," city state and regional. Are you concerned with the efficiency of the work being carried on at your place of business? If so you will want to read and study "Work Simplification," by Gerald Nadler. This is a very detailed but valuable study of the subject.

These are only a few of the new books added during the past week, but they give an idea of the various fields in which we are building up the library collection.

PONY-DRAWN CULTURE: Natives of a Thailand village happily crowd around a bookmobile. Favorites among the Thais are biographies of Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

IN THAILAND VILLAGES

Pony-Powered Bookmobile Brings Knowledge To Many

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—IYt's a big day for villagers in remote areas of northern Thailand when the pony-drawn bookmobile arrives with a new batch of reading material.

And the villagers can thank an American librarian, Miss Mary Anglemyer of Washington, D. C., for the idea.

She has just completed a year-long mission for the U. N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization setting up library facilities at Ubon, a town of 10,000 population not far from the border with Laos.

Establishing the book distribution system wasn't without its problems, Miss Anglemyer said in an interview here. Even sex entered the picture before things began to run smoothly.

Pony carts are the normal means of transport in northern Thailand, where roads are too primitive for motor-driven vehicles.

With the help of students and Richard Nance, a Briton who works for the International Labor Organization, a cart was designed with book shelves on either side capable of carrying up to 1,000 volumes.

The first driver hired was a 19-year-old, known as Mr. Sing. He became an important figure in the life of the villages in a very short time. He was paid the equivalent of $15 a month, and used most of his salary to buy a new suit of clothes and hat every time he got his paycheck.

This made him quite a hit with the village girls. Like 19-year-olds the world over, Mr. Sing made the most of it. Disturbed village elders consulted with Miss Anglemyer and others on the staff. The problem was solved when Mr. Sing married one of the village girls.

Now there are two pony carts making the rounds of a dozen villages. A village librarian circulates the books among readers between the bookmobile visits. The volumes are in the Thai language.

Biographies of Abraham Lincoln and Franklin D. Roosevelt are top favorites. Lincoln is well known in Thailand for his correspondence with King Mongkut — the monarch portrayed in "Anna and the King of Siam." Mongkut, who took an intense interest in Western affairs, once offered Lincoln some Siamese elephants for use in the American logging industry. Lincoln had to decline with thanks, saying the animals would not flourish in his country's northern woods.

Jack London and Dale Carnegie are other favored U.S. authors.

The Lieutenant Interesting Book

THE LIEUTENANT By Bernard Glemser (Random House, $3.50).

"Alec watched the Englishman come into the bar. Nobody could have mistaken his nationality. For this was the original Englishman; this was Eton, Oxford, cricket, and muffins for tea; this was he who, with the mad dogs, walked daily out in the midday sun; this was he on whose Empire the sun still refused to set, despite all the facts of history. His face was pointed, with handsome dark eyes and dark wavy hair. He wore a black jacket with a red carnation in the buttonhole, striped trousers, a white shirt with a stiff white collar and a perfectly knotted gray silk tie, well-polished black shoes, and a gold signet ring on the little finger of his left hand."

To Alec Maas, who watched him come into the bar on New York's Lexington Avenue that hot afternoon, Hugh Beattie was not only England, and all Englishmen—but a specific Englishman. For Alec suddenly remembered him, and from the moment he recalled all the details of their meeting in wartime London during the blitz, Alec was inexorably drawn into Hugh's life again. Even if he had wanted to withdraw, there was Jean, Hugh's sister, and the attraction she had for Alec. Jean had come from England to New York to look after Hugh, the American representative of a leading British textile firm; and as Alec became more involved with him, it was evident that Hugh needed a guardian. Remembering the man Hugh was during the war, and the episode that had first brought them together, Alec could not accept the change in him. There was a mystery somewhere.

Believing in him still, and wanting happiness for Jean, Alec saw Hugh through his drinking bouts, his nervous attacks, his flamboyant affairs with women. Hugh's success seemed assured when, through Alec's efforts, he was launched on a nationwide publicity campaign as Britain's best-dressed man — and then he was interviewed on Wilma Brady's radio program. Against his will, Wilma took Hugh back to a certain night in his past and forced from him a story that revealed to Alec the hidden truth about this star-crossed Englishman.

The Raw Edge Is Top Work On Waterfront

THE RAW EDGE By Benjamin Appel (Random House, $3.95).

Unrelenting in its forceful portrayal of the New York waterfront, The Raw Edge is a tough and convincing novel. Vividly presented are the greed and struggle for power before and following the war in this richest port in the world. The author brings to life the teeming picture behind the scenes, from longshoremen to the top bosses — and the relations of both with the gangsters and thugs who infested the unions.

There is Pete Pironi, rebel longshoreman, unflinching opponent of the crooked elements on the docks, who is destroyed for his courageous attempt. His son, Andy Pironi, committed to vengeance for his father, is himself soon entangled in the corrupt politics of the waterfront — and pays the ultimate price.

Then there is Squint Donahue, conniver for power, and his wife, Mildred, who was more than friendly with Andy; there is Jim McQueen, stevedore company president, who cynically accepted the system; there are the union bosses—Walt "The Refree" Murray, Joe "The Boss" Dinetti, and the unpredictable Inky Dinky Leonard.

In The Raw Edge, Benjamin Appel, throws a glaring spotlight on the men of the waterfront, and the ambitions which drove them.

TV notes

Sinatra's show on ABC March 21 will be a psychological suspense drama starring Marisa Pavan and Michael Rennie.

The ninth season of the NBC Opera Company will be concluded April 6 with the colorcast of Mozart's "Cosi Fan Tutte." This will be in English.

Dinah Shore's guest star on NBC Mardh 16 will be Beatrice Lillie. Shirley Temple will visit Dinah on the May 4 show.

The initial "Kraft Television Theater" program to be handled by Talent Asociates, new production unit for this show, will be on April 16 rather than April 2 as originally planned. The first one will be three short plays by Tennessee Williams.

The opening feature of the 30th annual awards ceremony of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, on NBC March 26, will be the singing of Oscar-winning songs of the past by Bob Hope, Frank Sinatra, Mae West, Tony Martin, Jane Rusell, John Raitt and Mitzi Gaynor.

Bob Hope's next NBC program is slated for April 5. He's now involved in a trip to Moscow which he expects will yield some filmed material for the show.

Robert Saudek Associates, the outfit that runs NBC's "Omnibus," has been selected by the New York Philharmonic to plan and produce, subject to securing sponsorship, a TV series of four to six concerts for the 1958-59 season. Leonard Bernstein, who has appeared on a number of varied programs for "Omnibus," would be musical director for the TV shows. He begins a three - year period as musical director of the Philharmonic next fall.

Gisele MacKenzie's musical program on NBC will depart after the March 29 show. Her 9:30-10 p.m. Saturday time will be filled by reruns of filmed dramas previously seen on "Schlitz Playhouse" and "General Electric Theater," carrying through until fall.

The March 20 "Playhouse 90" on CBS will be a play entitled "The Right Hand Man," starring Dana Andrews and Anne Baxter. Dick Berg based the script on a story by Garson Kanin.

Forthcoming guest stars on Rosemary Clooney's Thursday night NBC musical are Mel Torme, March 20; John Raitt, April 3: Spring Byington, April 17; George Gobel, May 1.

"Ceiling Unlimited" is the title of a special full - hour report on satellites, space and space travel that will be presented by CBS April 20 at 6 p.m.

TOLSTOY'S Tales Of Courage And Big Conflict

TOLSTOY'S TALES OF COURAGE AND CONFLICT edited by Charles Neider (Hanover House, $4.95).

This is perhaps the most readable collection of stories and tales by one author ever brought together in one anthology. The book is also the first, major one-volume collection of Leo Tolstoy's short stories.

These are stories of suspense, action, realism, and intense characterization by one of the world's greatest writers. There are forty-six of them in all, and they reflect almost all periods and aspects of their author's long life of more than eighty years.

In length the stories range from the short - short story to the novelette. In subject their variety is even greater: "Kreutzer Sonata" and "Where Love Is There God Is Also" are rich in emotional impact; "The Snow Storm" is a vivid account of being trapped in a blizzard; "The Raid" is a gripping account of young soldiers on an expedition against some Caucasian tribes; and "The Death of Ivan Ilyitch" is the somber and powerful story of a man's conflict as he faces death.

Leo Tolstoy excelled in writing stories of physical life — as is clearly seen in his stories in which, again and again, the central character is faced with circumstances requiring both strength and endurance. Hunting, fighting, and gambling took much of Tolstoy's attention in the early part of his writing life.

Practical Book About Human Relationship

HUMAN RELATIONSHIP By Eleanor Bertine, M. D. (Longmans, $4.50.)

This is a book about people, and the inner and outer reactions that are touched off by their contacts with other people. The need to understand the complexities of these contacts — a specific problem of human relationship — is what usually brings a person to consult an analyst.

Dr. Bertine, trained by Dr. Jung in Zurich, draws her examples from her experience of more than 30 years of practice in analytical psychology. Each of the important relationship situations is discussed separately: the family, including the relationship of child to mother, to father, and to brother and sister, and parent to child; the individual and the group, an enlargement of the family situation; men and women, including the marriage relationship; and friendship. Each relationship is dealt with from the practical point of view with concrete comments and suggestions; on the inner side, it is shown that each corresponds to a pre - existent psychic image, or pattern in the collective unconscious. As long as this is unconscious it will be projected, or seen as if it were in the other person; when it is made conscious and assimilated, it becomes a potential capacity of the individual himself. To help reconcile the elements of the consciousness and the unconscious and integrate them into a common striving is the goal of the analyst, and Dr. Bertine draws a wealth of examples to show that a stable relationship with another person is possible only when the individual understands his position between that person and his own inner reality.

Poignant Story Of Love Affair

THE YEAR OF THE WHITE TREES by Jane Mayer (Random House, $3.50).

This is the poignant story of a love affair, how it began, how it grew, and what finally happened.

Anneira Veck, who lived simply and conservatively with her mildly domineering mother, had had one affair, which had turned out to be a mistake. Although her life was fairly social — her family was active in Chicago's society—she felt she had reached a dead end.

Then at a party she met Ellis Springbok, a famous concert violinist. She was instantly drawn to his magnetic personality, and sensed — almost before they were introduced — his indication that he found her out of the ordinary. Yet he seemed uninterested, implying that she could have him only on his terms. She fell in love with him with an intenseness she had never known before. She was willing to be with him whenever he wanted, do whatever he wanted, but soon discovered that they met only at his convenience. Warned by their friends, she would not believe that he could not be held by one woman.

Anneira made a trip to New York to meet Ellis, to be alone with him. There, away from her friends and family in Chicago, she learned the truth about their relationship. Knowing she still loved him, Anneira made her decision.

Because of their involvement, both lovers grew more mature — not without the pain, nor without the intensifying awareness of beauty that their increasing maturity exacted. In the Year of The White Trees, Jane Mayer has uniquely mingled emotion, sensuousness, and intellect, making a story that is complex, yet classically simple.

'Hot Summer' Is Showing Here

Coming direct from the world premiere in Baton Rouge Thursday, the film "The Long, Hot Summer" opens at the Paramount Theatre today. It is filmed in CinemaScope and Color.

Ironically, Mississippi, where the story is set, did not quite look like Mississippi to the probing eye of the cameras. So the entire company set up shop in the Baton Rouge area of Louisiana. This, they decided, really looked like Mississippi.

Shooting of the picture was done in seven main locations in Louisiana — near St. Francisville, two private homes near Clinton, near False River, at The Hermitage, an ancient manor house nea: Darrow, and in the Clinton Town Square.

"The Long, Hot Summer" was produced by Jerry Wald who also brought to the screen the much acclaimed "Peyton Place." Wald chose a brilliant and unparalleled cast for his story of love, hate and violence in the Deep South.

The cast includes Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Anthony Franciosa, Orson Welles, Lee Remick and Angela Lansbury.

Two of the cast have been nominated for Academy Awards this year for previous roles: Joanne Woodward for her role in "Three Faces of Eve" and Anthony Franciosa for his part in "A Hatful of Rain."

The author of the story is Mississippi's William Faulkner. Faulkner is a winner of the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes and is now a writer-in-residence at the University of Virginia. The story has won for Faulkner the title of "America's finest living author."

The picture comes through in many parts; it is a story full of lusty action, yet, there is both spiritual and earthy love in it, too. The comedy aspects of the production — and there are many —are among some of the funniest scenes ever filmed. The laugh-filled cenes between Welles and Miss Lansbury may well become a movie classic.

The title song is sung by Jimmie Rodgers and has already become a big hit on the radios across the nation.

All in all — from the imaginative script, the exciting camera treatment, the sensitive, yet robust direction and the cast of top talent, "The Long, Hot Summer" seems sure to be another big hit at the Paramount Theatre.

SHOULDN'T JOIN CLUB

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — The Communist Party expelled its Lapland leader because he joined a Rotary Club, the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said Friday. The leader, Arne Ylippa, is a building contractor. He was charged with failure to toe the party line.

Child marriages are an old custom in India. In a village of central India, a one-month-old boy is reported to have been married to a two-week-old girl. The bride and bridegroom were held on their mothers' laps during the ceremony.

Organ Recital Tuesday By D. Tschabold

Spring musical features at Northeast State will include a recital of organ numbers presented by David Tschabold on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Recital Hall on the college campus.

The program is open to the public, announced Dean Harry M. Lemert.

Tschabold a senior music education major from Lake Providence, is a student of James F. Monroe, assistant professor of organ and theory at Northeast.

The performer will be assisted in recital by Miss Patsy Howard, flute; Mrs. Louise Nelson Davis, oboe; and Charles Hytken, bassoon.

Numbers comprising Tuesday night's feature will include: "Christmas Pastorale" by Johann Pachelbel; "Toccata," also by Pachelbel; "Rondo" by Bull-Ellsasser; "Chorale" by Dietrich Buxtehude; "Sarabanda" (from Suite in F), Corelli-Nobel; "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor," J. S. Bach; "Grave" (from Sonata op. 8, No. 4 for flute, oboe, bassoon, and organ), Tommass Albinoni; "Andante," Karl Stamitz; "The Kettle Boils" (from Fireside Fancies,) Joseph Clakey.

VON BRAUN FLUNKED

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Army's top missile expert disclosed Friday that he once flunked math and physics.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, who was educated in Germany, made the admission to two House education subcommittees.

"I flunked classes in math and physics when I was 12 or 13," he said.

"Later on, I picked up," he added.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

The Boltin' Bishops

By SGT. LOUIS CASSULLO

An automobile sputtered, slowed down, and pulled off the free-way just outside Los Angeles. The driver got out and stood by his car as dozens of other motorists sped by, none of them offering help.

The driver was about to start his long trek to the nearest telephone when he noticed a rebuilt pickup pull off the road behind him. At first glance, the truck looked like another of the hundreds of hot rods we see on our California highways these days. But the resemblance stopped there.

Out hopped two teen-age boys, oil in their hair, axle grease under their finger nails.

"Can we help?"

"I'm out of gas," said the driver.

Went to Work

Without speaking, the boys turned and went to work. One flipped off the gas cap of the stalled car. The other went to the back of the truck, fished around among tools, tow ropes, jacks, and came up with a gallon can of gas. He poured the gasoline into the stalled car.

"Try her now," he said, and the driver, somewhat startled, obeyed. The car started. The driver got out and reached for his wallet.

"How much do I owe you?"

"Nothing," said the boys and one of them pulled out a card.

"You have just been aided," the card said, "by the Boltin' Bishops."

Who are the Boltin' Bishops? What are they doing out on the highways and byways aiding stalled motorists? The idea for starting such a club came to a young man by the name of Roy McKeown. McKeown is the Los Angeles director of a group who call themselves Youth for Christ.

Lots of Energy

Four years ago McKeown attended a board meeting of YFC. At that meeting, members were discussing the tremendous amount of teen-age interest and energy that was centered around hot rod cars.

From a mild beginning in the early '30s as a Southern California backyard hobby, this desire to hop up, improve, modify old cars had mushroomed into a national sport. An estimated $225,000,000 was being poured each year into engine and body modifications dreamed up by back-alley engineers. For lack of leadership, the youngsters formed their own clubs, usually picking some drive-in restaurant near home as a meeting place.

The results were literal free-for-alls, dangerous stunts with cars, and frequent police raids to break up the gangs.

"From the looks of things," said Bob Cook, President of Youth for Christ, "we may need to enter a strange new ministry. Remember the passage "Go ye into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in." That Scripture might have been written especially for us."

Couldn't 'Compel' Them

But everyone knew there was little use trying to "compel" youngsters to join a church-oriented group. It was at this point that Roy McKeown came up with the idea,"Why don't we start a hot rod club of our own?"

There was good reason to believe that such a club might work. One important step had already been made in this direction through the excellent work of The National Hot Rod Association. This was a group of hot rod clubs operating under the motto "Safety First; Speed Second."

The basic idea of the NHRA was to have responsible adult sponsorship for hot rod groups, on the theory that the clubs would reflect the principles and spirit of the sponsor.

"Why don't we join the NHRA," suggested McKeown, "with Youth for Christ as a sponsor?"

Club is Formed

The idea sounded good. When McKeown returned to his home in Los Angeles, the formation of the first club was announced with Maurice Brockington as a local leader. Its name: The Boltin' Bishops.

The club started with a charter membership of 12 enthusiasts. Its constitution was explicit and binding. Dues were to be within the range of every boy. Activities were to center around putting each member's car into such good shape that it could pass the rigid NHRA Club Safet, Check.

During the first six months of their existence, the Boltin's Bishops more than tripled in size. With this success to spur them, the YFC today sponsors Boltin' Bishops clubs from Portland, Oregon, to San Diego, from Pasadena to Chicago.

The heart of the club centered around its weekly meetings. Every evening from 6:30 to 8:00 p. m., the boys met in the well-equipped garage of two cooperative mechanics from nearby Pasadena, Paul Talmissian and Joe Sunukijian.

Inspirational Talk

Although the boys managed to get appropriately greasy, put in some good hard work mixed with some equally vigorous horseplay, they never lost sight of the need to concentrate on the principles of the sponsoring Youth for Christ movement. At each meeting a guest or member gave an inspirational message before the group.

I attended one of these meetings recently. The speaker for the evening was 18 years old, a track star, and a born clown. We'd been laughing at him all evening. The newcomers were somewhat surprised when he started his talk with a passage of Scripture:

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," he said. "Before anybody gets the wrong idea about the Boltin' Bishops, we want to make it clear that we're here to put Christ first, cars second.

"Midnight Supplies"

"You take that passage from the Scripture. What do you think of hot rodders who go around getting midnight auto supplies? Maybe it's only a hub cap or two. But would you like someone to lift your hub cap?

"What about outlaw clubs that go around street-racing, killing people, getting jailed? How do they compare with the guys from that club in Alhambra who went out in the last heavy fog and guided lost motorists off the freeway? Or the Valley King Pin Boys who stationed cars at a flooded intersection and pulled stalled cars out for free?

Some guys want to know what we're trying to prove by all this. It's simple. We're trying to prove that any sport can be Christian if you apply His teachings to it. We want members who can make their lives a testimony to that."

TOMORROW — Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, wife of the famed minister, describes the qualities that go to make a good husband.

'Hot Summer' Is Showing Here

Coming direct from the world premiere in Baton Rouge Thursday, the film "The Long, Hot Summer" opens at the Paramount Theatre today. It is filmed in CinemaScope and Color.

Ironically, Mississippi, where the story is set, did not quite look like Mississippi to the probing eye of the cameras. So the entire company set up shop in the Baton Rouge area of Louisiana. This, they decided, really looked like Mississippi.

Shooting of the picture was done in seven main locations in Louisiana — near St. Francisville, two private homes near Clinton, near False River, at The Hermitage, an ancient manor house near Darrow, and in the Clinton Town Square.

"The Long, Hot Summer" was produced by Jerry Wald who also brought to the screen the much acclaimed "Peyton Place." Wald chose a brilliant and unparalleled cast for his story of love, hate and violence in the Deep South.

The cast includes Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Anthony Franciosa, Orson Welles, Lee Remick and Angela Lansbury.

Two of the cast have been nominated for Academy Awards this year for previous roles: Joanne Woodward for her role in "Three Faces of Eve" and Anthony Franciosa for his part in "A Hatful of Rain."

The author of the story is Mississippi's William Faulkner. Faulkner is a winner of the Nobel and Pulitzer prizes and is now a writer-in-residence at the University of Virginia. The story has won for Faulkner the title of "America's finest living author."

The picture comes through in many parts; it is a story full of lusty action, yet, there is both spiritual and earthy love in it, too. The comedy aspects of the production — and there are many — are among some of the funniest scenes ever filmed. The laugh-filled scenes between Welles and Miss Lansbury may well become a movie classic.

The title song is sung by Jimmie Rodgers and has already become a big hit on the radios across the nation.

All in all — from the imaginative script, the exciting camera treatment, the sensitive, yet robust direction and the cast of top talent, "The Long, Hot Summer" seems sure to be another big hit at the Paramount Theatre.

SHOULDN'T JOIN CLUB

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UP) — The Communist Party expelled its Lapland leader because he joined a Rotary Club, the Stockholm newspaper Aftonbladet said Friday. The leader, Arne Ylippa, is a building contractor. He was charged with failure to toe the party line.

Child marriages are an old custom in India. In a village of central India, a one-month-old boy is reported to have been married to a two-week-old girl. The bride and bridegroom were held on their mothers' laps during the ceremony.

Organ Recital Tuesday By D. Tschabold

Spring musical features at Northeast State will include a recital of organ numbers presented by David Tschabold on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in the Fine Arts Recital Hall on the college campus.

The program is open to the public, announced Dean Harry M. Lemert.

Tschabold a senior music education major from Lake Providence, is a student of James F. Monroe, assistant professor of organ and theory at Northeast.

The performer will be assisted in recital by Miss Patsy Howard, flute; Mrs. Louise Nelson Davis, oboe; and Charles Hytken, bassoon.

Numbers comprising Tuesday night's feature will include: "Christmas Pastorale" by Johann Pachelbel; "Toccata," also by Pachelbel; "Rondo" by Bull-Ellsasser; "Chorale" by Dietrich Buxtehude; "Sarabanda" (from Suite in F), Corelli-Nobel; "Prelude and Fugue in E Minor," J. S. Bach; "Grave" (from Sonata op. 8, No. 4 for flute, oboe, bassoon, and organ), Tommass Albinoni; "Andante," Karl Stamitz; "The Kettle Boils" (from Fireside Fancies,) Joseph Clakey.

VON BRAUN FLUNKED

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Army's top missile expert disclosed Friday that he once flunked math and physics.

Dr. Wernher Von Braun, who was educated in Germany, made the admission to two House education subcommittees.

"I flunked classes in math and physics when I was 12 or 13," he said.

"Later on, I picked up," he added.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

The Boltin' Bishops

By SGT. LOUIS CASSULLO

An automobile sputtered, slowed down, and pulled off the free-way just outside Los Angeles. The driver got out and stood by his car as dozens of other motorists sped by, none of them offering help.

The driver was about to start his long trek to the nearest telephone when he noticed a rebuilt pickup pull off the road behind him. At first glance, the truck looked like another of the hundreds of hot rods we see on our California highways these days. But the resemblance stopped there.

Out hopped two teen-age boys, oil in their hair, axle grease under their finger nails.

"Can we help?"

"I'm out of gas," said the driver.

Went to Work

Without speaking, the boys turned and went to work. One flipped off the gas cap of the stalled car. The other went to the back of the truck, fished around among tools, tow ropes, jacks, and came up with a gallon can of gas. He poured the gasoline into the stalled car.

"Try her now," he said, and the driver, somewhat startled, obeyed. The car started. The driver got out and reached for his wallet.

"How much do I owe you?"

"Nothing," said the boys and one of them pulled out a card.

"You have just been aided," the card said, "by the Boltin' Bishops."

Who are the Boltin' Bishops? What are they doing out on the highways and byways aiding stalled motorists? The idea for starting such a club came to a young man by the name of Roy McKeown. McKeown is the Los Angeles director of a group who call themselves Youth for Christ.

Lots of Energy

Four years ago McKeown attended a board meeting of YFC. At that meeting, members were discussing the tremendous amount of teen-age interest and energy that was centered around hot rod cars.

From a mild beginning in the early '30s as a Southern California backyard hobby, this desire to hop up, improve, modify old cars had mushroomed into a national sport. An estimated $225,000,000 was being poured each year into engine and body modifications dreamed up by back-alley engineers. For lack of leadership, the youngsters formed their own clubs, usually picking some drive-in restaurant near home as a meeting place.

The results were literal free-for-alls, dangerous stunts with cars, and frequent police raids to break up the gangs.

"From the looks of things," said Bob Cook, President of Youth for Christ, "we may need to enter a strange new ministry. Remember the passage "Go ye into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in." That Scripture might have been written especially for us."

Couldn't 'Compel' Them

But everyone knew there was little use trying to "compel" youngsters to join a church-oriented group. It was at this point that Roy McKeown came up with the idea,"Why don't we start a hot rod club of our own?"

There was good reason to believe that such a club might work. One important step had already been made in this direction through the excellent work of The National Hot Rod Association. This was a group of hot rod clubs operating under the motto "Safety First; Speed Second."

The basic idea of the NHRA was to have responsible adult sponsorship for hot rod groups. on the theory that the clubs would reflect the principles and spirit of the sponsor.

"Why don't we join the NHRA," suggested McKeown, "with Youth for Christ as a sponsor?"

Club is Formed

The idea sounded good. When McKeown returned to his home in Los Angeles, the formation of the first club was announced with Maurice Brockington as a local leader. Its name: The Boltin' Bishops.

The club started with a charter membership of 12 enthusiasts. Its constitution was explicit and binding. Dues were to be within the range of every boy. Activities were to center around putting each member's car into such good shape that it could pass the rigid NHRA Club Safety Check.

During the first six months of their existence, the Boltin's Bishops more than tripled in size. With this success to spur them, the YFC today sponsors Boltin' Bishops clubs from Portland, Oregon, to San Diego, from Pasadena to Chicago.

The heart of the club centered around its weekly meetings. Every evening from 6:30 to 8:00 p. m., the boys met in the well-equipped garage of two cooperative mechanics from nearby Pasadena, Paul Talmissian and Joe Sunukijian.

Inspirational Talk

Although the boys managed to get appropriately greasy, put in some good hard work mixed with some equally vigorous horseplay, they never lost sight of the need to concentrate on the principles of the sponsoring Youth for Christ movement. At each meeting a guest or member gave an inspirational message before the group.

I attended one of these meetings recently. The speaker for the evening was 18 years old, a track star, and a born clown. We'd been laughing at him all evening. The newcomers were somewhat surprised when he started his talk with a passage of Scripture:

"Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them," he said. "Before anybody gets the wrong idea about the Boltin' Bishops, we want to make it clear that we're here to put Christ first, cars second.

"Midnight Supplies"

"You take that passage from the Scripture. What do you think of hot rodders who go around getting midnight auto supplies? Maybe it's only a hub cap or two. But would you like someone to lift your hub cap?

"What about outlaw clubs that go around street-racing, killing people, getting jailed? How do they compare with the guys from that club in Alhambra who went out in the last heavy fog and guided lost motorists off the freeway? Or the Valley King Pin Boys who stationed cars at a flooded intersection and pulled stalled cars out for free?

Some guys want to know what we're trying to prove by all this. It's simple. We're trying to prove that any sport can be Christian if you apply His teachings to it. We want members who can make their lives a testimony to that."

TOMORROW — Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, wife of the famed minister, describes the qualities that go to make a good husband.

U.N. MILITARY COMMITTEE

It's Long On Brass And Boredom

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Military Staff Committee works on the principle that they also serve who only stand and wait.

Made up of generals and admirals from the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China, this high-brass outfit is supposed to command the U. N.'s permanent armed forces. But the U. N. doesn't have any permanent armed forces.

Nevertheless, every other Thursday its delegates turn up here in full dress uniform and sit down behind closed doors at a curved wooden table on the top floor of the U. N. Library Building.

Each country is allowed four delegates from army, navy and air force. Behind the delegates sit their advisers, in front of them the committee's secretarial help, and interpreters who see that every word is heard in Chinese, English, French and Russian.

The president calls the meeting to order; this month it is Soviet Maj. Gen. Ivo M. Saraev. The minutes of the last meeting are read, the agenda for this one adopted.

When a Chinese is president, the Russians record their view that he ought to be from Peiping — and, being from Taiwan, represents nobody but himself and maybe Chiang Kai-shek.

Once a year a formal report to the council is approved, and the council in turn reports to the General Assembly that the committee during the year held 26 meetings "without making further progress on matters of substance."

The meetings last from 10 minutes to an hour. The Russians and the Westerners are friendly and invite each other to parties. The Russian and the Chinese are correct — but not friendly.

Despite its gold braid and lack of other activity, the committee hasn't got in on either of the U. N.'s two ventures into the military field.

When the Security Council acted in Russia's absence in 1950 to stop the North Korean Communist invasion of South Korea, 16 U. N. members got up a special force and the United States was put in command. Russia supported the enemy.

When the U. N. Assembly formed an emergency force in 1956 to police British - French and Israel withdrawal from invaded Egypt, it declared the big powers ineligible to contribute troops.

The committee has held 331 meetings since 1946 without reaching agreement on its original assignment — to prepare a plan for organizing an international army. After 12 years, the delegates have yet to find a plan acceptable to all.

The committee can't stop meeting because its rules of procedure say it must go on. It can't disband because it's decreed in the U. N. Charter. Changing the charter needs Russian agreement, and the Russians are against making any change.

However, even if the big powers could break up the committee they probably wouldn't. For one thing, it provides a place where the Big Five officers can keep useful contact among themselves and a place where military men can break in as diplomats.

The committee's operation is not so wasteful as it might appear. Of its staff of 11, only three work for it full time. It's braid-laden military delegates also all have other jobs.

Bishop Relief Feeds Hungry For Koreans

The Catholic churches in the Twin Cities will aid the 1958 Catholic Bishop' Relief Fund today when collections will be taken up in all places of worship. The past week appeal was made and the Catholic public and others who would help financially are asked to donate as liberally as possible.

Nation-wide the appeal gives five million dollars as the sum that is sought as goal. These basically important donations are vital and world-wide relief could not function without this help. Those who will be recipients are in specially urgent need at this time.

Feeding stations are 82 in number and are maintained by the Bishop's Relief Fund Service—National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The Department of Agriculture has distributed among Koreans, hungry and destitute, used clothes, shoes, bedding supplies and badly needed medicine.

The Bishops' relief agency was established in Korea in 1946 and has grown to be the largest single, non-government relief operation there. Contributions will be sent to the Bishops' Relief Fund, Empire State Bldg., New York or through Catholic churches such as we have here in the Twin Cities.

About two-thirds of the 700,000 engineers in the United States work in private industry, reports the U. S. Department of Labor.

SECOND WAVE

Second Epidemic Wave Of Asian Flu Is Possible

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service feels it is unlikely — but possible — that a second epidemic wave of Asian flu will follow on the heels of the virtually ended recent outbreak.

So says Dr. William H. Stewart, assistant to Surgeon General Leroy W. Burney, in summarizing the American experience in the recent worldwide epidemic which:

Sickened millions and killed thousands throughout the world, although the death rate was very low; struck an estimated 20 million Americans, killing not less than 6,500; causel the temporary closing of hundreds of U.S. schools and cost industry a staggering total of man-hours lost.

But even if a second nationwide epidemic should occur between now and the first of May, said Stewart in an interview, the service feels it would be "relatively mild from the standpoint of the mortality being very, very low, as it has been in the recent epidemic."

"Since you can't say with certainty that a second wave will or will not occur," he said, "the wisest course is to be conservative and make your plans" on the basis of possible recurrence.

"Thus the health service is continuing to urge people who haven't already done so to get vaccinated —particularly people in the 'high risk' groups such as the chronically ill, the aged, and pregnant women," Stewart emphasized. "In these groups we are also recommending second shots for the highest individual protection."

On the unlikely side of the picture, health officials point out that despite the global scope of the recent epidemic, only one country has reported what appeared like a substantial second wave. That was in Japan, but the outbreak there has pretty well died down now.

But Federal health experts caution that sporadic cases of Asian flu can be expected through early spring.

And there's a possibility too says Dr. Carl Dauer of the health service's Office of Vital Statistics that small localized outbreaks may occur in areas where the incidence of the disease was relatively low in the earlier epidemic.

Meanwhile, here's a rundown on the American phase of the worldwide epidemic which started in Red China last February but didn't reach the United States until June:

1. More than 20 million Americans are believed to have been affected, most of them since September, with the peak of the epidemic occurring in mid-October. This is the largest number of flu cases of any kind since the 1918 epidemic.

2. Total number of deaths has not been specifically determined, but one indication is this:

Between September and March 1, the latest statistics available from 108 major cities of the United States reported 16,174 deaths from influenza and pneumonia, compared with 9,038 for the same period a year ago. The difference, health service officials say, indicates about 6,500 deaths were due to the 1957-1958 outbreak of Asian flu. Fatal cases have occurred most frequently among the aged.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Women Growing Too Aggressive

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—In many American marriages, "people seem to be content if they're not too miserable," says Dr. Arthur Mandy, Baltimore psychiatrist.

One basic reason for unhappy marriage is that women are becoming too aggressive, too competitive with men, he declares.

The result is millions of women are frigid, and perhaps as many men impotent, he writes in the publication, State of Mind.

Family doctors could help many married couples understand their problems and compromise their bickerings somewhat to raise their marriages "from a level of horrible to not so horrible," Dr. Mandy says. He is a psychiatrist at the Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical School and director of the Psychosomatic Obstetric & Gynecology Clinic of Sinai Hospital.

"Frigidity as we see it today is an outgrowth of woman's running away from her biological destiny, which is to be a wife, mother, and homemaker," Dr. Mandy writes.

"It reflects her refusal to take the role of passive homemaker. Instead, she's seeking gratification elsewhere by competing with men."

Dr. Mandy says this is the final result of "the so-called feminine emancipation movement" when women decided their place no longer was in the home.

They first asked the right to vote, he says, then to attend universities, to enter politics, to compete with men in jobs, including being scientists, pilots, soldiers. They found they could be financially independent.

But few women can succeed in both holding a job and being wife and mother because "this is not the destiny of women" and because the job of caring for home and children takes 24 hours a day.

Men must help also if women are to concentrate on family life rather than upon careers, he declares.

"They must give the woman of the house more recognition. Women who are feminists tell you that they went in this direction because they were fed up with working in the house — cooking, cleaning, fixing the children's clothes, doing this and that — just to have their husbands come home night after night and grumble about their dinner."

The husband must show his wife he cares for her, and help her emotionally, Dr. Mandy advises.

In the typical impasse, the husband "says he doesn't do these things because the wife makes herself unloveable. She is such an aggressive threat to him. He doesn't feel inclined to hug and kiss her when he comes home because she has been miserable to him. The wife says she is miserable to him because of his almost total inattentiveness."

Both must sit down and take stock. This isn't just a case of some marriages but "a national problem," the psychiatrist believes.

Dr. Mandy thinks frigidity in women—an inability to reach sexual climax — is a symptom of all this and that it stems from women's aggressive tendencies.

"Yet they are unwilling to become dependent upon their husbands. They themselves want to pursue the sex act. They want to feel as aggressive as the man."

This attitude is a threat to the man who then may not be able to react normally, and becomes impotent.

Also, the pursuing woman can "ultimately come to the thought that if he really loved her, he'd pursue her. She thinks, 'I am not really acceptable; that's why I must pursue him.'"

Sex education for children cannot begin early enough because a child's sexual attitude is formed between ages one to five, even from the unspoken attitudes of parents which the child perceives, Dr. Mandy declares.

Physicians can be helpful counselors to husbands and wives, and there are "many little things that can be done as a compromise kind of relationship in which he'll do this if she'll do that."

"Compromise at least raises the marriage from a level of horrible to not so horrible. It may not provide a magnificently happy marriage, but the general average today in America is not ideally happy."

U.N. MILITARY COMMITTEE

It's Long On Brass And Boredom

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The U. N. Military Staff Committee works on the principle that they also serve who only stand and wait.

Made up of generals and admirals from the United States, Russia, Britain, France and Nationalist China, this high-brass outfit is supposed to command the U. N.'s permanent armed forces. But the U. N. doesn't have any permanent armed forces.

Nevertheless, every other Thursday its delegates turn up here in full dress uniform and sit down behind closed doors at a curved wooden table on the top floor of the U. N. Library Building.

Each country is allowed four delegates from army, navy and air force. Behind the delegates sit their advisers, in front of them the committee's secretarial help, and interpreters who see that every word is heard in Chinese, English, French and Russian.

The president calls the meeting to order; this month it is Soviet Maj. Gen. Ilya M. Saraev. The minutes of the last meeting are read, the agenda for this one adopted.

When a Chinese is president, the Russians record their view that he ought to be from Peiping — and, being from Taiwan, represents nobody but himself and maybe Chiang Kai-shek.

Once a year a formal report to the council is approved, and the council in turn reports to the General Assembly that the committee during the year held 26 meetings "without making further progress on matters of substance."

The meetings last from 10 minutes to an hour. The Russians and the Westerners are friendly and invite each other to parties. The Russians and the Chinese are correct — but not friendly.

Despite its gold braid and lack of other activity, the committee hasn't got in on either of the U. N.'s two ventures into the military field.

When the Security Council acted in Russia's absence in 1950 to stop the North Korean Communist invasion of South Korea, 16 U. N. members got up a special force and the United States was put in command. Russia supported the enemy.

When the U. N. Assembly formed an emergency force in 1956 to police British - French and Israel withdrawal from invaded Egypt, it declared the big powers ineligible to contribute troops.

The committee has held 331 meetings since 1946 without reaching agreement on its original assignment — to prepare a plan for organizing an international army. After 12 years, the delegates have yet to find a plan acceptable to all.

The committee can't stop meeting because its rules of procedure say it must go on. It can't disband because it's decreed in the U. N. Charter. Changing the charter needs Russian agreement, and the Russians are against making any change.

However, even if the big powers could break up the committee they probably wouldn't. For one thing, it provides a place where the Big Five officers can keep useful contact among themselves and a place where military men can break in as diplomats.

The committee's operation is not so wasteful as it might appear. Of its staff of 11, only three work for it full time. It's braid-laden military delegates also all have other jobs.

Bishop Relief Feeds Hungry For Koreans

The Catholic churches in the Twin Cities will aid the 1958 Catholic Bishop' Relief Fund today when collections will be taken up in all places of worship. The past week appeal was made and the Catholic public and others who would help financially are asked to donate as liberally as possible.

Nation-wide the appeal gives five million dollars as the sum that is sought as goal. These basically important donations are vital and world-wide relief could not function without this help. Those who will be recipients are in specially urgent need at this time.

Feeding stations are 82 in number and are maintained by the Bishop's Relief Fund Service—National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The Department of Agriculture has distributed among Koreans, hungry and destitute, used clothes, shoes, bedding supplies and badly needed medicine.

The Bishops' relief agency was established in Korea in 1946 and has grown to be the largest single, non-government relief operation there. Contributions will be sent to the Bishops' Relief Fund, Empire State Bldg., New York or through Catholic churches such as we have here in the Twin Cities.

About two-thirds of the 700,000 engineers in the United States work in private industry, reports the U. S. Department of Labor.

SECOND WAVE

Second Epidemic Wave Of Asian Flu Is Possible

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Public Health Service feels it is unlikely — but possible — that a second epidemic wave of Asian flu will follow on the heels of the virtually ended recent outbreak.

So says Dr. William H. Stewart, assistant to Surgeon General Leroy W. Burney, in summarizing the American experience in the recent worldwide epidemic which:

Sickened millions and killed thousands throughout the world, although the death rate was very low; struck an estimated 20 million Americans, killing not less than 6,500; causel the temporary closing of hundreds of U.S. schools and cost industry a staggering total of man-hours lost.

But even if a second nationwide epidemic should occur between now and the first of May, said Stewart in an interview, the service feels it would be "relatively mild from the standpoint of the mortality being very, very low, as it has been in the recent epidemic."

"Since you can't say with certainty that a second wave will or will not occur," he said, "the wisest course is to be conservative and make your plans" on the basis of possible recurrence.

"Thus the health service is continuing to urge people who haven't already done so to get vaccinated —particularly people in the 'high risk' groups such as the chronically ill, the aged, and pregnant women," Stewart emphasized. "In these groups we are also recommending second shots for the highest individual protection."

On the unlikely side of the picture, health officials point out that despite the global scope of the recent epidemic, only one country has reported what appeared like a substantial second wave. That was in Japan, but the outbreak there has pretty well died down now.

But Federal health experts caution that sporadic cases of Asian flu can be expected through early spring.

And there's a possibility too says Dr. Carl Dauer of the health service's Office of Vital Statistics that small localized outbreaks may occur in areas where the incidence of the disease was relatively low in the earlier epidemic.

Meanwhile, here's a rundown on the American phase of the worldwide epidemic which started in Red China last February but didn't reach the United States until June:

1. More than 20 million Americans are believed to have been affected, most of them since September, with the peak of the epidemic occurring in mid-October. This is the largest number of flu cases of any kind since the 1918 epidemic.

2. Total number of deaths has not been specifically determined, but one indication is this:

Between September and March 1, the latest statistics available 108 major cities of the United States reported 16,174 deaths from influenza and pneumonia, compared with 9,038 for the same period a year ago. The difference, health service officials say, indicates about 6,500 deaths were due to the 1957-1958 outbreak of Asian flu. Fatal cases have occurred most frequently among the aged.

"Regular ever since!"

Is constipation, caused by lack of bulk, giving you trouble? Wilson F. Burnham of Worcester, Mass., writes: "Years ago I was quite irregular, so I decided to try All-Bran. I have had the best of daily regularity since." Kellogg's All-Bran is the natural way to keep regular without habit-forming laxative drugs. Try Kellogg's All-Bran, the original whole bran cereal that has already helped millions.

MARCH OF SCIENCE

Women Growing Too Aggressive

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
AP Science Reporter

NEW YORK (AP)—In many American marriages, "people seem to be content if they're not too miserable," says Dr. Arthur Mandy, Baltimore psychiatrist.

One basic reason for unhappy marriage is that women are becoming too aggressive, too competitive with men, he declares.

The result is millions of women are frigid, and perhaps as many men impotent, he writes in the publication, State of Mind.

Family doctors could help many married couples understand their problems and compromise their bickerings somewhat to raise their marriages "from a level of horrible to not so horrible," Dr. Mandy says. He is a psychiatrist at the Johns Hopkins Hospital and Medical School and director of the Psychosomatic Obstetric & Gynecology Clinic of Sinai Hospital.

"Frigidity as we see it today is an outgrowth of woman's running away from her biological destiny, which is to be a wife, mother, and homemaker," Dr. Mandy writes.

"It reflects her refusal to take the role of passive homemaker. Instead, she's seeking gratification elsewhere by competing with men."

Dr. Mandy says this is the final result of "the so-called feminine emancipation movement" when women decided their place no longer was in the home.

They first asked the right to vote, he says, then to attend universities, to enter politics, to compete with men in jobs, including being scientists, pilots, soldiers. They found they could be financially independent.

But few women can succeed in both holding a job and being wife and mother because "this is not the destiny of women" and because the job of caring for home and children takes 24 hours a day.

Men must help also if women are to concentrate on family life rather than upon careers, he declares.

"They must give the woman of the house more recognition. Women who are feminists tell you that they went in this direction because they were fed up with working in the house — cooking, cleaning, fixing the children's clothes, doing this and that — just to have their husbands come home night after night and grumble about their dinner."

The husband must show his wife he cares for her, and help her emotionally, Dr. Mandy advises.

In the typical impasse, the husband "says he doesn't do these things because the wife makes herself unloveable. She is such an aggressive threat to him. He doesn't feel inclined to hug and kiss her when he comes home because she has been miserable to him. The wife says she is miserable to him because of his almost total inattentiveness."

Both must sit down and take stock. This isn't just a case of some marriages but "a national problem," the psychiatrist believes.

Dr. Mandy thinks frigidity in women—an inability to reach sexual climax — is a symptom of all this and that it stems from women's aggressive tendencies.

"Yet they are unwilling to become dependent upon their husbands. They themselves want to pursue the sex act. They want to feel as aggressive as the man."

This attitude is a threat to the man who then may not be able to react normally, and becomes impotent.

Also, the pursuing woman can "ultimately come to the thought that if he really loved her, he'd pursue her. She thinks, 'I am not really acceptable; that's why I must pursue him.'"

Sex education for children cannot begin early enough because a child's sexual attitude is formed between ages one to five, even from the unspoken attitudes of parents which the child perceives, Dr. Mandy declares.

Physicians can be helpful counselors to husbands and wives, and there are "many little things that can be done as a compromise kind of relationship in which he'll do this if she'll do that."

"Compromise at least raises the marriage from a level of horrible to not so horrible. It may not provide a magnificently happy marriage, but the general average today in America is not ideally happy."

Darbar Scheduled

Members of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, will have a Darbar Friday, March 21, at 8 p. m. at Castle Hall.

Officials urge a good attendance, and ask that members wear their fez and bring new applicants. Refreshments will be served after the meeting.

The life-size marble statue of Abraham Lincoln in the Capitol at Washington is the creation of a then teen-age girl, Vinnie Ream. Congress was so pleased with the work that it voted her an additional $5,000 to the $10,000 they paid her originally. The statue was unveiled in 1871.

Fine Arts Club First To Hold Campus Meeting

The Fine Arts Club had the distinction of being one of the first music groups invited to make use of the new recital auditorium in the Fine Arts Building at Northeast for its monthly meeting Monday night.

Highlight of the meeting was the program of student compositions from the class of James Monroe, assistant professor of music at Northeast.

A mixed chorus of students performed a song and choral harmonization by George Massingale and Holcombe Pryor; woodwind instrumentalists played compositions of James E. Hallberg and Charles E. Hytken; Doris Pollard, soprano, sang her own cycle of songs.

DeJuana McCormick, pianist, performed her own "Suite of Moods;" Milton Blalack played compositions for horn by Joe Naff; Volmer Dean Boyd played his "Fantasia" for saxophone, and a student brass ensemble played "Scherzo," by Milton Blalack.

Following the program, the club held its business meeting in the auditorium. The principal item of discussion was the part the state convention of the La. Federation of Music Clubs to be held here Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Present at the meeting were Miss Eleona Brinsmade, Mr. and Mrs. John Cale, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dalton, Mrs. H. H. Douglas, Mr. Leon Hammonds, and guest, Mrs. F. V. Allison, Mrs. W. Barlow Inabnet, Mr. Max H. Kulcke, Mrs. E. E. Lawson, Dr. Harry Lemert, Mrs. Ray D. Magruder, Mr. and Mrs. Winfred B. Mask III, Mrs. Henry C. Mayo, Sr., Miss Louise Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Newman, Sr., Miss May Read, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Frank O. Seymour, Mrs. Eloise Stanhope and Mrs. William J. Veazey.

Serving as host and hostesses for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Winfred Mask and Miss Eleona Brinsmade.

Children Need Privacy, Too

CHICAGO — A child development specialist says children need some privacy.

"Parents may not always think so, but children like some time to be alone in a place of their own — and not just when adults are having a party," said Pat Robinson of the University of Illinois.

The ideal arrangement is for each child to have his own room, but many families do not have the space to spare, she said. In this case, Miss Robinson suggests giving the youngsters an area of their own.

"Whether it's a room or an area it should be as private as possible. Children need a place where they can be quiet or noisy, undisturbed and undisturbing," she said.

Colonial Dames Get 'Oscars' For Top Chapter Achievements

Chapters of the Louisiana Society of Colonial Dames of the 17th Century shared honors Tuesday as "oscars" were presented for outstanding unit achievement.

So excellent were the programs of the chapters, said Mrs. Camilla May Franks of New Orleans, it was difficult in many cases to name the unit which actually deserved the award.

The annual "oscar" awarding luncheon was held at 1 p.m. in room 206 at Hotel Bentley, following the opening session of the third annual conference at which Mrs. Frank J. Fava of Shreveport, state president, presided.

The Edward Doty Chapter of Bastrop, headed by Mrs. A. T. Turpin, was awarded the "oscar" for the best president's report. The award was given by Mrs. Fava.

La Louisianne Chapter, New Orleans, captured the "oscar" for having contributed the most books to the Dames' national library. Mrs. Bessie Warford Sanders, president, accepted the award, given by Mrs. Franks. The New Orleans unit also received the history "oscar," given by Mrs. H. T. Barr of Baton Rouge.

The Isaac Monet Chapter, Baton Rouge, whose president is Mrs. Marion Munson, was awarded the building fund "oscar," given by Mrs. Fay Bennet Rowland, Bastrop, for contributing the largest sum to the national building fund.

Two new awards included "oscars" for the best scrapbook and for publicity. The first, given by Mrs. Turpin, went to the Francis Billingsly Chapter, Oak Grove, headed by Mrs. T. N. Pulley, and the second, given by Mrs. C. H. Messer, was awarded to the Mathew Agee Chapter, Shreveport, whose president is Mrs. Fava.

The luncheon honored chapter presidents, who in addition to those mentioned above include Mrs. H. W. Littleton, of the Robert Ruffin Chapter, New Orleans.

An election was held to fill three offices: Mrs. Turpin as first vice president; Mrs. Munson, second vice president, and Mrs. R. M. Watts of St. Francisville, third vice president.

Welcoming the Dames were Mayor W. George Bowdon Jr., Mrs. E. W. Schneider, regent of the Louisiana Society, Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Littleton, president of the Louisiana Division, United Daughters of the Confederacy; Miss Vallerie Jo Fava, vice president of the Louisiana Division, Children of the Confederacy and Miss Dorothy Amman, Children of the American Revolution.

Memorial Service

Mrs. W. H. Adams, state chaplian, was chairman of the memorial service, held Thursday morning. The Rev. John C. Neville Jr., pastor of the Jackson Street Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation. Mrs. Malcolm C. Downs sang "A Little White" and "One Day". Her accompanist was Mrs. Sam Bejach.

Tribute was paid to four members whose deaths occurred during the past year. They were Mrs. Carlos J. Tricoir, who held membership in the La Louisianne Chapter; Mrs. Wilmer Baker of the Robert Ruffin Chapter and Mrs. Ruth Kelly Johnston and Mrs. Anabelle Smith Jones of the Isaac Monet Chapter.

Among distinguished guests at the conference were Mrs. E. L. Kelly of Oak Grove and Mrs. J. E. O'Donnell of Woodville, Miss., who are co-organizers of the state organization.

Miss Doernberg Engaged To Wed H. Lamensdorf

The engagement of Miss Louise Ray Doernberg of this city to Mr. Hugh Lamensdorf of Shelby, Miss. is announced today by her parents Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Doernberg of Monroe. Mr. Lamensdorf is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Lamensdorf, also of Shelby.

Paternal grandparents of the bride - elect are Mrs. Joseph M. Doernberg and the late Mr. Doernlate Mr. and Mrs. Louis Krauss of Monroe were her maternal grandparents. She is a graduate of Neville High School and is a junior in the Tulane School of Business Administration, where she is a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi social sorority.

Mr. Lamensdorf is a graduate of Shelby High school and is a medical student at Tulane university. He is a member of Zeta Beta Tau fraternity. His paternal grandparents are Mrs. Ben Lamensdorf and the late Mr. Lamensdorf of Shaw, Miss. The late Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Mundt of Helena, Ark., were his maternal grandparents.

An early summer wedding is planned.

Several days of lovely weather have already preceded the official first day of spring next week, and new clothes were the chief topic of all "woman talk" . . There's plenty to talk about, too, what with all the new styles in dresses and shoes—and hats that range from buckets down over the head to fly-away Breton sailors.

At Monday's meeting of the Monroe Garden Club, president MARY LEE MILAM was wearing a new navy and white straw which sat square on the head, with a little white bow in the center of the forehead. . . . CHARLOTTE HAMILTON chose a beige straw with a brim full of red fruit. . . . Also in a fruit hat was HORTENSE TOUCHSTONE . . . ADELE RANSOM's choice was a cream-colored Breton. . . . Truly elegant was JUDY TURPIN's aqua straw threaded with navy chiffon.

"This is Your Life was the theme of the surprise housewarming given for CHARLOTTE and EVANS ETHRIDGE by friends Saturday. DOLL and HENRY BIEDENHARN picked the honor guests up, ostensibly for a boat ride, but at the dock they remembered something they had "forgotten." When they returned to the house, thirty-five intimates shouted "Surprise!" . . . Decorations were copied from old pictures in a pilfered scrapbook. Flying from Houston to contribute to the Your Life theme were Charlotte's mother, MRS. J. E. M'MAHON, and sister, RENA NELSON, and MARGARET and FRED WALCOTT. . . . JEAN and JOHN FUDICKAR were here from Ferriday. . . . The group brought covered dishes for supper featuring hot tamale pie. Housewarming present was a handsome hammered brass pitcher.

Visitors in town and out included MR. and MRS. CHARLES REID, JR., and children, SUSAN, CARRIE, and CHIP, who returned to their home in Houston, Texas, after a week's visit with the CHARLES REIDS, SR., here. . . Another former resident here last week was JIMMY NELL CHANEY, who was the guest of FAYE PARKER. Jimmy Nell has been greatly missed since she and her family moved to Baton Rouge to make their home, and it was good to see her in town. . . . Our own CHARLENE SIMONTON was in New Orleans last week end, and danced at the Roosevelt's Fountain Lounge on audience participation night. She and her partner won first prize for their samba. . . NODIE THATCHER had as house guests this week end her sister, MRS. S. T. HAMITER and MRS. SAM KERLIN, both of Shreveport. The ladies drove over Thursday in time for the League tea, and plan to return home today.

'Twarn't a fit day out on Wednesday when the JUNIOR CHARITY LEAGUE entertained with the annual silver tea, but inside all was spring. The lovely home of the CHARLES BROWNS on the Loop Road was the scene of the party. Branches of flowering quince created a welcoming scene in the entrance hall . . . Focal point in the living room was the coffee table holding a large Italian crystal compote filled with jonquils, peach blossoms, and Dutch iris. About 24 past presidents of the league alternated in the receiving line which formed in this room. Among these were VIRGINIA HARGROVE in a black full-sl/t-ed taffeta with rows and rows of tiny tucks . . . CHUNKY LEMERT in a blue and purple printed silk with fresh violets . . . MARY GREY in black taffeta with a jabot of black lace . . . MERLE ADAMS in mauve starched chiffon . . . SARA RHYMES in French blue peau de soie . . . LIB HALE in a blue and green printed silk with green shoes . . . LOUISE THEUS in mink brown silk shantung with matching shoes.

Guests were invited throughout the house to view the arrangements "just like a flower show," as more than one commented . . . In the den, Bird of Paradise flowers were masterfully grouped in a low copper container . . . Copper was also used on the sunporch, this time with yellow Dutch iris and ranunculas . . . In the guest bedroom, hand-painted Bavarian glass bud vases held long stemmed pink camellias which blended perfectly with the walls . . .Another perfect match was found in the breakfast room, where pink and green grapes were used with Magnolia flora camellias in a copper compote flanked with antique candelabra of pressed copper leaves.

White flowers exclusively were used in the dining room. The cut glass pergne which centered the table held white Dutch iris and camellias. On the sideboard were five - branched silver candelabra wrapped with Alba Plenas. Alternating at the tea and coffee services were HELEN CAMPBELL, LAYTON LAMKIN, VICKY HILL, and LOUISE MORGAN, all life members of the League . . . Enjoying a chat over the teacups were GLORIA ROBERTSON, lovely in a straw cloche covered with tiny pink flowers, and IBB FOX, in a powder blue spring suit the exact shade of her eyes . . . A real picture was VELMA WILLEV'S picture hat with ombre brown chiffon overlaying the green straw brim . . . Sampling the unusual shrimp sandwiches were GAIL FORTENBERRY in a red and white striped straw cloche, and LIBBY MILLER, wearing a yellow straw . . . Also tempting the guests were hot cheese biscuits, chicken salad sandwiches, and a variety of dainty cookies.

The 1920's look was demonstrated by JEAN HAMILTON in a black and white check chemise with a black straw "bucket" hat . . . and by JO M'CUE, who chose a red, red hat and very pointed shoes to compliment her grey checked bloused - back suit . . . SHARRON BONNER's sack dress was grey with a wide white linen collar and white straw cloche . . . Outstanding was NANCY FLUKE's navy crepe with a fly - away panel which was attached top and bottom, but showed a polka dot facing when she moved . . . JOEL JOHNSTON also chose a navy chemise, with matching straw cloche . . . The perfectly matched look was beautifully achieved by JOYCE KELLOGG in her orange linen duster and hat . . . CODY ROSAMUND in a champagne beige suit and hat . . . DOT VASSO in all black with a small black straw . . . and ANNA MAE BREECE, a symphony in grey — suit, hat, and mink.

Spring has brought on a sudden flurry of style shows, three of which were held Friday. The CULTURA BOOK club presented children's styles at a benefit, proceeds of which went to the Cerebral Palsy school. Easter clothes for toddlers to primary school ages were shown, with bonnets and full skirts for the girls, and striped blazers for the young gentlemen. Easter baskets and stuffed rabbits were favorite accessories with both sexes.

LAMBDA SIGMA CHI emphasized mother and daughter styles in their "Fashions on Parade" show at the Virginia hotel. The families modelling included MRS. JOHN HUMPHREY and her daughter, LINDA LOU ROBINSON, and MRS. JACK KNOWLES with SANDRA. Particularly unusual were MRS. R. W. ROGERS and her twins, LINDA and GLENDA. . . . Other portions of the show presented styles ranging from sportswear to formals. BETH BREECE narrated, while MARY LOUISE SNELLINGS provided piano music. JAN WEST did a ballet dance between scenes.

"Fashions Around the Clock" was the title of the style show presented at noon Friday for the ladies attending the conventions of home economists and home demonstration agents. Four of the models opened the show in flapper costumes, and then changed into new outfits with the twenties look. These were BILLIE SMITH, MARTHA SWAYZE, BOBBIE INABNET, and MRS. C. H. BIRD. . . . JACKIE MITCHELL showed the casual look, and AUDREY DAWSON modelled the newest of navy. . . . Closing the show was BETTY JANE HODKINS in a waltz length besige silk evening gown with chiffon drape.

All this talk of chemises brings to mind the comment one designer made about the fit of the style: "It should be tight enough to show there's a woman inside — and loose enough to show she's a lady."

For our poem today, a sonnet by William Shakespeare for all the newly-weds and to-be-weds in today's paper.

When, in disgrace with Fortune and men's eyes,
I all alone beweep my outcast state,
And trouble deaf heaven with my bootless cries,
And look upon myself and curse my fate,
Wishing me like to one more rich in hope,
Featured like him, like him with fr ends possessed,
Desiring this man's art, and that man's scope,
With what I most enjoy contented least:
Yet in these thoughts myself almost despising,
Haply I think on thee; and then my state,
Like to the lark at break of day a rising
From sullen earth, sings hymns at heaven's gate;
For thy sweet love remembered such wealth brings
That when I scorn to change my state with kings.

Annual Garden Tour Planned In Shreveport

The yearly tour of beautiful private gardens in Shreveport has been scheduled for March 22 and 23 by the Shreveport Beautification Foundation, according to Harry S. Stephens, chairman for the garden tour.

"This is expected to be one of our best tours and will have an entirely new feature as an added attraction — public display of several leading Shreveport homes as well as the beautiful gardens around them," Mr. Stephens said.

In adidtion to the homes and gardens, the tour will also include stops at the Crumley Memorial Fountain and the Ravine Gardens at Centenary College and the patio area of the Marjorie Lyons Playhouse at the college, both recent beautification projects of the foundation.

The Home and Garden tour will be held between the hours of noon and 6 p. m. both days. A tea will be served in the playhouse patio each day from 2 until 6 p. m. and as a special attraction, a special guided tour of the playhouse will be conducted for anyone interested in seeing first - hand one of the oustanding college dramatic arts and speech plants in this area, he said.

Another highlight of the tour will be an afternoon concert by the Centenary College Choir at 4 p. m. on the final day of the tour. The concert will be held in front of the Crumley Memorial Fountain area of the Centenary Ravine Gardens, one of the stops on the tour, and will feature special music of spring.

The Beautification Foundation was organized by the Shreveport Chamber of Commerce in 1937 to help beautify Shreveport and the surrounding area.

ESSAY WINNERS, sponsored by Fort Miro Chapter DAR, are left, Margaret Brady of Neville High School and Peggy Bushice of Ouachita High School.

Fort Miro Chapter DAR Holds March Meeting In Home Of Mrs. J. Sparks

Fort Miro Chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution, held its March meeting in the home of Mrs. James Sparks on Island Drive.

Mrs. Duncan Cook, the regent, called the meeting to order at three o'clock. The chapter was led in prayer by Mrs. C. E. Slade, chaplain, and the repetition of the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. A. E. Montgomery. Three newcomers, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Hazel Mitchell, were extended a welcome by the regent.

The speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Austin Miller, gave an interesting talk on "Our Educational Heritage." The colleges of the colonial period were Harvard College, founded in 1636; William and Mary, founded in 1693; Yale, congregational, founded in 1701; Princeton, Presbyterian, 1746; Academy and college later called University of Pennsylvania, the only non - denominational one was founded in 1753-55; Kings College or Columbia in New York, 1754; Brown, 1764; Rutgers, 1766; Dartmouth, founded in 1769.

A business meeting followed with Mrs. Blossom Butler giving a report on National Defense for the month of March. Miss Edith Gun- by repoetrd on the Essay Contest sponsored by Fort Miro, on some phase of the administration of James Monroe in honor of the bicentennial of his birth, April 28, 1758. Three Monroe High Schools were asked to participate, Ouachita High, Neville High, and Saint Matthews, with Margaret Brady of Neville winning first place and Rudy Jones and Peggy Bushice of Ouachita receiving honorable mention.

Miss Eleona Brinsmade reported on the chapter house project. Mrs. Duncan Cook presided at the coffee service and guests and members were served by Mrs. James Sparks, Mrs. Kugler, Mrs. H Thompson, Mrs. John Stark and Miss Carrie D. Drew.

MISS BEVERLY KAY FARLEY'S engagement to Robert J. Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Freeman, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Farley, all of Ruston. The wedding will be solemnized in mid-March.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Phyllis Ann Perdue to Robert Russell Holliman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell Holliman of Coquille, Oregon, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander Perdue of Crossett, Ark. The wedding is planned for late spring.

Miss Sargent, Dr. G. Kennedy Exchange Vows

HARRISONBURG — Announcement of the marriage of Miss Carole Sargent of Harrisonburg to Dr. Irving G. Kennedy Jr. of Stony Point, New York, has been made by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sargent of Harrisonburg.

The marriage vows were said in the First Unitarian Church in New Orleans.

Attending the wedding were the close friends and parents of the bride, and parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Kennedy Sr. of Stony Point, New York.

The couple will continue to make their home in New Orleans for the present. Dr. Kennedy s serving his internship at a New Orleans hospital and Mrs. Kennedy will soon complete her nurses training at the same hospital.

A Provincial Room Calls For Cafe Curtains

By BETTY LENAHAN

Q — We have just moved into a new home and my problem is the living room. The furniture is mahogany framed French Provincial with the sofa upholstered in forest green, a chair in persimmon with small brown figures and a club chair in brown. The tables are mahogany with leather tops. There are two windows in the room with a four - foot space between them. Could I use cafe curtains? What colors would you suggest for the walls, wall-to-wall carpeting and curtains? Also what kind of lamps should I buy for the drum table and tables on either side of the sofa?

A — Cafe curtains on the windows in your living room would be a good idea with the French Provincial furniture. Sandalwood walls and beige wall - to - wall carpeting would provide a pleasant background which could be sparked up with cafe curtains with a fleur de lis or similar small design in gold on a copper background. A large copper lamp for the drum table and a pair of white gold - trimmed tole lamps for the tables on either side of the sofa would fit nicely into the scheme.

Q. — Our dining room is in the northwest corner of the house which is old. The walls are papered and the woodwork is mahogany. Could you give us suggestions for the wallpaper, woodwork and draperies that would give the room a fresh, bright look? The furniture is Sheraton and the rug is an American Oriental in shades of tan, light blue and rose on a very dark blue background. Also, what would you advise using on the buffet and the wall above it?

A. — A pretty plan for your dining room that would certainly make it look bright and fresh would be to use a white marble balustrade wallpaper dado with a garden mural, picking up the colors of the rug, on the walls above. You could paint the woodwork white and get the draperies in a rose color. A gold and white framed mirror above the buffet would reflect the mural making the room appear larger and a pair of ruby glass hurricane lamps on top of the buffet would add just the right decorative touch.

Q. — We are in the process of completing our new home at the shore and would like some advice. The walls and cabinets in the kitchen and the lower walls in the adjoining living room are knotty pine. Since the living room will be used more as a den would you suggest a type of curtain or drapery for the picture window? Also, what colors would be suitable for the walls above the knotty pine and the floor covering? The furniture is maple.

A. — Why not keep to the Early American theme in your kitchen and adjoining room by using a wallpaper with an allover provincial print in yellow, brown and coral on the walls above the knotty pine and a linoleum floor covering simulating wide wood planks. Draw draperies in yellow cotton would ensure privacy and add a bright and cozy look.

Q. — I am planning to have slipcovers made for the sofa and two chairs in my living room. Should they be of a patterned or a solid color fabric? The walls and rug are plain.

A. — For variety and interest it is a good idea to cover one stripe and the other in a solid color.

Tennis Star Now Bounces Protons

CHICAGO — A former Belgian tennis star now is studying how protons and neutrons bounce in plutonium.

Nadine Isaac recently arrived in the United States from Belgium, where she attended the University of Brussels and won the women's tennis championship of the school from 1951 to 1953.

She is studying the chemistry of plutonium and other heavy elements at the Argonne National Laboratory under a grant that extends through 1958.

An employe of the Center for Studies of the Applications of Nuclear Energy at Mol in northern Belgium, Miss Isaac plans to apply her knowledge of reprocessing fuel elements for atomic reactors when she returns to Belgium.

"But I will miss the gentleness of American people," she said, "especially their openness, helpfulness and congeniality."

Her mother played for Belgium at the Wimbledon international tennis championships before World War II and is still active in Belgian tennis.

Argonne helps train foreign scientists through the International School of Nuclear Science and Engineering.

Limp Veiling For Last Year's Easter Bonnett

The limp veiling on the Easter bonnet can be revived. Take it off and spread it on an ironing board. Cover veil with wax paper, and use a slightly warm iron over it.

Substitute

Sew a few imitation pearls on a hair net and wear it over your chignon. It's a good substitute for an Easter hat.

Fort Miro Chapter DAR Holds March Meeting In Home Of Mrs. J. Sparks

Fort Miro Chapter, Daughter of the American Revolution, held its March meeting in the home of Mrs. James Sparks on Island Drive.

Mrs. Duncan Cook, the regent, called the meeting to order at three o'clock. The chapter was led in prayer by Mrs. C. E. Slade, chaplain, and the repetition of the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag was led by Mrs. A. E. Montgomery. Three newcomers, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. Caldwell and Miss Hazel Mitchell, were extended a welcome by the regent.

The speaker for the afternoon, Mrs. Austin Miller, gave an interesting talk on "Our Educational Heritage." The colleges of the colonial period were Harvard College, founded in 1636; William and Mary, founded in 1693; Yale, congregational, founded in 1701; Princeton, Presbyterian, 1746; Academy and college later called University of Pennsylvania, the only non - denominational one was founded in 1753-55; Kings College or Columbia in New York, 1754; Brown, 1764; Rutgers, 1766; Dartmouth, founded in 1769.

A business meeting followed with Mrs. Blossom Butler giving a report on National Defense for the month of March. Miss Edith Gunby repoetrd on the Essay Contest sponsored by Fort Miro, on some phase of the administration of James Monroe in honor of the bicentennial of his birth, April 28, 1758. Three Monroe High Schools were asked to participate, Ouachita High, Neville High, and Saint Matthews, with Margaret Brady of Neville winning first place and Rudy Jones and Peggy Busbice of Ouachita receiving honorable mention.

Miss Eleona Brinsmade reported on the chapter house project. Mrs. Duncan Cook presided at the coffee service and guests and members were served by Mrs. James Sparks, Mrs. Kugler, Mrs. H. Thompson, Mrs. John Stark and Miss Carrie D. Drew.

MISS BEVERLY KAY FARLEY'S engagement to Robert J. Freeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Freeman, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Farley, all of Ruston. The wedding will be solemnized in mid-March.

THE ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Phyllis Ann Perdue to Robert Russell Holliman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Russell Holliman of Coquille, Oregon, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Alexander Perdue of Crossett, Ark. The wedding is planned for late spring.

Miss Sargent, Dr. G. Kennedy Exchange Vows

HARRISONBURG — Announcement of the marriage of Miss Carole Sargent of Harrisonburg to Dr. Irving G. Kennedy Jr. of Stony Point, New York, has been made by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sargent of Harrisonburg.

The marriage vows were said in the First Unitarian Church in New Orleans.

Attending the wedding were the close friends and parents of the bride, and parents of the bridegroom, Mr. and Mrs. Irving G. Kennedy Sr. of Stony Point, New York.

The couple will continue to make their home in New Orleans for the present. Dr. Kennedy s serving his internship at a New Orleans hospital and Mrs. Kennedy will soon complete her nurses training at the same hospital.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY A. LITTLE

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Beeson And Henry A. Little

Miss Billie V. Beeson, daughter of Mrs. W. W. Beeson of West Monroe, and the late Mr. Beeson, and Henry A. Little were married February 21, at seven o'clock in the evening at the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Dr. Jaroy Weber performed the double ring ceremony before baskets of pink stock flanked by tall burning tapers entwined with greenery. Pink bows decorated the family pews.

Selections were rendered by Sharon Thomisee, Theda Pettigrew and Jack Day, accompanied by Bob Oldenberg at the organ and Sandy Lawn at the piano.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Aubrey C. Hobbs. She was gowned in white lace and net over satin. The fitted bodice featured a sabrina neckline edged in sequins. The sleeves came to calla points over the hands. The bouffant skirt swept into a chapel train. The finger tip veil of illusion fell from a pearl and sequin tiara. She carried a bouquet of white orchids placed on a white Bible.

The maid of honor was Sharon M. Thomisee, gowned in pale pink taffeta. She carried a bouquet of pink and white carnations. The bridesmaids were Betty Nelson and Sarah Little and were dressed identical to the maid of honor. Debbie Little was the flower girl.

A. B. Little Jr., served his brother as best man. The groomsmen and ushers were Bill Norris, Pierce Ramsey, Ray Vineyard and Raymond Clark.

Mrs. Beeson chose to wear for her daughter's wedding, a moth wool model accented by an orchid corsage.

Reception

A reception was held in the banquet hall of the church immediately following the ceremony.

The pink covered table overlaid with white lace, was centered with an arrangement of white and pink carnations, flanked by burning white tapers. The tiered cake adorned one of the tables where Mrs. Malcom LeFevre presided, and Miss Gerry Lester served punch from the other end.

The bride chose for travel, an aqua wool suit and black accessories. Her corsage was the orchid taken from her bouquet.

Miss Haston Is Engaged To Wed Oren Reeves

Announcement is being made by Mr. and Mrs. George W. Haston of Delhi of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ila Mae, to Oren Reeves, son of Mrs. J. C. Reeves of Vicksburg, Mississippi. The wedding will be an event of March 30.

The bride - elect is a graduate of JMD High School in St. Joseph.

For A Child's Easter Party

For a child's party at Easter, press an animal cookie cutter in the form of a chick lightly into the icing of a cake then fill in the outline with tinted icing. If you have no cookie cutter, dip a paper pattern of a chick or bunny in water and place it on the cake frosting. Trace around it with a toothpick dipped in food coloring. The paper pattern will not stick.

At Long Last Drip Dry Mink

CHICAGO — Drip - dry mink is here.

The fur is washable when blended into yarns with orlon and angora fibers. This yarn blend is soft to the touch, washes easily, and doesn't lose its shape.

Mock fur, used to trim orlon sweaters, also is as easy to wash as hosiery, say sweater manufacturers. Dip the fur blends in suds at night, and they'll be dry by morning.

Miss Wallace's Engagement Is Being Told

Announcement is being made by Mrs. Era C. Guice of Ferriday of the marriage of her daughter, Shirley Wallace, to John D. Wilkinson of New Orleans. He is the son of Mrs. Charity Wilkinson of Liberty, Mississippi.

The wedding was solemnized on March 15, in the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. John Callen and Mr. Callen, of New Orleans. The couple plans to reside in New Orleans.

Gardenia Corsage

If you have received a gardenia corsage and want to keep it alive fold several layers of cleaning tissue and wet it thoroughly with water. Lay on each gardenia blossom, taking care not to wet the bow. This way it will keep for days without turning brown.

CARSON BROWN, the lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Brown, began her reign as queen of the 1958 Natchez Pilgrimage, representing the Pilgrimage Garden Club, last night and will continue to hold court during the remainder of the Pilgrimage period, which closes March 30. A large and enthusiastic audience, made up of visitors from all parts of the United States, witnessed the colorful ceremony at the presentation of the Confederate Pageant.

MRS. CHARLES REAGAN SUTTON

Gladioli, Mums Decorate Church For Wedding Of Joyce Mathewes, C. Sutton

Beauty and simplicity marked the wedding of Miss Joyce Evelyn Mathewes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Keith Mathewes, and Charles Reagan Sutton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Russell Sutton, at seven o'clock Friday evening, February 21, at the Emmanuel Baptist Church in Ruston.

The Reverend A. H. Johnson performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with baskets of gladioli, chrysanthemums and stock. Lighted white tapers in candelabra entwined with polished ivy shed a soft glow on the entire setting. Large white satin bows marked the pews.

Prior to the ceremony, Miss Betty Ann Maxwell, organist, rendered a program of traditional music and as the candles were being lighted by Miss Peggy Williamson. She also accompanied the soloist, Miss Tommy Sue Proctor as she sang "If I Could Tell You" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Miss Ann Mathewes served her sister as maid of honor.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. K. D. Kilpatrick and Mrs. Jerry C. Norris. The honor attendants wore identical gowns of watermelon pink and carried bouquets of pale pink carnations.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of youthful beauty in her gown of satin and lace. The Empire bodice of Alencon re-embroidered lace was styled with scalloped neckline and long sleeves ending in points over the hands. The full flowing skirt of ivory Skinner's deep lustre satin was accented with a back pouf and ended in a chapel train. Her finger-tip French illusion veil was attached to a tiny lace coronet and she carried a bouquet of white gardenias and tulle.

Flower girl was little Miss Paula Kilpatrick, who wore a floor length dress of white net with a tiered ruffled skirt. She wore a bandeau of pink roses in her hair and carried a nosegay of white carnations and pink roses. Master K. D. Kilpatrick served the couple as ringbearer and carried the rings on a white satin pillow.

The groom's best man was his father. Serving as ushers and groomsmen were Jerry Norris, Hank Frasier, Lamar Buffington and Joe Kavanaugh.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Mathewes chose a dress of mauve lace over taffeta with matching satin cummerbund. She wore a feather hat of the same hue and a corsage of garnet roses. Mrs. Sutton, mother of the groom, was attired in a pink lace dress with which she wore a matching satin hat and a corsage of garnet roses.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. K. D. Kilpatrick were hosts at a reception in their home on North Trenton Street.

A pink and white theme was carried out in flower arrangements placed about the reception rooms. Adorning the living room mantel was a miniature bride and groom floating in a cloud of angel hair.

The bride's table, covered with a white cutwork cloth, held the four-tiered wedding cake on one end, and occupying the opposite end was the crystal punch bowl filled with pink fruit punch. Assisting with the serving were Mrs. G. V. Williamson, Miss Anna Dora Simonton, Miss Christine Sutton, and Mrs. Lorene Thrasher. Tea girls were Miss Ann Chandler, Miss Francis Davidson and Miss Sue Bailiff.

Mrs. Joe Kavanaugh presided at the bride's book.

Following a wedding trip to Hot Springs, the young couple will make their home in Ruston where Mrs. Sutton is employed at the First National Bank. The bridegroom graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in January.

Mock fur, used to trim orlon sweaters, also is as easy to wash as hosiery, say sweater manufacturers. Dip the fur blends in suds at night, and they'll be dry by morning.

Mahogany And Antiqued Tones Are Nice Blend

By BETTY LENAHAN

Q — The walls of our living room are delft blue and the carpeting is a deeper shade of blue. The woodwork, cornices and fireplace are white and the draperies have a floral pattern in blue, deep red and gold on a white background. I prefer very little pattern in the room, which is bright, and had thought of a charcoal sofa with tarow pillows in white and gold, two chairs upholstered in deep red and one in gold. If you think that these colors would be appropriate what would you suggest for end tables, coffee table and lamps?

A. — The upholstery colors you have selected for your living room will blend nicely with the background. Why not get mahogany end tables, the coffee table in an antique white finish and red and white with gold trim lamps?

Q. — I am decorating a rumpus room and would like some help. I have already made the draperies which have a rather unusual scenic travel patter in blue, red, brown and orange on a beige background and would like to paint the walls a melon shade. I have a rug with a black scroll design on a hunter green background and a blond rocker and sofa which I would like to make covers for. What colors would you suggest for these? Also, what colors would you suggest for the tile floor covering and accessories?

A. — Terra cotta would be a good color for the tile floor covering in your rumpus room, brown for the sofa slip cover and green for the rocker. Brass, black and orange accessories would add bright color notes.

Q. — The wallpaper in the foyer of my apartment has a pattern of sprays of white flowers on a beige background. The only furniture I have in it now is a low chest. Should I replace this with a console table or is there some way I can make it more interesting as it is?

A. — Why not keep the low chest in your foyer? You can make an interesting arrangement by hanging a long narrow mirror off - center above it balanced by a tall lamp on the other side.

Q — I am redecorating a small girl's room which is very sunny and would like some suggestions. The furniture is driftwood gray. What colors would you suggest for the walls, rug and curtains?

A. — A nice cool color scheme for the room would be pale lilac walls, a blue rug and pink and gray plaid curtains.

Q. — I am putting the finishing touches on my living room and would like to know whether lamps must be used in pairs?

A. — Not necessarily. Where you might use a pair of lamps you could use one lamp counterbalanced by something of the approximate size. For example, a vase of flowers or a piece of sculpture.

An Old Felt Hat

To keep the Easter plant from scratching the furniture, cut out the top of a man's old felt hat and place it under the flower pot.

MRS. MORRIS WRIGHT

Brin-Wright Vows Heard In New Orleans Ceremony

Pink blossoms and traditional tapers formed the setting for the impressive double - ring ceremony which united in marriage Mrs. Jean Brin and Morris Wright. She is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Guy Hirsch of Dallas, Texas, and he is the son of Mrs. Louis Wright and the late Mr. Wright of Eunice. The vows were heard by Rabbi Julian Feibleman on March 6, at eight o'clock in the evening.

A program of nuptial classics was presented by Godfrey Hirsch and his ensemble.

The bride, given in marriage by Albert L. Hirsch, was radiant in an informal gown of delicate blush silk taffeta, fashioned with a tightly moulded basque bodice. The petal neckline was accented by imported chantilly lace and she wore short white glace' gloves. A dome silhouette princess panel skirt, accented by a garland applique of lace was encrusted with cut crystals and tiny seed pearls. Her bandeaux was of matching blush color with sequins and cut crystals encrusted and carried a cascade of pink orchids, stephanotis and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Albert Hirsch of Dallas was the bride's only attendant. She was lovely in a gown of blue silk organza. The jewel neckline, accented by sunburst pleating, flowed to a bell - shape waltz-length skirt. She wore a matching pleated Dior Bow and short glace' gloves and carried a bouquet of pink camellias.

Sidney Wright served the groom as best man, with Dr. Ted Bloch, Dr. Irving Levin, Warren Stern, all of New Orleans, and Irving Kerstein of Eunice as ushers.

Mrs. Wright chose for her son's wedding a mauve silk taffeta covered with a matching tulle skirt and she wore slippers dyed-to-match.

Reception

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the University Room of the Roosevelt. The bride's table, overlaid with matching taffeta, held an array of pink camellias with tall tapers in silver candelabra. The pink tiered wedding confection centered the round table.

Miss Joanie Kerstein, niece of the groom, registered guests at a small pink covered table, which bore matching camellias. She wore a palest blue gown with a corsage of pink roses.

The couple left on March 8 for a Caribbean cruise aboard the Cavalier, with a tour of Venezuela planned. Upon return they will reside in New Orleans.

The bride attended the University of Texas and graduated from Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, where she was a member of Alpha Epsilon Phi sorority.

The groom graduated from Tulane University College of Law where he was a Phi Beta Kappa and of the Order of the Coif.

Out - of - town guests present at the wedding were Phil Brin of Longview, Albert Brin, Mrs. Walter Brin, Mrs. Clifton Linz, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Kahn and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hirsch, all of Dallas; Dr. and Mrs. Sam Carriere, Mr. Sam Carriere Jr., of Winnsboro; Dr. and Mrs. Mortimer Rapheal, Dr. and Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mrs. Stanley Shlosman, Mrs. Louis Masur Sr., Mrs. Louis Masur Jr., and Mrs. Ralph Marks, all of Monroe; Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wright of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kerstein, Miss Joanie Kerstein, David Kerstein, Mrs. Ester Snyder of Bastrop; Mrs. Nathan Wright of Buffalo, New York; Mrs. V. Frank of Mobile, Alabama, Miss Lisalotta Levy, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Stagg of Eunice; Mr. and Mrs. Victor Sachse, Atty. Gen. and Mrs. Jack Gremillion of Baton Rouge; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Owen, Edwin P. Davis, of Dallas; Leonard Maxwell of Dallas; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Ashley of Slidell, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Antis of Crowley; Mr. and Mrs. Morton Elster of Houma; and Mr. and Mrs. Austin W. Lewis of Lake Charles.

Teen-Age Sets Sights On High Fashion Design

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — Young Joe McConnico, at 14, has his heart set on becoming a fashion designer. In fact, he says "I've already designed my shop."

Joe is an eighth-grader with artistic talents that amazed a New York fashion illustrator, who described him as "one of the most creative persons I have seen in many years."

Mrs. Jack McConnico says her son Joe always has appreciated art. When the bathroom needed painting, Joe produced a bluegray seascape with tiny stars twinkling through the haze.

Mrs. McConnico's kitchen cabinets are decorated with peachtree limbs in full bloom. Joe also helps his mother design clothes.

Some of his designs now are under appraisal at Nieman-Marcus in Dallas, Tex. The young designer has scheduled a private showing this summer of 15 of his pictures, including eight fashion sketches.

Joe does commercial art work after school. At present, he has two paintings for sale.

Joe attended Memphis Art Academy for three weeks one summer after finishing first grade. But art instruction was short-lived.

"My mother wouldn't let me go anymore," he said, "because we got in paint fights."

MRS. SHELDON RAY LEWIS

Miss Ellen Coltharp And Sheldon Ray Lewis Exchange Marriage Vows

A double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Ellen Coltharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Coltharp, and Sheldon Ray Lewis, son of Euil Lewis, was performed in the First Presbyterian Church of Waverly.

The Rev. Don Wineinger performed the ceremony before a background of white chrysanthemums and greenery flanked by tall white tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in slipper satin accented by Chantilly lace and a bustle. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Sylvia Goss served as maid of honor and was gowned in pink brocade satin. She carried a bouquet of orchid pom pons.

The bridesmaids were Doris Kuhn, Dolores Lewis, Martha King and Nora Lou Rudkin, all dressed identical to the maid of honor.

The flower girl was Paula Lewis who wore a pink organdy dress and carried a basket of pink petals. The ring bearer was Jack Coltharp.

Paul Lewis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Alvin Presley, Lawrence Colthap, Jim Brown and Donald Ray Sanford.

Music was rendered by Frank McKay of Delhi.

The bride's mother chose to wear for her daughter's wedding, a navy blue model with matching accessories, and a white carnation corsage.

A reception was held at the church immediately following the ceremony. Mrs. Alvin Presley presided at the bride's table covered with a white cloth and graced with a white tiered cake embossed with pink rosebuds.

Miss Janis Lewis presided at the guest book.

Grayson Couple Surprised On Anniversary

Relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Biggs of Grayson surprised them by calling on them and spending a pleasant hour Saturday afternoon, March 1, recalling events of their wedding day, as several of those present were present at the wedding.

Assisting in the courtesies of the afternoon were Mrs. W. M. Elliott, two nieces of the couple, Mrs. John ''. James of Columbia and Mrs. Vernice Fritts, of Beaumont, Texas, the two daughters, Mrs. Melva Cody, Lake Charles and Mrs. E. L. Brown of Liberty, Texas.

Fifty years ago, March 4, 1908, at the Methodist Protestant Church in Grayson, with Rev. J. C. Hearne officiating, a double ceremony was performed. The daughter, Grace, and the son, Moses, of the late Dr. and Mrs. James A. Biggs, became the bride and groom respectively of the grandson, Ira L. Yeager, and the daughter, Ruth, of the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Hanchey.

Mr. and Mrs. Mose Biggs made their home in Grayson for a few months, then moved to Clark and lived for several years. The Biggs' family then moved to Grayson and have made their home there ever since.

To this union four children were born. The surviving children, Clyda Biggs, married E. L. Brown, and is at present making her home in Liberty, Texas, where she is employed as supervisor of schools of Liberty County.

Melva Biggs married Claude C. Cody, who was killed in World War II, and is at present supervising teacher at McNeese State College, Lake Charles, Louisiana.

Pipe Cleaners

To keep the small children quiet during the Easter services, take along a few pipe cleaners. The child can bend them to make all kinds of figures and keep amused. If they fall on the floor, there is no noise.

Add 1 tablespoon grated orange rind and 1 tablespoon sugar to standard baking powder biscuits; roll 1-inch thick and cut with small cutter; if desired, dip a sugar cube quickly into orange juice and press gently into top of biscuit before baking.

THE ENGAGEMENT of Mary Evelyn McDuffie to Charles Lindbergh Brown of Natchitoches, son of Mrs. George Brown of Calhoun and the late Mr. Brown, is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Myles McDuffie of Crowville. The wedding is to be an event of April fifth, at the First Baptist Church of Crowville. Miss McDuffie received her BS in nursing from Northwestern State College and at present is a lieutenant in the United States Air Force Nurse Corp. at Elgin Air Force Base, Florida.

The Trapeze Silhouette Now Showing

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UP) — Around Manhattan:

The trapeze silhouette, sprung on the fashion world a month ago by the Paris House of Dior, already is showing in at - home wear.

Robert Rosenfeld, one of the style leaders in the lounge wear field, is featuring the trapeze's free-swinging silhouette in short, silk print robes with zipper front. The robes are cut narrow through the shoulders, fitted through the bust like the old-time empire silhouette, and hang free the rest of the way.

"Unlike Dior, who uses petticoats under the suits and dresses to make them stand away from the body, we depend on the fabric to do the job," said the designer - manufacturer. "The silks have plenty of body, are stiff enough for the trapeze effect."

To look at some of the new flowing at - home clothes you'd think the tight-fitting, or toreador, pants were on the way out.

"Not at all," said Rosenfeld. "They're going strong, even stronger than in some other seasons. We make them more feminine with detachable overskirts of organza. Typical of these costumes is one in which the trousers are of a floral green and red print. The voluminous overskirt is moss green.

A far cry from Rosenfeld's sophisticated lounge clothes is the newest fad for the teen - age or college set. It's a modern jacob's coat, a crazy-quilt mixture of prints, stripes, polka dots, florals and geometric designs all of broadcloth.

MRS. SHELDON RAY LEWIS

Miss Ellen Coltharp And Sheldon Ray Lewis Exchange Marriage Vows

A double ring ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Ellen Coltharp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Coltharp, and Sheldon Ray Lewis, son of Euil Lewis, was performed in the First Presbyterian Church of Waverly.

The Rev. Don Wineinger performed the ceremony before a background of white chrysanthemums and greenery flanked by tall white tapers.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in slipper satin accented by Chantilly lace and a bustle. She carried a bouquet of orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Sylvia Goss served as maid of honor and was gowned in pink brocade satin. She carried a bouquet of orchid pom pons.

The bridesmaids were Doris Kuhn, Dolores Lewis, Martha King and Nora Lou Rudkin, all dressed identical to the maid of honor.

The flower girl was Paula Lewis who wore a pink organdy dress and carried a basket of pink petals. The ring bearer was Jack Coltharp.

Paul Lewis served the groom as best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Alvin Presley, Lawrence Colthap, Jim Brown and Donald Ray Sanford.

Music was rendered by Frank McKay of Delhi.

The bride's mother chose to wear for her daughter's wedding, a navy blue model with matching accessories, and a white carnation corsage.

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM KENNETH ADAMS

Senn-Adams Exchange Vows In Start Church

The Start Baptist Church was the scene of a double - ring ceremony March 8 at four o'clock in the afternoon, when Miss Greta Jo Senn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd A. Senn, and William Kenneth Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Tom Adams. The vows were exchanged before a single mass of white chrysanthemums, stock and greenery in a tall chapel basket, flanked by candelabra burning traditional tapers. The Rev. Fred Robertson, brother - in - law of the groom, read the marriage vows.

The Rev. Joe Mordie, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Mordie, presented a program of nuptial music.

Given in marriage by her father, the petite bride was lovely in a waltz - length bridal gown, fashioned with princess lines with a full skirt which fell into deep folds. The fitted bodice featured a deep "V" in front and back. Her shoulder - length veil was of matching blue tulle which fell softly from a pearl covered Cleopatra headdress and she wore blue lace mitts with dyed-to-match slippers. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls. she carried a white orchid nested in blue stephanotis and foliage, caught by narrow satin streamers, the all blue bouquet was mounted on a blue Bible.

Mrs. Bennie Charles Robinson of Baton Rouge, sister of the groom, attended the bride as matron of honor. Her gown was of palest rose lace, fashioned identically to the bride's attire. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink sweetheart roses and her headdress was of pale pink feathers accented with sprinklings of rhinestones.

Bennie Charles Robinson served the groom as best man with Bobby Beasley and Glynn Maton of Monroe seating guests.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a dress of navy blue crepe with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the fellowship room of the church. The bride's table was overlaid with an imported lace cloth and centered with a large flowing arrangement of white mums with blue tapers on either side in crystal. The four tiered wedding confection, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom, was placed at one end of the table with the crystal punch service at the opposite end.

The guest book was kept by Miss Irma Lee Mims on a small arrangement table covered in lace. Miss Sara Maton, cousin of the bride, Miss Gloria Ann Adams, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Mickey Finkelnurk assisted with the houseparty.

The young couple will make their new home on Lee Avenue in Monroe.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES COTTON

Miss Clark Becomes The Bride Of Charles Cotton In Impressive Ceremony

The First Christian Church was the scene of a beautiful and impressive double ring ceremony on Sunday, February 16, at two o'clock in the afternoon when Miss Mildred Josephine Clark and Charles Ethridge Cotton were united in marriage. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. William Ray Clark and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Ethridge Cotton all of West Monroe.

The Rev. R. T. Watson, pastor of the church, read the ceremony before an alter decorated with baskets of white gladioli, against a background of southern smilax and cathedral tapers in a seven branched candelabra.

Proceeding the entrance of the wedding party David Tschabold presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied Miss Judy Calk who sang "Because."

Before the ceremony the candles were lighted by Mr. David Johnston and Mr. F. B. Davis, Jr.

Preceeding the bride were her bridesmaid, Miss Ann Edwards, who was dressed in pale blue embroidered taffeta with a deeper blue chiffon sash, forming streamers in the back. She wore a matching tiny hat of velvet. Miss Barbara Bates, maid-of-honor, wore an identical dress, but with a matching sash, and had veiling attached to her tiny hat. Each wore short white gloves and carried silver wedding rings with crescent shaped bouquets of feathered white carnations and pink forget-me-nots. The flower girl was Little Miss Donna Rose of Shreveport, niece of the groom. She wore a dress of pale yellow organdy, matching hat, white gloves and carried a miniature bouquet of the other attendants. The bridesmaid and maid-of-honor's only ornaments were pearl earrings, which were a gift of the bride. The flower girl's was a cultured pearl on a gold chain.

Escorted to the alter by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in her traditional wedding gown of white chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice was fashioned with short sleeves and a low cut neckline of lace in a scalloped design, outlined with sequins and seed pearls. Tiny self covered buttons closed the back and the tight fitted mitts which came to points over the hands. The long boufant skirt was of tulle and inserts of lace over satin fell from a tiny waist over a Natchez hoop. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a queen's crown tiara of seed pearls accented with three pearl droplets. The bride carried a pearlized Bible with a white orchid corsage and streamers of hyacinth blooms and feathered chrysanthemums. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom.

Following the exchange of vows, the bridal pair knelt for communion and the benediction. Adding to the sacred theme was the beautifully sung "Lord's Prayer."

The groom was attended by Harlan Humphries as best man and chose for his ushers David Johnston and F. B. Davis, Jr.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlor. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Clark, attired in a beige lace sheath, matching hat and contrasting accessories. Her corsage was of feathered pink carnations and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Cotton chose a brown suit, a pink hat and contrasting accessories. She too, had a corsage of feathered pink carnations and forget-me-nots. Also greeting the guests was the bridal couple.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cloth, centered with a branched silver candelabra in a bed of pink gladioli blooms. At one end was the three tier wedding cake beautifully decorated with pink sugar roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Placed at the opposite end was a crystal and silver punch service.

Miss Billie Marie Stell served the wedding cake, and Miss Jo Ann Brooks and Miss Patsy Bearden served the punch. Miss Carol Varner invited the guests to register in the bride's book at a small antique marble top table, featuring a bridal decoration of a glowing anniversary candle, to which was tied a white wedding bell, surrounded by greenery and pink gladiola blooms.

The bride chose for travel a navy blue silk dress with navy and white accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Robert Gates, Robert and Ginger, of Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gates, Fairbanks; Mrs. Beatrice Flanagan of Waukesha, Wisc.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose and daughters, Debra and Donna, of Shreveport, La.

The couple are now at home at 1505 Cedar Street, West Monroe.

To Whiten Gloves

Last year's white cotton or nylon gloves may look grey and dingy, but can be whitened and brightened by putting a little Pine-Sol into the wash water. This cleanser also bleaches.

Hard - cooked eggs and small cooked white onions are delicious in cream sauce. Turn into an oven - proof casserole, sprinkle with cracker crumbs and parmesan cheese, and broil until top is lightly browned.

To prevent marks of the cake rack when cooling your loaf or layer cake, invert the cake onto the rack and turn immediately with another rack so it is top side up.

Chopped left - over meats can add interest to creamed vegetables or they can be used in vegetable salads.

Keep creamed soups hot in a double boiler until serving time.

The bridesmaid and maid-of-honor's only ornaments were pearl earrings, which were a gift of the bride. The flower girl's was a cultured pearl on a gold chain.

Escorted to the alter by her father, who gave her in marriage, the bride was lovely in her traditional wedding gown of white chantilly lace and tulle. The fitted bodice was fashioned with short sleeves and a low cut neckline of lace in a scalloped design, outlined with sequins and seed pearls. Tiny self covered buttons closed the back and the tight fitted mitts which came to points over the hands. The long bouffant skirt was of tulle and inserts of lace over satin fell from a tiny waist over a Natchez hoop. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a queen's crown tiara of seed pearls accented with three pearl droplets. The bride carried a pearlized Bible with a white orchid corsage and streamers of hyacinth blooms and feathered chrysanthemums. Her only jewelry was a cultured pearl necklace and earrings, gift of the groom.

Following the exchange of vows, the bridal pair knelt for communion and the benediction. Adding to the sacred theme was the beautifully sung "Lord's Prayer."

The groom was attended by Harlan Humphries as best man and chose for his ushers David Johnston and F. B. Davis, Jr.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlor. Guests were greeted by Mrs. Clark, attired in a beige lace sheath, matching hat and contrasting accessories. Her corsage was of feathered pink carnations and forget-me-nots. Mrs. Cotton chose a brown suit, a pink hat and contrasting accessories. She too, had a corsage of feathered pink carnations and forget-me-nots. Also greeting the guests was the bridal couple.

The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cloth, centered with a branched silver candelabra in a bed of pink gladioli blooms. At one end was the three tier wedding cake beautifully decorated with pink sugar roses and topped with a miniature bride and groom. Placed at the opposite end was a crystal and silver punch service.

Miss Billie Marie Stell served the wedding cake, and Miss Jo Ann Brooks and Miss Patsy Bearden served the punch. Miss Carol Varner invited the guests to register in the bride's book at a small antique marble top table, featuring a bridal decoration of a glowing anniversary candle, to which was tied a white wedding bell, surrounded by greenery and pink gladiola blooms.

The bride chose for travel a navy blue silk dress with navy and white accessories, and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

Out-of-town guests who attended the wedding were Mrs. Robert Gates, Robert and Ginger, of Rayville; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gates, Fairbanks; Mrs. Beatrice Flanagan of Waukesha, Wisc.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rose and daughters, Debra and Donna, of Shreveport, La.

The couple are now at home at 1505 Cedar Street, West Monroe.

To Whiten Gloves

Last year's white cotton or nylon gloves may look grey and dingy, but can be whitened and brightened by putting a little Pine-Sol into the wash water. This cleanser also bleaches.

Hard - cooked eggs and small cooked white onions are delicious in cream sauce. Turn into an oven - proof casserole, sprinkle with cracker crumbs and parmesan cheese, and broil until top is lightly browned.

To prevent marks of the cake rack when cooling your loaf or layer cake, invert the cake onto the rack and then immediately turn it back again (with another rack) so it is topside up.

Chopped left - over meats can add interest to creamed vegetables or they can be used in vegetable salads.

Keep creamed soups hot in a double boiler until serving time.

March Ceremony United In Marriage Miss Biggs And James Leon Sykes

An arch entwined with greenery, flanked by branched candelabra burning white tapers and floor baskets filled with gladioli and chrysanthemums set the scene for the evening ceremony on March 8, at Kelly Methodist Church which united in marriage Miss Marilyn Joan Biggs and James Leon Sykes. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Clyde Biggs of Kelly and he is the son of Mrs. Bettye K. Sykes of Tullos. The Rev. Norman Simmons of Oak Ridge heard their vows.

Miss Diane Jones of Tullos at the organ accompanied Mrs. W. E. Moody of Tullos with a selection of traditional music, which included "Because," "Walk Hand in Hand" and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, who entered on the arm of her father, wore a waltz-length gown of chantilly lace over nylon tulle. The fitted bodice was fashioned with a Sabrina neckline and long sleeves which tapered into points over the hands. Her wasit length veil of silk illusion fell from a tiny crown of seed pearls. She carried a handkerchief, traditionally old, which had been used in one hundred and eighteen other weddings. Her bouque' was a white orchid encircled with cascading stephanotis and caught with white satin streamers.

Mrs. LeRoy Henderson of Tullos attended the bride as matron of honor, with Miss Shirley Thomas of Kelly and Miss Jerry Brown of Tullos as bridesmaids. They were lovely in waltz - length gowns of ice blue taffeta with an Empire bodice of crystylite taffeta overlaid with matching lace and featuring very bouffant skirts. They wore flower covered Juliet caps and carried bouquets of carnations in matching blue hue.

Little Phyllis Gilmore of Tullos was flower girl. She was a picture in her floor length gown of moonstone blue taffeta and net, scalloped at the hemline and caught at each scallop with a nosegay of flowers. She wore a tiny bandeaux of matching flowers and carried a basket of white covered in bows to match her dress.

David Hughes of Shreveport served his brother - in - law as best man. Candlelighters were Ronnie Biggs, brother of the bride, and David McKeithen of Baton Rouge. Ushers were Freddy Sheppard and W. E. Moody, both of Tullos.

Mrs. Biggs chose for her daughter's wedding a lovely spring suit of rose beige with matching accessories and she wore a corsage of white feathered carnations. The groom's mother was becomingly clad in a beige spring suit with white accessories and she wore a matching corsage.

Reception

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Thomas. The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen cutwork cloth and centered with artistically arranged white carnations flanked by candelabra. The beautifully embossed wedding confection was served by Miss Margaret Lynn Gore of Kelly. Miss Nora Beth Williams of Tullos presided at the punch service.

The entire home was graced with all - white blossoms. Assisting in extending house courtesies were Mrs. Lonnie Thomas, Mrs. O. A. McKeithen of Baton Rouge, Mrs. Ruby Sheppard of Tullos and the guest book was kept by Miss Carolyn Brown of Tullos.

The bride chose for travel a suit of apricot faille with corresponding pearlized shoes and bag. Her hat was of white and she wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet. The young couple left immediately following the reception on their wedding trip. They will make their home in Tullos upon their return.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

An activity-packed week just past fulfilled the Girl Scout Week objective of "telling the public what Girl Scouting is all about." Some of the highlights that have been the subject of comment are —the poise and ability shown by Senior Scouts Marie Nelson and Nancy Martin, who presided over the birthday programs at Sherrouse and Georgia Tucker School last Sunday, the numbers of green uniforms, and brown, too, seen in the various churches in our city, the appearance of the girls on television, all looking like a million dollars in their uniforms, the cooperation of parents who raced from church to television station to the school program to have their daughters present on time, Mr. Harry Arthur's part on the television program, the excellent pictures and newspaper articles, the congratulatory telegrams received from the Boy Scouts.

You're interested in knowing how much money was in the mixing bowl at Sherrouse and in the jars and boxes at Georgia Tucker. At Sherrouse the girls from the 14 troops of the College neighborhood contributed $33.00 for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund. Troop 42 got a laugh when the girls said they were giving a penny for each year of their mother's ages, instead of their own. At Georgia Tucker the other troops (we're not sure just how many were represented) turned in $82.79, making a total so far of $116.69. There will be more coming in from some of the neighorhoods in Columbia, Bastrop and Farmerville, and from board members and others who couldn't be present Sunday.

In several troops girls gave 46 cents each, in honor of the 46th anniversary of Girl Scouting. Troops 1, 14, 41, 43, are some that we know of. While no competition is involved, Troop 43 and Troop 41 deserve credit for the largest contributions.

Troop 61, turned out full force, all in green, for the program, and several other troops had 100 per cent attendance. Appearing on television were the following girls who made short talks on the different days of Girl Scout Week: Gail Smith, Suzanne Keller, Michelle Varnado, Sandy Ballard, Margaret Barlow, Eileen Presse and Elaine Hanna.

Troop 73, the new troop at Shady Grove School, had a family night scheduled for last week, and there were other troop affairs scheduled to conclude a most successful observance of Girl Scout Week.

Dip ½ pinch thick slices of calves liver in French dressing and broil on both sides until brown; bacon can be broiled at the same time if desired.

Give Candle Tree Room

By MILDRED SWIFT

The Imperial Candle Tree you admired so much last summer can soon be purchased locally. Remember to give the plant plenty of room. It grows almost as the mimosa and the shape is much the same. Pete Reed's garden was aglow with these trees last summer and you told me to remind you when to plant.

Reminders

It's still not too late to fertilize shrubs and lawn with 5-10-5 and to spray all evergreens with malathion. You could also prune those evergreens now if you'd do that at once. That is, if they need pruning.

Terrachlor sprayed on the St. Augustine should control brown patch and webworms. If you had trouble last year, treat the infested area in March.

If you need a small fine textured plant, remember there is a dwarf juniper. Also, dwarf yaupon that is almost deer-proof. They take the drouth, without any watering, and thrive. If you have yaupon established in your garden, it may need pruning to make it grow dense and thick. Cut out some of the longer limbs. New ones will grow back.

For those of you who have admired the magnolia Flora Camellia, there's an improved variety that seems hardier. It is Winnfred Womack. Just as beautiful and easier to grow.

There's a lovely dwarf plum in the nurseries. Most of these are bucket plants and can be planted now. Of course, the bloom is white.

The nurseries and seed store people are a little worried over gardeners planting caladiums now. It's just too early. Wait a couple of weeks or longer. The ground is still cold.

Espaliered Plants

With gardens getting smaller, espaliered plants are becoming more popular. If you plan to do this type planting, it's best to get the nurseryman to prune your plant the first time. You'll want to look for a plant that is rather one-sided, which you can sometime find. Then all front and back limbs are kept pruned. The plant is fastened to the house with special hooks made for that purpose. Only a few side limbs are kept.

Plants that espalier well are loquat, pear, magnolia, grandflora, susanqua, dwarf plum and our old faithful, pyracantha.

You know, you can do most anything with a pyracantha. I've seen several plants trained as a vine on a trellis, and believe me, they are beautiful.

If you need a vine, don't forget the red and blue clematis. They're not as hardy or prolific as the old tactical white but they are simply gorgeous.

It's time to put out petunias and thrift plants. Surely we'll not have a freeze heavy enough to harm these. Thrift makes a beautiful ground cover with its hundreds of little lavender blooms.

Sweet alyssum also makes a sweet ground cover, in white or lavender. The seed are easy to get germinated.

Put off the hibiscus planting until after Easter. Remember this plant belongs to the cotton family. When the farmer starts planting cotton seed, put out your hibiscus.

If you're doing tree pruning, be sure to protect the wound with tree seal. An open unsealed spot on your tree is an invitation to insects and diseases. This tree seal can be bought in small containers.

Read this poem before cutting a limb from a tree.

"Do a heap o' meditation before cutting a limb,
Cause no amount of fretting will put it on again."

Jes' Talking

Fine hair feels and looks thicker after a shampoo. If fine hair is your problem, don't hesitate to wash it as often as once a week.

Ring stuck on a finger? To remove it, first soak the hand in ice cold soapsuds to shrink the flesh. Then rub on more soap suds to lubricate the finger, and the ring will slip off easily.

All those jewels you see on the new cotton party gloves are washable. The manufacturer expects you to launder these.

Research shows that bedmaking can go up to three times faster with contour sheets than with flat sheets. Another advantage is that you can wash more contour sheets in a single load since they are lighter. Bottom contour sheets need no ironing because creases disappear when stretched over the mattress.

Hollow stem glasses are making a comeback. To clean these, keep a bottle brush handy.

House plants need a gentle soap sudsing every now and then.

Tell this to your husband: Men's white dinner jackets are wash-and-wear. A blend of dacron and orlon is being used.

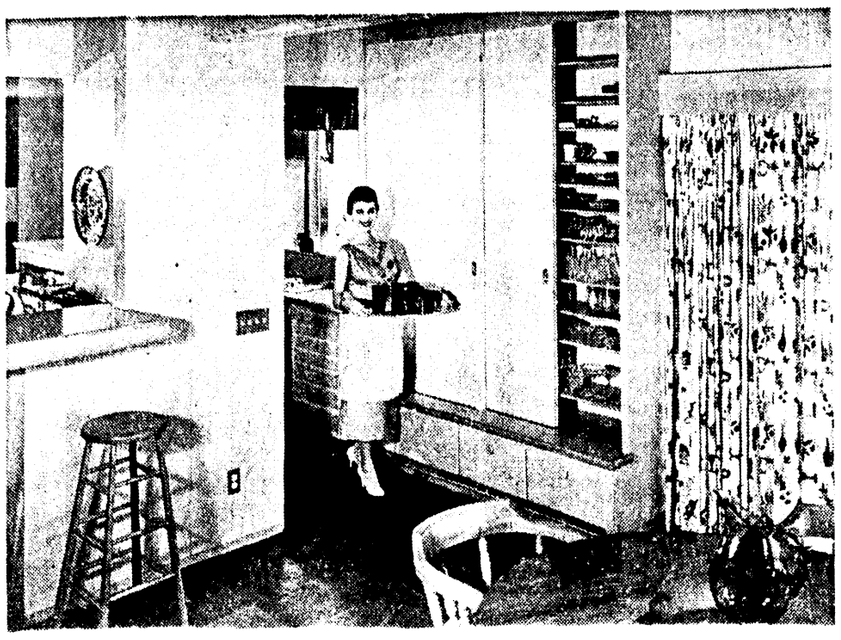
Be certain to scrub your meat cutting board thoroughly after each use. It's a health measure to rid the wood of all embedded meat particles which would provide breeding grounds for bacteria

Announcements

I'll be in Lake Charles all this next week, helping with a marketing survey and study. I'll learn and see lots that I'll tell you about later.

Your Open House programs for next week are: Monday, Dorothy Russell will show you how to care for your steam iron; Tuesday, Hazel Fusilier will help you decide if the working wife pays; Wednesday, John Wright from Louisiana Tech will bring you flower arrangements; Thursday and Friday, Miss Beatrice Berman will bring you some of her fine food preparation. Miss Berman is from the National Livestock and Meat Board, Chicago.

See you next Sunday



WORKING WALLS—In any size home, the walls offer handy and exciting storage possibilities. This dead wall between kitchen and dining area now has enclosed storaged shelves for glassware, everyday china and silverware, linen and flatware. The handy arrangement saves many steps.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Forsythia Is Yellow Mass

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The largest masses of yellow in our spring gardens are made by different kinds of forsythia. These golden bells come in numerous shades and in different shapes. Some are deep, deep gold, while others are light yellow, and still others are a greenish yellow that makes them blend in with the new leaves of spring. Forsythia suspensa is the Latin name of the wild drooping golden bell we so often see more draped than trained over a support or streaming down high banks. It makes a wonderful bank covering that is tremendously effective when the rampant plants are in bloom.

Different Forms

There are many forms of golden bell growing in yards and gardens. Some are stiff and upright. Others are partially drooping like the old parent from China just mentioned. Mostly, however, you cannot tell just exactly what shape they might be if properly pruned or, better still, left alone. All the golden bells can be pruned some, if they are in the way, right after they flower. However, their real beauty of form is ruined if you just "cut them back" with no attention to the shape they want to take, naturally. If you are in doubt about this, let them completely alone and see what they do.

It is possible to grow golden bells in quite restricted spaces if you like them well enough to train and tie the branches up to a support. If you are going to go to this much trouble, by all means plant the variety called spring glory or one called "spectabilis." These have many, many more flowers than any other light yellow variety. They are lusty shrubs that flower all over every inch of their stems. Training them is easy.

Bright Yellow

If you like the bright golden yellow Forsythias, you can plant the newer Lynwood Gold or Beatrix Farrand. The latter has tremendous flowers. Be careful how you use these deep golden yellow flowers. They will overpower everything in sight in a spring landscape. The lighter yellow varieties and the greenish Forsythias blend better with everything.

By all means take care that you do not plant great masses of yellow golden bells with the azaleas and the quinces unless you use some discretion in the azaleas you have growing next to the yellows. Yellow is not a color to over-do. The best place for great masses of it is usually to itself on a bank or at some distance where it will draw the eye. Yellow is more eye-catching than red. It is truly alluring in the distance.

"Chinese" Wilson, the great plant hunter, who named the genus Forsythia for William Forsyth, a famous English horticulturist, always said he was sorry that the Latin form of Forsyth's name made the "y" sound weak like the "y" in the word, sorry.

Roast pork should always be well - done: the color should be a grayish white with no pink tinge and the juice should show no tinge of pink.

Follow Steps To Figure On Cost Of House

By JOE WING
AP Newsfeatures

Want to know what it would cost to build that house for which you saw plans in the paper?

It's more complicated than just figuring the square or cubic footage, and multiplying by X dollars.

Here's one system by which a layman can make estimates.

On Split Level House

First, multiply square footage of base construction area by $11.38. This area includes living room, dining room, kitchen, bedrooms and one bath. (Usually on two levels above ground level.)

Add $3.62 per square foot for recreation room or other rooms on ground level.

Add $900.00 for each extra bath of 40 square feet, plus $12.42 for each extra square foot over 40.

Add $1.55 per square foot for garage on ground level.

Add $300.00 for each extra lavatory or approximately 20 square feet. (Basin and water closet.)

Add 23 cents a square foot for the basement area including ground level area not finished.

Add $3.62 a square foot for covered porch.

Add $513.00 for first floor fireplace, or $621.00 for recreation room fireplace.

On a Ranch House

Add $957.00 for single attached garage, or $1,450.00 for double garage of 440 square feet.

Add $513.00 for fireplace.

Other rates same as for split level.

On Story and Half House

First floor area at $11.90 per square foot.

Second floor at $6.21 per square foot.

Fireplace at $543.00.

Other rates same as for split level. Attached garage same as ranch.

On Two Story House

First floor at $10.61 per square foot.

Second floor at $3.30 per square foot.

Fireplace at $621.00.

Other rates same as split level. Attached garage same as ranch.

These rates were figured for Long Island, New York. Costs vary widely, of course, over the country. Taking Long Island costs as equal to 100, Hunt has figured out index rates for dozens of other localities as follows:

Fit Bulbs To Color Scheme

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now is the time to plant fall blooming bulbs. Get them to fit your own color scheme. Lycows (sometimes called September lilies, spider or nerine lilies) come in several colors. L. radiata is red, L. aurea is yellow, L. squirmagera is pale pink, L. alba is white. Naturalize them in your landscape as they do better when left undistured.

Roses

Spray once a week for leaf spot and aphids. A good formula to use is one tablespoon malathion to one gallon of water.

Floor Coverings

If you are undecided what floor covering to use this information might help you. Wood or any one of a number of tile blocks are on the market today. Asphalt tile is the cheapest. The lighter colors are slightly more expensive than the darker colors. I find some of them are treated to repel grease — a factor you may want to consider if the tile is to be laid in the kitchen. Asphalt tile is very brittle and has to be carefully handled in laying at the correct temperature.

If you should consider plastic tile you will find tiles of different prices. Some of the difference depends on the thickness of the tile as well as the quality of the plastic. Some of these plastic tiles carry a life-time guarantee. We see the term vinyl plastic. This is not a trade name but the name of the plastic material which goes into the making of the tile.

Vinyl asbestos tile is resilient, grease proof, resistant to fire, resistant to acids and alkalies and is easily cleaned. Ceramic tile is fire and waterproof, stain resistant and has a smooth hard surface which makes it easy to clean.

Cork tile is more expensive and comes in a different price range depending on thickness of cork. It gives one of the loveliest floors. Rubber tile is among more expensive tiles but it has certain qualities of appearance, easy to work on and wearability that you may think is worth the extra cost.

Hints for Homemakers

Keep absorbent white blotters in a drawer near your dining table so that you can sop up the children's table spills quickly. Less chance of staining a dish towel or napkin grabbed in a hurry during the excitement.

To keep baby's rubber sheet from slipping out of place, sew muslin to each side of the sheeting and tuck muslin firmly under the mattress.

Put bacon into skillet without separating each slice first. No danger to tearing bacon, and slices separate as bacon warms.

National Library Week

This is National Library Week. Here are some good books that Serena Lewis of West Monroe Library gave me which she thought you, Mrs. Homemaker, would be interested in getting from your parish library: "Woman's Guide to Better Living" by Schindler; "Planning and Building Your Patio" by Stewart; "First Aid for the Ailing House" by Whitman; "Evergreen and Flowering Shrubs" for your home by Cloud; "Making Curtains and Draperies" by Baer; "Parties on a Budget" by Bell; "Color in Home Decoration."

Serena said that there were ever so many more good books for you in the library and that they would be happy to help select others. Try to read one good book during this week that will help you be a better homemaker.

Cleaning Steam Iron

Your steam iron is an expensive piece of equipment and it needs some care. Be sure to read the factory recommendations for type of water to use. If your water supply contains chemicals, use either rain water or water from defrosting your refrigerator. To clean iron use vinegar. Take about ½ cup, put in iron and turn to steam and let vinegar steam out.

Your steam iron should be drained after each use. Drain while iron is still hot and the small amount of moisture will dry out as iron cools.

Here are some uses of your steam iron. To bring back new look to velvet and corduroy: place garment on turkish towel and hold steam iron about one inch from garment and then brush.

Suede shoes: clean shoe first and then hold steam iron one inch from shoe. Brush.

If table or chair legs make a dent in your carpet, hold steam iron one inch from indentation and then brush.

A Thought For The Week

What most of us need is not a new position but a new disposition.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Show Staged By Bastrop

By MARY M. JARDINE

The Green Acres Garden Club of Bastrop staged a most colorful flower show at the Garden Center this week. Another first-time exhibitor at the Center, this club displayed all blue - ribbon horticulture. Ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. J. W. Berry for collection of daffodils, Mrs. M. P. Weatherly for Camellia Kumasaka, Mrs. M. A. Wroten for pansies and purple dawn camellias.

Oriental Tops

In the arrangement section top score was awarded to Mrs. Julia Neseth for her Oriental composition. The container was a tall black tea caddy set on a black lacquered base. The traditional Heaven, Man and Earth lines of a Japanese arrangement were skillfully achieved with three curved branches of dock of uneven length. Curled, twisted locust pods were placed along the rim of the container on the left. The center of interest was dried celosia dyed a dark brown. A most distinctive design.

Mrs. Ben Berry was awarded second place. A pillow shaped container of grass glass was selected for the line mass design. Forsythia was arranged in a graceful line pattern with double daffodils enhancing the pattern. Clipped pine was placed low behind the flowers providing background and depth. Green Oasis was the mechanic employed in this instance. A very good choice, as it was the same color as the glass container. The stems of the plant material were grouped and inserted as a unit. Very important, as in clear glass containers the stems are always a part of the design.

Mrs. Luther Freeland designed an airy spring arrangement of forsythia and daffodils. Mass in the design, the background placements were of forsythia and daffodil foliage. Pale yellow, short cup daffodils were placed high in the arrangement with larger and deeper yellow daffodils placed low giving good transition in size and color. Small leaf ivy was placed around the rim of the fluted milk-glass bowl unifying the plant material and container.

Two extra arrangements were provided by these enthusiastic club members. Mrs. Freeland made a line mass arrangement of pink quince and rose pink camellias using a pink pillow vase with a wash of blue. The muted tones of the flowers and container would look well against a pink, blue, green, gray or chartreuse background.

Mrs. Neseth created a line-mass arrangement using bold placements of pussy - willow accented by large red camellias in a boat shaped container of soft blue.

Year Books

The Garden Club Year Books on display at the Garden Center are of great interest to visitors for ideas for program planning and covers and a wonderful source of information for us in the Center regarding events in the area. Two clubs have used maps on their cover. Ruston has a map of Louisiana with the location of Ruston marked with a rose, their club flower. Clarklea Garden Club of Bastrop, which is a neighborhood group, has a black map of the Clarklea area outlined on a pale blue cover. Names of members, with their home location marked add to the attractive design.

Important Dates

The dates of Flower Shows throughout the district are pouring in. Today we will list the dates as we have them so far. Why don't you clip and pin to your arrangement calendar?

April 16 — Clarklea Flower Show, Bastrop, featuring Iris (tentative date)

April 23 — Jonesboro-Hodge Flower Show, Jonesboro.

April 24 — Welcome Garden Club Flower Show, First Methodist Church, West Monroe.

May 3 — Delhi Garden Club Flower Show.

May 5-10 — Fifth District Flower Show, Memorial Stadium, Bernstein Park, Monroe, La.

May 7 — Bastrop Garden Club Show, Morehouse Country Club, theme, Southern Melodies.

May 7 — Tallulah Council of Clubs Flower Show, Tallulah.

May 9 — Bayou DeSiard Garden Club, Placement Show — Monroe, La.

May 13 — Iris Garden Club Flower Show, Delhi, theme, Vacation Time, USA.

Next Wednesday, John A. Wright will do a lesson in flower arranging at 12:15 p.m. on television.

FLOWER SEED MIXTURES

Most of us like mixed colors in one packet in order to obtain variety in the garden, but sometimes the color range is not as wide as advertised. This, in the case of transplanted seedlings, may be the gardener's fault. Different colors are frequently associated with different plant size or vigor. In fancy petunia mixtures like Carnival or Petticoat, for instance, the vigorous, biggest seedlings are apt to provide violet-blue flowers and the smallest, weakest seedlings the fancier salmon or red tones. So save them all, large or small, for the best color assortment.

PLANT POT AND ALL

One of the modern conveniences you may not yet have tried, but which is worth having are tiny flower pots made of compressed peat or similiar material. Some kinds of flowers can be transplanted readily in the tiny seedling stage but take a severe shock if moved in the larger plant size for final position in the garden. Try these pots that are designed to be set right in the ground without disturbing the plant at all. Roots grow through the sides of the pot easily and the plants never know they've been moved.

THE SOUTHERN GARDENER

Forsythia Is Yellow Mass

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The largest masses of yellow in our spring gardens are made by different kinds of forsythia. These golden bells come in numerous shades and in different shapes. Some are deep, deep gold, while others are light yellow, and still others are a greenish yellow that makes them blend in with the new leaves of spring. Forsythia suspensa is the Latin name of the wild drooping golden bell we so often see more draped than trained over a support or streaming down high banks. It makes a wonderful bank covering that is tremendously effective when the rampant plants are in bloom.

Different Forms

There are many forms of golden bell growing in yards and gardens. Some are stiff and upright. Others are partially drooping like the old parent from China just mentioned. Mostly, however, you cannot tell just exactly what shape they might be if properly pruned or, better still, left alone. All the golden bells can be pruned some, if they are in the way, right after they flower. However, their real beauty of form is ruined if you just "cut them back" with no attention to the shape they want to take, naturally. If you are in doubt about this, let them completely alone and see what they do.

It is possible to grow golden bells in quite restricted spaces if you like them well enough to train and tie the branches up to a support. If you are going to go to this much trouble, by all means plant the variety called spring glory or one called "spectabilis." These have many, many more flowers than any other light yellow variety. They are lusty shrubs that flower all over every inch of their stems. Training them is easy.

Bright Yellow

If you like the bright golden yellow Forsythias, you can plant the newer Lynwood Gold or Beatrix Farrand. The latter has tremendous flowers. Be careful how you use these deep golden yellow flowers. They will overpower everything in sight in a spring landscape. The lighter yellow varieties and the greenish Forsythias blend better with everything.

By all means take care that you do not plant great masses of yellow golden bells with the azaleas and the quinces unless you use some discretion in the azaleas you have growing next to the yellows. Yellow is not a color to over-do. The best place for great masses of it is usually to itself on a bank or at some distance where it will draw the eye. Yellow is more eye-catching than red. It is truly alluring in the distance.

"Chinese" Wilson, the great plant hunter, who named the genus Forsythia for William Forsyth, a famous English horticulturist, always said he was sorry that the Latin form of Forsyth's name made the "y" sound weak like the "y" in the word, sorry.

Roast pork should always be well - done: the color should be a grayish white with no pink tinge and the juice should show no tinge of pink.

Follow Steps To Figure On Cost Of House

By JOE WING
AP Newsfeatures

Want to know what it would cost to build that house for which you saw plans in the paper?

It's more complicated than just figuring the square or cubic footage, and multiplying by X dollars.

Here's one system by which a layman can make estimates.

On Split Level House

First, multiply square footage of base construction area by $11.38. This area includes living room, dining room, kitchen, bedrooms and one bath. (Usually on two levels above ground level.)

Add $3.62 per square foot for recreation room or other rooms on ground level.

Add $900.00 for each extra bath of 40 square feet, plus $12.42 for each extra square foot over 40.

Add $1.55 per square foot for garage on ground level.

Add $388.00 for each extra lavatory of approximately 20 square feet. (Basin and water closet.)

Add 88 cents a square foot for the basement area including ground level area not finished.

Add $3.62 a square foot for covered porch.

Add $518.00 for first floor fireplace, or $621.00 for recreation room fireplace.

On a Ranch House

Add $957.00 for single attached garage, or $1,450.00 for double garage of 440 square feet.

Add $518.00 for fireplace.

Other rates same as for split level.

On Story and Half House

First floor area at $11.90 per square foot.

Second floor at $6.21 per square foot.

Fireplace at $543.00.

Other rates same as for split level. Attached garage same as ranch.

On Two Story House

First floor at $10.61 per square foot.

Second floor at $8.80 per square foot.

Fireplace at $621.00.

Other rates same as split level. Attached garage same as ranch.

These rates were figured for Long Island, New York. Costs vary widely, of course, over the country. Taking Long Island costs as equal to 100, Hunt has figured out index rates for dozens of other localities as follows:

Fit Bulbs To Color Scheme

By AUDREY DAWSON

Now is the time to plant fall blooming bulbs. Get them to fit your own color scheme. Lycows (sometimes called September lilies, spider or nerine lilies) come in several colors. L. radiata is red, L. aurea is yellow, L. squirmagera is pale pink, L. alba is white. Naturalize them in your landscape as they do better when left undistured.

Roses

Spray once a week for leaf spot and aphids. A good formula to use is one tablespoon malathion to one gallon of water.

Floor Coverings

If you are undecided what floor covering to use this information might help you. Wood or any one of a number of tile blocks are on the market today. Asphalt tile is the cheapest. The lighter colors are slightly more expensive than the darker colors. I find some of them are treated to repel grease — a factor you may want to consider if the tile is to be laid in the kitchen. Asphalt tile is very brittle and has to be carefully handled in laying at the correct temperature.

If you should consider plastic tile you will find tiles of different prices. Some of the difference depends on the thickness of the tile as well as the quality of the plastic. Some of these plastic tiles carry a life-time guarantee. We see the term vinyl plastic. This is not a trade name but the name of the plastic material which goes into the making of the tile.

Vinyl asbestos tile is resilient, grease proof, resistant to fire, resistant to acids and alkalies and is easily cleaned. Ceramic tile is fire and waterproof, stain resistant and has a smooth hard surface which makes it easy to clean.

Cork tile is more expensive and comes in a different price range depending on thickness of cork. It gives one of the loveliest floors. Rubber tile is among more expensive tiles but it has certain qualities of appearance, easy to work on and wearability that you may think is worth the extra cost.

Hints for Homemakers

Keep absorbent white blotters in a drawer near your dining table so that you can sop up the children's table spills quickly. Less chance of staining a dish towel or napkin grabbed in a hurry during the excitement.

To keep baby's rubber sheet from slipping out of place, sew muslin to each side of the sheeting and tuck muslin firmly under the mattress.

Put bacon into skillet without separating each slice first. No danger to tearing bacon, and slices separate as bacon warms.

National Library Week

This is National Library Week. Here are some good books that Serena Lewis of West Monroe Library gave me which she thought you, Mrs. Homemaker, would be interested in getting from your parish library: "Woman's Guide to Better Living" by Schindler; "Planning and Building Your Patio" by Stewart; "First Aid for the Ailing House" by Whitman; "Evergreen and Flowering Shrubs" for your home by Cloud; "Making Curtains and Draperies" by Baer; "Parties on a Budget" by Bell; "Color in Home Decoration."

Serena said that there were ever so many more good books for you in the library and that they would be happy to help select others. Try to read one good book during this week that will help you be a better homemaker.

Cleaning Steam Iron

Your steam iron is an expensive piece of equipment and it needs some care. Be sure to read the factory recommendations for type of water to use. If your water supply contains chemicals, use either rain water or water from defrosting your refrigerator. To clean iron use vinegar. Take about ½ cup, put in iron and turn to steam and let vinegar steam out.

Your steam iron should be drained after each use. Drain while iron is still hot and the small amount of moisture will dry out as iron cools.

Here are some uses of your steam iron. To bring back new look to velvet and corduroy: place garment on turkish towel and hold steam iron about one inch from garment and then brush.

Suede shoes: clean shoe first and then hold steam iron one inch from shoe. Brush.

If table or chair legs make a dent in your carpet, hold steam iron one inch from indentation and then brush.

A Thought For The Week

What most of us need is not a new position but a new disposition.

FLOWER SEED MIXTURES

Most of us like mixed colors in one packet in order to obtain variety in the garden, but sometimes the color range is not as wide as advertised. This, in the case of transplanted seedlings, may be the gardener's fault. Different colors are frequently associated with different plant size or vigor. In fancy petunia mixtures like Carnival or Petticoat, for instance, the vigorous, biggest seedlings are apt to provide violet-blue flowers and the smallest, weakest seedlings the fancier salmon or red tones. So save them all, large or small, for the best color assortment.

PLANT POT AND ALL

One of the modern conveniences you may not yet have tried, but which is worth having are tiny flower pots made of compressed peat or similiar material. Some kinds of flowers can be transplanted readily in the tiny seedling stage but take a severe shock if moved in the larger plant size for final position in the garden. Try these pots that are designed to be set right in the ground without disturbing the plant at all. Roots grow through the sides of the pot easily and the plants never know they've been moved.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Show Staged By Bastrop

By MARY M. JARDINE

The Green Acres Garden Club of Bastrop staged a most colorful flower show at the Garden Center this week. Another first-time exhibitor at the Center, this club displayed all blue - ribbon horticulture. Ribbons were awarded as follows: Mrs. J. W. Berry for collection of daffodils, Mrs. M. P. Weatherly for Camellia Kumasaka, Mrs. M. A. Wroten for pansies and purple dawn camellias.

Oriental Tops

In the arrangement section top score was awarded to Mrs. Julia Neseth for her Oriental composition. The container was a tall black tea caddy set on a black laquered base. The traditional Heaven, Man and Earth lines of a Japanese arrangement were skillfully achieved with three curved branches of dock of uneven length. Curled, twisted locust pods were placed along the rim of the container on the left. The center of interest was dried celosia dyed a dark brown. A most distinctive design.

Mrs. Ben Berry was awarded second place. A pillow shaped container of grass glass was selected for the line mass design. Forsythia was arranged in a graceful line pattern with double daffodils enhancing the pattern. Clipped pine was placed low behind the flowers providing background and depth. Green Oasis was the mechanic employed in this instance. A very good choice, as it was the same color as the glass container. The stems of the plant material were grouped and inserted as a unit. Very important, as in clear glass containers the stems are always a part of the design.

Mrs. Luther Freeland designed an airy spring arrangement of forsythia and daffodils. Mass in the design, the background placements were of forsythia and daffodil foliage. Pale yellow, short cup daffodils were placed high in the arrangement with larger and deeper yellow daffodils placed low giving good transition in size and color. Small leaf ivy was placed around the rim of the fluted milk-glass bowl unifying the plant material and container.

Two extra arrangements were provided by these enthusiastic club members. Mrs. Freeland made a line mass arrangement of pink quince and rose pink camellias using a pink pillow vase with a wash of blue. The muted tones of the flowers and container would look well against a pink, blue, green, gray or chartreuse background.

Mrs. Neseth created a line-mass arrangement using bold placements of pussy - willow accented by large red camellias in a boat shaped container of soft blue.

Year Books

The Garden Club Year Books on display at the Garden Center are of great interest to visitors for ideas for program planning and covers and a wonderful source of information for us in the Center regarding events in the area. Two clubs have used maps on their cover. Ruston has a map of Louisiana with the location of Ruston marked with a rose, their club flower. Clarklea Garden Club of Bastrop, which is a neighborhood group, has a black map of the Clarklea area outlined on a pale blue cover. Names of members, with their home location marked add to the attractive design.

Important Dates

The dates of Flower Shows throughout the district are pouring in. Today we will list the dates as we have them so far. Why don't you clip and pin to your arrangement calendar?

April 16 — Clarklea Flower Show, Bastrop, featuring Iris (tentative date)

April 23 — Jonesboro-Hodge Flower Show, Jonesboro.

April 24 — Welcome Garden Club Flower Show, First Methodist Church, West Monroe.

May 3 — Delhi Garden Club Flower Show.

May 5-10 — Fifth District Flower Show, Memorial Stadium, Bernstein Park, Monroe, La.

May 7 — Bastrop Garden Club Show, Morehouse Country Club, theme, Southern Melodies.

May 7 — Tallulah Council of Clubs Flower Show, Tallulah.

May 9 — Bayou DeSiard Garden Club, Placement Show — Monroe, La.

May 13 — Iris Garden Club Flower Show, Delhi, theme, Vacation Time, USA.

Next Wednesday, John A. Wright will do a lesson in flower arranging at 12:15 p.m. on television.

NEW ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH—Open house at the new St. Joseph's rectory, left, church and fellowship hall, right will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today on the Benton Street site. Dedication will be at 5 p.m. next Sunday. The church will serve several hundred families living in south Monroe. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

St. Joseph's Church Will Be Thrown Open Today

Dedication of the new St. Joseph's Catholic church will take place at 5 p.m. next Sunday, with Bishop Charles P. Greco of Alexandria officiating.

The church, rectory and adjoining fellowship hall will be dedicated and the blessing of the grounds will take place. Following a sermon by Bishop Greco, Mass will be offered, with area residents invited to all the services.

The public is invited to attend a special Open House to inspect the church, rectory and hall from 3 to 5 p.m. today.

Begun on August 7, 1957, the church has been completed both by parishioners and business firms, at an approximate cost of $80,000.

Semi-modernistic in design, the red brick church is flanked on one side by the rectory and a garage, and on the other by the fellowship hall. Covered walks lead from the church to other buildings.

On Benton Street

Located on Benton Street, between Lee and Jackson streets, the church will serve 300 Catholic families who live in the southern area of Monroe.

Pastor is the Rev. Michael Hannon, who has been with the church since the ground-breaking ceremony.

Volunteering their days off and free evenings, parishioners have donated their time to placing floor tiles; landscaping of outer grounds; placing red carpets on the entire floor of the sanctuary within the church.

Parishioners Help

Several members of the Plumbers Guild installed the plumbing and ladies of the congregation hung drapes in the rectory and fellowship hall. Approximately $10,000 was saved by the volunteer aid.

From the street, the quietly-inspiring church bears a resemblance to the chapel on a college campus. Property lines run 400 feet across, 300 feet deep. Father Hannon hopes eventually to have chimes placed in the graceful bell tower of the church.

Within, the church is completely air conditioned. Architect was Paul Stewart and the contractor was Harry Carpenter.

At the back of the church is a "cry room," where mothers may sit with small children. The soundproofed, glassed-in room, will allow mothers to attend services without worry if their babies begin to cry.

Seats 300

The pews, seating 300 persons at each Mass, have a rich golden-oak finish.

In the future, an organ will be installed in the choir loft.

On either side of the main altar are two shrines, one to the Blessed Virgin Mary and one to St Joseph. From above the main altar, a crucifix is suspended. Both statutes and the crucifix are lifesize, hand-painted from Italy.

In late April, a kindergarten and nursery for all children age four and 5 will be opened in the fellowship hall. The hall will also be used for meetings, socials, receptions and dinners.

Tonight, from 7 to 9, a kitchen and pantry shower for the benefit of the new rectory will be held in the home of Mrs. Mary Danna, 1511 Jackson St., and friends are invited to attend.

W. Monroe 1st Baptist Opens Revival Today

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe opens a week-long revival today and Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor, anticipates one of the greatest revival meetings in the church's history.

The Rev. Max Morris will be the evangelist during the revival, while Eddy Nicholson will direct the music program.

The Morris - Nicholson Evangelistic Association has had an advance man on the field of the First Baptist Church, working extensively on a visitation program. Harper Shannon, along with the church staff, conducted the visitation program during the past week.

The church is located at 500 Pine St.

Marriage As Sacrament Is Curren Topic

The fourth of a series of talks during the Lenten season will be given Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Church by Father D. A. Curran. The subject will be "The Sacrament of Marriage."

A question box will be placed in the rear of the church for the convenience of those desiring to write out questions and have them answered at the next week's services. You are not required to sign inquiries and questions are welcomed.

The services for the week include the following schedule: Wednesday evening services — the Rosary, Benediction and Fr. Curran's sermon.

Friday evening services — Stations of the Cross and Benediction.

Morning Masses — 6:30 and 8:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday; Friday — 6:30 and 8:15 a.m.; Saturday — 6:30 and 7:00 a.m.; Sunday — 7:00; 8:30, 10:00 a.m. and evening mass at 7:00 p.m.

A Guardian Angel Sunday School is held during the 10:00 a.m. masses and a nursery during the 8:30 and 10:00 a.m. Masses. The school choir, composed of 65 girls, will sing for each evening service under direction of Sister Mary Philip.

World Famed Dr. Daugherty At M'Guire

Evangelistic preaching services will begin Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the McGuire Methodist Church, West Monroe, and continue each evening thereafter at 7:30 p.m. through Friday night.

Dr. C. Lloyd Daugherty, world renowned speaker, will be the evangelist Dr. Daugherty, an associate secretary of the General Board of Evangelism, is the Director of the Department of Evangelism in the local church, and the national director of the Local Church Commission on Membership and Evangelism. In these capacities he is charged with the specific responsibility of guiding local churches into the experience and expression of a more vital evangelism. That he succeeds in this task is evident in one of the testimonies which arises wherever he goes: "He believes in it; he loves it and he lives it."

A native of Pittsburgh, he was educated in the University of Pittsburgh, receiving his B. A. degree there in 1930. Then he attended the graduate school of Arts and Sciences at Harvard university for two years. Then he enrolled in Harvard Divinity school where in three more years he completed his degree in Bachelor of Systematic Theology, in 1935. He has also done graduate work at Garrett Biblical Institute and at the University of Pittsburgh. In 1941 Adrian College, Michigan, awarded him the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree.

Snow Woes Plague Buffalo Residents

By DICK WHALEN

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Take a mass of cold air out of northern Canada and pour it across the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean.

Give one chunk of it a spinning motion as it flows down Lake Erie toward Buffalo and Niagara Falls, soaking up moisture from the lake.

Then duck.

Because if you're one of 1,089,-230 people living in metropolitan Buffalo, you're in for snow—huge quantities of it—from one of Buffalo's homemade snowstorms.

The storms are peculiar. They are brewed right in the city's backyard, Lake Erie, and they strike in a narrow belt, sometimes only five miles wide.

When they hit hard, everything stops. The railroad yards, second largest in the country, are paralyzed. Industry is crippled. Traffice grinds to a halt.

The storm everybody here remembers as THE storm, is the St. Patrick's Day blizzard of 1936.

It started March 17, just three days before spring, and poured 27.4 inches of snow. The city had exhausted its snow removal money, and emergency funds were appropriated to cart the stuff away. Troops were called in to help.

The lake storms deliver about half Buffalo's snow, and Buffalo averages 6 feet of snow a year, nearly twice as much as any other major American city.

This is how U.S. weatherman Bernard Wiggin describes the effect of a typical Lake Erie snowstorm:

"It's like a garden hose spraying snow over western New York. Sometimes the house points toward Jamestown, down near Pennsylvania; sometimes toward Buffalo; most of the time it swings back and forth, spraying snow in a belt about 10 miles wide and 30 miles in from the lake."

Snow removal is a major problem. Buffalo spends about $600,-000 a year on it. The private citizen, confronted with snow-plugged driveway, sidewalk and doorway, has to combine a resourceful nature and a strong back to get to work or to the store.

One man hemmed in by towering snowbanks found he had no place to put the snow he was shoveling from his driveway. So he shoveled it through a window into his basement and then flushed it down a drain with warm water.

Among the 65 leading industries of Ohio, two for which it is famous are the manufacture of such disassociated products as dirigibles and playing cards.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 10:15 — "Truly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it." (RSV)

* * *

Without paraphrasing it is not possible to make clear whether Jesus means to say, "Whoever does not receive the Kingdom of God as a child would receive it" or, "Whoever does not receive the Kingdom of God as he would receive a child." Logic favors the former translation, and the verse itself explains how God's kingdom belongs to the childlike. A child accepts a gift freely, without thinking of whether he deserves it. In the same way a child receives spontaneously, without questioning the motive of the giver. Jesus here is teaching that no one can earn the Kingdom of God; one must accept it as a free gift of divine grace. Thus the statement that God's kingdom belongs to the childlike is in line with the Beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount, where it belongs to the poor in spirit or to the persecuted.

Nazarines To Hold Golden Anniversary

The Rev. Samuel Young, D.D. will be speaking in the First Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of North 4th and Stella Streets, in West Monroe, Sunday, March 16, 1958. Dr. Young was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parents and holds the highest office in the Church of the Nazarene, having served on the general board of the denomination for ten years before he was elected general superintendent. He is the author of two devotional books "God Makes a Difference" and "Faith in the Midst of Trial," and is a regular contributor to the Herald of Holiness and other publications.

Rev. Young will be speaking in a special golden anniversary service at the West Monroe church. He will be present in both Sunday School and the regular church service at 11:00 a.m. The Church of the Nazarene as a denomination is celebrating its Golden Anniversary year. The denomination had its beginning in a small brown tent at Pilot Point, Tex. on October 13, 1908. This was the official birthday of the church.

To Grow A Straight Plant

The plant you place on your window sill probably has a tendency to turn towards the light. To keep it growing straight, place foil paper behind the plant to serve as a reflector. The plant will grow straight.

Jai-alai, the Spanish game played with a basket attached to the players' wrists, is a combination of tennis, handball and lacrosse.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I understand that you teach that there is but one way of salvation. Don't you think teaching such a narrow religion tends to create an intolerance and narrowness? A. P.

ANSWER: It is one of the great paradoxes of all times that the Christian faith which presents such a narrow way of salvation is at the same time the greatest force the world has ever known to promote love and understanding among people. It is true that Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life," and the Apostle preached, "Neither is there salvation in any other"; yet this very message has brought peace and understanding into every country that has accepted it. Those who choose the broad way are the very ones who today are promoting intolerance and bigotism. Christians may try to persuade and convince, but Christianity is committed against forcing our belief upon anyone. Thus the very exclusiveness of Christianity has produced tolerance and understanding among the peoples where it has been most accepted.

NEW ST. JOSEPH'S CHURCH—Open house at the new St. Joseph's rectory, left, church and fellowship hall, right will be held from 3 to 5 p.m. today on the Benton Street site. Dedication will be at 5 p.m. next Sunday. The church will serve several hundred families living in south Monroe. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

MAX MORRIS

W. Monroe 1st Baptist Opens Revival Today

The First Baptist Church of West Monroe opens a week-long revival today and Dr. Jaroy Weber, pastor, anticipates one of the greatest revival meetings in the church's history.

The Rev. Max Morris will be the evangelist during the revival, while Eddy Nicholson will direct the music program.

The Morris - Nicholson Evangelistic Association has had an advance man on the field of the First Baptist Church, working extensively on a visitation program. Harper Shannon, along with the church staff, conducted the visitation program during the past week.

The church is located at 500 Pine St.

PRAYER FOR FREEDOM

WASHINGTON (UP) — Msgr. Bela Varga, last democratically-elected speaker of the Hungarian parliament, opened the Senate's daily session Friday with a prayer for Hungarian freedom. He spoke on the eve of the 110th anniversary of Hungary's original liberation.

New Mexico, the state where the world's first atomic explosion took place in 1945, today leads the nation in production of uranium ore.

St. Joseph's Church Will Be Thrown Open Today

Dedication of the new St. Joseph's Catholic church will take place at 5 p.m. next Sunday, with Bishop Charles P. Greco of Alexandria officiating.

The church, rectory and adjoining fellowship hall will be dedicated and the blessing of the grounds will take place. Following a sermon by Bishop Greco, Mass will be offered, with area residents invited to all the services.

The public is invited to attend a special Open House to inspect the church, rectory and hall from 3 to 5 p.m. today.

Begun on August 7, 1957, the church has been completed both by parishioners and business firms, at an approximate cost of $80,000.

Semi-modernistic in design, the red brick church is flanked on one side by the rectory and a garage, and on the other by the fellowship hall. Covered walks lead from the church to other buildings.

On Benton Street

Located on Benton Street, between Lee and Jackson streets, the church will serve 300 Catholic families who live in the southern area of Monroe.

Pastor is the Rev. Michael Hannon, who has been with the church since the ground-breaking ceremony.

Volunteering their days off and free evenings, parishioners have donated their time to placing floor tiles; landscaping of outer grounds; placing red carpets on the entire floor of the sanctuary within the church.

Parishioners Help

Several members of the Plumbers Guild installed the plumbing and ladies of the congregation hung drapes in the rectory and fellowship hall. Approximately $10,000 was saved by the volunteer aid.

From the street, the quietly-inspiring church bears a resemblance to the chapel on a college campus. Property lines run 400 feet across, 300 feet deep. Father Hannon hopes eventually to have chimes placed in the graceful bell tower of the church.

Within, the church is completely air conditioned. Architect was Paul Stewart and the contractor was Harry Carpenter.

At the back of the church is a "cry room," where mothers may sit with small children. The soundproofed, glassed-in room, will allow mothers to attend services without worry if their babies begin to cry.

Seats 300

The pews, seating 300 persons at each Mass, have a rich golden-oak finish.

In the future, an organ will be installed in the choir loft.

On either side of the main altar are two shrines, one to the Blessed Virgin Mary and one to St. Joseph. From above the main altar, a crucifix is suspended. Both statutes and the crucifix are lifesize, hand-painted from Italy.

In late April, a kindergarten and nursery for all children age four and 5 will be opened in the fellowship hall. The hall will also be used for meetings, socials, receptions and dinners.

Tonight, from 7 to 9, a kitchen and pantry shower for the benefit of the new rectory will be held in the home of Mrs. Mary Danna, 1511 Jackson St., and friends are invited to attend.

Marriage As Sacrament Is Curren Topic

The fourth of a series of talks during the Lenten season will be given Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Church by Father D. A. Curran. The subject will be "The Sacrament of Marriage."

A question box will be placed in the rear of the church for the convenience of those desiring to write out questions and have them answered at the next week's services. You are not required to sign inquiries and questions are welcomed.

The services for the week include the following schedule: Wednesday evening services — the Rosary, Benediction and Fr. Curran's sermon.

Friday evening services — Stations of the Cross and Benediction.

Morning Masses — 6:30 and 8:00 a.m. Monday through Thursday; Friday — 6:30 and 8:15 a.m.; Saturday — 6:30 and 7:00 a.m.; Sunday — 7:00; 8:30, 10:00 a.m. and evening mass at 7:00 p.m.

A Guardian Angel Sunday School is held during the 10:00 a.m. masses and a nursery during the 8:30 and 10:00 a.m. Masses. The school choir, composed of 65 girls, will sing for each evening service under direction of Sister Mary Philip.

World Famed Dr. Daugherty At M'Guire

Evangelistic preaching services will begin Sunday morning at 11 o'clock at the McGuire Methodist Church, West Monroe, and continue each evening thereafter at 7:30 p.m. through Friday night.

Dr. C. Lloyd Daugherty, world renowned speaker, will be the evangelist Dr. Daugherty, an associate secretary of the General Board of Evangelism, is the Director of the Department of Evangelism in the local church, and the national director of the Local Church Commission on Membership and Evangelism. In these capacities he is charged with the specific responsibility of guiding local churches into the experience and expression of a more vital evangelism. That he succeeds in this task is evident in one of the testimonies which arises wherever he goes: "He believes in it; he loves it and he lives it."

A native of Pittsburgh, he was educated in the University of Pittsburgh, receiving his B. A. degree there in 1930. Then he attended the graduate school of Arts and Sciences at Harvard university for two years. Then he enrolled in Harvard Divinity school where in three more years he completed his degree in Bachelor of Systematic Theology, in 1935. He has also done graduate work at Garrett Biblical Institute and at the University of Pittsburgh. In 1941 Adrian College, Michigan, awarded him the honorary Doctor of Divinity degree.

REV. G. W. HODGES HERE—The State Supt. Churches of God in Oklahoma will spend the week in Monroe. Each night at 7 o'clock he will hold a revival meeting at the Church of God, 800 Georgia street, Monroe. The public is cordially invited.

REV. SAMUEL YOUNG

Nazarines To Hold Golden Anniversary

The Rev. Samuel Young, D.D. will be speaking in the First Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of North 4th and Stella Streets, in West Monroe, Sunday, March 16, 1958. Dr. Young was born in Glasgow, Scotland, of Irish parents and holds the highest office in the Church of the Nazarene, having served on the general board of the denomination for ten years before he was elected general superintendent. He is the author of two devotional books "God Makes a Difference" and "Faith in the Midst of Trial," and is a regular contributor to the Herald of Holiness and other publications.

Rev. Young will be speaking in a special golden anniversary service at the West Monroe church. He will be present in both Sunday School and the regular church service at 11:00 a.m. The Church of the Nazarene as a denomination is celebrating its Golden Anniversary year. The denomination had its beginning in a small brown tent at Pilot Point, Tex. on October 13, 1908. This was the official birthday of the church.

Snow Woes Plague Buffalo Residents

By DICK WHALEN

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Take a mass of cold air out of northern Canada and pour it across the Great Lakes to the Atlantic Ocean.

Give one chunk of it a spinning motion as it flows down Lake Erie toward Buffalo and Niagara Falls, soaking up moisture from the lake.

Then duck.

Because if you're one of 1,089,230 people living in metropolitan Buffalo, you're in for snow—huge quantities of it—from one of Buffalo's homemade snowstorms.

The storms are peculiar. They are brewed right in the city's backyard, Lake Erie, and they strike in a narrow belt, sometimes only five miles wide.

When they hit hard, everything stops. The railroad yards, second largest in the country, are paralyzed. Industry is crippled. Traffice grinds to a halt.

The storm everybody here remembers as THE storm, is the St. Patrick's Day blizzard of 1936.

It started March 17, just three days before spring, and poured 27.4 inches of snow. The city had exhausted its snow removal money, and emergency funds were appropriated to cart the stuff away. Troops were called in to help.

The lake storms deliver about half Buffalo's snow, and Buffalo averages 6 feet of snow a year, nearly twice as much as any other major American city.

This is how U.S. weatherman Bernard Wiggin describes the effect of a typical Lake Erie snowstorm:

"It's like a garden hose spraying show over western New York. Sometimes the house points toward Jamestown, down near Pennsylvania; sometimes toward Buffalo; most of the time it swings back and forth, spraying snow in a belt about 10 miles wide and 30 miles in from the lake."

Snow removal is a major problem. Buffalo spends about $600,000 a year on it. The private citizen, confronted with snow-plugged driveway, sidewalk and doorway, has to combine a resourceful nature and a strong back to get to work or to the store.

One man hemmed in by towering snowbanks found he had no place to put the snow he was shoveling from his driveway. So he shoveled it through a window into his basement and then flushed it down a drain with warm water.

Among the 65 leading industries of Ohio, two for which it is famous are the manufacture of such disassociated products as dirigibles and playing cards.

Bible Words for Today

MARK 10:15 — "Truly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it." (RSV)

* * *

Without paraphrasing it is not possible to make clear whether Jesus means to say, "Whoever does not receive the Kingdom of God as a child would receive it" or, "Whoever does not receive the Kingdom of God as he would receive a child." Logic favors the former translation, and the verse itself explains how God's kingdom belongs to the childlike. A child accepts a gift freely, without thinking of whether he deserves it. In the same way a child receives spontaneously, without questioning the motive of the giver. Jesus here is teaching that no one can earn the Kingdom of God; one must accept it as a free gift of divine grace. Thus the statement that God's kingdom belongs to the childlike is in line with the Beatitudes in the Sermon on the Mount, where it belongs to the poor in spirit or to the persecuted.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

QUESTION: I understand that you teach that there is but one way of salvation. Don't you think teaching such a narrow religion tends to create an intolerance and narrowness? A. P.

ANSWER: It is one of the great paradoxes of all times that the Christian faith which presents such a narrow way of salvation is at the same time the greatest force the world has ever known to promote love and understanding among people. It is true that Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life," and the Apostle preached, "Neither is there salvation in any other"; yet this very message has brought peace and understanding into every country that has accepted it. Those who choose the broad way are the very ones who today are promoting intolerance and bigotism. Christians may try to persuade and convince, but Christianity is committed against forcing our belief upon anyone. Thus the very exclusiveness of Christianity has produced tolerance and understanding among the peoples where it has been most accepted.

To Grow A Straight Plant

The plant you place on your window sill probably has a tendency to turn towards the light. To keep it growing straight, place foil paper behind the plant to serve as a reflector. The plant will grow straight.

Videoland Fears Option-Dropping

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — It's nervous time in Videoland—the season for option-dropping, or picking-up, as the case may be.

Any show not in the top 20 has cause for qualms.

One such is "The Life of Riley" and its star, William Bendix.

"Me? Worried? You bet I am," says Bendix, who didn't appear overly alarmed. "It's something everybody in television has to think about each spring.

"Our show is now the oldest situation comedy on the air,—since 'I Love Lucy' retired. We began in 1952, and every year we have to sweat out option time."

"I'm not worried," said Bill's daughter, Lorraine. "Daddy's a great actor, and the show has been doing very well."

Bendix winked, then fell to ruminating about his life of Riley.

"I started on radio back in 1944," he recalled. "The program was a smash hit. It wasn't any trick for me to make movies and do the radio show simultaneously.

When TV came along I turned down an offer to play Riley. It was too much work and nobody owned any TV sets.

Late last year Bendix brought Lorraine on the show to portray Little Awful Annie.

"It's terrible the way kids of famous actors are kicked around in this town," Bill argued. "They won't give 'em a chance. People have the idea these youngsters are riding to fame on their parents' names.

"Lorraine would have a better chance if her name were something else."

"When I visit producers about a job they're very polite," Lorraine explained, "but they want to talk about dad and what a great guy he is. Some tell me I don't have to work because my father is well-fixed."

Rebel Post Office In The Black

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — If ability to run a post office in the black is the criterion, it's beginning to look as though the wrong side won the Civil War.

Folks down here, of course, are convinced the wrong side won the war on any criterion. And as far as southern post office efficiency goes, the last turn at bat for the Confederacy was quite some time ago.

But the Charleston News and Courier dipped into history recently and came up with an interesting footnote to current congressional debate on higher postal rates:

Struggling with almost worthless money, invading armies, and a complete lack of replacement for old equipment, the Confederate postal service did more than pay for itself. It showed a profit.

That's more than the U. S. post office has been able to do — before or after 1860.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1860, the United States was in the red almost two million dollars on mail service operated in the states soon to be under the control of the Confederacy.

The Confederate government didn't intend to put up with such nonsense. It ordered the postal service to be self - sustaining after March 1, 1863.

Thanks to Confederate Postmaster General John Henninger Reagan, it was.

The big mail cost was for railway service. Reagan invited southern railroad men to meet with him and persuaded them to agree to cut in half the pay they received for moving the mail.

Then he eliminated unnecessary mail routes, cut the number of trips on certain routes and reduced volume by abolishing the privilege of franking (allowing certain persons to send mail free of charge.)

There were only half as many employes in the Confederate postal service as there had been in the federal postal service for the same area.

It is true that the Confederacy charged first 5 cents and later 10 cents for a letter while the U. S. Post Office charged only 3 cents.

But as early as 1863, it was recognized that Confederate money was worth only 60 per cent of United States money and Confederate money steadily lost value. Thus the real Confederate rate was not far from the Union rate. And the southern post office people worked under special harassments. Paper was so short that postmasters kept accounts on scraps of paper.

Videoland Fears Option-Dropping

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — It's nervous time in Videoland—the season for option-dropping, or picking-up, as the case may be.

Any show not in the top 20 has cause for qualms.

One such is "The Life of Riley" and its star, William Bendix.

"Me? Worried? You bet I am," says Bendix, who didn't appear overly alarmed. "It's something everybody in television has to think about each spring.

"Our show is now the oldest situation comedy on the air — since 'I Love Lucy' retired. We began in 1952, and every year we have to sweat out option time."

"I'm not worried," said Bill's daughter, Lorraine. "Daddy's a great actor, and the show has been doing very well."

Bendix winked, then fell to ruminating about his life of Riley.

"I started on radio back in 1944," he recalled. "The program was a smash hit. It wasn't any trick for me to make movies and do the radio show simultaneously.

When TV came along I turned down an offer to play Riley. It was too much work and nobody owned any TV sets.

Late last year Bendix brought Lorraine on the show to portray Little Awful Annie.

"It's terrible the way kids of famous actors are kicked around in this town," Bill argued. "They won't give 'em a chance. People have the idea these youngsters are riding to fame on their parents' names.

"Lorraine would have a better chance if her name were something else."

"When I visit producers about a job they're very polite," Lorraine explained, "but they want to talk about dad and what a great guy he is. Some tell me I don't have to work because my father is well-fixed."

DOING WALLPAPER MURALS

Ruston Businesswoman Also Successful Artist

By MARTHA MCBRIDE
(Staff Correspondent)

RUSTON — Bearing out the adage that the busy people are the ones who get things done, Mrs. Drew Hayes of Ruston finds time to do art work, to operate a business and to be a homemaker.

Presently the versatile, auburn - haired woman is in the midst of one of her biggest art projects — painting a series of scenic murals of Louisiana for the Seabrook Wallpaper Company of Memphis.

In addition to painting murals for wallpaper, Mrs. Hayes also sells it. Until she and her husband moved into their spacious country home, Mrs. Hayes operated a wallpaper store in downtown Ruston.

When their colonial style home — designed by her — was completed, she moved the business into her home and now sells fine wallpaper when the demand arises.

In addition to the wallpaper business and being an artist, Mrs. Hayes and her husband own a shoe store in Ruston and Mr. Hayes is employed as a traveling salesman.

Other Avocations

Sewing and cooking are two other avocations of Mrs. Hayes, but, as she puts it, "I have very little time to devote to these tasks since art work comes first."

The charming artist is known throughout the south for her ability, and she has exhibited at many art festivals, served as vice president of the Louisiana American Artists Professional League, and parliamentarian of the North Louisiana Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

In 1956 she was a finalist in the Grand National annual exhibition of the AAPL which was held in New York. She holds five ribbons for her entries at various art exhibits and has served as art judge at several festivals.

"I have been painting since I was very young. The talent seems to run in my family. My mother painted china and my sister is also an artist. Father always encouraged me in this field of work," the artist added.

Studio Erected

Before the couple built their home in the rolling hills near Ruston, Mrs. Hayes had a studio erected. Already she had completed three of the eight murals she has been commissioned to produce.

Another outstanding work of Mrs. Hayes is the file of pictures she has sketched in connection with the history of Louisiana. One of her objectives is to paint some of the lesser - known Louisiana landmarks. Some day she hopes to compile these sketches for educational purposes.

The versatile artist expressed a strong appreciation for realistic paintings. "They are the way that I can best express myself. Painting has taught me to be more observant and this is the primary thing I believe I have gained from my art work," Mrs. Hayes declares.

ANNIVERSARY

450 Persons Perished In Santa Paula Flood

By JACK LEFLER

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP)—The green valley of the Santa Clara, curving gracefully from the mountains to the sea, sleeps peacefully.

In towns down the sloping southern California valley, only a few lights gleam.

It is near midnight March 12, 1928.

Among the thousands who dwell along the usually dry, sandy channel of the Santa Clara River below St. Francis Dam, only a handful are aware that the concrete dam above them is leaking. They are nervous but not quite believing.

Chester Smith, a rancher, dozes fitfully four miles away. He can't forget his trip to the dam the day before. He saw water seeping from where the western side of the dam anchors into the San Franciscquito Canyon wall.

A thunderous roar and the sound of snapping trees springs Chester Smith from his blanket.

"The dam has broke! The dam has broke!" he shouts to his family.

They reach the hilltop as a wall of water surges by with the roar of a thousand locomotives, sweeping everything before it.

Behind the thundering flood, St. Francis Dam—188 feet high, 600 feet long — lies in ruins, split asunder by the power of 12 billion gallons of water stored for the people of Los Angeles, 35 miles southeast.

The wave of water is 75 feet high as it sweeps by the towns of Saugus and Newhall, edging the widening valley some eight miles below.

In the chill night, George McIntyre of Newhall hears a roar. The water hits the house as George and his father dart outside. Within a moment they are swimming side by side in the torrent. George grabs at a tree and pulls himself into the upper branches. His father disappears. His two brothers never got out of their beds.

The onrushing water scoops up 400 houses in the 16-mile gorge between the damsite and the village of Piru, and 450 persons perish.

The old watchman, Ed Locke, is up and about at the Southern California Edison Co. work camp at Piru. A terrifying roar sends him scrambling through the bunkhouses to awaken 200 men. Forty escape. The others, among them Ed Locke, are carried away.

The watery avalanche, holding its crest at 30 feet as the valley fans out, plunges on through Fillmore and Santa Paula, rolling houses with it.

Hundreds quickly grab belongings and head for the hills. Many are too slow, too late.

Mrs. Sisto Lunas drags a mattress from her home and hurls her three children and herself upon it. They float to safety.

Bill Spring swims two miles with a child clinging to his neck.

As the sun rises, the flood has passed and lost itself in the Pacific. Behind lie 45 miles of desolation and terror.

Rescue workers search the muddy, waterlogged valley. Bodies are piled in markeshift morgues. Rancher Henry Kensinger cries: "I've lost seven. And I haven't found a one."

This was the St. Francis Dam disaster.

Investigation brought out that the dam was anchored in an unsuitable geological formation that weakened and gave way under tremendous pressure of the lake it impounded.

On the 30th anniversary of one of the nation's greatest disasters, the valley and its people still bear the scars of tragedy.

At the damsite two hillocks of shattered concrete stand as grim monuments. A tiny stream cascades between the mounds. Squirrels play in the ruins Down in valley are people who lost their families and who, themselves, felt the clutches of the rushing waters.

Sister-In-Law To Orchard Dies

Sam A. Orchard of Monroe, is in St. Louis this week end to attend the funeral services of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Herman C. Orchard who died there Friday.

Mrs. Orchard was owner of Orchard Paper Company in St. Louis, and was well known in Monroe from frequent visits to friends and relatives here.

Among her survivors are two sons, Robert Orchard of St. Louis, and Edgar Orchard of Los Angeles, and one daughter, Marjorie, of St. Louis.

YEARLING DEER — These three yearlings are part of small pet deer herd on W. L. DeMoss farm south of Monroe. Raised in a two - acre pasture, they fear strangers within the fence, kept their distance from the cameraman. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Project Launched Nine Years Ago

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Eight reindeer which pull a sleigh through the sky every December 24 have their match here in Ouachita parish.

Eight deer are pets of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss, who farm a short distance from the Prairie Road, southeast of Monroe.

"Every Sunday, someone drives past, sees those deer and stops to look — it's a regular show for motorists," revealed DeMoss.

The herd began nine years ago, in Tensas parish. "Zeke Moore, a colored man, found a little fawn behind his barn. The mother deer had gone off and left it, so Zeke gave it to us," the couple explained.

"We could tell is was less than a week old — it was smaller than that puppy over there." DeMoss pointed at "Snookie", the brown puppy, about 11 inches long, curled up by a heater.

Rode In Truck

Nestled between Mr. and Mrs. DeMoss, the fawn rode back to Monroe in the cab of a truck, and was promptly placed on cow's milk, fed from a baby's bottle.

"Baby," as she was named, grew up as a house pet, stayed in the house much of the time, even followed two of the DeMoss sons when they went hunting.

"I've deer hunted all my life — don't believe I've ever missed a deer season," added DeMoss. Antlers nearly "paper" the wall in the closed-in porch of their residence.

Thriving on corn, mixed seed, grain, chops and some hay, Baby grew to be a large doe, was bred at Bernstein Park, and had her own fawn.

Gradually the herd grew, and although approximately 10 have strayed, three males and five females now roam the DeMoss farm. Four are yearlings, the others are full-grown.

All Gentle

"They're all gentle, even the buck. The yearlings have been out most of the time though, you still can't pet them on the head, like the others," DeMoss, who has a breeder's permit, pointed out.

"I couldn't pick a basketful of berries after we got Baby," Mrs. DeMoss chuckled, "she followed and ate the berries out of my hands."

The herd's appetite cost them some freedom.

Deer are like goats — they eat anything. They visited the neighbor's gardens . . . the neighbors 'raised sand' . . . the conservation department entered the scene . . . and the deer are now penned up in two acres of pasture.

Fond of pets, the couple has raised many in the 45 years on their farm.

"The deer get along fine with groups of cows and horses put out to pasture, and with the cats and dogs on the farm. Once I had a pack of hounds . . . you could look out and see the deer and dogs, all together under the persimmon tree," DeMoss recalled.

Scared of Cattle

"They fight calves though, and they're scared of cattle being driven along by a man on horseback. Four deer jumped over the fence and ran off a few months back, when cattle were driven past," he stated.

Three came back, but one yearling may have joined a few wild deer placed in the area by the conservation department.

A native of Ouachita parish, DeMoss raises cotton, beans, corn, oats and has a herd of cows. His farm is 10 miles from downtown Monroe, found by following Winnsboro Road to Prairie Road.

Five sons and four daughters have grown up in the farmhouse . . . three children live nearby, others are in California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Vermont. Along with her housemaking duties, Mrs. DeMoss has found time to be active in WMU, BTU and Sunday School at the New Light Baptist church, in the 35 years since it was built.

"The children said that we treated Baby just like part of the family, too," Mrs. DeMoss revealed.

DeMoss chuckled as he told how Mrs. DeMoss wrote their children that Baby was 'expecting'. "One daughter wrote back 'Mummy, you sound like Baby is one of the family," he added.

The 'family' will grow again, come late July, when new fawns blink at the bright summer sunlight, and sniff the honey - sweet smell of tall grass in the DeMoss pasture.

BABY — Grandma of the herd is "Baby," nine-year-old doe brought here from Tensas parish. Tame and gentle, Baby nursed milk from a bottle when she was a fawn, grew up in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss. The curious doe stepped close enough to let World reporter pet her on head. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Stabbed In Defense Of State Rep.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) -- Michael Walsh, 35, was stabbed last night, officers said, as he attempted to protect State Rep. Patrick McGittigan during a disturbance in McGittigan's bar.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Walsh's condition was serious today. He underwent surgery for a stab wound in the lower abdomen.

McGittigan was trying to eject a couple for creating a disturbance, officers said,and the couple attacked him.

Officers booked Waldo Courtney, 42, with aggravated battery on Walsh and Mrs. Martha Courtney, 44, with attempted aggravated battery on McGittigan.

Officers John Dyer and Cliff Robichaux said they learne' McGittigan asked the Courtneys to leave about midnight.

They related the fracas followed this way:

Mrs. Courtney grabbed a beer bottle, smashed it and charged the bar owner-lawmaker.

McGittigan grabbed her; disarmed her, and started with her to the door. Courtney grabbed McGittigan.

The woman got loose, grabbed another bottle and smashed it into a crude weapon and again started at McGittigan. A patron stopped her and took the bottle from her.

Courtney pulled a knife and Walsh intervened but was slashed in his attempt to aid the tavern owner.

Courtney fled, officers said, but later returned and was arrested. He denied that he had a weapon or did the stabbing. He claimed he was struck by the bartender after an argument over a beer, then knocked to the floor and beaten by three men. McGittigan held him at gunpoint, he said, until officers arrived.

Cancer Is Eliminated In Animals

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) -Cancer has been eliminated in dogs, cats and mice with an extract from the human placenta, a researcher reports.

The placenta is the bodily tissue which nourishes an unborn baby.

Dr. W. Steele Livingston, a veterinarian who has spent the last three years wholly in cancer research, refuses to say cancers in his animals have been cured.

Instead he uses the phrase "complete regression," meaning the tumors have vanished and not returned. One case is a dog treated eight year aog. It tumor disappeared after three injections a day for two months. In others the "complete regression" has lasted more than five years.

The liquid extract he has developed from the placenta apparently converts tumor cells into normal body cells, Dr. Livingston said yesterday.

"The substance has an effect on all cancers in the animals we have tested," he told an interviewer. "However, the work is purely experimental and it will be some time before we can talk about any substance for human use."

A 63-page report in the current Journal of the National Cancer Institute brought to light Dr. Livingston's 16 years' cancer research.

The Institute, the American Cancer Society, the Bob Hope Foundation and other agencies have contributed nearly $500,000 toward the 41-year-old veterinarian's work.

He said he doesn't know exactly how the substance works.

When John Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States, was awarded a Master of Arts diploma at King's College (now Columbia University), the date on the document read "May 90, 1767." It should have read "May 19, 1767." Somebody goofed.

Mack FCC Case Gives Problems

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Richard A. Mack case has confronted Congress with a question that goes far beyond Mack's personal fate:

Do the laws governing so-called "quasi-judicial" regulatory agencies contain a built-in invitation to shenanigans?

"Quasi-judicial" is lawyer - language for a government agency that acts like a court but isn't.

The Federal Communications Commission, from which Mack has resigned by request, is one of six such agencies in Washington. The others are the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

These agencies adjudicate more disputes in a year than all federal courts put together. Their decisions on such matters as television permits, airline routes, railroad fares and gas rates have a multi-billion-dollar impact on the economy.

Yet the members of these commissions are not always, or even usually, chosen for their suitability as judges. Many of them are not even trained in law.

Maintain Standards

Although some of them are men of high personal integrity who try to maintain the same ethical standards as judges, there is no law that requires them to do so.

For example:

By law and tradition, a judge is completely "unapproachable" when he is sitting on a case. Anyone who communicated with him privately in an attempt to influence his decision would invite immediate imprisonment for contempt.

The Administrative Procedures Act of 1946, which governs the regulatory agencies, says that commissioners should base their decisions on the official record in each case. But it does not explicitly forbid off-the-record attempts to influence their votes.

On the other hand, there is at present no law which says that members of quasi - judicial commissions cannot accept gifts, have a stake in their decisions.

Codes Lack Force

The CAB, ICC and SEC have self - imposed codes of ethics which hold that it is "improper" for their members or staff to accept "unusual" hospitality or "valuable" gifts. These codes lack the force of law, and no specific penalties are provided for violation. The three other agencies do not even have voluntary codes of ethics.

Several bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to remedy this situation.

Deer Herd Thrives On Farm In Ouachita Parish

Project Launched Nine Years Ago

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Eight reindeer which pull a sleigh through the sky every December 24 have their match here in Ouachita parish.

Eight deer are pets of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss, who farm a short distance fr.m the Prairie Road, southeast of Monroe.

"Every Sunday, someone drives past, sees those deer and stops to look — it's a regular show for motorists," revealed DeMoss.

The herd began nine years ago, in Tensas parish. "Zeke Moore, a colored man, found a little fawn behind his barn. The mother deer had gone off and left it, so Zeke gave it to us," the couple explained.

"We could tell is was less than a week old — it was smaller than that puppy over there." DeMoss pointed at "Snookie", the brown puppy, about 11 inches long, curled up by a heater.

Rode In Truck

Nestled between Mr. and Mrs. DeMoss, the fawn rode back to Monroe in the cab of a truck, and was promptly placed on cow's milk, fed from a baby's bottle.

"Baby," as she was named, grew up as a house pet, stayed in the house much of the time, even followed two of the DeMoss sons when they went hunting.

"I've deer hunted all my life — don't believe I've ever missed a deer season," added DeMoss. Antlers nearly "paper" the wall in the closed-in porch of their residence.

Thriving on corn, mixed seed, grain, chops and some hay, Baby grew to be a large doe, was bred at Bernstein Park, and had her own fawn.

Gradually the herd grew, and although approximately 10 have strayed, three males and five females now roam the DeMoss farm. Four are yearlings, the others are full-grown.

All Gentle

"They're all gentle, even the buck. The yearlings have been out most of the time though, you still can't pet them on the head, like the others," DeMoss, who has a breeder's permit, pointed out.

"I couldn't pick a basketful of berries after we got Baby," Mrs. DeMoss chuckled, "she followed and ate the berries out of my hands."

The herd's appetite cost them some freedom.

Deer are like goats — they eat anything. They visited the neighbor's gardens . . . the neighbors 'raised sand' . . . the conservation department entered the scene . . . and the deer are now penned up in two acres of pasture.

Fond of pets, the couple has raised many in the 45 years on their farm.

"The deer get along fine with groups of cows and horses put out to pasture, and with the cats and dogs on the farm. Once I had a pack of hounds . . . you could look out and see the deer and dogs, all together under the persimmon tree," DeMoss recalled.

Scared of Cattle

"They fight calves though, and they're scared of cattle being driven along by a man on horseback. Four deer jumped over the fence and ran off a few months back, when cattle were driven past," he stated.

Three came back, but one yearling may have joined a few wild deer placed in the area by the conservation department.

A native of Ouachita parish, DeMoss raises cotton, beans, corn, oats and has a herd of cows. His farm is 10 miles from downtown Monroe, found by following Winnsboro Road to Prairie Road.

Five sons and four daughters have grown up in the farmhouse . . . three children live nearby, others are in California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Vermont. Along with her homemaking duties, Mrs. DeMoss has found time to be active in WMU, BTU and Sunday School at the New Light Baptist church, in the 35 years since it was built.

"The children said that we treated Baby just like part of the family, too," Mrs. DeMoss revealed.

DeMoss chuckled as he told how Mrs. DeMoss wrote their children that Baby was 'expecting'. "One daughter wrote back 'Mummy, you sound like Baby is one of the family," he added.

The 'family' will grow again, come late July, when new fawns blink at the bright summer sunlight, and sniff the honey - sweet smell of tall grass in the DeMoss pasture.

YEARLING DEER — These three yearlings are part of small pet deer herd on W. L. DeMoss farm south of Monroe. Raised in a two - acre pasture, they fear strangers within the fence, kept their distance from the cameraman. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

DOING WALLPAPER MURALS

Ruston Businesswoman Also Successful Artist

By MARTHA MCBRIDE
(Staff Correspondent)

RUSTON — Bearing out the adage that the busy people are the ones who get things done, Mrs. Drew Hayes of Ruston finds time to do art work, to operate a business and to be a homemaker.

Presently the versatile, auburn - haired woman is in the midst of one of her biggest art projects — painting a series of scenic murals of Louisiana for the Seabrook Wallpaper Company of Memphis.

In addition to painting murals for wallpaper, Mrs. Hayes also sells it. Until she and her husband moved into their spacious country home, Mrs. Hayes operated a wallpaper store in downtown Ruston.

When their colonial style home — designed by her — was completed, she moved the business into her home and now sells fine wallpaper when the demand arises.

In addition to the wallpaper business and being an artist, Mrs. Hayes and her husband own a shoe store in Ruston and Mr. Hayes is employed as a traveling salesman.

Other Avocations

Sewing and cooking are two other avocations of Mrs. Hayes, but, as she puts it, "I have very little time to devote to these tasks since art work comes first."

The charming artist is known throughout the south for her ability, and she has exhibited at many art festivals, served as vice president of the Louisiana American Artists Professional League, and parliamentarian of the North Louisiana Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

In 1956 she was a finalist in the Grand National annual exhibition of the AAPL which was held in New York. She holds five ribbons for her entries at various art exhibits and has served as art judge at several festivals.

"I have been painting since I was very young. The talent seems to run in my family. My mother painted china and my sister is also an artist. Father always encouraged me in this field of work," the artist added.

Studio Erected

Before the couple built their home in the rolling hills near Ruston, Mrs. Hayes had a studio erected. Already she had completed three of the eight murals she has been commissioned to produce.

Another outstanding work of Mrs. Hayes is the file of pictures she has sketched in connection with the history of Louisiana. One of her objectives is to paint some of the lesser - known Louisiana landmarks. Some day she hopes to compile these sketches for educational purposes.

The versatile artist expressed a strong appreciation for realistic paintings. "They are the way that I can best express myself. Painting has taught me to be more observant and this is the primary thing I believe I have gained from my art work," Mrs. Hayes declares.

FATHER'S PORTRAIT — The portrait of Mr. Hayes' father, painted by Mrs. Hayes, occupies a prominent spot in the couple's home. Mrs. Hayes painted designs on a violin case and uses it as a jewelry case. (Photo by Bob Freeman)

Stabbed In Defense Of State Rep.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Michael Walsh, 35, was stabbed last night, officers said, as he attempted to protect State Rep. Patrick McGittigan during a disturbance in McGittigan's bar.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Walsh's condition was serious today. He underwent surgery for a stab wound in the lower abdomen.

McGittigan was trying to eject a couple for creating a disturbance, officers said,and the couple attacked him.

Officers booked Waldo Courtney, 42, with aggravated battery on Walsh and Mrs. Martha Courtney, 44, with attempted aggravated battery on McGittigan.

Officers John Dyer and Cliff Robichaux said they learned McGittigan asked the Courtneys to leave about midnight.

They related the fracas followed this way:

Mrs. Courtney grabbed a beer bottle, smashed it and charged the bar owner-lawmaker.

McGittigan grabbed her; disarmed her, and started with her to the door. Courtney grabbed McGittigan.

The woman got loose, grabbed another bottle and smashed it into a crude weapon and again started at McGittigan. A patron stopped her and took the bottle from her.

Courtney pulled a knife and Walsh intervened but was slashed in his attempt to aid the tavern owner.

Courtney fled, officers said, but later returned and was arrested. He denied that he had a weapon or did the stabbing. He claimed he was struck by the bartender after an argument over a beer, then knocked to the floor and beaten by three men. McGittigan held him at gunpoint, he said, until officers arrived.

BABY — Grandma of the herd is "Baby," nine-year-old doe brought here from Tensas parish. Tame and gentle, Baby nursed milk from a bottle when she was a fawn, grew up in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss. The curious doe stepped close enough to let World reporter pet her on head. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Mack FCC Case Gives Problems

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Richard A. Mack case has confronted Congress with a question that goes far beyond Mack's personal fate:

Do the laws governing so-called "quasi-judicial" regulatory agencies contain a built-in invitation to shenanigans?

"Quasi-judicial" is lawyer - language for a government agency that acts like a court but isn't.

The Federal Communications Commission, from which Mack has resigned by request, is one of six such agencies in Washington. The others are the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

These agencies adjudicate more disputes in a year than all federal courts put together. Their decisions on such matters as television permits, airline routes, railroad fares and gas rates have a multi-billion-dollar impact on the economy.

Yet the members of these commissions are not always, or even usually, chosen for their suitability as judges. Many of them are not even trained in law.

Maintain Standards

Although some of them are men of high personal integrity who try to maintain the same ethical standards as judges, there is no law that requires them to do so.

For example:

By law and tradition, a judge is completely "unapproachable" when he is sitting on a case. Anyone who communicated with him privately in an attempt to influence his decision would invite immediate imprisonment for contempt.

The Administrative Procedures Act of 1946, which governs the regulatory agencies, says that commissioners should base their decisions on the official record in each case. But it does not explicitly forbid off-the-record attempts to influence their votes.

On the other hand, there is at present no law which says that members of quasi - judicial commissions cannot accept gifts, have a stake in their decisions.

Codes Lack Force

The CAB, ICC and SEC have self - imposed codes of ethics which hold that it is "improper" for their members or staff to accept "unusual" hospitality or "valuable" gifts. These codes lack the force of law, and no specific penalties are provided for violation. The three other agencies do not even have voluntary codes of ethics.

Several bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to remedy this situation.

Cancer Is Eliminated In Animals

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) -Cancer has been eliminated in dogs, cats and mice with an extract from the human placenta, a researcher reports.

The placenta is the bodily tissue which nourishes an unborn baby.

Dr. W. Steele Livingston, a veterinarian who has spent the last three years wholly in cancer research, refuses to say cancers in his animals have been cured.

Instead he uses the phrase "complete regression," meaning the tumors have vanished and not returned. One case is a dog treated eight year aog. It tumor disappeared after three injections a day for two months. In others the "complete regression" has lasted more than five years.

The liquid extract he has developed from the placenta apparently converts tumor cells into normal body cells, Dr. Livingston said yesterday.

"The substance has an effect on all cancers in the animals we have tested," he told an interviewer. "However, the work is purely experimental and it will be some time before we can talk about any substance for human use."

A 63-page report in the current Journal of the National Cancer Institute brought to light Dr. Livingston's 16 years' cancer research.

The Institute, the American Cancer Society, the Bob Hope Foundation and other agencies have contributed nearly $500,000 toward the 41-year-old veterinarian's work.

He said he doesn't know exactly how the substance works.

Sister-In-Law To Orchard Dies

Sam A. Orchard of Monroe, is in St. Louis this week end to attend the funeral services of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Herman C. Orchard who died there Friday.

Mrs. Orchard was owner of Orchard Paper Company in St. Louis, and was well known in Monroe from frequent visits to friends and relatives here.

Among her survivors are two sons, Robert Orchard of St. Louis, and Edgar Orchard of Los Angeles, and one daughter, Marjorie, of St. Louis.

When John Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States, was awarded a Master of Arts diploma at King's College (now Columbia University), the date on the document read "May 90, 1767." It should have read "May 19, 1767." Somebody goofed.

ANNIVERSARY

450 Persons Perished In Santa Paula Flood

By JACK LEFLER

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP)—The green valley of the Santa Clara, curving gracefully from the mountains to the sea, sleeps peacefully.

In towns down the sloping southern California valley, only a few lights gleam.

It is near midnight March 12, 1928.

Among the thousands who dwell along the usually dry, sandy channel of the Santa Clara River below St. Francis Dam, only a handful are aware that the concrete dam above them is leaking. They are nervous but not quite believing.

Chester Smith, a rancher, dozes fitfully four miles away. He can't forget his trip to the dam the day before. He saw water seeping from where the western side of the dam anchors into the San Franciscquito Canyon wall.

A thunderous roar and the sound of snapping trees springs Chester Smith from his blanket.

"The dam has broke! The dam has broke!" he shouts to his family.

They reach the hilltop as a wall of water surges by with the roar of a thousand locomotives, sweeping everything before it.

Behind the thundering flood, St. Francis Dam—188 feet high, 600 feet long — lies in ruins, split asunder by the power of 12 billion gallons of water stored for the people of Los Angeles, 35 miles southeast.

The wave of water is 75 feet high as it sweeps by the towns of Saugus and Newhall, edging the widening valley some eight miles below.

In the chill night, George McIntyre of Newhall hears a roar. The water hits the house as George and his father dart outside. Within a moment they are swimming side by side in the torrent. George grabs at a tree and pulls himself into the upper branches. His father disappears. His two brothers never got out of their beds.

The onrushing water scoops up 400 houses in the 16-mile gorge between the damsite and the village of Piru, and 450 persons perish.

The old watchman, Ed Locke, is up and about at the Southern California Edison Co. work camp at Piru. A terrifying roar sends him scrambling through the bunkhouses to awaken 200 men. Forty escape. The others, among them Ed Locke, are carried away.

The watery avalanche, holding its crest at 30 feet as the valley fans out, plunges on through Fillmore and Santa Paula, rolling houses with it.

Hundreds quickly grab belongings and head for the hills. Many are too slow, too late.

Mrs. Sisto Lunas drags a mattress from her home and hurls her three children and herself upon it. They float to safety.

Bill Spring swims two miles with a child clinging to his neck.

As the sun rises, the flood has passed and lost itself in the Pacific. Behind lie 45 miles of desolation and terror.

Rescue workers search the muddy, waterlogged valley. Bodies are piled in markeshift morgues. Rancher Henry Kensinger cries: "I've lost seven. And I haven't found a one."

This was the St. Francis Dam disaster.

Investigation brought out that the dam was anchored in an unsuitable geological formation that weakened and gave way under tremendous pressure of the lake it impounded.

On the 30th anniversary of one of the nation's greatest disasters, the valley and its people still bear the scars of tragedy.

At the damsite two hillocks of shattered concrete stand as grim monuments. A tiny stream cascades between the mounds. Squirrels play in the ruins Down in valley are people who lost their families and who, themselves, felt the clutches of the rushing waters.

Videoland Fears Option-Dropping

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — It's nervous time in Videoland—the season for option-dropping, or picking-up, as the case may be.

Any show not in the top 20 has cause for qualms.

One such is "The Life of Riley" and its star, William Bendix.

"Me? Worried? You bet I am," says Bendix, who didn't appear overly alarmed. "It's something everybody in television has to think about each spring.

"Our show is now the oldest situation comedy on the air — since 'I Love Lucy' retired. We began in 1952, and every year we have to sweat out option time."

"I'm not worried," said Bill's daughter, Lorraine. "Daddy's a great actor, and the show has been doing very well."

Bendix winked, then fell to ruminating about his life of Riley.

"I started on radio back in 1944," he recalled. "The program was a smash hit. It wasn't any trick for me to make movies and do the radio show simultaneously.

When TV came along I turned down an offer to play Riley. It was too much work and nobody owned any TV sets.

Late last year Bendix brought Lorraine on the show to portray Little Awful Anne.

"It's terrible the way kids of famous actors are kicked around in this town," Bill argued. "They won't give 'em a chance. People have the idea these youngsters are riding to fame on their parents' names.

"Lorraine would have a better chance if her name were something else."

"When I visit producers about a job they're very polite," Lorraine explained, "but they want to talk about dad and what a great guy he is. Some tell me I don't have to work because my father is well-fixed."

Rebel Post Office In The Black

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — If ability to run a post office in the black is the criterion, it's beginning to look as though the wrong side won the Civil War.

Folks down here, of course, are convinced the wrong side won the war on any criterion. And as far as southern post office efficiency goes, the last turn at bat for the Confederacy was quite some time ago.

But the Charleston News and Courier dipped into history recently and came up with an interesting footnote to current congressional debate on higher postal rates:

Struggling with almost worthless money, invading armies, and a complete lack of replacement for old equipment, the Confederate postal service did more than pay for itself. It showed a profit.

That's more than the U. S. post office has been able to do — before or after 1860.

In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1860, the United States was in the red almost two million dollars on mail service operated in the states soon to be under the control of the Confederacy.

The Confederate government didn't intend to put up with such nonsense. It ordered the postal service to be self - sustaining after March 1, 1863.

Thanks to Confederate Postmaster General John Henninger Reagan, it was.

The big mail cost was for railway service. Reagan invited southern railroad men to meet with him and persuaded them to agree to cut in half the pay they received for moving the mail.

Then he eliminated unnecessary mail routes, cut the number of trips on certain routes and reduced volume by abolishing the privilege of franking (allowing certain persons to send mail free of charge.)

There were only half as many employes in the Confederate postal service as there had been in the federal postal service for the same area.

It is true that the Confederacy charged first 5 cents and later 10 cents for a letter while the U. S. Post Office charged only 3 cents.

But as early as 1863, it was recognized that Confederate money was worth only 60 per cent of United States money and Confederate money steadily lost value. Thus the real Confederate rate was not far from the Union rate. And the southern post office people worked under special harassments. Paper was so short that postmasters kept accounts on scraps of paper.

But as early as 1863, it was recognized that Confederate money was worth only 60 per cent of United States money and Confederate money steadily lost value. Thus the real Confederate rate was not far from the Union rate. And the southern post office people worked under special harassments. Paper was so short that postmasters kept accounts on scraps of paper.

Deer Herd Thrives On Farm In Ouachita Parish

Project Launched Nine Years Ago

By MARY ANNE CORPIN
Staff Writer

Eight reindeer which pull a sleigh through the sky every December 24 have their match here in Ouachita parish.

Eight deer are pets of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss, who farm a short distance fr n the Prairie Road, southeast of Monroe.

"Every Sunday, someone drives past, sees those deer and stops to look — it's a regular show for motorists," revealed DeMoss.

The herd began nine years ago, in Tensas parish. "Zeke Moore, a colored man, found a little fawn behind his barn. The mother deer had gone off and left it, so Zeke gave it to us," the couple explained.

"We could tell is was less than a week old — it was smaller than that puppy over there." DeMoss pointed at "Snookie", the brown puppy, about 11 inches long, curled up by a heater.

Rode In Truck

Nestled between Mr. and Mrs. DeMoss, the fawn rode back to Monroe in the cab of a truck, and was promptly placed on cow's milk, fed from a baby's bottle.

"Baby," as she was named, grew up as a house pet, stayed in the house much of the time, even followed two of the DeMoss sons when they went hunting.

"I've deer hunted all my life — don't believe I've ever missed a deer season," added DeMoss. Antlers nearly "paper" the wall in the closed-in porch of their residence.

Thriving on corn, mixed seed, grain, chops and some hay, Baby grew to be a large doe, was bred at Bernstein Park, and had her own fawn.

Gradually the herd grew, and although approximately 10 have strayed, three males and five females now roam the DeMoss farm. Four are yearlings, the others are full-grown.

All Gentle

"They're all gentle, even the buck. The yearlings have been out most of the time though, you still can't pet them on the head, like the others," DeMoss, who has a breeder's permit, pointed out.

"I couldn't pick a basketful of berries after we got Baby," Mrs. DeMoss chuckled, "she followed and ate the berries out of my hands."

The herd's appetite cost them some freedom.

Deer are like goats — they eat anything. They visited the neighbor's gardens . . . the neighbors 'raised sand' . . . the conservation department entered the scene . . . and the deer are now penned up in two acres of pasture.

Fond of pets, the couple has raised many in the 45 years on their farm.

"The deer get along fine with groups of cows and horses put out to pasture, and with the cats and dogs on the farm. Once I had a pack of hounds . . . you could look out and see the deer and dogs, all together under the persimmon tree," DeMoss recalled.

Scared of Cattle

"They fight calves though, and they're scared of cattle being driven along by a man on horseback. Four deer jumped over the fence and ran off a few months back, when cattle were driven past," he stated.

Three came back, but one yearling may have joined a few wild deer placed in the area by the conservation department.

A native of Ouachita parish, DeMoss raises cotton, beans, corn, oats and has a herd of cows. His farm is 10 miles from downtown Monroe, found by following Winnsboro Road to Prairie Road.

Five sons and four daughters have grown up in the farmhouse . . . three children live nearby, others are in California, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Vermont. Along with her homemaking duties, Mrs. DeMoss has found time to be active in WMU, BTU and Sunday School at the New Light Baptist church, in the 35 years since it was built.

"The children said that we treated Baby just like part of the family, too," Mrs. DeMoss revealed.

DeMoss chuckled as he told how Mrs. DeMoss wrote their children that Baby was 'expecting'. "One daughter wrote back 'Mummy, you sound like Baby is one of the family," he added.

The 'family' will grow again, come late July, when new fawns blink at the bright summer sunlight, and sniff the honey - sweet smell of tall grass in the DeMoss pasture.

DOING WALLPAPER MURALS

Ruston Businesswoman Also Successful Artist

By MARTHA MCBRIDE
(Staff Correspondent)

RUSTON — Bearing out the adage that the busy people are the ones who get things done, Mrs. Drew Hayes of Ruston finds time to do art work, to operate a business and to be a homemaker.

Presently the versatile, auburn - haired woman is in the midst of one of her biggest art projects — painting a series of scenic murals of Louisiana for the Seabrook Wallpaper Company of Memphis.

In addition to painting murals for wallpaper, Mrs. Hayes also sells it. Until she and her husband moved into their spacious country home, Mrs. Hayes operated a wallpaper store in downtown Ruston.

When their colonial style home — designed by her — was completed, she moved the business into her home and now sells fine wallpaper when the demand arises.

In addition to the wallpaper business and being an artist, Mrs. Hayes and her husband own a shoe store in Ruston and Mr. Hayes is employed as a traveling salesman.

Other Avocations

Sewing and cooking are two other avocations of Mrs. Hayes, but, as she puts it, "I have very little time to devote to these tasks since art work comes first."

The charming artist is known throughout the south for her ability, and she has exhibited at many art festivals, served as vice president of the Louisiana American Artists Professional League, and parliamentarian of the North Louisiana Branch of the National League of American Pen Women.

In 1956 she was a finalist in the Grand National annual exhibition of the AAPL which was held in New York. She holds five ribbons for her entries at various art exhibits and has served as art judge at several festivals.

"I have been painting since I was very young. The talent seems to run in my family. My mother painted china and my sister is also an artist. Father always encouraged me in this field of work," the artist added.

Studio Erected

Before the couple built their home in the rolling hills near Ruston, Mrs. Hayes had a studio erected. Already she had completed three of the eight murals she has been commissioned to produce.

Another outstanding work of Mrs. Hayes is the file of pictures she has sketched in connection with the history of Louisiana. One of her objectives is to paint some of the lesser - known Louisiana landmarks. Some day she hopes to compile these sketches for educational purposes.

The versatile artist expressed a strong appreciation for realistic paintings. "They are the way that I can best express myself. Painting has taught me to be more observant and this is the primary thing I believe I have gained from my art work," Mrs. Hayes declares.

Stabbed In Defense Of State Rep.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Michael Walsh, 35, was stabbed last night, officers said, as he attempted to protect State Rep. Patrick McGittigan during a disturbance in McGittigan's bar.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Walsh's condition was serious today. He underwent surgery for a stab wound in the lower abdomen.

McGittigan was trying to eject a couple for creating a disturbance, officers said,and the couple attacked him.

Officers booked Waldo Courtney, 45, with aggravated battery on Walsh and Mrs. Martha Courtney, 44, with attempted aggravated battery on McGittigan.

Officers John Dyer and Cliff Robichaux said they learne ' McGittigan asked the Courtneys to leave about midnight.

They related the fracas followed this way:

Mrs. Courtney grabbed a beer bottle, smashed it and charged the bar owner-lawmaker.

McGittigan grabbed her; disarmed her, and started with her to the door. Courtney grabbed McGittigan.

The woman got loose, grabbed another bottle and smashed it into a crude weapon and again started at McGittigan. A patron stopped her and took the bottle from her.

Courtney pulled a knife and Walsh intervened but was slashed in his attempt to aid the tavern owner.

Courtney fled, officers said, but later returned and was arrested. He denied that he had a weapon or did the stabbing. He claimed he was struck by the bartender after an argument over a beer, then knocked to the floor and beaten by three men. McGittigan held him at gunpoint, he said, until officers arrived.

Cancer Is Eliminated In Animals

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) -Cancer has been eliminated in dogs, cats and mice with an extract from the human placenta, a researcher reports.

The placenta is the bodily tissue which nourishes an unborn baby.

Dr. W. Steele Livingston, a veterinarian who has spent the last three years wholly in cancer research, refuses to say cancers in his animals have been cured.

Instead he uses the phrase "complete regression," meaning the tumors have vanished and not returned. One case is a dog treated eight year aog. It tumor disappeared after three injections a day for two months. In others the "complete regression" has lasted more than five years.

The liquid extract he has developed from the placenta apparently converts tumor cells into normal body cells, Dr. Livingston said yesterday.

"The substance has an effect on all cancers in the animals we have tested," he told an interviewer. "However, the work is purely experimental and it will be some time before we can talk about any substance for human use."

A 63-page report in the current Journal of the National Cancer Institute brought to light Dr. Livingston's 16 years' cancer research.

The Institute, the American Cancer Society, the Bob Hope Foundation and other agencies have contributed nearly $500,000 toward the 41-year-old veterinarian's work.

He said he doesn't know exactly how the substance works.

When John Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States, was awarded a Master of Arts diploma at King's College (now Columbia University), the date on the document read "May 90, 1767." It should have read "May 19, 1767." Somebody goofed.

BABY — Grandma of the herd is "Baby," nine-year-old doe brought here from Tensas parish. Tame and gentle, Baby nursed milk from a bottle when she was a fawn, grew up in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss. The curious doe stepped close enough to let World reporter pet her on head. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Mack FCC Case Gives Problems

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Richard A. Mack case has confronted Congress with a question that goes far beyond Mack's personal fate:

Do the laws governing so-called "quasi-judicial" regulatory agencies contain a built-in invitation to shenanigans?

"Quasi-judicial" is lawyer - language for a government agency that acts like a court but isn't.

The Federal Communications Commission, from which Mack has resigned by request, is one of six such agencies in Washington. The others are the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

These agencies adjudicate more disputes in a year than all federal courts put together. Their decisions on such matters as television permits, airline routes, railroad fares and gas rates have a multi-billion-dollar impact on the economy.

Yet the members of these commissions are not always, or even usually, chosen for their suitability as judges. Many of them are not even trained in law.

Maintain Standards

Although some of them are men of high personal integrity who try to maintain the same ethical standards as judges, there is no law that requires them to do so.

For example:

By law and tradition, a judge is completely "unapproachable" when he is sitting on a case. Anyone who communicated with him privately in an attempt to influence his decision would invite immediate imprisonment for contempt.

The Administrative Procedures Act of 1946, which governs the regulatory agencies, says that commissioners should base their decisions on the official record in each case. But it does not explicitly forbid off-the-record attempts to influence their votes.

On the other hand, there is at present no law which says that members of quasi - judicial commissions cannot accept gifts, have a stake in their decisions.

Codes Lack Force

The CAB, ICC and SEC have self - imposed codes of ethics which hold that it is "improper" for their members or staff to accept "unusual" hospitality or "valuable" gifts. These codes lack the force of law, and no specific penalties are provided for violation. The three other agencies do not even have voluntary codes of ethics.

Several bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to remedy this situation.

Loyalty To Christ Must

CHICAGO (AP)—Man's loyalty to church, state and family, a Presbyterian leader said today should be conditional upon "ultimate loyalty to Jesus Christ."

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. said that social institutions such as political parties, charity drives and service clubs should not be confused with the church.

"One of the difficulties of the modern American man is that, confronted by conflicting loyalties so fundamental, he sometimes becomes confused, and for some lesser value repudiates all," he said.

Dr Blake, immediate past president of the National Council of Churches, addressed some 3,500 laymen at the annual meeting of the National Council of Presbyterian Men.

450 Persons Perished In Santa Paula Flood

By JACK LEFLER

SANTA PAULA, Calif. (AP)—The green valley of the Santa Clara, curving gracefully from the mountains to the sea, sleeps peacefully.

In towns down the sloping southern California valley, only a few lights gleam.

It is near midnight March 12, 1928.

Among the thousands who dwell along the usually dry, sandy channel of the Santa Clara River below St. Francis Dam, only a handful are aware that the concrete dam above them is leaking. They are nervous but not quite believing.

Chester Smith, a rancher, dozes fitfully four miles away. He can't forget his trip to the dam the day before. He saw water seeping from where the western side of the dam anchors into the San Franciscquito Canyon wall.

A thunderous roar and the sound of snapping trees springs Chester Smith from his blanket.

"The dam has broke! The dam has broke!" he shouts to his family.

They reach the hilltop as a wall of water surges by with the roar of a thousand locomotives, sweeping everything before it.

Behind the thundering flood, St. Francis Dam—188 feet high, 600 feet long — lies in ruins, split asunder by the power of 12 billion gallons of water stored for the people of Los Angeles, 35 miles southeast.

The wave of water is 75 feet high as it sweeps by the towns of Saugus and Newhall, edging the widening valley some eight miles below.

In the chill night, George McIntyre of Newhall hears a roar. The water hits the house as George and his father dart outside. Within a moment they are swimming side by side in the torrent. George grabs at a tree and pulls himself into the upper branches. His father disappears. His two brothers never got out of their beds.

The onrushing water scoops up 400 houses in the 16-mile gorge between the damsite and the village of Piru, and 450 persons perish.

The old watchman, Ed Locke, is up and about at the Southern California Edison Co. work camp at Piru. A terrifying roar sends him scrambling through the bunkhouses to awaken 200 men. Forty escape. The others, among them Ed Locke, are carried away.

The watery avalanche, holding its crest at 30 feet as the valley fans out, plunges on through Fillmore and Santa Paula, rolling houses with it.

Hundreds quickly grab belongings and head for the hills. Many are too slow, too late.

Mrs. Sisto Lunas drags a mattress from her home and hurls her three children and herself upon it. They float to safety.

Bill Spring swims two miles with a child clinging to his neck.

As the sun rises, the flood has passed and lost itself in the Pacific. Behind lie 45 miles of desolation and terror.

Rescue workers search the muddy, waterlogged valley. Bodies are piled in markeshift morgues. Rancher Henry Kensinger cries: "I've lost seven. And I haven't found a one."

This was the St. Francis Dam disaster.

Investigation brought out that the dam was anchored in an unsuitable geological formation that weakened and gave way under tremendous pressure of the lake it impounded.

On the 30th anniversary of one of the nation's greatest disasters, the valley and its people still bear the scars of tragedy.

At the damsite two hillocks of shattered concrete stand as grim monuments. A tiny stream cascades between the mounds. Squirrels play in the ruins Down in valley are people who lost their families and who, themselves, felt the clutches of the rushing waters.

Sister-In-Law To Orchard Dies

Sam A. Orchard of Monroe, is in St. Louis this week end to attend the funeral services of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Herman C. Orchard who died there Friday.

Mrs. Orchard was owner of Orchard Paper Company in St. Louis, and was well known in Monroe from frequent visits to friends and relatives here.

Bill Spring swims two miles with a child clinging to his neck.

As the sun rises, the flood has passed and lost itself in the Pacific. Behind lie 45 miles of desolation and terror.

Rescue workers search the muddy, waterlogged valley. Bodies are piled in markeshift morgues. Rancher Henry Kensinger cries: "I've lost seven. And I haven't found a one."

This was the St. Francis Dam disaster.

Investigation brought out that the dam was anchored in an unsuitable geological formation that weakened and gave way under tremendous pressure of the lake it impounded.

On the 30th anniversary of one of the nation's greatest disasters, the valley and its people still bear the scars of tragedy.

At the damsite two hillocks of shattered concrete stand as grim monuments. A tiny stream cascades between the mounds. Squirrels play in the ruins Down in valley are people who lost their families and who, themselves, felt the clutches of the rushing waters.

Sister-In-Law To Orchard Dies

Sam A. Orchard of Monroe, is in St. Louis this week end to attend the funeral services of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Herman C. Orchard who died there Friday.

Mrs. Orchard was owner of Orchard Paper Company in St. Louis, and was well known in Monroe from frequent visits to friends and relatives here.

Among her survivors are two sons, Robert Orchard of St. Louis, and Edgar Orchard of Los Angeles, and one daughter, Marjorie, of St. Louis.

YEARLING DEER — These three yearlings are part of small pet deer herd on W. L. DeMoss farm south of Monroe. Raised in a two - acre pasture, they fear strangers within the fence, kept their distance from the cameraman. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Stabbed In Defense Of State Rep.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Michael Walsh, 35, was stabbed last night, officers said, as he attempted to protect State Rep. Patrick McGittigan during a disturbance in McGittigan's bar.

Attendants at Charity Hospital said Walsh's condition was serious today. He underwent surgery for a stab wound in the lower abdomen.

McGittigan was trying to eject a couple for creating a disturbance, officers said,and the couple attacked him.

Officers booked Waldo Courtney, 42, with aggravated battery on Walsh and Mrs. Martha Courtney, 44, with attempted aggravated battery on McGittigan.

Officers John Dyer and Cliff Robichaux said they learned McGittigan asked the Courtneys to leave about midnight.

They related the fracas followed this way:

Mrs. Courtney grabbed a beer bottle, smashed it and charged the bar owner-lawmaker.

McGittigan grabbed her; disarmed her, and started with her to the door. Courtney grabbed McGittigan.

The woman got loose, grabbed another bottle and smashed it into a crude weapon and again started at McGittigan. A patron stopped her and took the bottle from her.

Courtney pulled a knife and Walsh intervened but was slashed in his attempt to aid the tavern owner.

Courtney fled, officers said, but later returned and was arrested. He denied that he had a weapon or did the stabbing. He claimed he was struck by the bartender after an argument over a beer, then knocked to the floor and beaten by three men. McGittigan held him at gunpoint, he said, until officers arrived.

Cancer Is Eliminated In Animals

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) -Cancer has been eliminated in dogs, cats and mice with an extract from the human placenta, a researcher reports.

The placenta is the bodily tissue which nourishes an unborn baby.

Dr. W. Steele Livingston, a veterinarian who has spent the last three years wholly in cancer research, refuses to say cancers in his animals have been cured.

Instead he uses the phrase "complete regression," meaning the tumors have vanished and not returned. One case is a dog treated eight year aog. It tumor disappeared after three injections a day for two months. In others the "complete regression" has lasted more than five years.

The liquid extract he has developed from the placenta apparently converts tumor cells into normal body cells, Dr. Livingston said yesterday.

"The substance has an effect on all cancers in the animals we have tested," he told an interviewer. "However, the work is purely experimental and it will be some time before we can talk about any substance for human use."

A 63-page report in the current Journal of the National Cancer Institute brought to light Dr. Livingston's 16 years' cancer research.

The Institute, the American Cancer Society, the Bob Hope Foundation and other agencies have contributed nearly $500,000 toward the 41-year-old veterinarian's work.

He said he doesn't know exactly how the substance works.

When John Jay, the first Chief Justice of the United States, was awarded a Master of Arts diploma at King's College (now Columbia University), the date on the document read "May 90, 1767." It should have read "May 19, 1767." Somebody goofed.

BABY — Grandma of the herd is "Baby," nine-year-old doe brought here from Tensas parish. Tame and gentle, Baby nursed milk from a bottle when she was a fawn, grew up in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. DeMoss. The curious doe stepped close enough to let World reporter pet her on head. (Staff photo by John I. Fogleman)

Mack FCC Case Gives Problems

WASHINGTON (UP) — The Richard A. Mack case has confronted Congress with a question that goes far beyond Mack's personal fate:

Do the laws governing so-called "quasi-judicial" regulatory agencies contain a built-in invitation to shenanigans?

"Quasi-judicial" is lawyer - language for a government agency that acts like a court but isn't.

The Federal Communications Commission, from which Mack has resigned by request, is one of six such agencies in Washington. The others are the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Trade Commission, the Federal Power Commission and the Securities and Exchange Commission.

These agencies adjudicate more disputes in a year than all federal courts put together. Their decisions on such matters as television permits, airline routes, railroad fares and gas rates have a multi-billion-dollar impact on the economy.

Yet the members of these commissions are not always, or even usually, chosen for their suitability as judges. Many of them are not even trained in law.

Maintain Standards

Although some of them are men of high personal integrity who try to maintain the same ethical standards as judges, there is no law that requires them to do so.

For example:

By law and tradition, a judge is completely "unapproachable" when he is sitting on a case. Anyone who communicated with him privately in an attempt to influence his decision would invite immediate imprisonment for contempt.

The Administrative Procedures Act of 1946, which governs the regulatory agencies, says that commissioners should base their decisions on the official record in each case. But it does not explicitly forbid off-the-record attempts to influence their votes.

On the other hand, there is at present no law which says that members of quasi - judicial commissions cannot accept gifts, have a stake in their decisions.

Codes Lack Force

The CAB, ICC and SEC have self - imposed codes of ethics which hold that it is "improper" for their members or staff to accept "unusual" hospitality or "valuable" gifts. These codes lack the force of law, and no specific penalties are provided for violation. The three other agencies do not even have voluntary codes of ethics.

Several bills have been introduced in the House and Senate to remedy this situation.

Loyalty To Christ Must

CHICAGO (AP)—Man's loyalty to church, state and family, a Presbyterian leader said today should be conditional upon "ultimate loyalty to Jesus Christ."

Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, stated clerk of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. said that social institutions such as political parties, charity drives and service clubs should not be confused with the church.

"One of the difficulties of the modern American man is that, confronted by conflicting loyalties so fundamental, he sometimes becomes confused, and for some lesser value repudiates all," he said.

Dr Blake, immediate past president of the National Council of Churches, addressed some 3,500 laymen at the annual meeting of the National Council of Presbyterian Men.

Atlanta Mayor Seeks To Void Unit Voting

ATLANTA (AP)—Atlanta's Mayor William B. Hartsfield Saturday asked the federal courts to rule out Georgia's county unit system in Democratic primaries.

The mayor of the state's largest city filed a suit for a declaratory judgment in U.S. District Court. He asked that a three-judge court enjoin party officials and Secretary of State Ben W. Fortson, Jr. from using the unit system to determine the winners in the September state party primary.

Hartsfield declared the unit system, which gives a preponderance of political power to rural counties, is arbitrary, discriminatory and unconstitutional.

He charged that under the system a vote of a resident of Echols, the state's least populated county, carries 99 times the weight of a resident of Fulton, the largest county, in a primary.

The U.S. Supreme Court has four times refused to rule out Georgia's unique primary election system, in which none of the 159 counties, no matter how small, has less than two unit votes, and none, no matter how large, more than six. The candidate polling a plurality of popular votes in a county gets all the county's unit votes. The unit votes decide the election.

Hartsfield emphasized that he filed the suit strictly as an individual and that neither the City of Atlanta "nor any other organization or group has any part of the action."

The Pacesetter of the Import Car Field

These cars, built by French Mastercraftsmen, were the winners of the recent San Francisco to Los Angeles Economy Run. Making the run in 10 hours with average speeds up to 55 miles per hour, three SIMCAS completed the 383-mile trip on just nine gallons of gasoline. Smashing all existing economy records, these cars averaged an amazing 42.6 miles per gallon.
